

Table with 2 columns: Term, Price. Includes rates for daily, weekly, and monthly subscriptions, and advertising rates.

PITTSBURG, WEDNESDAY, MAR. 13, 1899.

THE MILK OMBINE.

Following upon the heels of the discovery of numerous milk dealers in the adulteration of that important staple, comes the announcement that all the parties interested in that business in this city are forming a combination, professedly to establish uniform prices but really to prevent competition and any diminution of the charges which the middlemen desire to impose on the consumers.

An agreement to establish uniformity in prices does not necessarily contain anything obnoxious to the public, although it ignores the essential fact that different circumstances naturally produce different prices.

The convention of miners and operators which met at Columbus, yesterday, is confronted by a serious subject of disagreement as to the basis of wages, which threatens to result in a competition with districts paying less wages, but the remedy needed is not so much a general reduction as the equalization of wages. The Pennsylvania and Ohio fields can pay full rates if their competitors have to do the same; and the attention of the convention should be directed to the latter end rather than to get into a split over a proposition to reduce wages.

THE PROTECTION OF THE PEOPLE. The report from Fayette county of the depredations of an organized gang of robbers, who enter houses in the rural sections and torture the inhabitants until they give up their money, together with a similar outrage in Westmoreland county a short time ago, and the suburban highway robbery in this city, point out the danger to which every confidence in the good order of the country may subject the residents of unprotected sections. Reliance on good order and respect for law has made people careless of the protection that should be afforded to all citizens, and placed those who are isolated at the mercy of the criminal class.

THE MINING PROBLEM. The convention of miners and operators which met at Columbus, yesterday, is confronted by a serious subject of disagreement as to the basis of wages, which threatens to result in a competition with districts paying less wages, but the remedy needed is not so much a general reduction as the equalization of wages.

IMAGINARY FINES. It is rather surprising to find in the Washington Star's editorial comments on the amendments to the inter-State commerce law the assertion that railway managers "have paid the light fines hitherto imposed without hesitation and gone on violating the law systematically."

It would be an interesting effort to have the esteemed Star point out the instances in which railroad managers have paid any fines, or had any fines levied upon them. That, as the Star says, they have violated the law, is shown by the reports of the Commission; but it is a remarkable fact in connection with these violations that not a single penalty, either in the shape of damages or fines, has been imposed upon them.

Wanamaker's Business Way. A story comes from Washington, through the columns of an anti-administration newspaper, which indicates that Postmaster General Wanamaker intends to conduct the postal department on business principles decidedly the reverse of those preached by Senator Fawcett. The statement is that a subordinate of the postoffice department tendered his resignation according to the partisan precedent. Upon this Mr. Wanamaker sent him back to his desk with the information that if he was faithful and efficient he would not be disturbed; and that, if he was not, he would be removed without the previous formality of a resignation.

Wanamaker's Business Way. A story comes from Washington, through the columns of an anti-administration newspaper, which indicates that Postmaster General Wanamaker intends to conduct the postal department on business principles decidedly the reverse of those preached by Senator Fawcett.

SALISBURY DARE NOT. The suggestion has been made that the Tories in England may in their desperation try to avert their party's defeat by giving home rule to Ireland. Those who think that such a tergiversation is a possibility point to Disraeli's triumphant audacity when he dished the Liberals with a more radical reform bill than they themselves had favored in 1867, as an example of what the Tories have heretofore done. There would be no reason for believing that the Tories contemplate a bold stroke such as this if there were any apparent possibility of their grip on the offices by deliberately stultifying themselves. But the voters who put the Tories in power are of the class for the most part that does not change its opinions to suit the political exigencies of its leaders. They have held home rule from year to year, with the exception of those whom Gladstone has converted, they hate home rule still. It is clear that the Tory Government cannot contradict all it has said and offer to undo all it has done, and yet represent to any body of voters of respectable proportions.

As to the "dishing" maneuver of Disraeli, it was done in very different circumstances. The parties were divided upon the question of extending the franchise in the matter of degrees—both as respects the number of degrees, which way the cat was to jump and coolly appropriated his opponent's bag in which to catch her. Salisbury is not Disraeli. The courage and discernment of the dead statesman are not in the army of the sluggish Cecil. Salisbury does not cast off his Unionist allies, the Tory fact pursues and their ignorant slaves, to seek friendship among the men against whom he has freely used the cruel methods of his comb.

