Subscribers to "The Times" will confer a favor by promptly reporting any discounting of collectors or neglect of duty on the part of carriers. Complaints either by mail or in person will receive prompt attention.

Rejected manuscripts are usually returned when accompanied by stamps, but any obligation to do so is expressly disavowed.

Manuscripts unaccompanied by postage will not be returned.

CIRCULATION THAT PAYS.

Advertisers Will Do Well to Profit by the Experience of Others.

Experimenting in advertising has proved very costly to thousands of merchants throughout the United States.

The most prosperous merchants in Washington are those who advertise in The Times. Its morning and evening editions afford merchants such an opportunity as is presented by no other medium in this city.

The Times carries no business of merchants who advertise merely because they always have. Merchants who use The Times do so because they have carefully estimated its value and have realized the benefits to be derived from their expenditures.

The Times asks for business on merit only. Its circulation is fully 25 per cent greater than that of any other paper published in Washington and affects more people than all others combined.

The Times is the paper of the people—people who read advertisements and who spend their money in Washington.

The circulation of The Times for the week ending November 17 was as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Day and Circulation. Monday, Nov. 11: 35,248; Tuesday, Nov. 12: 35,005; Wednesday, Nov. 13: 34,858; Thursday, Nov. 14: 34,915; Friday, Nov. 15: 34,673; Saturday, Nov. 16: 35,630; Sunday, Nov. 17: 23,470.

Total: 233,799. I solemnly swear that the above is a correct statement of the daily circulation of THE WASHINGTON TIMES for the week ending November 17, 1895, and that all the copies were actually sold or mailed for a valuable consideration and delivered to bona fide purchasers or subscribers; also, that none of them were returned or remain in the office unclaimed.

J. MILTON YOUNG, Custodian. Subscribed and sworn to before me this 18th day of November, A. D. 1895. ERNEST G. THOMPSON, Notary Public.

WHERE THE TIMES STANDS. The Times acknowledges the receipt, yesterday, of the following communication:

Editor Times: Do you intend to fight a whole bond bill or only that part relating to the extension and improvement of streets outside the city proper? I should be much surprised to find that the people's paper was obstructing a better sewerage system, something which Washington has long needed. Please state your position more clearly. TAXPAYER.

In the first place, The Times is not fighting anything as much as it is endeavoring to obtain an expression of opinion on a question vitally concerning the great body of citizens who sign themselves as above.

In the second place, The Times does not oppose a better sewerage system for Washington. It has grave doubts, however, if the proposed method of financing this project, under the bond bill before the last Congress, is the most economical one. Nor does it believe that the proper disposal of the sewage carries with it the necessity of extending or improving of streets outside the city proper.

In the third place, The Times does utterly condemn the $3,500,000 rider to the sewer bond bill providing for the extension and improvement of streets outside the city limits. A part of this amount would probably be expended on property within the city limits, but there can be no doubt that the great bulk of it would go toward increasing the value of property held by such individuals as compose, for instance, the Chevy Chase Land Company.

But whatever The Times thinks, it desires above all to have a free and full expression of the wishes of the people of Washington and will, in a few days, provide them with a convenient means to that end.

POOL ROOMS. The complaint entered with the Commissioners against permitting a pool room to be located opposite to or near a public school building, especially a high school, is well founded and it is to be regretted that they have no discretion in the matter of granting or refusing a license to such a place. There ought to be some police control over all public places where men congregate and play games, whether for money, drinks, cigars or sticks of candy. In the particular complaint referred to it was stated that men congregate in front of the place and annoy the girls as they pass from the school. This the owner of the place denies.

It matters not whether the complaint as to this particular pool room is true in this respect or not. Pool rooms should not be located near school houses, for they have a dangerous attractiveness for boys, although it must be stated to the credit of the majority of the proprietors, that they did not have minors in their rooms, and discourage the coming of them in every way. Many a boy has laid the foundation for the gambling habit in a pool room. Even if the proprietor expressly prohibits gambling, for money he cannot prevent it.

There is a variety of good reasons why pool rooms should not be located in the immediate proximity of school houses. In any event, the Commissioners ought to have discretionary power to grant or refuse the license and this authority ought to be given them by Congress at the very earliest opportunity.

NO AN GRINDERS. No committee of the next House of Representatives should be more carefully constituted than the one dealing with the interests of the District of Columbia. Of the members of the last committee eight were left at home by their constituents, and it is not improbable that of the remaining seven not all will be placed there again. To all intents and purposes, therefore, a new committee will be constituted, and in the selection of its members two essentials ought to be taken into consideration.

In the first place, they ought to be workers. Men and women who simply pose as committees have no business on the District committee. There is work to be done there and plenty of it, and it is of the sort that requires patience and perseverance and application to do it properly. In its keeping are, in a large measure, the material interests of a population of a quarter of a million souls, and the municipal affairs of the national capital, a combination of facts which demands the closest attention and best thought of those charged with legislating for them. There has been too much of letting a few men do all, or the greater part of the work, and whoever may be the speaker will greatly favor the people of the District by not putting such a committee in the hands of a few.

