

THIS PAGE IS PLANNED TO INTEREST THE HOME CIRCLE

LANEBURGH & BRO.

Real Kid Gloves 25c

We have just finished taking stock and find we have one lot of

4-Button Real Kid Gloves

in Tan and Black with embroidered backs, but only in sizes 5 1/2 and 5 3/4. If they fit you, they certainly are a bargain. They were out of our regular One Dollar stock.

Large Size Gingham Aprons—the 25c kind—15c each, or two for a quarter today.

Ladies' Canton Flannel Drawers, 23c today.

Laneburgh & Bro.

420, 422, 424, 426 7th St.

S. Kann, Sons & Co.

8th and Market Space.

Underwriters' Sale of Ladies' Muslin Underwear

From the New York sale of D. E. Sicher & Co. Every Garment damaged by water.

3d floor. Take elevator.

S. Kann, Sons & Co.

8th and Market Space.

Fresh Laid Eggs.

You cannot improve on a nice fresh egg—the trouble is to get fresh ones. We look after that. Our fancy eggs are put up in one dozen plain pocket boxes, and every egg is guaranteed fresh. The price is no higher than others ask for inferior qualities.

WILKINS & COMPANY.

Wiggle Marble and Glass Stands. Center Tables.

Stroll's shoes

J. WILLIAM LEE, UNDERTAKER.

332 Pa. Ave. N. W. First-class service. Phone, 1888. 174-6m

MARRIED.

REINHOLD—KALETT—At Baltimore, May 28, 1895, by the Rev. R. Harwood, Grace Church, Mr. Louis G. Reinhold and Miss Stella C. Kalett, both of Washington, D. C.

DIED.

JACKSON—11 1/2 a. m., January 29, Martha Louise Jackson, only daughter of George W. and Lora E. Jackson, aged four months and twenty-four days. Funeral from residence, No. 1108 15th N. W., at 2 p. m. Interment at Lincoln.

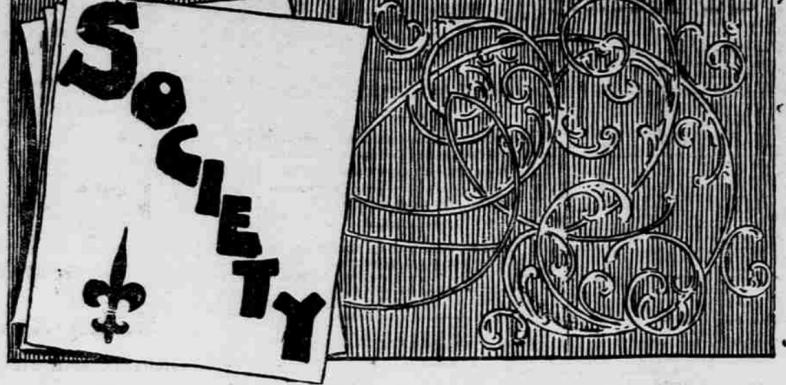

GEARY—On Wednesday, January 29, 1899, at 3 a. m., William, infant son of Eugene and Mary E. Geary, aged 7 months. Funeral at 3 o'clock Thursday, January 30, at late residence, No. 42 Jackson St. N. W.

SCHLOSSER—On Monday, January 27, 10:45 p. m., after a long and lingering illness, George J., beloved son of George and Johanna Schlosser, aged 23 years 9 months and 30 days. Funeral from the residence of his parents, No. 1338 Thirtieth Street, northwest, at 2 p. m., Thursday, January 29, at 2 p. m. Friends and relatives invited to attend.

Asleep in Jesus' blessed sleep! From which none ever wakes to weep; A calm and undisturbed repose. Unbroken by the last of foes. Jan-29-1914

Washingtonians in New York. (Special to The Times.)

