Admired by a Large Crowd. Yesterday was "open day," or rather a public reception was given at the Forbes street school, and it was an occasion of general enjoyment to the teachers, pupils and visiting people alike. The day is chosen annually for the pleasing exercises, as in its wake follows Decoration Day, and for this reason a profusion of flowers were furnished about such faultless results, as was demonstrated yesterday.

To speak of features singly would be futile, as the entertainment was one big event on the whole. Every room exhibited something novel, and especially was the manuscripts of the pupils meritorious. The other features were the freehand drawing specimens, one of which in room 21 was a school bouquet of variegated colors in which the artistic touch of every pupil added finish and beauty to it. AT THE ALLEGHENY CEMETERY, Of course the central point of interest to-day will be the Allegheny Cometery. Within its sacred inclosure will gather the largest crowds. There is no greater diversity of scen-ery than may be there found, among the 400 acres of hills, valleys and woodland; but one acres of hills, valleys and weodiand; but one sweet spot is dearer above all others to the veterans, and that is what is commonly called "the soldiers' flats." It is a wide area of bottom land in a most charming valley, near the lakes. The graves of some 200 soldiers killed in battle or among the fatally injured from hospitals are there grouped. In the center stands the majestic monument erected to the memory of these braves by the

OUR PORTRAITS TO-DAY. Orrin M. Head, commander of the G. A. R., posts which will visit the Allegheny cemeteries, is a very prominent soldier. He is a "down Easter," being born in Exeter, N. H., December 3, 1834. He enlisted at Boston on April 17, 1861,—the day before the "Baltimore fight"—in the Fourth Battalion of the New Hampshire Rifles, which was the nucleus of the Thirteenth Regiment. The requisite number—75,000—was raised at that time, and on June 18 following be joined the Second New Hampshire Regiment, in which he served as a private until October 14, when he was promoted to Adjutant of the Eighth New Hampshire on December 1. Honorably discharged March 26, 1864, for the reason of disability and sickness. During his service he went to Ship Island with General Benjamin Butler, under whom he remained two years. Rev. J. T. Riley, of the Fifth Avenne M. E. Church, who delivers the oration at Allegheny Cemetery to-day, was a chaplain during the greater part of the rebellion. He was uniformly popular among the regiments with which he was thrown, and to-day is recognized as a particularly worthy preacher. He is about 45 years of are, and has a large congregation, many members of which are G. A. R. people. The above is an excellent likeness of him.

Mr. John Dettix, commanger of the South-Orrin M. Head, commander of the G. A. R. memoers of which all the A. L. positions above is an excellent likeness of him.

Mr. John Dettis, commander of the South-side division for Memorial Day, went to active service during the Rebellion in September, 1862, and served three years. When discharged he was Corporal of Company H, Fourth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry. When discharged he was 19 years old, having been but 16 years old when he entered the service as a volunteer. He was in the battles of Chancelorville and Gettysburg and in a number of fierce engagements at Scaltrook, Jones and James Island.

Hon. J. M. ("Private") Dalzell is the orator to-day at Uniondale Cemetery. This is a name so familiar to the G. A. R. that a repetition of his historical fame is not necessary, therefore. His kindly face as presented here will suffice for this annual memorial occasion, and recall to this annual memorial occasion, and recall to his legion of friends his conquests. Judge F. H. Collier, who is the orator at the Southside Cemetery to-day, is well known in G. A. R. circles. He entered the army at the A. R. Circles. He caltered the army at the breaking out of the war as Colonel of the One Hundred and Thirty-ninth Regiment, being mustered out with the rank of Brigadier General. He was a valuant soldier, and has a host of admiring men who fought in the great struggle.

