

MEMPHIS APPEAL

ESTABLISHED 1840.

MEMPHIS, TENN., TUESDAY, AUGUST 31, 1886.

VOL. XLVI--NO. 206

THE BASE SLANDER

UTTERED AGAINST THE HON. J. B. MORGAN, OF MISS.

The Alleged Report of His Recent Speech at Byhalia Vigorously Denounced.

The following card, addressed to the Appeal, is cheerfully given space in the Appeal, out of simple justice to the Hon. J. B. Morgan, who has been made the subject of an infamous and unwarranted attack:

Judge Morgan's Card.

EDITOR AVANCE:—Your correspondent "Marcellus," in giving, from the Republican standpoint, an account of my speech delivered at Byhalia on Monday evening last, uses the following language: "The speaker used the party lash vigorously and alluded in strong and forcible terms to the means to be used in downing the negro voters; that he had found the six shooter the most effective means of driving the negro voters from the polls where they refused to vote as directed, and believed that it would now prove as effective as in bygone days. In this the Judge failed to secure a hearty endorsement from the majority of people of Byhalia and vicinity, although some of the leading Christians of the community gave it hearty endorsement. The most good men think ballot box stuffing is a just and proper means of securing the approval of the negro voter and disturb the peace and quietude which now reigns throughout the district. It is to be hoped that the Judge will not incite the people to any such means of carrying the election, but let milder and more effective means be continued, if need be. We say stuff every box in the district rather than have riot in the whole State."

I desire to say to your readers that this entire statement, with regard to the "means to be used in downing the negro," is a deliberate falsehood in the who's and in all parts, in its words and in the ideas intended to be conveyed. It is the machination of a vicious brain, whose wish was father to the thought. I never even so much as alluded to the means of downing the negro voters. I did not state that I had found the six shooter the most effective means of driving the negro voters from the polls when they refused to vote as directed, and believed that it would now prove as effective as in bygone days. I did not give utterance to such words at Byhalia, but never entertained such views in all the days of my life. Nor did I utter at Byhalia any words from which any honest man could draw such conclusions as your correspondent represented to your readers. It will be observed that the wickedness and sinfulness of the disposition of this "Marcellus" does not stop at the invention of this falsehood for political effect, but it goes farther and gives to it the character of an endorsement of "some of the leading Christians of this community."

The entire report of the outlines of my speech as presented by him, receives its coloring from his own disordered mind and wishes, and is scarcely correct in a single particular. As you have given publicity to this, I respectfully ask that you publish the account given from a Democratic standpoint; herewith enclosed.

J. B. MORGAN, Memphis, Tenn., August 31, 1886.

THE "JOURNAL'S" REPORT. On Monday night, according to previous announcement in the Journal, Judge Morgan addressed his fellow citizens at this place.

It was feared by some that the audience would be small, as the people from the country would not be apt to come in at night, but all were agreeably surprised when night approached to see the old Democratic veterans flocking to town to hear the Democrat's standard bearer upon the campaign in old Marshall.

The hall was soon well filled, and a dispatch in the meantime being received by the editor of this paper announcing that a special train was en route from Holly Springs, laden with Democrats from that place.

Judge Morgan (who had arrived earlier on the Memphis train) made his appearance and had spoken but a few moments when the whistle of the locomotive announced the arrival of the "special" from Holly Springs. Soon the old Democratic shout, mingled with the music of the Holly Springs brass band, was heard, and Judge Morgan suspended until our Holly Springs Democratic brethren could be seated. The addition of the new arrivals filled the hall to overflowing and many had to remain outside.

Our gallant standard bearer then resumed his speech, and for nearly two hours held the attention of the large audience. After a few minutes frequently interrupted the speaker. Judge Morgan referred to the grand and heroic struggles of the Democratic party to regain possession of the government which had been so successfully administered for fifty years under its control; he spoke of the frauds that had been perpetrated by the Republican party and depicted in glowing colors the grand triumph which resulted in the election of Grover Cleveland.

He referred to the good work of the Democrats in Congress, which had resulted in the restoration and process of restoration of more than one hundred millions of acres of public lands, which had been given away to railroads and corporations by the Republican party; to the silver question; to the tariff; the labor question and all the great political issues of the day, and he showed clearly that the Democratic party had faithfully carried out every pledge made to the people and had maintained its principles as set forth in its platform.

He then asks: "Where is the Democrat who has witnessed the grand triumphal march of this great party, who now in the day of its glory and success will desert the standard that so proudly floats over the entire length and breadth of this land, and unite with its enemies to overthrow and undo the great work accomplished?"

The speaker then turned his attention to Chalmers, and the exhortation which he gave the "little brigadier" was scathing and elicited shout after shout of applause.

