

JOHN KELLY DEAD.

John Kelly, the noted leader of Tammany Hall, and first among the politicians of New York, died yesterday at his residence in that city after a lingering illness, the first effects of which were felt as far back as 1870.

THE BRIDAL PARTY.

DEPARTURE OF MISS FOLSOM FOR WASHINGTON.

The President and His Bride to Take a European Tour—What Lawyer Bissell Says.

New York, June 1.—Wilson S. Bissell of Buffalo, President Cleveland's former law partner, called upon Miss Folsom at the Gilesey House today, and spent half an hour in conversation with her.

THE CUP RACE AT LATONIA

WON BY IRISH PAT ON A FOUL, BEATING HIDALGO AND LUCKY B.—Blue Wing's Easy Victory for the Himyar Stakes.

CINCINNATI, O., June 1.—Weather very warm, track dusty and attendance fair.

DEATH OF JOHN KELLY.

THE BIG SACHEM OF TAMMANY PASSES AWAY

At His Residence in New York in the Presence of His Wife and Children.

New York, June 1.—John Kelly died at 3:20 o'clock this afternoon. His wife was with him. She is seriously ill.

THE MAXWELL CASE.

THE JUDGE'S CHARGE TO THE JURY.

His Instructions Regarding Circumstantial Evidence—Beginning of Argument by Counsel.

St. Louis, Mo., June 1.—Judge Van Wagone, at the adjournment of Criminal Court last evening, stated that he would be ready to read his instructions to the jury trying the Maxwell case at 10 o'clock this morning, but it was one hour after that time before he appeared in court.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISS.

Cold-Blooded Murder in Benton County—Terrific Mail-Storm.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) HOLLY SPRINGS, MISS., June 1.—Details of a horrible and wild murder near Hickory Flat, in Benton county, have just been received.

BROWNVILLE, TENN.

The Remains of Taylor Bond Brought From Cincinnati for Burial.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) BROWNVILLE, TENN., June 1.—This afternoon's train brought from Cincinnati the body of Mr. H. Taylor Bond, who was killed by a fall through an elevator in that city yesterday.

AMUSEMENTS.

Second Sacred Concert.

The second successful concert was given at St. Joseph's Church last night to a large and appreciative audience.

JACKSON, TENN.

Democratic Delegates Conventions—Instructions for Folks and Caldwell.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) JACKSON, TENN., June 1.—The Democratic Conventions of Madison county were held in this city today, and selected delegates to the Judicial Convention to be held in Nashville on the 9th instant, to nominate candidates for Supreme Judges. Delegates were instructed to vote of the county solid for Folkes and Caldwell.

GRAIN IN SIGHT.

New York June 1.—The following is the visible supply of grain in this country as compared with that of a week ago which will be posted on the New York Produce Exchange to-morrow: Wheat, 34,888,596 bushels; decrease, 2,925,175 bushels; corn, 7,948,851; increase, 104,351; oats, 1,949,850; increase, 395,800; rye, 274,075; decrease, 28,781; barley, 321,227; decrease, 54,607.

ARRIVAL OF 500 BALES OF COTTON FROM THE INTERIOR.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) PINE BLUFF, ARK., June 1.—Five hundred bales of cotton arrived in this city today from the interior.

DEBATE ON THE HOME-RULE BILL.

LONDON, June 1.—Debate on the Home-Rule bill in the House of Commons was resumed this afternoon by Joseph Chamberlain.

spoke that language with fluency and ease, and was fond of special studies which diverted his mind and brought him the only relief he could find from the torments of the disease that sapped his giant-like strength and eventually killed him. But it is as the leader of Tammany he will be best remembered, and in New York City as the unswerving opponent of Tweed, whom, with his pals—Sweeney, Garvey and the rest—he drove out of Tammany, taking possession of it with such men as Augustus Schell, Samuel Tilden and Horatio Seymour. Mr. Kelly was an honest and a sincere man, he never contented, aided or abetted any of the forays made upon the treasury of the city of New York, and he lived up to his convictions, religious and political, as well as to his duty.

