Investigations Will be Order in Maryland's Legislature.

HOUSE OF THE GRAND INQUEST. Massachusetts Socialists Gained Twenty Votes in One Year—Municipal Complications in Denver. Bushnell's Plurality in Ohio Will Reach Nearly 100,000.

Baltimore, Nov. 7.—According to official and unofficial returns from every county in the State, Hon. Lloyd Lowndes, Republican, for Governor, has a plurality of 19,639.

As a result of the defeat of the Democrats on Tuesday, Maryland is likely to have a sweeping investigation. Under the constitution of the State, the house of delegates is the grand inquest and has full power, by committee or otherwise, to examine into and investigate all persons who may be or have been in office under the law.

It is proposed, so soon as the house is organized by the Republicans, to have a committee appointed to investigate, after the manner of the famous Lexow committee, the public officials and public officials in the city and State.

In addition, Senator Bruce, an anti-Republican hold-over Democrat, who has been a private investigator into the expenditures of the last session of the State senate, proposes to have a public investigation of the expenditures of the general assembly, which his experience has convinced him is much larger than they ought to be.

MASSACHUSETTS. Boston, Nov. 7.—Returns from 268 towns and cities at the headquarters of the Socialist Labor party give Ruiter, Socialist candidate for governor, 3,124. The five cities that own the most votes will increase the vote about 100. The total vote in the State for the head of the ticket last year was 3,104.

NEW YORK. New York, Nov. 7.—Official returns from four-fifths of the counties in this State with unofficial but practically complete figures from the other counties, give Palmer 600,980; King, 563,811 votes, a Republican plurality of 37,169.

COLORADO. Denver, Nov. 7.—When complete but unofficial returns show Lebert, Rep., to have a slight plurality over Kindel for the office of county clerk, only the official returns will settle the matter.

VIRGINIA. Richmond, Va., Nov. 7.—Official returns from election count in slowly. Of the twenty new senators elected, fifteen are Democrats and five are Republicans.

OHIO. Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 7.—The Republican State committee has prepared a table of returns on the vote for governor in all the counties, which shows the Republican plurality in the State as nearly as will be known until the official count is made.

PENNSYLVANIA. Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—Complete returns received from every county in the State give the Republican for State treasurer, 174,442 plurality over Meyers, Democrat.

KENTUCKY. Lexington, Ky., Nov. 7.—Dr. Hunter, chairman of the Republican campaign committee, says the Republican majority in the joint ballot in the next legislature will be four or five. The Democrats concede the election to the Republican senators and 53 representatives, making in all 69. They also claim the election of 22 Democratic senators and 47 representatives, which would give the Democrats a majority of 121 in the senate and 27 in the house.

HOME ROLE OF RELIGION Effort to Secure House Chaplaincy for a Local Clergyman.

IS A PRESBYTERIAN BODY That Denomination Seems to Predominate—Dr. Easton and Dr. Brown Said to Have Heavy Backing for the Place—Former's Break with the A. P. A.

Who shall be the next chaplain of the House of Representatives is now being discussed in religious circles, which is another way of saying the best society circles, and the street yesterday an innocent looking little piece of paper, from which this interesting excerpt is made:

It is conceded that the chaplaincy should go to a resident minister of the District of Columbia, as formerly the duties of the position were gratuitously performed by ministers of the District.

This indicates that there is some quiet electioneering going on, and that the keynote of it is home rule. To be one of the men already mentioned for the place, Rev. Dr. O. A. Brown, pastor of Foundry M. E. Church, and Rev. T. C. Easton, pastor of the Eastern Presbyterian Church, but there are others who have been placed in front of the contest.

KANSAS HAS A MAN. The question of the chaplaincy is, for the reason stated above, to be one of more than usual interest, and it is already in the air that some prominent man in the House are trying to elect a minister from Kansas. It is not known why the chaplain should be from Kansas, but this will probably be developed before the contest is over.

THE CHAPLAINCY IS A POSITION OF HONOR and one that very few ministers would reject if secured for them by their friends. It is a position of honor and one that very few ministers would reject if secured for them by their friends.

Official dispatches received at the ministry of the interior state that the authorities at Diarbekir had almost succeeded in suppressing the disorders there when the Armenians resumed the offensive and attacked the Mussulmans. They threw bombs and fired at the Mussulmans while the latter were trying to secure the city by prayer.

Official dispatches further say that a number of Armenians, headed by Kevork, the Armenian Mudir of Fers, attacked the village of Tchokour Hissar, killing twelve Mussulmans.

MRS. BURCH HAS VANISHED. Strange Case Reported to the Police Force.

She Was Last Heard from in a Demented State Between Here and Baltimore. The whereabouts of Mrs. Burch, wife of Wallace Burch, living at No. 3522 N street northwest, have not been ascertained, though for more than two months the woman's husband, the Washington police, and Maryland authorities have made every endeavor to find her.

Mrs. Burch disappeared from her home on October 19. Three days later the police received a communication from Magistrate Henry Sutton, Jr., of Baltimore county, stating that Mrs. Burch had been found wandering aimlessly about between Relay station and St. Beents, apparently demented.

Mr. Burch was notified and sent a letter to Sutton, requesting that his wife be held for examination for a few days, and if she recovered sufficiently he would send money for her fare to Washington. If she did not, he would come on for her. On the same day he sent Dr. Henry Sutton arrived in Washington for the purpose, it is said, of inquiring into the case, but left that night before Burch could see him.

Receiving no reply to the letter, a second was sent. No answer came, and Lieutenant W. H. Burch, of the police force, was sought by the husband. He sent an official communication to Baltimore county, but failed to get a reply.