Home rule is coming to Ireland; not through the soiled hands of a Tory tyrant, but at the command of Gladstone, the Liberator, and the patriot Parnell.

Legislative Commissions to inquire into this, that and the other thing, as a rule are productive of mere expectation and bills of expense. There is, however, one subject, to-wit, taxation, that could not be most profitably investigated by a Commission of competent men. The debates over the revenue bill merely furnish another proof of the present conflict of ideas. Money must be raised for municipal and State purposes, and of the utmost consequence that the taxes fall where they can be borne with least disadvantage to the industrial interests; and yet there is the most pronounced disagreement to what should and should not be taxed. In the House at Harrisburg there was a hot debate yesterday as to whether building and loan associations should be exempted. Previous to that the fight was over the proposal to exempt manufacturing corporations.

In this city there is a movement to repeal the business tax, and as for an equitable mode of assessing real estate, everyone knows what a crop of divergent views comes up regularly with the triennial assessment.

THE DISPATCH has heretofore urged a commission to consider and recommend such forms and subjects of taxation as will comport with the best interests of the State and of the cities and boroughs. The best business ability should be chosen for it. If among the legislators there is not enough experience or confidence let the appointments be from business men. The commission is urgently needed. That a careful plan of taxation, framed with specific knowledge of its effects, in place of the haphazard way of levying upon whatever comes easiest to hand, is pressing, desirable for all interests, need not be argued at this late day.

THE LONDON TIMES is finally reaching the conclusion that it has got to submit its case in its present badly battered condition.

THE STATEMENT that the Arkansas House of Representatives has passed a bill to prohibit detectives from other States from coming into Arkansas in search of fugitives from justice, indicates that those law-makers are anxious to promote immigration to their State. They propose to do that by making Arkansas the successor of Canada as an asylum for leavers.

YESTERDAY'S list of appointments remorselessly narrows the field for the diplomatic aspirations of the editorial corps.

GERMAN statistics show that 2,000,000 Germans have come to the United States since 1871. This is a greater migration than that of the Tartars under Tamerlane; and what displeases Bismarck is the fact that these two million Germans have been properly taken into two million good American citizens.

THAT Fayette and Westmoreland counties gang of desperadoes is evidently in urgent need of the hemp treatment.

THE rumor that Ben Butler is to represent the United States at the Samoan conference, is doubtless due to his ability to keep one eye on Bismarck and one on Samoa at the same time. Ben's eyes are not very pretty but they are very sharp.

PROMINENT PEOPLE. COUNT VON MOLKE had a wonderful career in the army, which he entered 70 years ago. He was then between 18 and 19 years of age. He has been in the Prussian army since 1822.

VISCOUNT MANDEVILLE, the bankrupt, is a round-shouldered man, with a sloping cast and a general appearance of physical decline. His face is mortified and his small eyes are heavy and dull.

MR. MCKER, the President's son-in-law, left Washington yesterday afternoon for a three weeks' visit to Boston on business. Mrs. McKers and her children will remain at the White House for several weeks yet, when they will go to Deer Park.

A LOT of Paris schoolboys sent a case of Mandarin oranges to General Bonlangier, by way of congratulating him on his election. But the dealer of whom they bought them was a supporter of M. Jaques, and he saw to it that the fruit did not reach the general until it was far too aged for consumption.

THE Grand Duke Peter Nicolaievich, of Russia, the younger son of the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaievich, who is a first cousin of the Czar, is reported to be coming to England shortly, with a view to his becoming a suitor for one of the daughters of the Prince of Wales. Prince Peter was born in January, 1894.

A CREW of sailors is coming to England, and a German explorer, who is going to Africa to look after Stanley and Emin. "He possesses," says Sir Charles Wilson, "all of Livingston's insatiable curiosity, and a great many of his aims and his kindly feelings toward the natives; and he has twice crossed Africa in his widest extent without once firing a shot in anger."

AT her last reception in the White House Mrs. Cleveland took counting the number came thundering along the same track. The family, seeing the danger, retreated in great haste, and dived into the opposite end of the car. "Little Phil" took in the situation at once, but was not to be stampeded. He braced himself between the seats, and looked defiance at the approaching car, which was still not responding to the brakes. When it struck with considerable force "Little Phil" was still there, holding his own, while his mother and sisters and Mrs. Kellogg were considerably alarmed.