He was a man of great energy and force of character, and found in him a friend who always sustained him. But he was not willing to remain a messenger boy with the prospect of becoming a reporter and eventually, perhaps, a journalist, and so he apprenticed himself to a grate-cutter and sash-cutting, and learned a trade at which he continued for some years to earn a good living, helping to support his mother and educate his five other children. When he reached manhood's estate he joined the Montgomery Guard, a then celebrated military company, being at the same time a member of one of the volunteer fire companies of New York. He attained to prominence in both these organizations and by that means found himself called in politics, in the pursuit of which he was felt as a hard and fearless hitter from the first, especially in the days of Know-Nothingism. To those who remember New York at that time, when brutal Bill Poole and such characters were upheld by all of the culture of the great city outside of the Democratic party, the value of a brave spirit will readily be appreciated. It was in some ways, indeed, in most of them outside of the Sixth, as much as a man's life was worth to declare himself a Democrat, and to be a foreigner was to be recondemned and worthy the vilest and most brutal treatment. John Kelly not only led Democrats through and through the wards where the Know-Nothings were strongest, but he was of the guard that protected that Catholic Cathedral from the bigoted and brutalized church burners who were anxious to make a bonfire of the seat and stronghold of Catholicity in America. He stood by the brave Archbishop Hughes, a churchman modeled after St. Paul, as testy and as fearless, and proved himself a good son of a church to the discipline of which he always yielded himself as a little child. But amid all this excitement, an excitement only paralleled by that of the Civil War, he continued to be a student and to fit himself for the leadership to which he attained and which he held up to the time of his death, no one being found willing to take his place during this long series of sickness, to which he succumbed soon after Mr. Cleveland's election. His first service in official life was as a member of the Board of Aldermen, his next as a member of Congress, where he was a coadjutor with Henry A. Wise of Virginia, and Alexander H. Stevens of Georgia in destroying the Know-Nothing party. He took an active part in trying to defeat Banks, the Know-Nothing Whig candidate for Speaker, and in the Charleston Convention was conspicuous in an endeavor to prevent the breach that divided the party, made a way for the Republicans to triumph, and brought on the civil war. This result he largely attributed to whiskey, asserting that not only were drunken men prominent therein, but also in Congress during the two terms he served. Mr. Kelly was a sober man and a consistent member of the church, to whose ordinances he always closely adhered. After he was served as Sheriff and Comptroller, both lucrative positions, and he managed to save a comfortable competence, which enabled him to devote himself to the leadership of Tammany, by which he is better known to the people generally of the Union. At the St. Louis Convention that nominated Tilden he was a conspicuous advocate of that astute statesman, and in the Cincinnati Convention of 1880, managed in spite of much opposition to force the Tammany delegation into seats and secure their recognition as possessing a four-fourth-vote in the delegation. At Chicago, in 1881, he again headed the rebellious Tammany faction, but was defeated of his purpose to prevent the nomination of Mr. Cleveland by the admirable and able management of Mr. Thompson and Mr. Manning, now Secretary of the Treasury. This was his last venture. A victim of insomnia, he vainly sought relief through well known physicians in New York and finally went for advice to Europe, which he visited for the second time. But he was compelled to return and at last, after many years of agony, has succumbed. Mr. Kelly was a man of greater intellectual force and ability than he generally had credit for being. Although an active partisan and bitter to relentlessness he did not permit politics to interfere with his studious habits nor prevent him from delivering several courses of lectures for charitable purposes, which were signally successful. He was an excellent French scholar, city to day from the interior, and was bought by Johnson & Ragland and consigned to New Orleans. It will be remembered that a few months since C. E. Presley, a land-killer, was the assassin of the person of Frank Brigham, a stranger from New York, who in a drunken condition had locked himself up in a room to the exclusion of other guests, after having been ordered several times to leave the house on account of his intolerable conduct, and in ejecting Brigham Presley resorted to the violence of the pistol, the former begging for his life. The jury found Presley guilty of murder in the first degree. The court refused a new trial and yesterday sentenced the prisoner to be hanged on the 27th of August.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 1.—Judge Van Wagone, at the adjournment of Criminal Court last evening, stated that he would be ready to read his instructions to the jury trying the Maxwell case at 10 o'clock this morning, but it was one hour after that time before he appeared in court.

THE JUDGE'S CHARGE TO THE JURY. His Instructions Regarding Circumstantial Evidence—Beginning of Argument by Counsel.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 1.—Judge Van Wagone, at the adjournment of Criminal Court last evening, stated that he would be ready to read his instructions to the jury trying the Maxwell case at 10 o'clock this morning, but it was one hour after that time before he appeared in court.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISS.

Cold-Blooded Murder in Benton County—Terrific Mail-Storm.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) HOLLY SPRINGS, MISS., June 1.—Details of a horrible and wild murder near Hickory Flat, in Benton county, have just been received.

BROWNVILLE, TENN.