He gave the reasons why he did not engage in a joint discussion with a man that represented no party, but who was simply running upon his own hook and who only desired recognition by the Democratic party to make his own candidacy respectable. He showed from letters received from seven of the nine members of the District Executive Committee that they would not countenance a joint discussion with a

GIRLS ENTICED FROM THEIR HOMES IN

Chicago by the Proprietor of a Nashville Variety Show—Saved by the Police.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) NASHVILLE, TENN., August 30.—In the office of the Chief of Police this morning were seated two comely young ladies crying as if their hearts would break. Being questioned, they said their names were Louise Teller and Georgia Maheer; that they arrived in the city last night from Chicago, and that they wanted to return home. They said they had been induced to leave comfortable homes and come to the city by a man who gave his name as Charles Redmond, manager of the Park Theater. The girls said that some time ago they voluntarily answered an advertisement of a want agency office for two girls to go 300 miles in the country to do housework. Upon going to the office of the agency they were introduced to Redmond, who told them he was the manager of a first class theater in Nashville and wanted them to work at that place. The place, he said, was respectable, and not one of the low dives commonly called theaters. He offered them $10 a week, and promised light easy work. Neither of the girls possessed dramatic talent, but this was no objection to their employment, as he wanted them to do other work than act on the stage. The girls accepted the proposition and arrived here last night in company with two other girls from the same city. Misses Teller and Maheer said they didn't much like the actions of their companions while on the road, but suspected nothing wrong until on their arrival they were taken to a saloon on Cedar street and invited to eat supper. This the girls refused to do, but their companions partook of their meal. After supper they were taken to a room where they were told that this was the place at which they were wanted to work. They said they were told they could drink if they wished, and that on every bottle of beer or ale sold by them they would receive a commission of 5 cents and would be allowed 25 cents for each bottle of wine sold. They were also informed that for the present a salary of $6 a week would be paid. The girls were then taken to a boarding house on Summer street and put in a room with the other two females from Chicago. Misses Teller and Maheer began to cry, recognizing that they had been enticed from home under false representations. This seemed to anger their room mates, who swore at them all night. Early this morning the girls left the room and went out into the street. They saw the cathedral, and at once decided to go to the priest for advice. He instructed them to go to the Mayor. A policeman accompanied them to the Mayor's house, where they appealed to Capt. Kerrigan for protection. He promised to see that they were sent back home. Capt. Kerrigan at once sent for Redmond, and when he and Pat Hanigan walked into the office the young ladies identified the latter as the man who accompanied them from Chicago and who said his name was Redmond. Capt. Kerrigan requested Redmond to pay for the passage of the girls back to Chicago; but this he refused to do, and said he would have nothing more to do with the matter. Capt. Kerrigan secured passage for the young ladies and sent them home tonight.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) HOLLY SPRINGS, MISS., August 30.—Yesterday evening (Sunday) at about 5 o'clock Mr. H. B. Scott, Marshal of Decatur, Ala., with a requisition from that State, arrested near the postoffice door a man named George Sife, who was wanted by the officers of the law for a bad crime committed in May last. That of incest, his own daughter being the victim. He was taken in charge by Mr. Scott and left this morning for Decatur, handcuffed. When his daughter acknowledged the perpetration of the crime Sife skipped for parts unknown and nothing more was heard of him until recently, when it was ascertained that he had gone to Memphis, thence to Byhalia, and finally to this place, where he obtained work on the extension line of the Memphis, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad. He had sent a money order to his daughter, who had gone to Ohio. Mr. Scott, who had been here for a day or two, having followed him up since May, waited for a rest of letter, and it was on Sunday that Sife was identified by Postmaster Finley as the person who sent the money order, and Scott immediately arrested the man. What will be done with him at Decatur is not known.

(SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL.) FIVE MILES OF TRACK has been laid from this point east on the Memphis, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, and work is progressing rapidly.

A number of burglaries were committed yesterday night. Mr. Joe Butt shot at one prowler and it is supposed hit him.

Good rains and delightful weather. Mr. Sue Good, wife of John J. Good and sister of Logan Walker, died at her home, near Waterloo, this county, Thursday night, 26th instant, aged 37 years, leaving a husband and five children.

LEXINGTON'S perfume, Edenia Lundborg's perfume, Alpine Violet. Lundborg's perfume, Lily of the Valley. Lundborg's perfume, Marchal Nile Rose.

FRAUDS IN BROOKLYN. New York, August 30.—Supervisors Larkin, Carroll and Gallagher of the Brooklyn Board of Supervisors, were served today with warrants directing them to appear before Police Justice Walsh to answer a charge of conspiracy to defraud the people of Kings county. Granville F. Williams, late the plumb-er of the Brooklyn courthouse is the complainant. His affidavit furnished ground on which a warrant was issued. The Justice said the affidavit was strong enough to warrant him in holding the defendants for the grand jury. The defendants hearing of the complaint went to the Police Court and were permitted to go upon their own recognizance.

DEFECT IN THE MISSOURI MILITIA LAW. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., August 30.—State Adjutant General Jameson has issued an order directing that no more militia companies be formed at present. This is in consequence of Judge Rogers' recent ruling at Kansas City that the State militia officers cannot enforce discipline under the existing law. Steps will be taken for a revision of the statute by the next Legislature.
