BRIDAL YEIL AND BRIDE

A Pretty Romance That Involves a Washington Girl.

Misses Fisdel's Delightful Entertainment-Miss Julia Thompson's Tea at Her Studio.

There is a wedding veil in this city that has done trousseau service for ex-actly twelve brides and a half, and just acty twelve orides and a hair, and jost now it belongs to aman.

The web is of mirty Prussels lace, and so ancient that the blossenss that spray its border are orange in color as in came. Its first wearer was the three times great-grandmother of a Washington girl, who will need it herself quite soon—and this is the reason why:

grandmother of a Washington girl, who will need it herself quite soon—and this is the reason why:

Last winter this girl's mother lost her money in the epidemic of bank faileres, leaving the two almost as pathetically helpless as that pair of babes in the wood. Quite by chance, when the mother was suck, and the daoghter unhappy, and both as poor as church nice, the girl read a newspaper account of the ourficulty a certain New York woman was having in matching a pattern of late. The description talned with the orange bonder on the family veil. So she sketched a bit of the design and enclosing it with the helifolom's peoligree, sent them to the New York lace hunter, who caught at the bargain at once.

Now, this veil was to be worn by the lace hunter's caughter at her brada, and in great triumph she showed it to ber Wesserh unde, who had come on expressly to see her wed. He read the well with the ciching, and then he made a discovery, it was a teer. It had taised a well on the paper and he would buy that Brassels veil, if it took every dollar he was worth. He was worth a great many dollars, but his niece owaed an equal amount of will.

He—the only be—had seen her try on that yell and had said she was simply divine.

many domars, but his friece owned an equal amount of will.

He—the only be—had seen her try on that yell and had said she was simply divine. Under such circumstances a woman becomes a human Gibraltar and no one knew better than the rich uncle that Gibraltar is not to be moved.

When the wedning night came, however, and the bride was gowned, yelled, and biossom-crowned, she dismayed her attendants by commanding somebody—everybody—to help her off with that yell. She said that splash secticed to dampen every pleasure the hour brought. She could dely her rich unde, but she couldn't fight a tear.

So that is how the man came by the yell and that is why one of the prettiest girls in this city must marry to get it back again.

The Misses Tisdel of No. 1323 Thirteenth street entertained Iriends yesterday to meet their guests, Miss Sancton of New York, Miss Terry of Syracuse, N. The Unity Club met in the parlors of the Oxford last evening. The club was called to order by the president, Judge John W. Bennett, and the minutes were read by the secretary, Pr. W. W. Baker. Prof. Barnwell read the report of the committee on by-laws, after which the new hy-laws were accepted by-the club, and all business matters were satisfactorily adjusted.

Mrs. Isabella Bradford gave a vscal solo, accompanying herself upon the guitar.

The president then addressed the club in a few words of the highest praise of the fair sex and their work, particularly in journalism, and introduced to the audience Mrs. Isabel Ball. Mrs. Ball read a charming and highly realistic and original sketch called, "A Bit of the Wild West." The members and guests were then invited to discuss the story, and the Hon. Richard Blue of Kansas, responded in a manner highly interesting.

She was gowned exquisitely in cream silk, cat walking length, and trimmed with crystal passementerie. She carried a cluster of bride roses, tied with white satin bows.

A number of gentlemen from the Pension Office attended the reception in a body to present a mutual gift to the daughter of their friend, and among the guests were many ladies of the Loyal Legion of Women, to which society Mrs. Engle belongs. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. McAuliffe left for New York, where the groom is a successful electrician and where they will make their future home.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

A party was given by the E. M. T. Club last Tuesslay evening, at the residence of the Misses Kennelly, 45 H street northwest. Games and music, vocal and instrumental, were indulged in.

Among those present were: Misses Abbie and Rosatee Kennelly, Delia Quinian, Katle Van Leer, Winnie Foley, Maggie Sweeney, Alice Kelly, and Josic Gallagher. Messrs. Frank Heniey, T. Johnson, J. Harvey, F. Hooligan, A. Mudd, K. Smith, B. I. Dee, H. McCarthy.

The auction of the effects of Senor Thedim, late minister from Portugal, which takes place today, at his late residence on Connecticut avenue, will be largely attended by society. Much sympathy is expressed over the sad departure of Madame Thedim, with whom one misfortune so quickly followed another. That Famous Dinner.

Everybody is interested about that wonderful dinner which will occur on the 25th of this month. Some people make it a point to wait-until the last day and hour to make preparations for this important event, but I for one believe in taking time by the forelock, especially in preparing for Christmas. Some may toink the preact time too early to make their purchases of fruits, nuts and other luxuries, but this is not so. "Johnstons," the Seventh street grocers, have had their superb stock of fruits, nuts, etc., on sale for a week or over. Their magnificent establishment is already in holiday attire, and the graceful effect produced by the blending of crimson and silver drapery makes it an exceedingly attractive place to shop.

gallery was awaiting a claimant that never came.

But the protest entered by the white people has been intensified and emphasized by the negroes. These were not admitted to the galleries by card or otherwise. It is, of course, understood that passes were not Issued to them, and hence they were compelled to join the great majority in pacing the lower corridors.

The extent of this dissatisfaction can easily be realized in view of the fact that one-third of the population of Washington is composed of negroes.

The exclusion of correspondents from the Speaker's lobby is not considered remarkable or altogether unreasonable in view of the fact that the privilege has in the past so often been abused by those least gatified todo so. There is never any complaint from the newspaper men so long as they are placed on a footing of equality.

Miss Wallis is favorably known here for excellent work with W. H. Crane, in "The Senator" and "Brother John," and in the two years' of her career in the stellar field she has more than fulfilled the promises of her early stage work. She will be supported by a spiendid company, including Frederics Pauding and R. F. McClannin, "The Cricket" will be staged in the most sumptions manner, and will be interpreted with all the original music, chorases and dances. In the role of Fanchette, mide famous by Lotta and Maggie Mitchell, diddys Wallis is said to have set a siandard for the future of the role. Seats will be placed on said this morating. The engagement is for a week, with the usual matinees. Wednesday and Saturday.

The new comic opera, "The Chieftain," waich is to be seen in this city for the first time on Monday night, the libretto of which is by Mr. F. C. Burnand and the music by Sir Arthur Sullivan, was first produced at the Savoy Theater, Loudon, hast winter.

The American rights were soon afterward purchased by Mr. Frencis Whion, who gave the opera its frist presentation in this country at Abbey's Theater, New York, last September. Since that time the connecting has achieved with it perhaps the greatest success of his career as a conic opera sist. The music is said to be exquisite in every way, while Mr. Burnand's book is credited with being free from nearly all the faults so common in comic opera librettoes.

Among the principal members of the cast are. Miss Lum Gisser, Miss Lilian Carlismith, Miss Christie MacDonald, Miss Alice Holbrook, Mr. Rhys Thomas, Mr. John E. Brand, Mr. J. C. Miron, Mr. E. P. Temple, Mr. I'eter M. Lang, Mr. Wilson's presentation of the new opera at the New National Theater will be exactly like that made in New York. on the lookout for the "Highwayman".
Moreover, the engagement of the Hollands