Another. Her Assets He Was the Original Inventor of the Monitor—The Army of France Presented by Him.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The fact that the biographical notices which have followed the death of Captain Ericsson, have given almost the sole credit for the invention of the Monitor, or revolving turret war vessel, to that notable person, has led to the printing and circulation of a small pamphlet containing the following facts: "The evidence is contained in a letter of Mr. Timothy to Rear Admiral Ammen, written about a year ago. In this letter Timothy states that the first sight of the circular form of the turret was given to him by the late inventor, who suggested to him the idea of the revolving plan for defensive works, and in April, 1814, when he was 19 years of age, he came to this city, and exhibited a model of a revolving turret, which was made of iron, and was mounted on a wooden base, and was worked by hand."

THE women in Washington, especially the young women, Republicans and Democrats alike, are still simply crazy about Mrs. Cleveland, said my friend. "They are never tired talking her good, and her goodness and grace, and her good looks and taste and wit. I think the inauguration would have swept Mrs. Cleveland from the attention of her sisters, but for the fact that she has made an excellent impression, and that nothing could tempt him to be anything else. As his plans are at present he will stay in Washington till the Senate meets, but he will leave with his family, which will return to their home on April 1."

THE Maxwell land grant scheme is showing its head above the surface out in Kansas City. The schemers do not want quite the whole earth. For this installment, they will be satisfied with that share of it laid down on the maps as New Mexico.

A BILL has passed the lower branch of the Maine Legislature, imposing fine, imprisonment and disfranchisement for five years on the man who kills his wife. Add to that, the same penalties for the man who kills his wife, including the man who furnishes the money to buy it, and then the question will be brought down to the crucial point of securing its full enforcement.

THE tumble in wheat yesterday reached a panicky stage; and consumers are eagerly waiting for the same feeling to strike the flour market.

MR. THOMAS C. PLATT had an interview with President Harrison the other day and says there will be no fight over the New York offices. This is an indication that Mr. Platt thinks his chances good for getting that comfortable slice of them known as the New York Custom House. But there is a dim suspicion that Warner Miller is still to be heard from.

THE London Times is finally reaching the conclusion that it has got to submit its case in its present badly battered condition.

THE STATEMENT that the Arkansas House of Representatives has passed a bill to prohibit detectives from other States from coming into Arkansas in search of fugitives from justice, indicates that those law-makers are anxious to promote immigration to their State. They propose to do that by making Arkansas the successor of Canada as an asylum for leavers.

YESTERDAY'S list of appointments remorselessly narrows the field for the diplomatic aspirations of the editorial corps.

GERMAN statistics show that 2,000,000 Germans have come to the United States since 1871. This is a greater migration than that of the Tartars under Tamerlane; and what displeases Bismarck is the fact that these two million Germans have been properly taken into two million good American citizens.

THAT Fayette and Westmoreland counties gang of desperadoes is evidently in urgent need of the hemp treatment.

THE rumor that Ben Butler is to represent the United States at the Samoan conference, is doubtless due to his ability to keep one eye on Bismarck and one on Samoa at the same time. Ben's eyes are not very pretty but they are very sharp.

PROMINENT PEOPLE. COUNT VON MOLKE had a wonderful career in the army, which he entered 70 years ago. He was then between 18 and 19 years of age. He has been in the Prussian army since 1822.

VISCOUNT MANDEVILLE, the bankrupt, is a round-shouldered man, with a sloping cast and a general appearance of physical decline. His face is mortified and his small eyes are heavy and dull.

MR. MCKER, the President's son-in-law, left Washington yesterday afternoon for a three weeks' visit to Boston on business. Mrs. McKers and her children will remain at the White House for several weeks yet, when they will go to Deer Park.

A LOT of Paris schoolboys sent a case of Mandarin oranges to General Bonlangier, by way of congratulating him on his election. But the dealer of whom they bought them was a supporter of M. Jaques, and he saw to it that the fruit did not reach the general until it was far too aged for consumption.

THE Grand Duke Peter Nicolaievich, of Russia, the younger son of the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaievich, who is a first cousin of the Czar, is reported to be coming to England shortly, with a view to his becoming a suitor for one of the daughters of the Prince of Wales. Prince Peter was born in January, 1894.

A CREW of sailors is coming to England, and a German explorer, who is going to Africa to look after Stanley and Emin. "He possesses," says Sir Charles Wilson, "all of Livingston's insatiable curiosity, and a great many of his aims and his kindly feelings toward the natives; and he has twice crossed Africa in his widest extent without once firing a shot in anger."

