THE PROBLEM SOLVED.

NO DIFFICULTY IN THE WAY OF PURE WATER.

The Hyatt Filter a Complete Success—Bonds Can Be Easily Placed.

An APPEAL man who strolled into Gen. Co. Green's office yesterday found him with one hand resting upon the smooth side of a big glass jar of sparkling water, while with the index finger of the other he pointed to a similar jar filled with the original V.O. He was saying something about the two jars, and the one with the Hyatt Filter being better than the other. The APPEAL man moved up within earshot and the discussion was at once brought to a close.

"Not ready to go into print, eh?" "Not yet," replied the general. "I can give you a column of interesting reading, but the study upon which I am engaged is too exact a science for casual consideration. Anything except a formal, carefully prepared report, must necessarily be inaccurate and misleading."

"As you are so much interested in the subject, I will wait until I get the final report of the engineers and chemists who are now at work. The final report, I can give you a column of interesting reading, but the study upon which I am engaged is too exact a science for casual consideration. Anything except a formal, carefully prepared report, must necessarily be inaccurate and misleading."

"I do not. All of my calculations have been made on that basis—$10,000 per annum income. It would not be wise to reduce the cost until the expiration of five years, but after that the rate could be cut down 20 per cent, and advantage of an ample supply of pure and wholesome water. However, I am not ready to put myself on paper in that regard yet awhile."

"Naturally you took tea with a few gentlemen who were away from the city," laughed the engineer, "I met several gentlemen who have money to invest. Among them, I had a talk with H. C. Garth, who formerly lived here, and knows Memphis and her needs as well as anyone. He said there would not be the slightest difficulty in placing the bonds at 5 per cent. I promised the engineer, who is accustomed to such things, was of the same opinion, and indeed, one trust company made overtures to me. Oh, no," he concluded, "there would be no difficulty about that."

SCHOOL BOARD.

The Board of Education met yesterday. The Superintendent submitted the following report: In accordance with your direction the city public schools were opened September 27th, and are now in good running order. Today there are 3500 pupils enrolled; 185 of them are in the senior department of the Manual Street double. This number is nearly double the average number in the same department last session. The following shows the number to each building: Smith School, 575; Leath School, 420; Peabody School, 625; Porter School, 19; Marshall School, 237; J. H. Brown School, 239; Pope School, 182. Total number white pupils, 2214. Kortsch School, 516; Grant School, 245; Moore School, 242; Broadway School, 81; Winchester School, 158. Total number colored pupils, 1345.

S. S. Brown has twenty-six in all, among them Mona, O'Fallon, Lizzy Crepp, a number of crack two year olds and the famous Trabouador, who recently dived Miss Woodford and has been leading them all this spring and summer.

CRUSHED TO ATOM.
REMARKABLE SUICIDE NEAR OLIVE BRANCH, MISS.
A. J. Cartwright Throws Himself Under the Wheels of a Freight Train.

At 2 o'clock Sunday evening A. J. Cartwright was run over and killed by a freight train about two miles south of Olive Branch, Miss., on the Memphis, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad. All of the circumstances of the case point to the belief that it was a case of deliberate suicide. It is asserted that he had left the house, which he had been keeping a tearing house at Raleigh Springs, running a hack to the National Cemetery. His wife left him during his absence from home of long ago, coming to Memphis to live, and after trying it alone while he braked up, taking his money and hack and a few hundred in money and going to live with Capt. B. L. Stewart, his first wife's father, who resides near Kelly, Miss. He had been in great mental distress Saturday night about 10 o'clock. It was discovered that he had left the house, which is half a mile from the railroad. The family felt some anxiety, and a search was instituted that night and continued a greater part of the day yesterday. In the afternoon his remains were found on the railroad some six miles south from the house of Capt. Stewart. The unfortunate man had taken off his coat, vest and hat, placed them aside, and when the north bound freight came along threw himself under the wheels. It was long a train and when it reached Olive Branch a shirt coat, some blood and a piece of skull were found on the ways at the head of the locomotive car. The man's head was found in a box not more than two feet square. Letters were found in the room of the deceased at Capt. Stewart's in which he clearly indicated his intention to commit suicide. He had stated three days before that he had to further see or to be with his wife, who he would give them his half in law. In his letters he said: "I give to Lulu $250 that is in my trunk." Lulu is the only child by his first marriage. She is about thirty years old and is going to school in Fayette county and living with her mother, Mrs. Cartwright, who is a widow and has the same letter, which referred to various business matters, gave two lots and other property to his late wife, Mrs. Ethel Cartwright, and to her two children, living on the Harland road, near the curve. In some of the letters, which were found, he indicated to one letter, he banded his name in law for the trouble between himself and wife. I stated by these who knew him well that Mr. Cartwright was an honorable, upright gentleman, and was not addicted to any of the excesses which sometimes lead men to the commission of such a desperate deed. He had been very prosperous, but had in a great measure fell short of early promise. He was rather a religious crank, and at a late period began to think that he had been called to preach. In this idea he failed to receive the cooperation or authority of the churches, a thought he was sometimes permitted to express. That he was partially demented by financial trouble none who knew him well seem to doubt.

Why They Suffer.
Because they will not adopt proper remedies. The martyrs to dyspepsia grow on from day to day and week to week. They grow pale, sallow, and then suffer indescribable torture. All this can be avoided. Chew Koko Tula. It never fails to bring relief.

A PRETTY DEPUTY.
Likely to Be Added to the Sheriff's Force.
A whisper reached the boys at the Sheriff's office yesterday that Sheriff Cannon had decided to make an innovation. It was a mere breath, but it had all the force and effect of a cyclone. The commotion was caused by the announcement that in all probability Chief Deputy McLendon would have a lady, and a young, dashing and pretty one, to assist him in his book-keeping the next week. That the appointment had been tendered the young lady, the daughter of one of the most eminent and effective workers in the party, there seemed to be no doubt, but a positive acceptance had not been made. The girl, the bride state as a recital fact, however, that the young lady will enter upon her duties in the next few days. There are several very delicate questions involved. The lady cannot, under the law, be employed with the powers of the Sheriff, and it is very probable, as she has a great many friends, and considerable taste, that she would insist upon a certain act, and fit in the official robes known better to Godly's Lady's Book than to the states of Tennessee. She has plenty of pluck, however, and may insist upon her rights to a full deputyship in the power of the law, and carry a revolver. If she does not.
