

FORTY-THIRD YEAR.

MURDER IN FASHION.

A Wave of Bloodshed Sweeping With a Resistless Rush Over England.

THE POLICE POWERLESS.

An Epidemic of Burglary Also Worring the Detectives.

MATTERS AND MEN IN EUROPE.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

Lord Sackville's Explanation Printed—It Falls Very Flat—The Tories Excuse Because the Parcell Fund in America is Growing Less—Edward Harrington Subjected to the Indignity of Having His Name Mentioned in Connection With the Question of His Daughter's Marriage in Business as Publishers of an Aristocratic Magazine—Steamer Stewards' Fees Decried as Too Exorbitant.

Murder is the fashionable thing just now in England. The success of the Whitechapel fiend in eluding detection has spurred many imitators on to emulate his awful crimes. As the police and detectives seem unable to obtain any clue to the perpetrator, it is suggested that young Britons be trained to tell the truth, so that when they do murder they may go straightway and tell of it. Tories are exciting because the Parcell fund in America is growing smaller. Sackville's defense admittedly weak. The Belgian Queen and her daughter go into business as publishers of a magazine.

SACKVILLE'S DEFENSE.

He Patently Says He Thought He Was Doing What He's Right to Do—His Government Not Censuring Him—Generally Written An Ass.

LONDON, January 12.—A parliamentary paper is issued to-day, publishing as much as is thought advisable of the correspondence relating to the Sackville matter. The interesting fact is that Sackville, doubtless because of his respectable relations, isn't in the least censured by his Government—a fact which makes little difference, since his country so unanimously pronounced him an ass. In his letter, Sackville defends himself in a weak kind of way, as having thought his letter private and as having done what he had a right to do. He also accused Mr. Bayard of unfairness, and declares that he did not attempt to say with the effect of his letter, through the channel which gave it publication, namely, the press, as he knew that that newspaper reporters said would only get him into disagreeable and unnecessary length upon the Irish vote and the struggle for its possession, and practically accusing Mr. Bayard of lying and Salisbury on the ground that he had to do so to keep the Irishmen from abandoning him, and so forth.

There is not much interesting taken at Harbinger on the prohibition question. There appears to be a movement on foot among the liquor dealers of the State to insist that if prohibition becomes a law they shall be reimbursed by the State for the damage to their property and business. It is believed that the prohibition amendment will be submitted to the people with that understanding.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] HARRISBURG, January 12.—Prohibition is not an exciting topic in the halls of the Capitol of the Commonwealth. The constitutional amendment is hardly discussed by the legislators, and obtains more prominence in the judicious hands of the correspondents than in the mouths of the Pennsylvania lawmakers.

It is a foregone conclusion that the present Legislature will send the amendment to the sovereign people in the same form as the last Legislature left it. The Republican party is pledged to this course, and the public leaders do not need to use a glass of any description to find their majority when it is wanted. Consequently liquor dealers, distillers and brewers who have money to spend to fight prohibition will make no mistake in saving it to use later on where it will do the most good.

The Republican members of the Legislature are by no means a unit in their advocacy of prohibition, but the general feeling among them is that they are in honor bound to accept the amendment. Members are of opinion on the subject, and it is with the voters the liquor people must begin. The missionary work will probably begin immediately on the report of the committee on the amendment to the House for action, and the time will take will probably be a demand for compensation for the property destroyed, should the people make a measure a part of the State's organic law.

It is not thought the Legislature is any more likely to pass the amendment than the voters will be, the previous one, but the voters will be given to understand that such compensation is demanded and expected in the event of the passage of the amendment. It is expected that the duty of passing the laws necessary to make it effective will also be required to appropriate money to make good the losses of the liquor men.

Such is the drift of the talk as drawn out by pointed questions put to some of the old members, not to whom respect is paid directly on the report of the committee on the subject, but to those whose principal authority is thought by many of them to be in the line of clipping what the Brooks high lichen led of the wings of the Prohibition party in the Keystone State.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] HARRISBURG, January 12.—The old soldier has already been made to understand that patriotism is by no means dead in the Pennsylvania Legislature, and fresh evidence on the subject will be given him before the session ends.