The Remains of Taylor Bond Brought From Cincinnati for Burial.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) BROWNVILLE, TENN., June 1.—This afternoon's train brought from Cincinnati the body of Mr. H. Taylor Bond, who was killed by a fall through an elevator in that city yesterday.

AMUSEMENTS.

Second Sacred Concert.

The second successful concert was given at St. Joseph's Church last night to a large and appreciative audience.

JACKSON, TENN.

Democratic Delegates Conventions—Instructions for Folks and Caldwell.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) JACKSON, TENN., June 1.—The Democratic Conventions of Madison county were held in this city today, and selected delegates to the Judicial Convention to be held in Nashville on the 9th instant, to nominate candidates for Supreme Judges. Delegates were instructed to vote of the county solid for Folkes and Caldwell.

GRAIN IN SIGHT.

New York June 1.—The following is the visible supply of grain in this country as compared with that of a week ago which will be posted on the New York Produce Exchange to-morrow: Wheat, 34,888,596 bushels; decrease, 2,925,175 bushels; corn, 7,948,851; increase, 104,351; oats, 1,949,850; increase, 395,800; rye, 274,075; decrease, 28,781; barley, 321,227; decrease, 54,607.

ARRIVAL OF 500 BALES OF COTTON FROM THE INTERIOR.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) PINE BLUFF, ARK., June 1.—Five hundred bales of cotton arrived in this city today from the interior.

DEBATE ON THE HOME-RULE BILL.

LONDON, June 1.—Debate on the Home-Rule bill in the House of Commons was resumed this afternoon by Joseph Chamberlain.

spoke that language with fluency and ease, and was fond of special studies which diverted his mind and brought him the only relief he could find from the torments of the disease that sapped his giant-like strength and eventually killed him. But it is as the leader of Tammany he will be best remembered, and in New York City as the unswerving opponent of Tweed, whom, with his pals—Sweeney, Garvey and the rest—he drove out of Tammany, taking possession of it with such men as Augustus Schell, Samuel Tilden and Horatio Seymour. Mr. Kelly was an honest and a sincere man, he never contented, aided or abetted any of the forays made upon the treasury of the city of New York, and he lived up to his convictions, religious and political, as well as to his duty.

He was a man of great energy and force of character, and found in him a friend who always sustained him. But he was not willing to remain a messenger boy with the prospect of becoming a reporter and eventually, perhaps, a journalist, and so he apprenticed himself to a grate-cutter and sash-cutting, and learned a trade at which he continued for some years to earn a good living, helping to support his mother and educate his five other children. When he reached manhood's estate he joined the Montgomery Guard, a then celebrated military company, being at the same time a member of one of the volunteer fire companies of New York. He attained to prominence in both these organizations and by that means found himself called in politics, in the pursuit of which he was felt as a hard and fearless hitter from the first, especially in the days of Know-Nothingism. To those who remember New York at that time, when brutal Bill Poole and such characters were upheld by all of the culture of the great city outside of the Democratic party, the value of a brave spirit will readily be appreciated. It was in some ways, indeed, in most of them outside of the Sixth, as much as a man's life was worth to declare himself a Democrat, and to be a foreigner was to be recondemned and worthy the vilest and most brutal treatment. John Kelly not only led Democrats through and through the wards where the Know-Nothings were strongest, but he was of the guard that protected that Catholic Cathedral from the bigoted and brutalized church burners who were anxious to make a bonfire of the seat and stronghold of Catholicity in America. He stood by the brave Archbishop Hughes, a churchman modeled after St. Paul, as testy and as fearless, and proved himself a good son of a church to the discipline of which he always yielded himself as a little child. But amid all this excitement, an excitement only paralleled by that of the Civil War, he continued to be a student and to fit himself for the leadership to which he attained and which he held up to the time of his death, no one being found willing to take his place during this long series of sickness, to which he succumbed soon after Mr. Cleveland's election. His first service in official life was as a member of the Board of Aldermen, his next as a member of Congress, where he was a coadjutor with Henry A. Wise of Virginia, and Alexander H. Stevens of Georgia in destroying the Know-Nothing party. He took an active part in trying to defeat Banks, the Know-Nothing Whig candidate for Speaker, and in the Charleston Convention was conspicuous in an endeavor to prevent the breach that divided the party, made a way for the Republicans to triumph, and brought on the civil war. This result he largely attributed to whiskey, asserting that not only were drunken men prominent therein, but also in Congress during the two terms he served. Mr. Kelly was a sober man and a consistent member of the church, to whose ordinances he always closely adhered. After he was served as Sheriff and Comptroller, both lucrative positions, and he managed to save a comfortable competence, which enabled him to devote himself to the leadership of Tammany, by which he is better known to the people generally of the Union. At the St. Louis Convention that nominated Tilden he was a conspicuous advocate of that astute statesman, and in the Cincinnati Convention of 1880, managed in spite of much opposition to force the Tammany delegation into seats and secure their recognition as possessing a four-fourth-vote in the delegation. At Chicago, in 1881, he again headed the rebellious Tammany faction, but was defeated of his purpose to prevent the nomination of Mr. Cleveland by the admirable and able management of Mr. Thompson and Mr. Manning, now Secretary of the Treasury. This was his last venture. A victim of insomnia, he vainly sought relief through well known physicians in New York and finally went for advice to Europe, which he visited for the second time. But he was compelled to return and at last, after many years of agony, has succumbed. Mr. Kelly was a man of greater intellectual force and ability than he generally had credit for being. Although an active partisan and bitter to relentlessness he did not permit politics to interfere with his studious habits nor prevent him from delivering several courses of lectures for charitable purposes, which were signally successful. He was an excellent French scholar,