Another. Her Assets He Was the Original Inventor of the Monitor—The Army of France Presented by Him.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The fact that the biographical notices which have followed the death of Captain Ericsson, have given almost the sole credit for the invention of the Monitor, or revolving turret war vessel, to that notable person, has led to the printing and circulation of a small pamphlet containing the following facts: "The evidence is contained in a letter of Mr. Timothy to Rear Admiral Ammen, written about a year ago. In this letter Timothy states that the first sight of the circular form of the turret was given to him by the late inventor, who suggested to him the idea of the revolving plan for defensive works, and in April, 1814, when he was 19 years of age, he came to this city, and exhibited a model of a revolving turret, which was made of iron, and was mounted on a wooden base, and was worked by hand."

THE women in Washington, especially the young women, Republicans and Democrats alike, are still simply crazy about Mrs. Cleveland, said my friend. "They are never tired talking her good, and her goodness and grace, and her good looks and taste and wit. I think the inauguration would have swept Mrs. Cleveland from the attention of her sisters, but for the fact that she has made an excellent impression, and that nothing could tempt him to be anything else. As his plans are at present he will stay in Washington till the Senate meets, but he will leave with his family, which will return to their home on April 1."

THE Maxwell land grant scheme is showing its head above the surface out in Kansas City. The schemers do not want quite the whole earth. For this installment, they will be satisfied with that share of it laid down on the maps as New Mexico.

A BILL has passed the lower branch of the Maine Legislature, imposing fine, imprisonment and disfranchisement for five years on the man who kills his wife. Add to that, the same penalties for the man who kills his wife, including the man who furnishes the money to buy it, and then the question will be brought down to the crucial point of securing its full enforcement.

THE tumble in wheat yesterday reached a panicky stage; and consumers are eagerly waiting for the same feeling to strike the flour market.

MR. THOMAS C. PLATT had an interview with President Harrison the other day and says there will be no fight over the New York offices. This is an indication that Mr. Platt thinks his chances good for getting that comfortable slice of them known as the New York Custom House. But there is a dim suspicion that Warner Miller is still to be heard from.

THE London Times is finally reaching the conclusion that it has got to submit its case in its present badly battered condition.

THE STATEMENT that the Arkansas House of Representatives has passed a bill to prohibit detectives from other States from coming into Arkansas in search of fugitives from justice, indicates that those law-makers are anxious to promote immigration to their State. They propose to do that by making Arkansas the successor of Canada as an asylum for leavers.

YESTERDAY'S list of appointments remorselessly narrows the field for the diplomatic aspirations of the editorial corps.

GERMAN statistics show that 2,000,000 Germans have come to the United States since 1871. This is a greater migration than that of the Tartars under Tamerlane; and what displeases Bismarck is the fact that these two million Germans have been properly taken into two million good American citizens.

THAT Fayette and Westmoreland counties gang of desperadoes is evidently in urgent need of the hemp treatment.

THE rumor that Ben Butler is to represent the United States at the Samoan conference, is doubtless due to his ability to keep one eye on Bismarck and one on Samoa at the same time. Ben's eyes are not very pretty but they are very sharp.

PROMINENT PEOPLE. COUNT VON MOLKE had a wonderful career in the army, which he entered 70 years ago. He was then between 18 and 19 years of age. He has been in the Prussian army since 1822.

VISCOUNT MANDEVILLE, the bankrupt, is a round-shouldered man, with a sloping cast and a general appearance of physical decline. His face is mortified and his small eyes are heavy and dull.

MR. MCKER, the President's son-in-law, left Washington yesterday afternoon for a three weeks' visit to Boston on business. Mrs. McKers and her children will remain at the White House for several weeks yet, when they will go to Deer Park.

A LOT of Paris schoolboys sent a case of Mandarin oranges to General Bonlangier, by way of congratulating him on his election. But the dealer of whom they bought them was a supporter of M. Jaques, and he saw to it that the fruit did not reach the general until it was far too aged for consumption.

THE Grand Duke Peter Nicolaievich, of Russia, the younger son of the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaievich, who is a first cousin of the Czar, is reported to be coming to England shortly, with a view to his becoming a suitor for one of the daughters of the Prince of Wales. Prince Peter was born in January, 1894.