The next point to be regarded in selecting the members, is the keeping aloof of men who either have axes to grind, or are looking for them. There has been a good deal of sub rosa scandal in this respect. It has been an open secret that some individuals, who found themselves members of the District committee, made a pretty good thing of it, in a direct or indirect way. They found their way into all sorts of jobs and desks and their bank accounts have been swelled far more by "extras" than by their salaries. There are innumerable opportunities for members of this committee to "make a dollar," if they choose to listen to proposals of that character, or what is still worse, seek the opportunities. All such should be religiously excluded from the committee.

The House committee on the District of Columbia should be made up of clean-handed, hard-working business men and none other.

PENALTY FOR TRAIN WRECKING. The frequent recurrence of train wrecking calls for the application of an at least partially effective remedy. It is not possible, of course, to prevent all crime, even by the severest penalties; if it were, there would be no more murders. But it is practicable to impose punishments which will be deterrent in the highest possible degree, and such ought to be meted out to the train wrecker.

A train wrecker is worse than an assassin. Whether from motives of revenge or robbery, the latter is satisfied with one victim at a time. Not so the wrecker. To carry out his ill purpose he counts not the cost of human life. Whether any person be sacrificed, or ten of a hundred, is all the same to him. He is a fiend incarnate, whose annihilation cannot be accomplished too quickly. The ordinary processes of law, with all their delays, seem altogether inadequate in his case.

There are no special statutes in any of the States dealing with the matter of train wrecking. Some of them punish burglary and arson and felonious assaults upon women with death, but the train wrecker who deliberately sends any number of human beings to their death and cripples many more, gets off with a term of imprisonment. This is wrong. Every State should enact a special statute, covering this crime and Congress ought to pass such a law also. Train wrecking should be made punishable with the severest penalty known to civilized jurisprudence. Society has a right to demand this.

KEEP SIDEWALKS CLEAN. It is to be hoped that the police will carry out strictly the Commissioners' order to enforce rigidly the regulation which interdicts the littering of sidewalks and streets with all sorts of rubbish. There are some householders so utterly careless about the neatness of their own premises, and so entirely regardless of the comfort of their neighbors, that nothing but a police court fine will cause them to mend their ways. There is hardly a square in some parts of the city where this complaint cannot be justly preferred against some of the tenants.

Apart from the unkindness of the thing, the practice of throwing dirt of all sorts upon the sidewalk or the parking, whence the wind may blow it into a neighbor's yard or upon his doorstep, has a tendency to imperil health. Almost every policeman can tell a story of this sort of dirt on parts of his beat, but there are few who carry the attempt to remedy the nuisance beyond a mild admonition now and then, the only effect of which is a temporary cessation of the evil.

Every man ought to have some consideration for his neighbor's comfort, even though he have none for his own. If his own good sense or good breeding does not teach him this, a more drastic lesson is quite in order.

It is alleged that Corbett retires from the prize ring not because of Fitzsimmons, but because of his losses.

OUR SCHOOLS AND UNIVERSITIES. They Astonish the President of the New Haven School Board.

Hon. Major Zunder of New Haven, Conn., a prominent banker, and for twenty years president of the school board of that place, spent a few hours in Washington yesterday.

Mr. Zunder, and Mr. St. Zunder, as he is better known, are returning from the Atlanta Exposition. Mr. Zunder, being so long connected with educational affairs, is naturally interested in the signs and things that are going on at the great universities, and spent his time visiting our seats of learning.

He expressed the greatest astonishment at the size and magnificence of the new University buildings, and said at Yale, there were large and handsome buildings, but that four of them together were not so large as Michigan Hall.

The number of students in the Columbian and Georgetown was also astonishing, and compared very favorably with the venerable institution at New Haven. Yale has this year 2,600 students, in the departments of law, medicine, divinity, and agriculture.

Speaking of our public school system Mr. Zunder says that in many ways his little town is far in advance of the Capital. For instance, New Haven has a manual training school that cost $75,000. The money was given by Mrs. Boardman, and, according to her desire, the most finished mechanical work is done in the school. The school is situated, and it seems a much more practical way of teaching mechanics than our Washington system of trying to have a training school in each building. The new system is also in full operation in every department.

We give money its full purchasing power. Sometimes a little more than even-measure of value—never less. We've posted our pickets all along the mercantile frontier—ready to seize every advantage the market offers. Today's prizes are: Overcoats, Short Pants, Shoes.

and the prompt will profit. Overcoats worth $10 for $7.50. We bought the Kersey from an over-stocked mill. There's the saving. Got enough of it for about 500 Coats. Had 'em made up just as we wanted 'em—and we wanted linings that alone cost as much as other clothers pay for the coats they sell at $7.50.

These coats are single-breasted—guaranteed all wool, fast blue Kersey, cut in all the fashionable lengths—lined with fancy cassimere—and some of them have silk across the shoulders—collars are silk velvet—and the making's just as good as we could do it ourselves—and the fit as perfect.

It's a pretty good coat for $10 that's worth as much as these of ours at $7.50. Overcoats worth $15 for $10.00. From the same mill we bought 10 bolts of Blue all wool Kersey of the grade that goes into everybody's $15 Coats. We had them made up with Cassimere linings, silk velvet collars. We're sure they can't be matched for less than $15. Guaranteed in color, style, and wear—and $5 saved.

Overcoats worth $20 for $15.00. We're bound to have the best Overcoat to sell for $15, no matter if it costs us every penny of the price. Here's one.
