CRIMES AND CASUALTIES.

CONGRESSMAN GLOVER ASSAULTED BY "A BAD MAN."

Whom He Resists With All His Might--A Brutal Fight Between Sturdy Black Males.

St. Louis, Mo., November 14.--Hon. John M. Glover, the Congressional representative from the Ninth Missouri District, started for Washington last night with a black eye. Early in the evening he met John B. Waters, watchman at the Savage Corps House, and they engaged in a wordy wrangle over a suit which had been tried in the afternoon, and in which Mrs. Ferris, the watchman's stepmother, was the plaintiff, and a client of the Congressman the defendant. Mr. Waters demanded from Mr. Glover the reason for his having spoken so disrespectfully of Mrs. Ferris during the trial. The Congressman replied that he was only defending his client. But this did not satisfy the watchman, and after an exchange of hot words, the men came to blows and pounded each other until a policeman passed under arrest. They were taken to the Police Station and charged with disturbing the peace, but were released after giving bond. Waters is a wreck of a man, having lost one arm and almost the use of one leg from the effects of injuries received some time ago, but is exceedingly engaged in punishing severely his honorable antagonist.

A Brutal Prison Fight.

St. Joseph, Mo., November 15.--James Cassidy, a Chicago blacksmith, and Joseph Wallis, a miner of Joplin, Mo., fought seven bloody rounds with bare fists, on a sandbar in the middle of the Missouri river early this morning. A purse of $250 was the stake. About 2000 changed hands on the result. In the fourth round Cassidy stretched Wallis senseless upon the sand. He lay motionless for seven seconds, and Cassidy's backers were claiming the fight. Suddenly, Wallis jumped to his feet and gave Cassidy a crushing blow full in the face, following with a terrific body blow. Cassidy fought gamely, but he was dazed, and at the end of the seventh round, blinded with blood, he succumbed to his opponent.

A Murderer Lynched.

HARRISON, ARK., November 14.--Andrew J. Mullan, alias James Pate, the murderer of James N. Hamilton, was taken from the jail here by a mob last night and shot to death. Mullan was brought here from Macon county where he committed the crime, for safekeeping. Last night about 12 o'clock, a number of mounted men appeared near the jail, reconnoitered for a time and then rode away. About an hour later about thirty heavily armed and well mounted men made an attack upon the jail, captured the guards and jailer, the latter of whom they refused to open the doors. This he refused to do, but the keys were taken from him and the prisoner was dragged forth. A rope was placed around his neck and he was literally dragged after a galloping horse for the distance of four blocks, where the end of the rope was thrown over the limb of a tree, and as the murderer was drawn up into the air, his body was riddled with bullets. The mounted mob then rode away, leaving accomplished their object. Mullan was an employe of Hamilton, who owned a farm in Macon county, and shot his employer without cause on the night of the 23d of October.

A Top Swaps His Wife, Giving $1 to Boot.

New York, November 15.--A Clunian, N. C., special says a white man named Moore was sent to the chain gang Saturday for having traded wives with another man. When Judge Gilmer asked him what he had to say why sentence should not be passed, he replied that he did not know that his act was a crime. A man came to his house with a woman who was better looking than his own wife and bantered him for a trade, so he swapped and paid $150 to boot. As this was his "first swap" he hoped the Court would impose a light sentence. The other man who was a party to the trade has not been apprehended, as he lives some miles in the country, and the officers have been unable to catch him.

A Fish Pond Robbed.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., November 15.--A special to the Evening Wisconsin from Columbus, says the fish pond of Chris Kaise, near that place, was robbed of 3000 brook trout, valued at $1000, on Saturday night. No clew to the robber.

NORFOLK, VA., November 15.--A verdict of acquittal was rendered today in the case of John B. Whitehead for misapplying funds of the Exchange National Bank, of which he was president at the time of its failure.

A Resting Prisoner Shot.

HAMILTON, O., November 14.--John Ryan, a policeman, shot and killed William Long, a thief, last night. Long was under arrest and broke away and ran. Refusing to halt at the officer's command, Ryan fired and the bullet took effect in Long's back.

He Succeeded.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., November 14.--Edward M. Ford, a telegraph operator lately in the employ of the Western Union Telegraph Company, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself in the head with a pistol while laboring under temporary insanity. He came here from Colorado.

A Distillery Burned.

PROBIA, ILL., November 15.--The bonded warehouses at the Manhattan Distillery burned early this morning; cause unknown. The rectifying tower and cattle sheds were saved. The loss is not estimated as yet, but is fully insured. There were 140 barrels of whisky and about ninety of alcohol, and the buildings were worth about $5000. Probably $25,000 will cover the loss. The house will be rebuilt at once.