Captain Billingsley Will See to It That They Are Contented. [FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] HARRISBURG, January 12.—The old soldier has already been made to understand that patriotism is by no means dead in the Pennsylvania Legislature, and fresh evidence on the subject will be given him before the session ends.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] HARRISBURG, January 12.—Representative Kaufman, of Lancaster, seems to have placed an idea before the Legislature that threatens to become popular. Members remaining here to-day expressed the opinion that something should be done to prevent the rushing through of appropriation measures, good, bad and indifferent, at the end of a session on the strength of the simple assertion of the Librarian to amend them to a line to kill them.

A member of the Appropriation Committee expressed himself in favor of some action in the case of the National League, suggesting his principal objection to which is the early date fixed for the election to-day on the subject. He said that the idea of bringing the appropriations more under the control of the House is a good one in the light of history. But if someone else had brought it up it would have given greater pleasure.

KEELY AGAIN IN COURT. The Inventor's Attorney Arranges the Conduct of a Judge. PHILADELPHIA, January 12.—The Supreme Court this afternoon heard argument in the case of Keely v. United States, which was argued by the inventor, Keely, and the attorney, Mr. J. W. Keely, the inventor, was released from the county prison last November, after having been committed by Judge Finletter for alleged contempt of court in not obeying the order to exhibit and explain his motor to experts appointed by the Court at the request of counsel for Bennett C. Wilson, plaintiff in an injunction suit against Keely.

Wayne MacVeagh, the counsel for Keely, in his argument to-day criticized Judge Finletter's judicial conduct in the case with his usual severity, and knew personally of the argument the matter was held under advisement.

AFTER TWENTY-FIVE YEARS. An Ohio Couple With Eight Children to be Married. [SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] AKRON, O., January 12.—A sensational divorce case filed to-day is that of Clara McAlpine against Zebulon McAlpine, the defendant being one of the largest land owners in Meigs county, and the plaintiff a resident of Akron since separation from her husband. Charges of cruelty are numerous.

At the time the defendant, the petitioner, said a butcher knife was about to cut plaintiff's throat. At other times he threatened to strangle her. They were married 25 years, and have eight children.

TOMAKE THEM WHOLE

Liquor Men Insist That the State Shall Reimburse Them IF PROHIBITION IS TO PREVAIL.

A Strong Effort to Continue the Soldiers Orphans' Schools.

A VERY LONG SESSION EXPECTED. Department Employees Would Like the Privileges of the State Library.

There is not much interesting taken at Harbinger on the prohibition question. There appears to be a movement on foot among the liquor dealers of the State to insist that if prohibition becomes a law they shall be reimbursed by the State for the damage to their property and business. It is believed that the prohibition amendment will be submitted to the people with that understanding.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] HARRISBURG, January 12.—Prohibition is not an exciting topic in the halls of the Capitol of the Commonwealth. The constitutional amendment is hardly discussed by the legislators, and obtains more prominence in the judicious hands of the correspondents than in the mouths of the Pennsylvania lawmakers.

It is a foregone conclusion that the present Legislature will send the amendment to the sovereign people in the same form as the last Legislature left it. The Republican party is pledged to this course, and the public leaders do not need to use a glass of any description to find their majority when it is wanted. Consequently liquor dealers, distillers and brewers who have money to spend to fight prohibition will make no mistake in saving it to use later on where it will do the most good.

The Republican members of the Legislature are by no means a unit in their advocacy of prohibition, but the general feeling among them is that they are in honor bound to accept the amendment. Members are of opinion on the subject, and it is with the voters the liquor people must begin. The missionary work will probably begin immediately on the report of the committee on the amendment to the House for action, and the time will take will probably be a demand for compensation for the property destroyed, should the people make a measure a part of the State's organic law.

It is not thought the Legislature is any more likely to pass the amendment than the voters will be, the previous one, but the voters will be given to understand that such compensation is demanded and expected in the event of the passage of the amendment. It is expected that the duty of passing the laws necessary to make it effective will also be required to appropriate money to make good the losses of the liquor men.

Such is the drift of the talk as drawn out by pointed questions put to some of the old members, not to whom respect is paid directly on the report of the committee on the subject, but to those whose principal authority is thought by many of them to be in the line of clipping what the Brooks high lichen led of the wings of the Prohibition party in the Keystone State.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] HARRISBURG, January 12.—The old soldier has already been made to understand that patriotism is by no means dead in the Pennsylvania Legislature, and fresh evidence on the subject will be given him before the session ends.