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 1.—Judge Van Wagone, at the adjournment of Criminal Court last evening, stated that he would be ready to read his instructions to the jury trying the Maxwell case at 10 o'clock this morning, but it was one hour after that time before he appeared in court.

THE JUDGE'S CHARGE TO THE JURY. His Instructions Regarding Circumstantial Evidence—Beginning of Argument by Counsel.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 1.—Judge Van Wagone, at the adjournment of Criminal Court last evening, stated that he would be ready to read his instructions to the jury trying the Maxwell case at 10 o'clock this morning, but it was one hour after that time before he appeared in court.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISS.

Cold-Blooded Murder in Benton County—Terrific Mail-Storm.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) HOLLY SPRINGS, MISS., June 1.—Details of a horrible and wild murder near Hickory Flat, in Benton county, have just been received.

BROWNVILLE, TENN.

The Remains of Taylor Bond Brought From Cincinnati for Burial.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) BROWNVILLE, TENN., June 1.—This afternoon's train brought from Cincinnati the body of Mr. H. Taylor Bond, who was killed by a fall through an elevator in that city yesterday.

AMUSEMENTS.

Second Sacred Concert.

The second successful concert was given at St. Joseph's Church last night to a large and appreciative audience.

JACKSON, TENN.

Democratic Delegates Conventions—Instructions for Folks and Caldwell.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) JACKSON, TENN., June 1.—The Democratic Conventions of Madison county were held in this city today, and selected delegates to the Judicial Convention to be held in Nashville on the 9th instant, to nominate candidates for Supreme Judges. Delegates were instructed to vote of the county solid for Folkes and Caldwell.

GRAIN IN SIGHT.

New York June 1.—The following is the visible supply of grain in this country as compared with that of a week ago which will be posted on the New York Produce Exchange to-morrow: Wheat, 34,888,596 bushels; decrease, 2,925,175 bushels; corn, 7,948,851; increase, 104,351; oats, 1,949,850; increase, 395,800; rye, 274,075; decrease, 28,781; barley, 321,227; decrease, 54,607.

ARRIVAL OF 500 BALES OF COTTON FROM THE INTERIOR.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) PINE BLUFF, ARK., June 1.—Five hundred bales of cotton arrived in this city today from the interior.

DEBATE ON THE HOME-RULE BILL.

LONDON, June 1.—Debate on the Home-Rule bill in the House of Commons was resumed this afternoon by Joseph Chamberlain.

spoke that language with fluency and ease, and was fond of special studies which diverted his mind and brought him the only relief he could find from the torments of the disease that sapped his giant-like strength and eventually killed him. But it is as the leader of Tammany he will be best remembered, and in New York City as the unswerving opponent of Tweed, whom, with his pals—Sweeney, Garvey and the rest—he drove out of Tammany, taking possession of it with such men as Augustus Schell, Samuel Tilden and Horatio Seymour. Mr. Kelly was an honest and a sincere man, he never contented, aided or abetted any of the forays made upon the treasury of the city of New York, and he lived up to his convictions, religious and political, as well as to his duty.