Congressman Price Very Ill.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., November 15.--Advice from Black River Falls, Wis., at 12 o'clock today states that Congressman Wm. T. Price is very low, and that his physicians despair of his recovery. He is said to be suffering from cancer of the stomach.

A Young Woman Stricken With Hydrophobia.

CHICAGO, ILL., November 14.--Daisy Erick, a young girl 16 years of age, residing with W. H. Daniels at the corner of Fifth avenue and LaSalle street, died today after twenty-four hours' delirium in all the horrors of hydrophobia. She was bitten twenty-seven days ago by a Newfoundland dog, but was supposed to have fully recovered from the effects. Last evening she went into a continuous series of spasms and developed a fearful thirst,

THE FILIBUSTERS

RECRUITING TROOPS IN DALLAS, TEX.

What They Propose to Accomplish in Mexico--A Very Wild and Visionary Scheme.

New York, November 15.--A Dallas (Tex.) special says: Two men have been here for five days organizing an agency in the interest of the filibuster expedition into Mexico. Yesterday morning they started for St. Louis, leaving a man here of extensive border experience to continue their work. There are now enrolled in Dallas twenty or thirty trusted men ready for a raid the moment the summons is received, and the number will be swelled to at least 100. Five times that number could be obtained, but the greatest caution is observed in selecting men, and none but the most trusted are accepted. In this way the promoters and leaders expect to prevent betrayal. Your correspondent Saturday night had an interview with the emissary regarding the belittlement by the press of the daring scheme on foot and the part the United States Government is liable to play, and the apparent oversight on this point by the filibusters. The emissary said: "It has the least of our friends. The United States will have very little to do with the movement. The government has no authority to do more than to check it on its own territory. It can do nothing whatever with the filibusters after they are once in Mexico, and we shall take mighty good care not to let the United States authorities know of our movements, or when and where we will make them. When we get ready to cross the border we will find plenty of natives with good leaders ready to meet us. We are not going into an annexation, but into a filibuster scheme. The object is to establish a new Republic, the Rio Grande Socialist Confederation, to be composed of the Northwest Mexican States of Chihuahua, Durango and Sonora, and the capital, as at present intended, at Chihuahua City. It has the richest communication with the outside world and is the largest, richest and most important town in that section. We do not want the Northeastern States--Tampulipas, Nuevo Leon and Coahuila--nor that great and fertile section of the peninsula, Lower California. We will confine our work to the most desirable field, and not have an unwieldy area of territory to work over. We could not have the least prospect of success should we attempt to revolutionize all of North Mexico at once. When the United States comes, if the United States takes any hand in the affair we count upon that action being favorable to the new Republic instead of against it, for the reason that when the Mexican Federal Government finds itself confronted with the extensive revolution that is certainly impending, and which it is not able to suppress, her heaviest creditor, England, who is interested financially to the extent of $100,000,000 in Mexican bonds, will step in to protect that interest, and in order to protect it will doubtless agree to restore order by force of arms, and the establishment of some kind of a foreign protectorate or provisional government over Mexico. Then the United States will be forced to put in to secure practice the long asserted and maintained policy of restoring order by means (European) interference with the affairs of any of the Republics on the American continent. When the time for outside interference comes the Rio Grande Socialist Confederation will have attained such powerful and respectable proportions that the United States will recognize its legitimate rights and the new Republic will not be long in solving its own destiny. The lower class of Mexicans, known as peons, will be with us from the outset, as we propose elevating their condition from one of ignorance and poverty to one of intelligence, property owning and advancement in education. One of our strongest ideas is to have a thorough system of public schools and make education in the English language compulsory. The idea of establishing a new Republic beyond the Rio Grande is not a new one. It is only a revival of the oldest hopes and ambitions of Aaron Burr, with the line simply extended further when he came to Texas to create a great Republic that should extend far beyond the present limits of the State. He never dreamed of stopping at the Rio Grande, and died strong in the belief that annexation to the United States alone prevented him from realizing his life time the establishment of his fondest hopes, ambitions and dreams. The new movement is in strict harmony with the old one, and is a revival of the old one, and is a personal friend of Henry George, for whom he has the strongest admiration and affection and whose doctrines he unequivocally indorses. He and his associates will remain in St. Louis a week or so and then go to New York and other Eastern cities.

Veracruz Bronchitis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., November 15.--Dr. Salmon, of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture, who has been investigating the alleged pleuro-pneumonia in Gilman and surrounding counties, says the disease is not pleuro-pneumonia but verucular bronchitis, and is caused by the animals eating certain species of worm found in vegetation in that country. The disease is not contagious.