SOME GENERAL ARRANGEMENTS. A general invitation is extended by the committee, through Mrs. M. J. Smythe, to the G. A. R. posts, Sons of Veterans, military and civic organizations attending the services at the Allegheny Cemetery to a lunch, which will be prepared by the ladies of O. H. Rippey Circle No. 21, ladies of the G. A. R., at Turner Hall, Butler and Forty-seventh streets, from 11 A. N. to 2 P. M. An invitation has been sent to the command. and of the Allegheny Arsenal to fire minute ant of the Allegheny Arsenal to fire minute guns during the ceremonies at the plots.

The contrades of Andrew Carnegie Camp No. 262 Sons of Veterans, will accompany Posts 3 and 41. G. A. R. This camp, by the exertions of the members, has been turned into a light artillery camp and is almost fully equipped as such. Camp 2 of Allegheny, will turn out with Lysle Post in answer to a special invitation from that post, and with them will visit Union-dale and Bellevue Cemereries.

Post 206 and their friends will devote the day to Lincoln Cemetery. The escort will be the Twin City Rifle Company. A chorus of 100 colored children will take part in the exercises. The Ladies' Relief Corps connected with the post will furnish lunch at Franklin school on return of the post from the cemetry.

A special committee of Post 3 yesterday marked the graves of their deceased comrades in the different cemetries with a small G. A. R. fing so that the graves may be readfly found and decorated with flowers. Their desire is and decorated with flow that none shall be missed. Though the number of victims of the civil war interred in our cemeteries is ascertainable, no member of the G. A. R. found yesterday seemed to know it. The greater number are in the Allegheny, the Northside and Southside Cemeteries, but it is known that there are about 48 in the Oakland, 35 in Minersville and 60 in the Lincoln, colored, cemeteries. As to the number of flags 1,440 were secured from home parties, but of the entire amount no record seems to have been kept.

The school children of Allegheny contributed 5,000 potted plants to the G. A. R. of that city yesterday for the exercises to-day. The plants made eight large wagon loads.

FOR SOUTHSIDE GRAVES. Nearly Four Thousand Pots of Flowers Contributed by the School Children. The reception of flowers at Salisbury Hall yesterday for decorative purposes in the Southside cemeteries was a great success. The children from the various schools brought 3,918 pots.

Guskys sent over 500 plants, and volunteered the use of wagons to haul them to the cemeteries to-day.
Several hundred people assembled in the hall last night. Prof. Golden, of the Twenty-ninth ward school, presented the flowers to the Grand Army committee, and W. T. Powell received them.
Several of the glass manufacturers on the Southside have offered the use of wagons to haul the flowers to the various cemeteries. There are 305 graves to be decorated on the Southside. This will allow a dozon or more pots to each grave. Seldom have such generous donations of flowers been made for this occasion. The children from the various schools brought

be Investigated. WINERS ORJECT TO PLUCKME STORES

There will be no conference this year be ween the iron manufacturers and the workers on the annual wage scale. This will be the first time in the history of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, which was organized in 1874, that a conference has been refused by the manufacturers. In past years the Manufacturers' Association handled all such questions, and appointed committees to meet the workers. A. F. Keating was president and Joseph D. Weeks was secretary of the organization This association, however, went to pieces last year, and when President Welhe, of the Amalgamated Association, addressed a formal note to Secretary Weeks announcing that they were about to draw up a scale of wages for the coming year and would appoint a committee to confer with a like committee of manufacturers, he received a reply from Secre-tary Weeks. In it Mr. Weeks stated that there tary Weeks. In it Mr. Weeks stated that there was no association of manufacturers and no committee could be appointed. There will, therefore, be no conference with the iron masters this year and the lodges in each mill will present the scale that will be drawn up this week and revised by the convention next week to the different firms. The scale

WILL BE UNIFORM, and if any firm objects to a clause in the scale, and it is modified, all other firms will have the same advantage.
Secretary Martin has issued the following to the members of the association:

In reply to the request of President Weihe to the manufacturers, through Mr. Joseph D. Weeks, to name a day when they could meet a conference the manufacturers, through Mr. Joseph D. Weeks, to name a day when they could meet a conference committee of the Amalgamated Association, Mr. Weeks replied that there was no way by which they can get together a committee to represent the association of manufacturers of Iron, steel and nalla as it is not now in existence. There is nothing now left for the Amalgamated Association to do but formulate its new scale and present it to cach arm through the proper committees. Now let every member of the Amalgamated Association keep his own counsel. De all your business with your firm through the proper committees. Now let every member of the Amalgamated Association keep his own counsel. De all your business with your firm through the proper committee. And in no other way, and await results.

