A stupid or willful compositor, holding a case only temporarily on THE APPEAL, substituted the words "Jefferson Davis" for "Thomas Jefferson" in yesterday's ac-count of the Democratic banquet at the Peabody Hotel, making a most absurd error which the proof-reader overlooked in the rush of closing up. May Again Take Hold.

In addition to the registration and election bills, they took up and passed the Senate bill amending the general incorporation law passed in 1875.

This is known here as the Exposition bill, since it went up from here and had its origin in a determination to hold at Memphis a grand exposition for the Mississippi Valley, and the whole world, if it can be induced to co-operate. With the amendments most of THE APPEAL's readers are familiar. They authorize very material changes in the organic construction of such corporations, enabling them to be operated for profit. To this end they year, is the prime, and only cause of its failure. Now that the insurmountable obstacle is removed, a meeting of those previously appointed to formulate plans and specifications for the organization, and all interested, will no doubt be held at any

Since the meetings last year with this organization in view, another and power-ful agency has been enlisted, viz the Farmers' Exchange. While the body is not really organized as yet, there is no doubt of its existence at an early date, with lofty aims for its purpose. At a meeting of farmers living near the city, held on the 23d ult. in the law office of Mr. Frayser T. Edmondson, the projected exposition was referred to and met with hearty indorsement from every one present, and received the promises of their heartiest encouragement and support. Thus almost every interest is assured for co-operation in the enterprise, and this whole section of country can easily be drawn into active assistance if the plan for its conduct pro-posed by Mr. Thomas J. Graham, and carnestly indersed by Mr. Edmondson and other public spirited, intelligent citizens is allowed to prevail. The name previously agreed upon was "The Agri-cultural and Mechanical Exposition at Memphia." To this might also be added "art," for a laviah display in this line is contemplated and certain, if the enterprise materializes at all. Mr. Graham further proposes that Governors of all the States be urged to apcommissioners to the exposi ion, and arrange to have their States represented among the exhibits, this invita-tion to be extended, also, to counties. As a further eard to give the exposition National recognition, he suggests an immigration bureau feature, in the development of which liberality and intelligent enterprise be exercised to the greatest reasonable extent. Of course an institution of such magnitude cannot be established and put in operation in a few formerly religious at all, so far as anyl months. No one wants, or desires, a concern that can only go up in smoke, making a feeble noise for only a brief seathe whole South, and the country at large, requires patient and thorough work, all along the line, necessitating appropriations by Legislatures of other states which must be enlisted, and all this takes a great