Captain Billingsley Will See to It That They Are Contented. [FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] HARRISBURG, January 12.—The old soldier has already been made to understand that patriotism is by no means dead in the Pennsylvania Legislature, and fresh evidence on the subject will be given him before the session ends.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] HARRISBURG, January 12.—Representative Kaufman, of Lancaster, seems to have placed an idea before the Legislature that threatens to become popular. Members remaining here to-day expressed the opinion that something should be done to prevent the rushing through of appropriation measures, good, bad and indifferent, at the end of a session on the strength of the simple assertion of the Librarian to amend them to a line to kill them.

A member of the Appropriation Committee expressed himself in favor of some action in the case of the National League, suggesting his principal objection to which is the early date fixed for the election to-day on the subject. He said that the idea of bringing the appropriations more under the control of the House is a good one in the light of history. But if someone else had brought it up it would have given greater pleasure.

KEELY AGAIN IN COURT. The Inventor's Attorney Arranges the Conduct of a Judge. PHILADELPHIA, January 12.—The Supreme Court this afternoon heard argument in the case of Keely v. United States, which was argued by the inventor, Keely, and the attorney, Mr. J. W. Keely, the inventor, was released from the county prison last November, after having been committed by Judge Finletter for alleged contempt of court in not obeying the order to exhibit and explain his motor to experts appointed by the Court at the request of counsel for Bennett C. Wilson, plaintiff in an injunction suit against Keely.

Wayne MacVeagh, the counsel for Keely, in his argument to-day criticized Judge Finletter's judicial conduct in the case with his usual severity, and knew personally of the argument the matter was held under advisement.

WEAVER'S A WINNER.

He Wore Out All Opposition, and Will Do Quietly Permitted TO CALL UP THE OKLAHOMA BILL.

Republicans Confident of an Extra Session Being Called.

A PINK AND WHITE DINNER PARTY. Dulais's Christmas Gift to Veterans Causes Trouble at the Treasury.

General Weaver's obstruction methods have succeeded, and an arrangement has been effected whereby the Oklahoma bill will be called up under a suspension of the rules. There is considerable talk of an extra session, which is confidently predicted. There are a number of claimants for the $14,000,000 Private Dalmat presented to the old soldiers as a Christmas gift.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] WASHINGTON, January 12.—After a siege of ten days, during which the galleries have been emptied of visitors, and the floor of the House nothing but an unceasing round of dilatory motions and roll calls, filibustering has ceased and the business of the House began to proceed in the old way, with a look of serious purpose in it that has not had previously this session. General Weaver has subsided. Though he defeated the most virulent attempts of the Speaker and other members to throw him off his guard, and at the start of him with other business, he cunningly met all the assaults and annihilated his ground.

THE HOUSE SURPRISED. Everybody expected that the same tactics would exhaust the session of to-day and everybody was surprised, when after the reading of the journal, the obstinate Iowa senator in his seat. There was no demonstration when it was found that the famous deadlock was at an end, except a few humorous remarks in undertones, from such perennial jokers as Tom Reed, and the Speaker's very common sense manner began to clear his desk of matter that had accumulated during the deadlock. It is generally understood that this very pleasing change in the conduct of the House is due to the fact that the person against whom Mr. Weaver particularly directed his obstructive tactics, surrendered to him almost unconditionally, and that he has an understanding that the Oklahoma bill will be called up under suspension of the rules.

MADE A COMPROMISE. The exact character of the arrangement is only known to the three or four parties to it, but whatever it is, it is perfectly satisfactory to Mr. Weaver. It is possible that some one of the opponents of the bill may filibuster against it when the attempt is made to get it up, and therefore, it is probable that before that time the appropriation, river and harbor, and other important and indispensable bills will be got out of the way.

Aside from these matters there will be very little legislation this session. The Republicans are quite indifferent about the enactment of any laws on the side of the House which are absolutely necessary, as it is nearly certain that there will be an early extra session. Very few of the members of that party oppose the extra session, and the reform of the Indiana canal bill, which is the subject indicates pretty clearly that President Harrison has made up his mind to call an extra session as soon as practicable after his inauguration.

PINK AND WHITE. Senator and Mrs. Stanford Give Elaborate Dinner Party. [SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] WASHINGTON, January 12.—Senator and Mrs. Stanford gave a magnificent dinner party last evening, the guests of honor being Secretary and Mrs. Whitney. The prevailing colors of the table decorations were red and white, and the center piece consisted of roses and lilies of the valley was placed with high tops of roses in silver braced bags tied with heavy cord. The candelabra held pink tapers with pink shades, and the candles were lighted with pink shades. The table decorations were pink and white, and the table was set with pink and white. The table was set with pink and white, and the table was set with pink and white.