A CREW of sailors is coming to England, and a German explorer, who is going to Africa to look after Stanley and Emin. "He possesses," says Sir Charles Wilson, "all of Livingston's insatiable curiosity, and a great many of his aims and his kindly feelings toward the natives; and he has twice crossed Africa in his widest extent without once firing a shot in anger."

Another. Her Assets He Was the Original Inventor of the Monitor—The Army of France Presented by Him.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The fact that the biographical notices which have followed the death of Captain Ericsson, have given almost the sole credit for the invention of the Monitor, or revolving turret war vessel, to that notable person, has led to the printing and circulation of a small pamphlet containing the following facts: "The evidence is contained in a letter of Mr. Timothy to Rear Admiral Ammen, written about a year ago. In this letter Timothy states that the first sight of the circular form of the turret was given to him by the late inventor, who suggested to him the idea of the revolving plan for defensive works, and in April, 1814, when he was 19 years of age, he came to this city, and exhibited a model of a revolving turret, which was made of iron, and was mounted on a wooden base, and was worked by hand."

THE women in Washington, especially the young women, Republicans and Democrats alike, are still simply crazy about Mrs. Cleveland, said my friend. "They are never tired talking her good, and her goodness and grace, and her good looks and taste and wit. I think the inauguration would have swept Mrs. Cleveland from the attention of her sisters, but for the fact that she has made an excellent impression, and that nothing could tempt him to be anything else. As his plans are at present he will stay in Washington till the Senate meets, but he will leave with his family, which will return to their home on April 1."

THE Maxwell land grant scheme is showing its head above the surface out in Kansas City. The schemers do not want quite the whole earth. For this installment, they will be satisfied with that share of it laid down on the maps as New Mexico.

A BILL has passed the lower branch of the Maine Legislature, imposing fine, imprisonment and disfranchisement for five years on the man who kills his wife. Add to that, the same penalties for the man who kills his wife, including the man who furnishes the money to buy it, and then the question will be brought down to the crucial point of securing its full enforcement.

THE tumble in wheat yesterday reached a panicky stage; and consumers are eagerly waiting for the same feeling to strike the flour market.

MR. THOMAS C. PLATT had an interview with President Harrison the other day and says there will be no fight over the New York offices. This is an indication that Mr. Platt thinks his chances good for getting that comfortable slice of them known as the New York Custom House. But there is a dim suspicion that Warner Miller is still to be heard from.

THE London Times is finally reaching the conclusion that it has got to submit its case in its present badly battered condition.

THE STATEMENT that the Arkansas House of Representatives has passed a bill to prohibit detectives from other States from coming into Arkansas in search of fugitives from justice, indicates that those law-makers are anxious to promote immigration to their State. They propose to do that by making Arkansas the successor of Canada as an asylum for leavers.

YESTERDAY'S list of appointments remorselessly narrows the field for the diplomatic aspirations of the editorial corps.

GERMAN statistics show that 2,000,000 Germans have come to the United States since 1871. This is a greater migration than that of the Tartars under Tamerlane; and what displeases Bismarck is the fact that these two million Germans have been properly taken into two million good American citizens.

THAT Fayette and Westmoreland counties gang of desperadoes is evidently in urgent need of the hemp treatment.

THE rumor that Ben Butler is to represent the United States at the Samoan conference, is doubtless due to his ability to keep one eye on Bismarck and one on Samoa at the same time. Ben's eyes are not very pretty but they are very sharp.

PROMINENT PEOPLE. COUNT VON MOLKE had a wonderful career in the army, which he entered 70 years ago. He was then between 18 and 19 years of age. He has been in the Prussian army since 1822.

VISCOUNT MANDEVILLE, the bankrupt, is a round-shouldered man, with a sloping cast and a general appearance of physical decline. His face is mortified and his small eyes are heavy and dull.

MR. MCKER, the President's son-in-law, left Washington yesterday afternoon for a three weeks' visit to Boston on business. Mrs. McKers and her children will remain at the White House for several weeks yet, when they will go to Deer Park.

A LOT of Paris schoolboys sent a case of Mandarin oranges to General Bonlangier, by way of congratulating him on his election. But the dealer of whom they bought them was a supporter of M. Jaques, and he saw to it that the fruit did not reach the general until it was far too aged for consumption.