President Weihe has selected the following named persons as the Wage Committee:

William Welhe, President; william Martin, Secretary; James Penney, Treasurer: Dennis O'Leary, Vice President, Fourth district; James F. Cooper, Vice President, Fourth district; M. M. Garland, Southside Lodge No. D. Plitsburg; John Pierce, Monongahela Valley Lodge, No. S., Pittsburg; William Parcell. Raven Lodge, No. 21, Greenville, Pa.; J. C. Raven Lodge, No. II, Youngstown, O., and Roger Reese, Advance Lodge, No. 38, Britishurg; John Pierce, Monongahela Valley Lodges in the organization. The work will require three or four days, but the committee expects to have the scale will then be printed and presented to each firm by the Mill Committee.

Last year, it will be remembered, the conference agreed to disagree, and the same plan as is proposed now followed. Oliver Brothers & Phillips was the first firm to drop into line and sign the scale for their several large plants.

OTHERS FOLLOWED SUIT.

OTHERS FOLLOWED SUIT. Carnegie followed, and then a signed scale from the Junction Iron and Steel Company was received. Many within a week after the conference adjourned signed scales. Then they began to come in very rapidly at headquarters until the middle of July, when Jones & Laughuntil the middle of July, when Jones & Laugh-lins, the largest iron firm affected, attached their signature to the agreement. This settled the trouble, and all the others signed. The members of the association do not an-ticipate any trouble this year, notwithstanding the fact that the manufacturers will not confer with them. None of them will venture a pre-diction as to what demand they will make, but all agree that it can be safely stated that the present scale with some slight medifications at scale, with some slight modifications will be presented.

The only hitch will be with the steel scale, as, The only httch will be with the steel scale, as, it is stated, Carnegie, Phipps & Co. propose to make a fight on it. This trouble may be satisfactorily settled. If war is declared it is claimed that the workers can stand a siege of eight weeks very comfortably, as the funds in the treasury are larger than usual.

The Labor Tribune, in commenting on the wage question, editorially says:

wage question, editorially says:

There seems to be considerable trouble in the newspapers about the arrangement of the figures of the coming scale year, and it may be that this may extend into the iron and steel industries before the annual signing is done; however, it is hardly within the probabilities that there will be difficulties equal to those that have been in some years in the past. The situation has its main peculiarity in that trade has been so very good in England that wages have been advanced materially, while in America this has not been the case. As might be expected of business men, the mill owners take the opportunity presented by these conditions to endeavor to make a few points on wages and on the terms of labor. There is nothing surprising in this; it would be surprising were they to permit the chance to pass unin-

READY TO BE TRIED. President Compbell Talks About the Charges

to be Preferred Against Him-He Asks for an Investigation. The investigation on the arrival of the oreign glass blowers will be held within a week or two, and some important developments are expected. A statement has been made that President Campbell, of the Window Glass Workers' Association, will not enter into any investigation, but a friend

Window Glass Workers' Association, will not enter into any investigation, but a friend of his says that one of the members of the Trades Council, who had been appointed to confer with the window glass men in regard to the proposed investigation, had broken faith with them and had the minutes of the meeting published in spite of the fact that the promise had been made to keep that part secret.

The members of the Window Glass Union are very indignant, and they repudiate all the charges made against them.