THE PLACE CARDS FOR THE men were prettily inscribed parchment, and those for the ladies were inscribed on pink paper. The place cards were pink and white, and the table was set with pink and white. The table was set with pink and white, and the table was set with pink and white.

Other guests were Postmaster General and Mrs. Dickinson, Senator and Mrs. Palmer, Justice and Mrs. Field, Justice and Mrs. Stanford, and Mrs. Anderson and Secretary Bayard.

DALZELL'S CHRISTMAS GIFT. Being Eagerly Sought by Numbers of Old and New Soldiers. [SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] WASHINGTON, January 12.—Among the myriad of letters received at the Treasury Department in regard to the Christmas gift of Private Dalzell is one received to-day from a soldier in Decatur, Ill., in which the writer states he understands that Private Dalzell has deposited $4,000,000 in the Treasury for the benefit of old soldiers, and he urges that the authorities of the Treasury meet his wish as soon as possible, as he is much in need of the money.

If Dalzell makes his deposit of that amount the Treasury clerk will be set to work once to calculate the pro rata share of each applicant and remit, but as yet no word of the deposit has been received at the department.

CONTRADICTS THE PRIMA DONNA. Minister Von Taver Says Di Murski Was Assailed by the Austrian Council. [SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] WASHINGTON, January 12.—Chevalier Schmitz von Taver, the Austrian Minister, said to-day in regard to the allegation of Madame Helena di Murski, the prima donna, that the Austrian representative in this country had absolutely refused to assist her.

"There is a very little truth in the statement. I was in Europe all last summer and I know of no appeal that has been made to my office in this city. I am acquainted with her case, however, and know personally that she received quite a sum of money from the Austrian representative in New York City."

HARRISON IN HENRY CLAY'S CARRIAGE. WASHINGTON, D. C., January 12.—The "Father of Protection," as Henry Clay was called, was presented by his admirers with a carriage in 1833, during the excitement of the tariff. This carriage is still in existence in Louisville, and has been prepared for use. A suggestion has been made by Charles Britton, of the Insurance Company, that it might be made a feature of the inauguration parade, and will be used by the President-elect.

Iron for Pittsburgh's New Postoffice. [SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] WASHINGTON, D. C., January 12.—It is anticipated at the office of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury that within about a week or ten days invitations will be advertised for proposals to construct the iron work of the new Government building in Pittsburgh. The Seavy has arrived at Baltimore with a cargo of stone, and another vessel is on her way to the city, carrying take in a cargo, as navigation is still open.

MAHONE IS THE MAN.

At Length He Wins What a Big Delegation of Southern Whigs He Demands HIS RECORD POINTED TO WITH PRIDE.

Confederate Role in the South, and Mahone is One of the Men.

A Large Virginia delegation visits the President-elect, and presents the claims of General Mahone to a seat in the Cabinet. The ex-Senator is described in glowing terms as the savior of the Southern Republicans. His political record is said to be without a parallel in the country. General Harrison promises to carefully consider the matter.

INDIANAPOLIS, January 12.—This was Virginia day with the President-elect, his principal visitors being the large delegation of prominent Republicans from the ten Congressional districts of Virginia, who came to urge the appointment of General William Mahone to a place in the Cabinet. The delegation comprised the following gentlemen: Judge Edmund Waddell, Jr., W. S. Lurly, H. De B. Clay, Asa Rogers, J. H. Stubbins, O. D. Foster, A. H. Lindsey, J. B. Smith, T. B. Tyler, J. B. Beshel, E. B. Berkeley, J. P. Proffitt, D. H. Pannell, Hon. P. H. McCannell, J. N. Newman, E. T. Drayler, S. M. Meekie, D. A. Windsor, A. S. W. Craig, J. C. Brown, A. S. W. Craig.

They came as a delegation appointed by the Republican Committee of Virginia at its last meeting, on December 13, to convey to President-elect Harrison certain resolutions adopted at that meeting in the interest of the appointment of General Mahone. They also brought a memorial signed by the Republican members-elect of the Virginia Legislature to the name of the delegation organized this morning by electing Judge Edmund Waddell, Jr., of Richmond, as Chairman, and the selection of W. E. Craig, of Staunton, to present the resolutions of the State Committee with an appropriate speech to the President-elect, and Dr. J. B. Webb, one of the members of the Legislature from Rockingham county, to present the memorial to the Legislature.