Impanelling a Jury for "Boodie" McQuade.

New York, November 15.--Ex-Alderman J. McQuade, of the "Boodie" board of 1884, was arraigned for trial this morning in Part I of the Court of General Sessions. There was an immense crowd in the courtroom and about the building long before the arrival of Recorder Smyth. McQuade was early in the building, and a few minutes later he entered the courtroom with Lawyer Newcomb and seated himself at a table in front of the bar. McQuade was perfectly calm and nodded to his friends with a smile on his face. Recorder Smyth entered a few minutes after 11 o'clock. District Attorney Martine, with his assistants, Nicol, Fitzgerald and Col. Fellows, followed a few minutes later. Police Inspector Byrnes came in and, calling Lawyer Newcomb aside, commenced to talk with him in a earnest manner. The work of securing a jury was then commenced.

The Levee Gives Way.

PLAQUEMINE, LA., November 15.--About 3 o'clock this morning over 200 feet of the river bank, including Levee street, caved into the river. Several buildings were destroyed. This is the fifth cavity which has taken place in the river front this season. This last cavity has approached so near the new levee which was being built by the citizens as to render its completion useless. It is now thought that this river cavity and below will continue to widen and extend until the whole business front of the river will be engulfed.

Burned, Beaten and Robbed.

St. Louis, Mo., November 15.--A special from Clarence, Mo., says: Last night about 11 o'clock a stranger named George Doby came dragging himself slowly and painfully into the city. He was fearfully burned, and presented a frightful appearance. As he was walking along the railroad track, two miles east of this place, he was attacked by two unknown men, who, after relieving him of $5, all the money he had, beat him in a brutal manner until he was insensible, and then set fire to his clothing. The flames burned into his fish, restoring consciousness, and by rolling on the ground and tearing at his garments with his naked hands he finally succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but not until he had received frightful and probably fatal burns. He is now under the care of physicians here.

A Crooked Postal Clerk.

CHICAGO, ILL., November 15.--Geo. Colter, a newly appointed postal clerk, operating on the St. Paul Limited train, between Minneapolis and Chicago, was arrested this morning by Inspectors Doubleday and Smith, charged with rifling the mails. Extensive thefts of valuable letters, principally the directed to M. A. Danneberg of the Louisiana Lottery Company, had taken place of late, and a watch was set and decoys sent. On November 31, twenty letters were found by the side of the track near Milwaukee, all directed to Dauphin. The currency and available money contents were abstracted and the stores and post office money orders mutilated. On his person was found $9 in cash and the decoy letters mailed to go on his train. Colter was recommended by the Hon. P. H. Kelly of St. Paul, and has been a month in the service, replacing a discharged Republican.

Mexicans Kill an American.

CHICAGO, ILL., November 15.--A special from Peoria, Ill., says: At Antelope last night three Mexicans rode up to the store of C. S. Stanton, one of whom entered the store and opened fire on Stanton and another man named Kelly. The third Mexican fired through the window. Stanton was instantly killed. Kelly returned the fire, killing one Mexican. The other two, seeing their companion fall, hurriedly fled. Stanton was implicated in the Farney Martin massacre, a few months ago, and bore an unenviable reputation.

A Spanish Diplomat Blackmailed.

New York, November 15.--Vincent Mestre, a member of the Spanish Legation, was arraigned at the Jefferson Market Court, charged with robbing Jeanne de Maynard, an opera singer, of 1200 francs. Mestre told Mlle. Maynard in Rio Janeiro, and came with her to New York on the same steamer. He offered her 500 francs. Mestre claims that she gave her money to him for safekeeping, and accuses the woman of blackmail.

An Inmate Old Man.

PITTSBURGH, November 15.--Thomas Freeman, the old man who mysteriously disappeared in this city about two weeks since, while en route to his home in Paris, Ill., called at the Mayor's office last night and was taken in charge by the authorities. He was found wandering aimlessly around the streets ten days ago, and was sent to jail as a vagrant. The authorities will send him home today.

A War Between the Friends of Two Riv. Merchants.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., November 15.--The war in Perry county, Kentucky, between the French and Everole factions has broken out afresh. Almost every citizen of the county has taken sides with one or the other of these mountain merchant princes, as they are called. Both factions seem to have come to the conclusion that there can be no settlement except by extermination. Both factions are armed, and the hot spot will bring about a general war. The feud has been French and Everole's dat a back several years. They are rivals in business, and control the entire trade of several mountain counties. The report that both were killed some time ago was not true.

"Boodie" McQuade Gives Bond.