New York, Jan. 29.—H. T. Brien, A. E. Sardo, M. C. Sloan, Astor, T. Armat, Earlhold, S. Bennet, Hoffman, R. Stone, Albertson, L. L. Thompson, Sturtevant, J. F. Waymann, Imperial, J. H. Patterson, St. Clout, J. A. Breen, W. P. Hazen, Astor, K. H. Chapman, J. Lambert, A. Ordway, Hoffman, H. P. Bill, Cosmopolitan, F. W. Hildekofer, St. James, P. May, E. F. Riggs, Albertson, J. D. Medley, St. Denis, H. Shugio, Imperial, C. W. Sibley, Grand Union

WED AMID THOUSANDS OF BLOOMING ROSES

Marriage of Miss Quay and Mr. Davidson.

One of the Most Brilliant Functions That Washington Has Seen in Years.

The marriage last night of Miss Mary Agnew Quay, eldest daughter of Senator Matthew S. Quay, of Pennsylvania, to Mr. Louis B. Davidson, of Beaver, Pa., was one of the most beautiful home weddings that has ever taken place in Washington.

The air was laden with the perfume of the thousands of roses which graced every nook and made the entire drawing room floor of the elegant home on K Street a dream of beauty.

In the paragon, the garlanded stairway palms above were used. American Beauty and bride roses were the flowers chosen for the drawing room. Tall crystal vases of these flowers added just the necessary touch of color to the similar-draped festoons of white, which formed delicate and artistic outlines and festoons on the pink-lined walls above the mirror. Opposite the mantel was the bowler of palms and tropical plants reaching to the ceiling in front of the entrance to the drawing room.

Graciously placed on either side of this bowler were bouquets of calla lilies, several feet in height, tied with broad moire antique ribbon, making the only departure from the pink and green color of the decoration. Marking the way to this chamber were railings formed of smilax with cross pieces of the same. At intervals along the upper railing were bouquets of pink satin ribbon in the meshes of which were loosely caught sprays of long stemmed bridesmaid roses.

The bride, who is a handsome brunette of graceful figure, entered with her father, who gave her away. She wore a superb gown of white satin with train, the neckline trimmed, and carried a bouquet of white lilies. A full veil was fastened to her coiffure with a spray of orange blossoms.

Miss Quay was the only attendant and wore a costume of white tulle and satin. Her flowers were American Beauty roses. Rev. Teunis Hamlin performed the ceremony. Lieut. A. G. C. Quay, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Bridesmaid roses were used in the decoration of the drawing room, a large cluster of these flowers set in maiden hair ferns forming the center decoration of a perfectly appointed table. The inclined wedding table was filled with oranges and sprays of natural orange flowers. Baskets of roses, filled with common roses, and a few wedding cake, in which were a diamond ring and a gold thumb, showed the skill of Demorest, renowned rose leaves being among the sweets.

Music all evening added to the gaiety of the affair. About sixty guests were present, including the following members of the family, who were guests at the home: Mr. Jerome Quay of Pittsburgh, brother of Senator Quay; Mr. Richard Quay of Secretary, Pa.; Miss Keith and Marion Quay, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quay of Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Thayer, Miss Willard of Stamford, Conn., and Miss Brown of Beaver, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson left later for the Quay plantation in Florida, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Mr. Davidson is prominently connected with the standard Oil Company and the young couple will reside in future in Beaver, Pa.

The presents were numerous and handsome, many gifts from political friends of the bride's father being of special interest.

Gen. and Mrs. Draper gave a dinner last evening in honor of their guest, Miss Thomson of Lexington, Ky.

Guests were Milton Crawford, the novelist; Mrs. Hazen, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Legare, Miss Patten, Miss Louise Horstmann, Miss Kate Rogers, Miss Breckinridge, Miss Florence Boardman, Capt. Heese, Mr. Henderson, Mr. Helen, Mr. John Wilkins, Mr. Robert Adams and Mr. Frederick Bugher.

Pink roses and lilies of the valley, with a service of gold, decorated the table.

Gen. and Mrs. Draper will entertain at dinners February 2 and 15. Mrs. Draper will give a luncheon February 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Henderson will entertain at dinner for the Russian Minister Saturday, February 1.

The German Ambassador and Baroness Thielman will give a dinner February 11.

Senator and Mrs. Brice will give a dinner February 10.

The Bachelors' cotillon at National Rifles' Hall last night was danced by a number of girls and men of the smart set under the efficient leadership of Mr. Frank Martin, who had already won such social laurels in this regard.

