Senseless Prejudice

Is it that now makes it possible for butter to find a market. This is strong language, but we don't mean it to be offensive. We're in absolute, honest earnest when we assert that our Alderney Creamery Butterine looks just as good, tastes just as good, and is far more wholesome than any butter ever made at any price—and it costs less, too.

IN MEMORIAM.

Departed this life October 16, 1895, Mr. Jacob Hoerman, aged fifty-six years, surrounded by a loving and devoted family. Mr. Hoerman was a most amiable and kindly man, and has many friends who still cherish his memory in fond remembrance. He was one of Washington's most successful business men, and won the respect and confidence of a large commercial circle by his strict integrity and honesty.

His many friends and relatives join in wishing to break the tender cord. When love has bound the heart; When hands so hard to break the words. Must we forever part?
Dearest loved one, we laid thee in the peaceful grave's embrace, But thy memory will be cherished Till we see thy loving face.
—By his friends and relatives.

DEFENDING SPIRITUALISMS

Aggressive Fight in Their Behalf by the Spiritualists.

CONVENTION IN SESSION

President Barrett Referred to Recent Presentations—A Petition for Protection Presented—Increased Interest in the Movement Observed—Presentation of the Flag.

The believers in communication between this world and the next organized under the name of the National Spiritualists Society, began their third annual convention in Masonic Temple, corner Ninth and F streets northwest, yesterday morning.

The start in the hall was handsomely decorated with palms and American flags. The programme was to have opened with music, but on account of a misunderstanding the music in the hall had to be resorted after the convention was called to order.

Mrs. Mary T. Longley delivered the invocation, and asked the assistance of the convention and its deliberations from on high. The opening address of the assembly was by its president, Mr. H. D. Barrett. He dwelt on the business to be done by the convention and stated that the officers of the association had been delegated with letters from several of the members in favor of the adoption of resolutions.

Mr. Barrett referred to the persecutions which the spiritualists have undergone throughout the country. He said the spiritualists had a right to demand the respect of the people, inasmuch as they were engaged in their own respect, and that the skies were brightening with hope for the spread of spiritualism.

The address of welcome to the delegates was delivered by Mrs. M. E. Cadwallader, the secretary of the convention. Mrs. Abbie E. Sheets, of Michigan, reported on the part of the delegates.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

The standing committees were then appointed by President Barrett as follows: Resolutions—Frank Walker, J. H. Hatch and Ed. Freeman; Finance—W. C. Lousier, J. H. Hatch and A. P. Lantry.

In order to allow the committees to report an intermission of twenty minutes was then taken.

At the conclusion of the recess the committees were not ready to report, and the time until their reports were ready was occupied by the reading of a paper by Mrs. J. H. Hatch, of Massachusetts, which was the first paper read, and was well received by the convention.

As the close of Dr. Fuller's address the committee on resolutions announced its readiness to report, and the committee on resolutions reported, which was accepted, and the convention adjourned until the following day.

At a banquet given by Chancellor von Hohenheim, in Berlin, Monday night, Sir Edward Clarke, the retiring British ambassador, Mrs. Ransome, wife of the American ambassador, was escorted to the dining room by the British ambassador, and sat at the left of Prince von Hohenheim.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY'S agents have been for some weeks buying up large tracts of land just outside the city limits. The land is being bought up in small lots, and on it it is understood, they propose to erect large shops, and a large number of houses, and the entire road, removing the shops now in place to this city. The work shops will be situated at a point near the city, and a bold thief snatched a pocket-book containing a small sum of money from Mrs. Richard Lacy, a resident of Fairfax county, who was on her way to work at the Washington and Annapolis depot, on Monday night last. Mrs. Lacy was traveling alone, and the thief was seen to take the pocket-book from her. She immediately reported the matter to the police, and the thief was arrested. The thief is now in the hands of the law.