He was a man of great energy and force of character, and found in him a friend who always sustained him. But he was not willing to remain a messenger boy with the prospect of becoming a reporter and eventually, perhaps, a journalist, and so he apprenticed himself to a grate-cutter and sash-cutting, and learned a trade at which he continued for some years to earn a good living, helping to support his mother and educate his five other children. When he reached manhood's estate he joined the Montgomery Guard, a then celebrated military company, being at the same time a member of one of the volunteer fire companies of New York. He attained to prominence in both these organizations and by that means found himself called in politics, in the pursuit of which he was felt as a hard and fearless hitter from the first, especially in the days of Know-Nothingism. To those who remember New York at that time, when brutal Bill Poole and such characters were upheld by all of the culture of the great city outside of the Democratic party, the value of a brave spirit will readily be appreciated. It was in some ways, indeed, in most of them outside of the Sixth, as much as a man's life was worth to declare himself a Democrat, and to be a foreigner was to be recondemned and worthy the vilest and most brutal treatment. John Kelly not only led Democrats through and through the wards where the Know-Nothings were strongest, but he was of the guard that protected that Catholic Cathedral from the bigoted and brutalized church burners who were anxious to make a bonfire of the seat and stronghold of Catholicity in America. He stood by the brave Archbishop Hughes, a churchman modeled after St. Paul, as testy and as fearless, and proved himself a good son of a church to the discipline of which he always yielded himself as a little child. But amid all this excitement, an excitement only paralleled by that of the Civil War, he continued to be a student and to fit himself for the leadership to which he attained and which he held up to the time of his death, no one being found willing to take his place during this long series of sickness, to which he succumbed soon after Mr. Cleveland's election. His first service in official life was as a member of the Board of Aldermen, his next as a member of Congress, where he was a coadjutor with Henry A. Wise of Virginia, and Alexander H. Stevens of Georgia in destroying the Know-Nothing party. He took an active part in trying to defeat Banks, the Know-Nothing Whig candidate for Speaker, and in the Charleston Convention was conspicuous in an endeavor to prevent the breach that divided the party, made a way for the Republicans to triumph, and brought on the civil war. This result he largely attributed to whiskey, asserting that not only were drunken men prominent therein, but also in Congress during the two terms he served. Mr. Kelly was a sober man and a consistent member of the church, to whose ordinances he always closely adhered. After he was served as Sheriff and Comptroller, both lucrative positions, and he managed to save a comfortable competence, which enabled him to devote himself to the leadership of Tammany, by which he is better known to the people generally of the Union. At the St. Louis Convention that nominated Tilden he was a conspicuous advocate of that astute statesman, and in the Cincinnati Convention of 1880, managed in spite of much opposition to force the Tammany delegation into seats and secure their recognition as possessing a four-fourth-vote in the delegation. At Chicago, in 1881, he again headed the rebellious Tammany faction, but was defeated of his purpose to prevent the nomination of Mr. Cleveland by the admirable and able management of Mr. Thompson and Mr. Manning, now Secretary of the Treasury. This was his last venture. A victim of insomnia, he vainly sought relief through well known physicians in New York and finally went for advice to Europe, which he visited for the second time. But he was compelled to return and at last, after many years of agony, has succumbed. Mr. Kelly was a man of greater intellectual force and ability than he generally had credit for being. Although an active partisan and bitter to relentlessness he did not permit politics to interfere with his studious habits nor prevent him from delivering several courses of lectures for charitable purposes, which were signally successful. He was an excellent French scholar,

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 1.—Judge Van Wagone, at the adjournment of Criminal Court last evening, stated that he would be ready to read his instructions to the jury trying the Maxwell case at 10 o'clock this morning, but it was one hour after that time before he appeared in court.

THE JUDGE'S CHARGE TO THE JURY. His Instructions Regarding Circumstantial Evidence—Beginning of Argument by Counsel.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 1.—Judge Van Wagone, at the adjournment of Criminal Court last evening, stated that he would be ready to read his instructions to the jury trying the Maxwell case at 10 o'clock this morning, but it was one hour after that time before he appeared in court.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISS.

Cold-Blooded Murder in Benton County—Terrific Mail-Storm.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) HOLLY SPRINGS, MISS., June 1.—Details of a horrible and wild murder near Hickory Flat, in Benton county, have just been received.

BROWNVILLE, TENN.

The Remains of Taylor Bond Brought From Cincinnati for Burial.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) BROWNVILLE, TENN., June 1.—This afternoon's train brought from Cincinnati the body of Mr. H. Taylor Bond, who was killed by a fall through an elevator in that city yesterday.

AMUSEMENTS.