THE Grand Duke Peter Nicolaievich, of Russia, the younger son of the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaievich, who is a first cousin of the Czar, is reported to be coming to England shortly, with a view to his becoming a suitor for one of the daughters of the Prince of Wales. Prince Peter was born in January, 1894.

A CREW of sailors is coming to England, and a German explorer, who is going to Africa to look after Stanley and Emin. "He possesses," says Sir Charles Wilson, "all of Livingston's insatiable curiosity, and a great many of his aims and his kindly feelings toward the natives; and he has twice crossed Africa in his widest extent without once firing a shot in anger."

Another. Her Assets He Was the Original Inventor of the Monitor—The Army of France Presented by Him.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The fact that the biographical notices which have followed the death of Captain Ericsson, have given almost the sole credit for the invention of the Monitor, or revolving turret war vessel, to that notable person, has led to the printing and circulation of a small pamphlet containing the following facts: "The evidence is contained in a letter of Mr. Timothy to Rear Admiral Ammen, written about a year ago. In this letter Timothy states that the first sight of the circular form of the turret was given to him by the late inventor, who suggested to him the idea of the revolving plan for defensive works, and in April, 1814, when he was 19 years of age, he came to this city, and exhibited a model of a revolving turret, which was made of iron, and was mounted on a wooden base, and was worked by hand."

THE women in Washington, especially the young women, Republicans and Democrats alike, are still simply crazy about Mrs. Cleveland, said my friend. "They are never tired talking her good, and her goodness and grace, and her good looks and taste and wit. I think the inauguration would have swept Mrs. Cleveland from the attention of her sisters, but for the fact that she has made an excellent impression, and that nothing could tempt him to be anything else. As his plans are at present he will stay in Washington till the Senate meets, but he will leave with his family, which will return to their home on April 1."

THE Maxwell land grant scheme is showing its head above the surface out in Kansas City. The schemers do not want quite the whole earth. For this installment, they will be satisfied with that share of it laid down on the maps as New Mexico.

A BILL has passed the lower branch of the Maine Legislature, imposing fine, imprisonment and disfranchisement for five years on the man who kills his wife. Add to that, the same penalties for the man who kills his wife, including the man who furnishes the money to buy it, and then the question will be brought down to the crucial point of securing its full enforcement.

THE tumble in wheat yesterday reached a panicky stage; and consumers are eagerly waiting for the same feeling to strike the flour market.

MR. THOMAS C. PLATT had an interview with President Harrison the other day and says there will be no fight over the New York offices. This is an indication that Mr. Platt thinks his chances good for getting that comfortable slice of them known as the New York Custom House. But there is a dim suspicion that Warner Miller is still to be heard from.

THE London Times is finally reaching the conclusion that it has got to submit its case in its present badly battered condition.

THE STATEMENT that the Arkansas House of Representatives has passed a bill to prohibit detectives from other States from coming into Arkansas in search of fugitives from justice, indicates that those law-makers are anxious to promote immigration to their State. They propose to do that by making Arkansas the successor of Canada as an asylum for leavers.

YESTERDAY'S list of appointments remorselessly narrows the field for the diplomatic aspirations of the editorial corps.

GERMAN statistics show that 2,000,000 Germans have come to the United States since 1871. This is a greater migration than that of the Tartars under Tamerlane; and what displeases Bismarck is the fact that these two million Germans have been properly taken into two million good American citizens.

THAT Fayette and Westmoreland counties gang of desperadoes is evidently in urgent need of the hemp treatment.

THE rumor that Ben Butler is to represent the United States at the Samoan conference, is doubtless due to his ability to keep one eye on Bismarck and one on Samoa at the same time. Ben's eyes are not very pretty but they are very sharp.

PROMINENT PEOPLE. COUNT VON MOLKE had a wonderful career in the army, which he entered 70 years ago. He was then between 18 and 19 years of age. He has been in the Prussian army since 1822.

VISCOUNT MANDEVILLE, the bankrupt, is a round-shouldered man, with a sloping cast and a general appearance of physical decline. His face is mortified and his small eyes are heavy and dull.

MR. MCKER, the President's son-in-law, left Washington yesterday afternoon for a three weeks' visit to Boston on business. Mrs. McKers and her children will remain at the White House for several weeks yet, when they will go to Deer Park.

A LOT of Paris schoolboys sent a case of Mandarin oranges to General Bonlangier, by way of congratulating him on his election. But the dealer of whom they bought them was a supporter of M. Jaques, and he saw to it that the fruit did not reach the general until it was far too aged for consumption.