THE UNANIMOUS DESIRE. They were a fine looking body of men. It was 2 o'clock when they entered the Harrison residence, where the General received them in the back parlor. Judge Waddell introduced the members and Colonel Craig presented the memorial to the President-elect. The President-elect Mr. Craig said they came by authority and appointment of the Republican party of Virginia, and for the purpose of presenting to the President-elect the personal claims of any man. That they asked the appointment of General Mahone to the Cabinet because that was up to him to decide. He said that the party in Virginia, and because it would insure Republican success, thereby invigorating the Republicans and striking terror to the hearts of the Democrats.

That if there was a Cabinet office given to the Southern States, Virginia should have it by reason of her past prominent place in the Union and her present position as the foremost State of the South. The all efforts to break the solid South had failed, and in fact, the Republican organization in Virginia was abandoned till 1873. William Mahone led the party in the South, whereby over 50,000 ex-Confederates and their sons united with the faithful band of Republicans still existing, and for the first and only time since the war broke the solid South for four years, restoring free suffrage to the people of Virginia, abolishing the whipping post, restoring the free school system, and more than doubling its efficiency, supporting the charitable institutions of the State and taking from the jails the lunatics, placing them in other places, building an asylum for the colored insane, and a collegiate institution for the colored youth, and increasing the Republican representation in the United States Senate.

His SENATE RECORD. Colonel Craig urged that when, in 1881, the momentous responsibility was placed upon Mahone, he showed the courage, in spite of Democratic anathemas, to save that body to the Republican party of the nation. The record of Mahone in the past is a prominent man in the South who dared lead a movement; that now he has a party at his back eager to support him, and that his record is without a parallel in the United States, where, in so short a time, he was followed from one party to another by 75,000 men.

Such leadership alone, said the speaker, can break the solid South. That is in the North, the sentiment of the Federal Government, the political opinion of the South, the sentiment of the ex-Confederate soldiery control it in the South, and what the South needs is a Mahone in the White House. As to the opposition against General Mahone in Virginia, it practically amounted to nothing. That since the last National convention remained in the hands of the Republican organization of the State, the most prominent leaders of the opposition submitted thereto, and were now working in accord with the present Government.

That the remnant left only exists by reason of the prominence given them by the Democratic line and by the abolition of the Democratic party. The most prominent Republicans who do not understand the situation in Virginia. Colonel Craig concluded with a brilliant speech, in which he urged every 100 Republicans in old Virginia wanted to see General Mahone in the next Cabinet.

CONSIDERATE, BUT SILENT. Dr. Webb then presented the memorial of the Republican members-elect of the Virginia Legislature. His remarks covered much the same ground as Colonel Craig's. General Harrison was an attentive listener to all that was said, and, after cordially welcoming the visitors to his home and expressing his pleasure at meeting them, he briefly stated, in substance, that the matter should receive his careful consideration. It cannot be learned from any of the visitors that the President-elect dropped a single word of any significance as bearing upon the object of their visit.

With the ex-Senator, Colonel Dr. Clay and Messrs. Lurly and McCannell also made brief but earnest talks for General Mahone. Lurly is a cousin of Stonewall Jackson, and was in the Confederate army from the first month of the war until its close. He was among the first Confederates to come over to the Republican party. The Virginians expressed themselves as greatly pleased with their visit, and especially their cordial reception by General Harrison. They left for home by the evening train.

THE CHERRY YANKEES. A Score of American Fishing Schooners Inside of the Limit. HALIFAX, January 12.—A Shelburne dispatch says it is reported that a couple of dozen of American fishing vessels have been trowl fishing within a mile of McNits Island to-night, and inside the limit for over a week, and are there yet.

Local fishermen complain that this trowl fishing will exhaust the fishing next spring unless stopped at once.

COUNTY SEAT WAR.

Two Men Killed and Many Injured by Deputy Sheriff—Officers Will Be Lynched if Not Rescued—The State Troop Ordered to the Scene.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] WICHITA, KAN., January 12.—General Murray Meyers received a dispatch this morning from Governor Martin, informing him of a county seat war in Gay county between the towns of Ingalls and Cimarron, and ordering him to proceed at once to the scene of trouble and restore order. Commissioners A. H. of State Senator, and General Meyers, with the members of his staff, were ordered to proceed to take Company F, of Larned, with him.