

THE DIFFERENT COLOR OF THE JEWS.

Although the Jew becomes the subject of every form of government—from the autocracy of Russia to the democracy of America—he retains his theocratic creed. Neither barbarism the most rude, nor civilization the most refined, have succeeded in altering his peculiar countenance; for, in the back woods of the New World, and at the Court of the British Sovereign, he is instantly known. Time, that changes all things else, seems to stay his rough hand when he approaches the Jew. Compare his lineaments when sculptured in marble and cast in bronze—for the arch and medal of Titus still exist—with those of the living Jew, and he is convinced of the unchangeableness. This permanence of physiognomy is evidently traceable to a supernatural cause, which prevents the usual modification of feature, in order to accomplish an important object. Into this it is not our province now to enter, yet we cannot help remarking that the Jew is a witness not of one truth, but of many truths. Marvelously does he illustrate the consistency of the original unity of man with the most extensive diversity. His features have been cast in an eternal mould, but his color is dependant on outward causes. Natural law is forbidden to operate on the one, but left to take its course with respect to the other. A fixed physiognomy declares the unity of the people, while their diversity of complexion as distinctly manifests the influence of climate. Every shade of color clothes with its livery the body of a Jew, from the jet black of the Hindoo to the ruddy white of the Saxon. The original inhabitant of Palestine was doubtless dusky skinned and dark haired; but the cooler sky and more temperate air of Poland and Germany have substituted a fair complexion and light hair. On the other hand, the scorching sun of India has curled and crisped his hair, and blackened his skin, so that his features alone distinguish him physically from the native Hindoo. On the Malabar coast of Hindostan, are two colonies of Jews—an old and young colony—separated by color. The elder colony are black, and the younger (dwelling in a town called Mattacheri) comparatively fair, so as to have obtained the name of the "White Jews." This difference is satisfactorily accounted for by the former having been subjected to the influence of the climate for a much longer time than the latter.—British Quarterly Review.

EXTRAORDINARY ESCAPE FROM DEATH.—The following strange story is related in the Baton Rouge Gazette (Extra) of the 8th instant: A very singular or rather extraordinary escape from death occurred to one of the deck hands of the Magnolia on her last trip up from New Orleans. The man alluded to was setting on the bow of the boat asleep, when he fell overboard and slipped under the boat. The next instant he was picked up by the paddle of the wheel, and safely, and without injury, deposited in the wheel-house. So sudden was all this done that he woke up very much astonished at the cold bath he had undergone, but entirely ignorant, until informed of the curious revolution and fearful escape from death through which he had passed.

ENERGY.—Energy is omnipotent.—The clouds that surround the homeless boy of to-day are dispersed, and he is invited to a palace. It is the work of energy. The child who is a beggar this moment, in a few years to come may stand forth the admiration of angels! Who has not seen the life-giving power of energy? It makes the wilderness to bloom as the rose! Whiten the ocean; navigates our rivers; levels mountains; paves with iron a highway from State to State; and sends through, with the speed of lightning, messages from one extremity of the land to the other. Without energy, what is man! A fool, a clod.

Surely, if anything might suffice to open men's eyes to the hollowness of those idols for which they forsake so much of enlightened leisure so much of tranquil happiness, it ought to be the bitter evidence which every-day life present to them, of their painful influence in withering up the best and kindest emotions of the soul—in breathing a chill over its young unworldly feelings in rendering it prematurely old and hard, and impenetrable to aught but the joys of sense or the sordid pleasure of self-interest.

A gentleman remarking that he had lost his watch through the carelessness of a servant, in leaving the house unguarded, concluded by saying—"However it was a very poor one." Miss B. replied—"Why sir, a gentleman like you should have kept a better watch."

A recent philosopher discovered a method to avoid being dunned. "How—how—how?" we hear everybody asking. "Never run in debt!"

New Establishment! JACKSON & LILLARD HAVE purchased Moss & Jackson's entire stock of Goods, a large portion of which were just received from New York and Philadelphia, where they were bought at very low prices. Their circumstances are such as to make it absolutely necessary that they sell for READY PAY, and in order to effect that very desirable object, they not only intend to offer goods, but are determined to sell them too, at LOWER PRICES than goods of like quality can be purchased in East Tennessee. All they ask of their friends and the public generally, is to call and examine their stock of Dry Goods, Groceries, Hardware, Cutlery, &c., compare prices with those who sell on time, and they think they can convince them that the CASH system is a great saving to the consumer of goods. THE EVENING NEWS, CHARLESTON, SO. C. THE NEWS is an independent organ, designed to transmit to the people, from a Southern Commercial Emporium, the latest and most reliable information, and general intelligence. A portion of the paper is devoted to literary selections, carefully culled from the most popular and approved sources, and Saturday's issue is prepared to supply the place of the weeklies issued from other offices. The News is admirably calculated for a family newspaper, though neither Whig or Democrat; it speaks with a Southern tongue, and bears in its bosom a Southern heart—it takes a hearty and active interest in the industrial movement now progressing in the Southern States, and desires to secure for its own State all the advantages which the example of enterprise can afford in East Tennessee to take a look at our sheet, which they can do on application to the editor of Athens Post who is fully authorized to act as our agent. Terms of Subscription, if paid in advance: For Daily News, per annum, $8 " Tri-Weekly News, 4 " WM. Y. PANTON & CO. Sept. 14, 1849—fr 51