THE Grand Duke Peter Nicolaievich, of Russia, the younger son of the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaievich, who is a first cousin of the Czar, is reported to be coming to England shortly, with a view to his becoming a suitor for one of the daughters of the Prince of Wales. Prince Peter was born in January, 1894.

A CREW of sailors is coming to England, and a German explorer, who is going to Africa to look after Stanley and Emin. "He possesses," says Sir Charles Wilson, "all of Livingston's insatiable curiosity, and a great many of his aims and his kindly feelings toward the natives; and he has twice crossed Africa in his widest extent without once firing a shot in anger."

Another. Her Assets He Was the Original Inventor of the Monitor—The Army of France Presented by Him.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The fact that the biographical notices which have followed the death of Captain Ericsson, have given almost the sole credit for the invention of the Monitor, or revolving turret war vessel, to that notable person, has led to the printing and circulation of a small pamphlet containing the following facts: "The evidence is contained in a letter of Mr. Timothy to Rear Admiral Ammen, written about a year ago. In this letter Timothy states that the first sight of the circular form of the turret was given to him by the late inventor, who suggested to him the idea of the revolving plan for defensive works, and in April, 1814, when he was 19 years of age, he came to this city, and exhibited a model of a revolving turret, which was made of iron, and was mounted on a wooden base, and was worked by hand."

THE women in Washington, especially the young women, Republicans and Democrats alike, are still simply crazy about Mrs. Cleveland, said my friend. "They are never tired talking her good, and her goodness and grace, and her good looks and taste and wit. I think the inauguration would have swept Mrs. Cleveland from the attention of her sisters, but for the fact that she has made an excellent impression, and that nothing could tempt him to be anything else. As his plans are at present he will stay in Washington till the Senate meets, but he will leave with his family, which will return to their home on April 1."

THE Maxwell land grant scheme is showing its head above the surface out in Kansas City. The schemers do not want quite the whole earth. For this installment, they will be satisfied with that share of it laid down on the maps as New Mexico.

A BILL has passed the lower branch of the Maine Legislature, imposing fine, imprisonment and disfranchisement for five years on the man who kills his wife. Add to that, the same penalties for the man who kills his wife, including the man who furnishes the money to buy it, and then the question will be brought down to the crucial point of securing its full enforcement.

THE tumble in wheat yesterday reached a panicky stage; and consumers are eagerly waiting for the same feeling to strike the flour market.

MR. THOMAS C. PLATT had an interview with President Harrison the other day and says there will be no fight over the New York offices. This is an indication that Mr. Platt thinks his chances good for getting that comfortable slice of them known as the New York Custom House. But there is a dim suspicion that Warner Miller is still to be heard from.

THE London Times is finally reaching the conclusion that it has got to submit its case in its present badly battered condition.

THE STATEMENT that the Arkansas House of Representatives has passed a bill to prohibit detectives from other States from coming into Arkansas in search of fugitives from justice, indicates that those law-makers are anxious to promote immigration to their State. They propose to do that by making Arkansas the successor of Canada as an asylum for leavers.

YESTERDAY'S list of appointments remorselessly narrows the field for the diplomatic aspirations of the editorial corps.

GERMAN statistics show that 2,000,000 Germans have come to the United States since 1871. This is a greater migration than that of the Tartars under Tamerlane; and what displeases Bismarck is the fact that these two million Germans have been properly taken into two million good American citizens.

THAT Fayette and Westmoreland counties gang of desperadoes is evidently in urgent need of the hemp treatment.

THE rumor that Ben Butler is to represent the United States at the Samoan conference, is doubtless due to his ability to keep one eye on Bismarck and one on Samoa at the same time. Ben's eyes are not very pretty but they are very sharp.

PROMINENT PEOPLE. COUNT VON MOLKE had a wonderful career in the army, which he entered 70 years ago. He was then between 18 and 19 years of age. He has been in the Prussian army since 1822.

VISCOUNT MANDEVILLE, the bankrupt, is a round-shouldered man, with a sloping cast and a general appearance of physical decline. His face is mortified and his small eyes are heavy and dull.

MR. MCKER, the President's son-in-law, left Washington yesterday afternoon for a three weeks' visit to Boston on business. Mrs. McKers and her children will remain at the White House for several weeks yet, when they will go to Deer Park.