The decorations were elegant and on a most elaborate scale, the color scheme being rose pink. Pink shades veiled the side lights effectively, pink draperies screened the windows from view, and on either side the stage masses of tropical plants were grouped artistically. Music stationed in the gallery played delightfully all evening, and a huge bunch of violets suspended from a chandelier perfumed the air with fragrance.

Mrs. Carlisle, Mrs. Ratway, Mrs. Uri and Mrs. McLean were patronesses of the occasion. Among the prettiest girls present were Miss Blanchard, wearing white satin and pink roses; Mrs. Darnelle, black satin with pearl pascuccerette; Mrs. Stevenson, wife of the Vice President, assisted in receiving at the Normandy yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Jones, wife of Senator Jones, Mrs. Pugh, Mrs. Chilton, Miss Jones, Miss Shook, Miss Ross, Mrs. Sayre, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Price, Mrs. Bankhead, Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Swanson, Mrs. Boutelle, Mrs. Patterson, the Misses Andrade, Miss Miles, Mrs. Baber, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Cabell, Breckinridge, Mrs. Sanders, Mrs. Stephens, Miss Fulton, Mrs. Hanna, Miss Noyes, Miss Warner Miller, of New York, Mrs. Cabell, Mrs. Waller, Miss Warner, Miss Kline, Miss Gwendoline, Mrs. Scott, the Misses Scott, and the Misses Stevenson.

ABUSES AT STAUNTON. More Damaging Testimony in the Deaf Mute Asylum Inquiry.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 29.—There were two sessions today of the special joint legislative committee upon whom is devolved the investigation of charges against the management of the deaf, dumb and blind institution at Staunton.

The indications are that the investigation will occupy several days. All of the evidence in connection with the charges preferred has not been heard. After this is in the hands of the managers of the institution will produce a number of witnesses.

The chief features of today's session were the evidence of Mrs. John L. Randolph, the wife of the deaf mute who makes the charges against the morals of the management of the institution. In answer to questions, Mrs. Randolph said that during the session of 1884-85, she saw Teacher Yates take a girl pupil on his lap and kiss her. The witness was also told of some other improprieties between Yates and pupils, whose names were mentioned. Mrs. Randolph testified that that teacher put his black satin and jet with diamond ornaments. The presents were handsome and numerous. The groom's present being a spray of diamonds. The father of the bride presented her with a check.

During the evening a delightful collation was served from a flower decked table. The guests from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. D. Strauss of Baltimore, Mrs. Brewer of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Shipley of Baltimore. Other guests were, Col. and Mrs. Webster, Captain Lowell, Gen. Marcus Wright, Dr. T. V. Hammond, Mrs. Rooker, Miss Rooker, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Merchant, Miss May King, the bride's aunt, Mr. Henry Kist, Mr. John F. Wild, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Reed, Mrs. Clarence Webster, the Misses Hodges, Mr. George Hunter of Rockville, Md.; Miss Susie Watkins, Miss Susie Acker, Dr. P. Parke, Mr. and Mrs. William Barclay, Mrs. Fannie Cartell, Mr. O'Leigh, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Gilchrist, Mrs. G. Goodacre, Mrs. Goodacre, Mrs. Donaldson and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Peiz, and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey left on the evening for a Western trip, including Cincinnati, Lexington and Louisville, Ky., and will be at home to their friends at 2007 F Street northwest after February 15.

TOOK HIS BRIDE'S NAME

Sculptress Adelaide Johnson Weds Alexander Jenkins.

GROOM DRESSED IN WHITE

He Had His Name Changed to That of His Wife—Strange Ceremony Witnessed by Leading Woman Sculptresses—Calla Lilies and White Draperies Were the Decorations.

Philly's classic doves might well have ruffled the marble's surface, wakened into life, and deserting the basin's brink where they have posed so long, flown abroad with a certain secret yesterday.

They didn't, however. It was the most commonplace "white bird" in the world who told the wedding story.

A little while ago Adelaide Johnson, the sculptress, whose work is known in both this and the Old World, who divides her time within sight of the Potomac Flats and the Sabine Hills, and out invitations promptly to the hour set, Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Richardson of Boston, Clara E. Colby, Col. Chas. James, and other well-known folk assembled at the home of their talented hostess on Capitol Hill. They were each and all arrayed in white, as requested.

They found the drawing-room in snowy array. White cheese cloth draperies screened windows and doors, white silk cushioned the chairs, tables covered with dainty white embroidery, here crystal bowls of berries of smilax were set on gold shovels and before a bust of Gen. Logan in a far corner. Above a luxuriant diwan, on which were piled a dozen beauteous white pillows, were the famous white pedestals bearing the busts of Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

MADE THE ANNOUNCEMENT.

Above the mantel a painting of "The Third Hour," one of Raphael's famous works, was hung against draperies of white Oriental crepe.

As a bridegroom, Cora L. V. Richmond, celebrated spiritualist, entered the chancel followed by a young man of slender build and smooth face, wearing a suit of white broadcloth, and the announcement was made that the wedding of Adelaide Johnson and Alexander Frederick Jenkins was about to take place.

Passing through the open doorway, Mrs. John Vance Cheney, wife of the poet, governed all in white, stood to read a poem on "Music." During the last stanza of which Alexander Frederick Jenkins sang an accompaniment, the wedding chorus from "Lohengrin."

Hardly had the sweet strains died away when the bride entered, escorted by her

HE USED HIS PITCHFORK

Continued from First Page.

Judas from Kentucky, who, after a brilliant career of twenty years and more as leader and champion of the silver forces, has, in his old age, come to this pitiful pass, and then to think that the indictment thus brought against a whole section should have so much color of truth and of fact to back it up in the apostasy from their principles of the two other sects, from the South in the Cabinet of a President who has so disgraced the name of Democracy.

"The South bows its head in shame at this exhibition of moral cowardice and despises the rascals; but I must remind the Senator from Massachusetts that there is a yet only moral turpitude and treachery to be charged against these men.

"The Southern Congressmen and Senators who came here poor are still poor; they have not become millionaires like some of their Northern brethren, and there is no credit in holding stock, or Colfax scandal, or Helms bribery chargeable to any Southern man. Let him remember these things and keep back his assets and talents."

Further on in the speech Mr. Tillman said: "The responsibility of providing revenues and looking after the solvency of the Treasury which rests with Congress, has been usurped by the President. Why is he not impeached? Because he is carrying out Republican policies, and the majority in the House of Representatives feel safe and believe that they are certain to elect the next President and obtain control of the government. They are willing to load down the incompetent or dishonest Democracy if they are the incompetent and dishonest Democracy, with the collusion of the misgovernment, to let their help by acquiescence in wrongdoing. The policy is doing nothing—to preserve a mastery ineffectively—and only obstruct where relief could be given.

QUOTED LINCOLN.

"But there is many a slip betwixt the cup and the lip, and in this dark and dismal hour the words of Lincoln, the great and noble martyr, Lincoln, whose Republicanism was democracy of the purest type compared with that of Cleveland—come like a promise from the grave. This great American of the nineteenth century, said:

"You can fool all of the people part of the time and you can fool some of the people all of the time, but you can never fool all of the people all of the time." Unless that grand inspired pledge to which he consecrated his auditors at Gettysburg is to be forgotten and come to naught, that government of the people, shall not perish from the earth, the people must shake off their lethargy and arouse themselves."

Mr. Tillman related an anecdote of John Randolph of Roanoke, when a lady made an eloquent appeal in favor of Greece, then in revolt against the Turks. Waving his hand in the direction of a lot of negro children around the house, the eccentric Virginian said: "Madame, the Greeks are at your doors," and with a low bow retired.

So Mr. Tillman would say to the Senator from Maine (Mr. Frye), and the other Senators who stood here as exponents of the creed which would enslave the American people by the consummation of the scheme to which they are committed: "The Armenians are here at your doors."

In every city and hamlet and country of these United States they can be found, and I warn you they will not be held down for all time by the Turks who now oppose them.

From the opening sentence of the speech down to its close, Mr. Tillman commanded the keenest attention and curiosity of a numerous Senate and crowded galleries. With his left hand pressed against his side and with the printed slips of his speech from which he frequently strayed, in his right hand, he was around in a circle, facing the galleries more frequently than he faced the chair.

At the point where he was denouncing President Cleveland he abandoned his prepared speech and lapsed into a description of how he came to Washington to witness the funeral of Lincoln and of the scene on the plaza of the Capitol in order to participate in the justification over a Democratic President, a Democratic Senate and a Democratic House, and he exclaimed, dramatically:

"God forgive me for being such a fool!"

EVERYBODY LAUGHED.

Laughter and applause broke out in the galleries, which the presiding officer—Mr. Faulkner, of West Virginia—tried to suppress, and this caused Mr. Tillman to apostrophize the chair, saying:

"If you let me down into the bog and speak, I suppose I will get used to it after while."

Subsequently he got into an colloquy with Mr. Hoar, Rep., Massachusetts, as to an expression of the latter upon the decadence of Southern statesmen. And when Mr. Hoar said he would look up the record to justify himself, Mr. Tillman said that he would wait, but that he would not "sweat his whistle" because a wind mill could not be run by water. (Renewed laughter.)

Talking of the Sherman act Mr. Tillman exclaimed: "I would like to get off to him, as I do now, especially, calling attention to the words, as the victor of victors in this financial conflict of a quarter of a century."

Mr. Tillman said that he would appeal to his speech "that infamous contract with Stetson, the syndicate contract, also an extract from the Democratic year book of 1888, showing the purchase of bonds," with that surplus which used to keep this man awake at nights. (Laughter.) And it must be authentic," he added, "coming as it does from the Democratic National Committee. (Laughter.) I just want to get the two checks by jaw, you know, in juxtaposition."

Coming once more to a denunciation of the President, Mr. Tillman snapped out the question to Republican Senators:

"Why have you not impeached him?"

Mr. Hawley, Rep., Connecticut, replied that the last Congress was Democratic.

"I have already paid my respects to the last Congress," Mr. Tillman said, "and I hoped better things from the Congress which the people have now sent here. But you are all of a kind—some fools of monopoly (Senator), I have not impeached because he is carrying out Republican policy."

Mr. Johnson will reside in New York for some little time.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Licenses to marry were issued yesterday to the following: J. G. Mathers Harvey, of Louisville, Ky., and Blanche Newton. William E. Hoy and Laura E. Barrick, Harvey A. Doty, of Charleston, S. C., and Pearl E. Batten, of New Way, Ohio. Edward F. Dorsey, of Anacostia, D. C., and Gertrude A. Roland. Louis Harold and Elizabeth Gayer. Louis R. Davidson and Mary A. Quay, both of Beaver, Pa. George A. Carr and Bertha Snowden. Francis E. Z. Crane and Henrietta O'Neal. William Henry White and Stella Virginia Cunniff. John Jones and Fannie Gilliam. Eugene C. C. Winter and Blanche H. Yingling, of Reketostown, Md. John T. Keating and Mary E. Duffy. Alexander F. Jenkins Johnson, of New York City, and A. Adelaide Johnson. Lewis Morris Gorman and Mary Byrne, both of New Adams, Mass.

JEALOUSY WAS THE CAUSE.

Young Man Attempted to Shoot His Sweetheart and Himself. (Special to The Times.)

Richmond, Jan. 29.—News from Woodstock gives the details of an attempted murder that occurred at the Hotel, Green Hotel, Philadelphia. On the shirt was worked the letter "W."

TOOK HIS BRIDE'S NAME

Sculptress Adelaide Johnson Weds Alexander Jenkins.

GROOM DRESSED IN WHITE

He Had His Name Changed to That of His Wife—Strange Ceremony Witnessed by Leading Woman Sculptresses—Calla Lilies and White Draperies Were the Decorations.

Philly's classic doves might well have ruffled the marble's surface, wakened into life, and deserting the basin's brink where they have posed so long, flown abroad with a certain secret yesterday.

They didn't, however. It was the most commonplace "white bird" in the world who told the wedding story.

A little while ago Adelaide Johnson, the sculptress, whose work is known in both this and the Old World, who divides her time within sight of the Potomac Flats and the Sabine Hills, and out invitations promptly to the hour set, Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Richardson of Boston, Clara E. Colby, Col. Chas. James, and other well-known folk assembled at the home of their talented hostess on Capitol Hill. They were each and all arrayed in white, as requested.

They found the drawing-room in snowy array. White cheese cloth draperies screened windows and doors, white silk cushioned the chairs, tables covered with dainty white embroidery, here crystal bowls of berries of smilax were set on gold shovels and before a bust of Gen. Logan in a far corner. Above a luxuriant diwan, on which were piled a dozen beauteous white pillows, were the famous white pedestals bearing the busts of Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

MADE THE ANNOUNCEMENT.

Above the mantel a painting of "The Third Hour," one of Raphael's famous works, was hung against draperies of white Oriental crepe.

As a bridegroom, Cora L. V. Richmond, celebrated spiritualist, entered the chancel followed by a young man of slender build and smooth face, wearing a suit of white broadcloth, and the announcement was made that the wedding of Adelaide Johnson and Alexander Frederick Jenkins was about to take place.

Passing through the open doorway, Mrs. John Vance Cheney, wife of the poet, governed all in white, stood to read a poem on "Music." During the last stanza of which Alexander Frederick Jenkins sang an accompaniment, the wedding chorus from "Lohengrin."

Hardly had the sweet strains died away when the bride entered, escorted by her black satin and jet with diamond ornaments. The presents were handsome and numerous. The groom's present being a spray of diamonds. The father of the bride presented her with a check.

During the evening a delightful collation was served from a flower decked table. The guests from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. D. Strauss of Baltimore, Mrs. Brewer of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Shipley of Baltimore. Other guests were, Col. and Mrs. Webster, Captain Lowell, Gen. Marcus Wright, Dr. T. V. Hammond, Mrs. Rooker, Miss Rooker, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Merchant, Miss May King, the bride's aunt, Mr. Henry Kist, Mr. John F. Wild, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Reed, Mrs. Clarence Webster, the Misses Hodges, Mr. George Hunter of Rockville, Md.; Miss Susie Watkins, Miss Susie Acker, Dr. P. Parke, Mr. and Mrs. William Barclay, Mrs. Fannie Cartell, Mr. O'Leigh, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Gilchrist, Mrs. G. Goodacre, Mrs. Goodacre, Mrs. Donaldson and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Peiz, and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey left on the evening for a Western trip, including Cincinnati, Lexington and Louisville, Ky., and will be at home to their friends at 2007 F Street northwest after February 15.

MURDERED AND ROBBED.

Body of J. M. Willis of Philadelphia in Elk River. (Special to The Times.)

Elkton, Md., Jan. 29.—Hardly has the excitement over the murder at Chesapeake City, Md., county, of a teacher, has been aroused again, by what is supposed to be another.

The body of a young man was found there this afternoon by the crew of a canal tug, with a bullet hole in the head. The jury of inquest decided that the man had met his death by a pistol shot fired by some unknown person.

The tug Gen. Wistar was cruising near the mouth of the Elk river, when the body was found floating in the water. The body was taken ashore and proved to be that of a young white man aged about twenty years, five feet seven inches in height, weighing about 140 pounds. A bullet hole was found in the back of the head, near the right ear, and there was a bad bruise over the right eye.

On the body were found a number of small articles, among which was a small diary. In the diary were written several names, among which appeared most frequently that of "John A. White, Green Hotel, Philadelphia." On the shirt was worked the letter "W."

No money or valuables were found upon the "body," which, it is thought, proves the motive of the murder was robbery.

After the post mortem examination by Dr. W. C. Karsner, and the finding of the jury of inquest impelled by "Squire Vandercity, the body was taken to Chesapeake City and placed in charge of Undertaker Coleman, who now holds it for identification.

JEALOUSY WAS THE CAUSE.

Young Man Attempted to Shoot His Sweetheart and Himself. (Special to The Times.)

Richmond, Jan. 29.—News from Woodstock gives the details of an attempted murder that occurred at the Hotel, Green Hotel, Philadelphia. On the shirt was worked the letter "W."

TOOK HIS BRIDE'S NAME

Sculptress Adelaide Johnson Weds Alexander Jenkins.

GROOM DRESSED IN WHITE

He Had His Name Changed to That of His Wife—Strange Ceremony Witnessed by Leading Woman Sculptresses—Calla Lilies and White Draperies Were the Decorations.

Philly's classic doves might well have ruffled the marble's surface, wakened into life, and deserting the basin's brink where they have posed so long, flown abroad with a certain secret yesterday.

They didn't, however. It was the most commonplace "white bird" in the world who told the wedding story.

A little while ago Adelaide Johnson, the sculptress, whose work is known in both this and the Old World, who divides her time within sight of the Potomac Flats and the Sabine Hills, and out invitations promptly to the hour set, Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Richardson of Boston, Clara E. Colby, Col. Chas. James, and other well-known folk assembled at the home of their talented hostess on Capitol Hill. They were each and all arrayed in white, as requested.

They found the drawing-room in snowy array. White cheese cloth draperies screened windows and doors, white silk cushioned the chairs, tables covered with dainty white embroidery, here crystal bowls of berries of smilax were set on gold shovels and before a bust of Gen. Logan in a far corner. Above a luxuriant diwan, on which were piled a dozen beauteous white pillows, were the famous white pedestals bearing the busts of Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

MADE THE ANNOUNCEMENT.

Above the mantel a painting of "The Third Hour," one of Raphael's famous works, was hung against draperies of white Oriental crepe.

As a bridegroom, Cora L. V. Richmond, celebrated spiritualist, entered the chancel followed by a young man of slender build and smooth face, wearing a suit of white broadcloth, and the announcement was made that the wedding of Adelaide Johnson and Alexander Frederick Jenkins was about to take place.

Passing through the open doorway, Mrs. John Vance Cheney, wife of the poet, governed all in white, stood to read a poem on "Music." During the last stanza of which Alexander Frederick Jenkins sang an accompaniment, the wedding chorus from "Lohengrin."

Hardly had the sweet strains died away when the bride entered, escorted by her black satin and jet with diamond ornaments. The presents were handsome and numerous. The groom's present being a spray of diamonds. The father of the bride presented her with a check.

During the evening a delightful collation was served from a flower decked table. The guests from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. D. Strauss of Baltimore, Mrs. Brewer of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Shipley of Baltimore. Other guests were, Col. and Mrs. Webster, Captain Lowell, Gen. Marcus Wright, Dr. T. V. Hammond, Mrs. Rooker, Miss Rooker, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Merchant, Miss May King, the bride's aunt, Mr. Henry Kist, Mr. John F. Wild, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Reed, Mrs. Clarence Webster, the Misses Hodges, Mr. George Hunter of Rockville, Md.; Miss Susie Watkins, Miss Susie Acker, Dr. P. Parke, Mr. and Mrs. William Barclay, Mrs. Fannie Cartell, Mr. O'Leigh, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Gilchrist, Mrs. G. Goodacre, Mrs. Goodacre, Mrs. Donaldson and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Peiz, and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey left on the evening for a Western trip, including Cincinnati, Lexington and Louisville, Ky., and will be at home to their friends at 2007 F Street northwest after February 15.

MURDERED AND ROBBED.

Body of J. M. Willis of Philadelphia in Elk River. (Special to The Times.)

Elkton, Md., Jan. 29.—Hardly has the excitement over the murder at Chesapeake City, Md., county, of a teacher, has been aroused again, by what is supposed to be another.

The body of a young man was found there this afternoon by the crew of a canal tug, with a bullet hole in the head. The jury of inquest decided that the man had met his death by a pistol shot fired by some unknown person.

The tug Gen. Wistar was cruising near the mouth of the Elk river, when the body was found floating in the water. The body was taken ashore and proved to be that of a young white man aged about twenty years, five feet seven inches in height, weighing about 140 pounds. A bullet hole was found in the back of the head, near the right ear, and there was a bad bruise over the right eye.

On the body were found a number of small articles, among which was a small diary. In the diary were written several names, among which appeared most frequently that of "John A. White, Green Hotel, Philadelphia." On the shirt was worked the letter "W."

No money or valuables were found upon the "body," which, it is thought, proves the motive of the murder was robbery.