"There were statements in those minutes which the window glass men are gharding as anxiously as anything, and they would not like to see them published on any account," said the friend. "These men committed a very serious piece of indiscretion by giving such things away. However, I am sure that the window glass workers do not want to have any more to do with the men, and the investigation is off beyond a doubt.

"The Window Glass Association will draw up a statement, and they will ask the Trades Council to sue them in the United States Court on the charges which they want to have investigated now. If the Trades Council refuses to do that then the window glass men will see themselves in court, and the entire thing will come out anyway. Certain men should have treated the confidence of L. A. 300 in a little more courteous manner. They had no right to give away the financial minutes of the proceedings of any of their meetings, and for that reason they refuse to have any more to do with them. In my opinion the whole fight has been nothing else than a political dodge from beginning to end."

President Campbell was seen at his office by a DISPATCH reporter last night and said: "We have not refused to be investigated, and arready at any time to have a committee look into our books. We do not propose to suo curselves, but are willing to stand a amit if necessary—as we nave done nothing that le wrong. Our association, who is employed at Jones & Laughlins' mill, and William Mehe, President of the Musical Mutual Protectiv have spoken to are willing to allow the case to go into his hands. There seems to be an effort on the part of some of the members of the Knights of Labor to prove that I had a hand in bringing these men over, but I will not say any-thing until the matter is tried."

THERE IS NO SPLIT

A letter was received from P. J. Me-Guire, of the American Federation of Labor, and one of the national officers of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, yesterday, denying a statement recently published in the corner of Thirty-ninth and Butler streets. Two hundred and fifty dollars have been subscribed. The Ramors of Trouble Between the Car-statement was to the effect that a split was imminent among the carpenters, and that the brotherhood would fight the K. of L.

Mr. McGuire denies that any general officer has ever issued a circular notifying members of the wortherhood that any of them who are members of the Knights of Labor cannot receive sick, death or strike benefits. He adds that he and a few hundred other members of the brotherhood are members of mixed assembles of the Knights of Labor, are friendly to harmonious relations, and he has recently been in conference with Mr. T. V. Powderly. The brotherhood has no objection to its members joining mixed assembles of the Knights of Labor, but does not permit them to be in more than one organization of carpenters.

The brotherhood has no objection to its members joining mixed assembles of the Knights of Labor, and attributes the stories of this nature that have been circulated in Pittaburg within the past year to someone who is envious of the good name, progress and prosperity of the Carpenters Union.

The handsome little monument over the grave of the late Major Gustav Schleiter, in the Homewood Cemetery, was unveiled yester-day afternoon, with appropriate ceremonies. Mrs. Schleiter, the de-ceased's widow, and her family were there, ac-companied by Mr. Schleiter's aged mether. The exercises were presided over by Judge Collier. Rev. Carl Weil made the opening prayer, after which Judge Collier referred to the dead citizen and soldier and said: "I knew this good brother personally. We are here to-day, the friends of that man who deserves well of those he left behind, and of his country. I feel justified in saying he was a good man, a good father, a good husband, a good son and a good soldier."

It is an numble tribute from those who knew him in this life, and who cherish the recollection of him as one who was a patriot-a worthy citizen-a brave soldier-a kind, true and tender-hearted man. When the hand of traitors was raised against the flag he was among the first to volunteer for its protection. How well and nobly he discharged that duty we all know. Around us to-tay are gathered men who served with him in his command, and who with eyes dimmed with tears in silence tell a far greater story of his bravery as a soldier, his kindness as an officer and his worth as a man, than words of mine can do. About Fifteen Delegates Will Go to the National Convention. The regular weekly meeting of the Allegheny County Brewers' Association was held yesterday at their rooms on Fourth avenue. The meetings, which were formerly so prolific of spicy incidents and news items, have now settled down into merely routine work. At yesterday's gathering the most important matter was the discussion of Judge White's speech at Old City Hall. The President of the association, Mr. