

AN ACT to reduce the tax on Merchants' license and to draw out all the taxable property of the State.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, That from and after the passage of this act, merchants shall not sell their goods without first taking from the clerk of the county court, for such establishment, a yearly license, for which they shall pay as follows: Every wholesale merchant shall pay for his license seventy-five cents in the hundred dollars on the invoice cost, at the place where purchased, of all his goods, except such as may be sold without license; every commission merchant shall pay for his license, seventy-five cents in the hundred dollars on the gross amount of all his sales, public and private, except on sales of goods which may be sold without license.

SEC. 2. Be it enacted, That the revenue commissioners appointed under the act which is intended to amend, shall meet on the last Saturday in February in each and every year, at the court-house of their respective counties, and classify the taxable property of each civil district, so as to make the assessed value thereof as nearly uniform and equal as may be, prior to the return of their respective tax lists, on the 10th day of March, as provided for in said act.

SEC. 3. Be it enacted, That if any person from and after the passage of this act, shall refuse to surrender a list of his or her taxable property, on oath, as provided for in the act which is intended to amend, on the application of the revenue commissioner, it shall be the duty of said commissioner to report such delinquent to the next term of the circuit court to be holden in said county, when and where such delinquent shall be subject to an indictment or presentment by the grand jury thereof, and on conviction, shall be fined in a sum not less than one dollar nor more than five hundred dollars, at the discretion of the court, which fine shall go and constitute a part of the public revenue.

SEC. 4. Be it enacted, That articles of the growth and manufacture of this state, and cotton and tobacco in bales and hogheads, are hereby exempt from taxation, except distilled, spirituous or vinous liquors and salt, iron, sugar, coffee, molasses, spun cotton and garden seeds, shall only be taxed in the hands of the persons introducing them into this state for sale—and that the sixth section of the act this is intended to amend, be, and the same is hereby repealed.

SEC. 5. Be it enacted, That the respective county courts in this state, at any quarterly term thereof, are hereby authorized to make reasonable compensation to the respective revenue commissioners for their services in listing and assessing the taxable property in their respective districts, under the provisions of this act, and the act this is intended to amend.

Passed February 7, 1850.

AN ACT. To authorize the several county courts of the State, at any term thereof, to grant juries of view on public roads.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, That the several county courts of this State be, and they are hereby authorized, at any term thereof, to grant juries of view on public roads, by petition therefor, as well as a quorum, term as at a quarterly term, but the report of such jury of view shall be made reportable at a quarterly term of said court only.

Passed, December 31, 1849.

PRUSSIA THE NEXT SCENE OF REVOLUTION.—The New York Commercial has a very interesting letter from its sagacious and well informed correspondent at Berlin, in regard to which it says: "If we are not much deceived, Prussia will be the theatre of the next revolutionary movement in Europe, and when it comes it will scarcely be less than an earthquake. The difficulty and utter faithlessness of the King are rapidly and surely alienating from him and his government the hearts of the people; supplanting the ancient German loyalty and affection with a spirit of mingled exasperation and disgust. A recent measure, adopted and promulgated by Frederick William since the commencement of the year, has given deep alarm and displeasure to all but the partisans of the re-action; and has thrown the Chambers, especially the Second, which is the popular body, into a position of direct antagonism. Our correspondent gives a full and perfectly clear exposition of the whole matter, and its probable consequences."

A thief was caught in Barnum's Hotel, (Baltimore) on Wednesday night, who, when arrested, had on eight pair of pantaloons, three or four vests, and several coats, which he had stolen from different boarder's rooms. When detected he looked not unlike Sir John Falstaff, and when stripped of his ill-gotten habitments he dwindled down to a very small specimen of rascality. He was sent to jail.

DEATH BY LIGHTNING.—A correspondent from Ware county, (Ga.) writes us:— On the 21st inst., the house of James Aspinwall of Ware county, was struck by lightning. At the time of the melancholy occurrence, there were present in the house, besides Mr. Aspinwall and his wife, two other men. Aspinwall was instantly killed—his wife badly wounded, and the two others present stunned for some time. Upon their recovery, the latter found themselves lying upon the grass, outside the door and on entering the house, discovered Aspinwall dead and his wife apparently so; but upon the application of cold water to her face, she recovered and expressed her unconsciousness of what had happened by asking, who and what had served her in that manner? The fluid seems to have run the whole course of their bodies, from the head downwards, as the shoes of all the persons in the party, were thrown off their feet and torn to atoms. Mr. Aspinwall was a young man of great respectability, and his death is universally lamented.

It is our friend Dr. Elder, who tells an instructive anecdote of the notion entertained by its more wholesale devotees of party Democracy. The Doctor is an ardent Abolitionist, and in that character was lecturing through the glens of the Allegheny Mountains, when he came across a stubborn Dutch adversary, whose objections to Abolition were summed up in the allegation, "It isn't Democratic." "Why, Mr. Donnerwhizzel?" interposed Dr. E., "how can you make that objection? It seems to me not merely Democratic, but the very essence of Democracy. Pray, tell me what you consider essential to the character of a Democrat, and I will show you that it implies Abolition." "Why," rejoined the stubborn Dutchman, "I call a Democrat one that votes the Democratic ticket—that's what I call a Democrat."

The Dr. was struck, and had to own beat. His Democracy could have stood any test but that one.—N. Y. Tribune.

We have already alluded to a detected conspiracy of the Austrian Government to assassinate Kossuth. At the latest dates from the Levant, it was the common topic at Constantinople. The details of the transaction are as follows. Among the refugees who followed Kossuth across the Turkish frontier was a Hungarian soldier who had deserted the Imperial service in Italy, and contrived to regain his country before the termination of the war. An Austrian consul put himself in communication with this man, and proposed that he should aid him in a plan for the escape of Kossuth. The official represented the constant embarrassment which the refugee question would prove to Austria, and the expediency of at once furnishing Kossuth with the means of quietly reaching France or England. The Hungarian soldier fell into the trap, and began to concert measures for carrying out the plan, but before long the real nature of the Austrian consul's project was discovered. Kossuth was to be wiled away from his Turkish residence, and then to be murdered by a band of Croats stationed on the road to the sea coast. There are various stories afloat as to the precise occasion on which this discovery was made. However that may be, it is quite certain that Sir Stratford Canning was at once informed of this revolting treachery, and of the circumstances which implicated the Austrian Government. With his co-operation, the Turkish authorities are now occupied in an investigation of the whole plot, and before many days, the result of their labors will be given to the world.—Austria has proved herself capable of the most infamous perfidy.

"Mr. Brown, I owe you a grudge remember that!" "I shall not be frightened, then, for I never knew you to pay anything that you owed."

We heard a good story the other night, of two persons engaged in a duel. After the first fire, one of the seconds proposed that they should shake hands and make up. The other second said he saw no necessity for that, for their hands have been shaking ever since they began.

Some people are always waiting for a change of circumstances, before they can commence an enterprise.—This is a poor rule—take your circumstances as they are, and bend them to your purpose. Don't linger in inaction till Bucher comes up, but the moment you catch sight of him in the distance, rise and charge. This is the way to gain Waterloo victories in the moral warfare of life.

Kissing another man's wife by mistake, our imp very appropriately terms a blunder-buss."

PHRENOLOGY.—"Did a black man bring home a yellow rooster to-day?" asked a careful and loving husband. "Yes, he did; but what on earth do you want of a rooster, when you have no hens, nor any place to keep them?" "I bought him to scratch the children's heads, I notice that when they study their geography lessons, they can't find the capital of a State for scratching their heads!" "Lal! husband, how you talk!"

Said one merchant, "I have done business ten years and not spent five dollars in advertising." Said another, "I have done business five years and spent one-tenth of all my profits in advertising, and have made more money than you have made in ten." Which was the most intelligent of the two?

DIED. At Ten Mile, Meigs county, on the 12th of February last, Mrs. MARY ANN McCALLON, wife of Gen. John McCollon, in the 52d year of her age. [Obituary next week.] On the 8th February last, at Ten Mile, Meigs county, Mr. ANDREW JACKSON McCALLON, in the 29th year of his age. [Obituary next week.]

COMMERCIAL. DALTON MARKET.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 20th, P. M. Since our last communication the business appearance of our place has somewhat improved, and we are now enabled to quote prices from actual sales.

Bacon—About 12000 lbs. new Bacon has been received and sold at 4 1/2 to 5c per lb. There is very little demand for this article yet.

CORN—Heavy orders have been received by several of our merchants for this article within the last few days, which they are unable to fill. It is selling to-day at 45c per bu.

FLOUR—$7 per bbl.—supply good. LARD is dull at 5c per lb.

CORN MEAL—This article is still very scarce and would bring from 45 to 50c per bu. to day.

POTATOES—Frisch, 35 to 40c per bu. FEATHERS 28 to 30c per lb. COFFEE is now worth 18c per lb, by the bar.

Molasses, Sugar, and Salt, remain at former quotations.

NOTICE. I HAVE several times notified those who are indebted to the estate of JOHN F. REEDER, deceased, and also, who are indebted to me individually, to come forward and settle up, and pay to the utmost farthing, which has not been attended to by those who are indebted, and I now say, positively, that if settlements are not made, accounts closed up, in a short time, that they will find their notes and accounts in the hands of an officer. The time has come when I am compelled to settle up the estate of John F. Reeder, and consequently, I am compelled to have the money—and seeing the condition that I am placed in, I hope that no one will put me to the necessity of suing, but that they will obey this last call.

WASHING MADE EASY! Or how to Wash Clothes without Machines, Washboards, or Pounding Barrels.

SEND ME ONE DOLLAR. Free of Postage, and I will send you, by mail, a printed circular, giving plain directions for WASHING CLOTHES, that will enable one person to do all the washing of a large family before breakfast, thus avoiding all the confusion of a washing day.—This method requires no machines, washboards or pounding barrels—NO RUBBING THE SKIN OFF YOUR FINGERS—no tearing off buttons, and wearing out clothes. This plan SAVES THE CLOTHES, makes them whiter, and never injures the finest fabric. The articles used cost but a few cents for a large washing. The circular also contains directions for CLEAR STARCHING, IRONING LACES, WASHING and CLEANING SILKS, KID GLOVES, removing stains, grease spots, &c. These are the greatest chemical discoveries of the age. All the hotels, steamers, and large laundry establishments use my method of washing. Send letters to MADAME DEWELT, Patent Laundry dress, Ann Street, New York, postage paid. March 1, 1850—3m 75