Second Sacred Concert.

The second successful concert was given at St. Joseph's Church last night to a large and appreciative audience.

JACKSON, TENN.

Democratic Delegates Conventions—Instructions for Folks and Caldwell.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) JACKSON, TENN., June 1.—The Democratic Conventions of Madison county were held in this city today, and selected delegates to the Judicial Convention to be held in Nashville on the 9th instant, to nominate candidates for Supreme Judges. Delegates were instructed to vote of the county solid for Folkes and Caldwell.

GRAIN IN SIGHT.

New York June 1.—The following is the visible supply of grain in this country as compared with that of a week ago which will be posted on the New York Produce Exchange to-morrow: Wheat, 34,888,596 bushels; decrease, 2,925,175 bushels; corn, 7,948,851; increase, 104,351; oats, 1,949,850; increase, 395,800; rye, 274,075; decrease, 28,781; barley, 321,227; decrease, 54,607.

ARRIVAL OF 500 BALES OF COTTON FROM THE INTERIOR.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) PINE BLUFF, ARK., June 1.—Five hundred bales of cotton arrived in this city today from the interior.

DEBATE ON THE HOME-RULE BILL.

LONDON, June 1.—Debate on the Home-Rule bill in the House of Commons was resumed this afternoon by Joseph Chamberlain.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER MOST PERFECT MADE The United States Government Places Dr. Price's at the head of the entire list. (See NATIONAL BOARD OF HEALTH BULLETIN—Supplement No. 6, page 33, Washington, D.C.) The Canadian Government Places Dr. Price's at the head of the entire list. (See report to the COMMISSIONER OF INLAND REVENUE, DEPARTMENT, OTTAWA (sent of government, Ottawa, April 21, 1885.) It is the purest and strongest. Free from Ammonia, free from Lime, free from Alum, and is recommended for general family use by the Heads of the Great Universities and Public Food Analysts.

JOHN P. MANN MOWING MACHINES Victor Wagon Scales, Wheel and Drag Scrapers, WHEELBARROWS, LAWN MOWERS, DOOR AND WINDOW SCREENS, DesJardins, Miller & Rootes WHOLESALE HARDWARE. 394 MAIN ST., MEMPHIS, TENN. JOHN K. SPEED & CO., GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS SALT, BAGGING AND IRON TIES, 363 FRONT ST., - MEMPHIS, TENN. -AGENTS FOR- Ohio River and Michigan Salt Companies, J. Painter and Sons Pittsburg Arrow Ties, Luffin and Rand Powder Company. BEST BRANDS OF PURE LUTE AND FLAX BAGGINGS

Mercantile Bank of Memphis. Capital, $200,000. Surplus, $25,000. J. H. GODWIN, Pres't. J. M. GOODBAR, Vice-Pres't. C. H. RAINE, Cashier Board of Directors. T. B. TURLEY, J. M. GOODBAR, W. S. BAILEY, J. W. FALLEN, F. M. NELSON, C. B. BISHOP, J. H. SMITH, CHARLES KANEY, J. W. HARRISON, R. A. MURPHY, JOHN ARMISTEAD, C. B. BRYAN. A Depository of the State of Tennessee, Transacts a General Banking Business and gives Special Attention to Collections.

E. SLAGER, TAILOR. MY SPRING AND SUMMER STOCK is now complete, consisting of the latest and choicest designs in all the Novelties introduced in foreign markets. My selections are made with great care as to merit and quality, in order to offer to the public the latest fashionable goods at reasonable prices. I wish to make special mention of my assortment of Hosiery, which are now ready for the inspection of my friends and the public, at my old stand, Cor. Second and Jefferson Sts.

LEMMON & GALE Wholesale Dry Goods, Notions, Hosiery and GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS, Nos. 326 and 328 Main St., Memphis, Tenn. WE ARE IN DAILY RECEIPT OF DESIRABLE SPRING AND SUMMER GOODS, which we offer to the Trade upon the most favorable terms. Our prices will compare favorably with those of any market in the United States. We are Agents for Tennessee Manufacturing Co.'s Plaids, Drills, Sheetings, Shirtings, Etc. LEMMON & GALE.

O.K. HUCK & Co. No. 389 Main Street, Memphis. Pianos and Organs AT LOWEST PRICES FOR CASH OR TIME. Sheet Music and Books. New Pianos for Rent

J. R. GODWIN & CO. Cotton Factors And Commission Merchants, Nos. 34 and 36 Madison Street, Memphis.