Yesterday Burch went to Relay station. He did not find his wife there. He found the constable who had arrested her, however, and was told the woman had been placed on the Rockville road, the husband says, toward Baltimore.

Burch thereupon went to Baltimore and saw the police officials there, but nothing could be done. The nearly crazed husband has grave apprehensions of his wife's welfare and is going to put forth every effort to find her, alive or dead.

VICTIM OF GASOLINE. Alberta Mason Died From Burns Received in an Explosion. Alberta Mason, a sixteen-year-old colored girl, died at Emergency Hospital last night from burns caused by exploding gasoline. She was killed yesterday afternoon. Alberta lived with her people, at 717 B street, southwest, and was employed as a domestic by Charles Brown, of 718 F street southwest.

She had performed her routine duties throughout the day and was about to begin the preparation of dinner. She failed to extinguish the gas stove and lighted the burner. After doing this her attention was diverted and she made the fatal mistake of putting the gasoline can on the stove. As the stove heated up, so, too, did the can of gasoline. Just as she recollected that she had done wrong and turned up the covers for the purpose of removing the can, it exploded, throwing the burning fluid over her.

Her shrieks brought assistance, but before it arrived her clothing was burned off and her flesh was charred. She was wrapped in blankets and Policeman Banagan called the patrol, in which she was conveyed to Emergency Hospital. There the surgeons did all that laid within their power, but she languished in agony till about 10 o'clock, when she died. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

EXPLAINED BY JOHNSON. He Says Kentucky's Flop Was No Surprise to Him. Mr. Claude M. Johnson, chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, has given publicity to his views on the Kentucky elections. Mr. Johnson is from Kentucky. He went to the polls to vote and has just returned to Washington. He says:

The election in Kentucky is an example of the benefit of viewing the affairs of a State from a point without the State. I was placed so that I took such a view, and the result did not surprise me. I did, but Democrats who were on the ground it was the greatest surprise.

There was no national issue in the Kentucky campaign except the financial question, and the people of that State had no idea of indulging a financial policy that it would have brought about. The greatest trouble had been induced.

The offenders in Kentucky did not scratch the ticket so far as I could judge. They, as a rule, voted the straight Democratic ticket, the scratching being done by the business men, who did not propose to allow the issue of money and then repudiate the platform before the voters of the State.

NEAPOLITAN THIEVES. How They Are Treated Almost From Birth. An interesting account of the way young children are prepared to be thieves by their parents is given by Dr. de Blasio, a Neapolitan physician who has been studying the habits of criminals. The camera of a Neapolitan, like the Mafia Sicily, is an organization of criminals and associates of criminals that is centuries old.

The camera begins its work with the infants who are abandoned by their parents, or who are left out to the impostors who beg in the streets of Naples. These children, for the most part, are carried by their mothers to the streets to beg for the end of a cigar or a soldo, and infest the cafes. In winter they sleep in holes and stables, in summer on the church steps, under arches, or on the benches in the public gardens.

When they are six or seven years old they are instructed in begging and thieving by their parents. At ten years of age the little Camorrista, or little thief, becomes a cantatore (singer). He must know how to improvise a song, to sing and rattle, and with an extemporaneous verse to the verse of a companion or of an antagonist. In Naples there are two armies of cantatore, one belonging to the streets in the older part of the city, and one to those of the west end.

They constitute the neophytes of the Camorra, and compete in public, passing their examinations by night in the streets. They choose for their subjects anything that takes place in the city, and very often the object of derisive songs is an old man or a poor idiot. The better class hear these songs, but do not interfere, and often laugh at the wit which is scarcely ever missing. The two bands are naturally great rivals, and once a year at least they defy each other to a series of battles in which stones are the weapons, and the close of the fray knives too often come into play.

This practice of battles with stones among boys can be traced back as far as 1825, for at that period the Duke of Alva caused thirty "stone throwers" to be arrested in Naples. The war cry of the boys is "Abella, Abella," the derivation of which is not certain. After the war cry comes the challenge in the form of a verse, to which the enemy responds in like wise. Then the younger boys commence the attack. The neophytes begin at a great distance and old and young men, who incite the rival bands, and if necessary, rescue one or the other of them from an arrest by the police.

his connection with the government of the city, briefly and even with applause when he said he had completed the government to recognize the fact that they were part owners of this city, and that for that reason they were entitled to bear half of its expenses. He referred to some of the difficulties he met in achieving his aims and paid high tribute to Grant who he said stood by him in his efforts for the advancement of the city, another sentiment which was loudly applauded.

Washington, he said, would deal to the hero who sleeps in Riverside Park. He also took occasion to acknowledge the services to him of Gen. H. D. Cook and other who were friendly to his designs. Mr. Shepherd's pithy statement that he made the city the child of the nation, was a good thing, which the audience applauded, and applauded him to a man and woman. The cheering part of his remarks was devoted to expressing his high appreciation of the regard shown him by the citizens generally and by the Board of Trade.

The reception then began in earnest, and the governor was kept busy for an hour and a half shaking hands with the thousands who followed each other in interminable succession.

INFANTRY HIS ESCORT. A part of the Washington Light Infantry escorted him from the hotel, and when the first column had reached the other members of the battalion marched in with great applause and passed in review, shaking hands on the files. The column was followed by the National Guard, the police force, and the fire department not on duty.

Every now and then a some favorite officer or head of department stopped to chat one or two seconds with Mr. Shepherd, the crowd would cheer, and the National Guard, and the police force, and the fire department not on duty.
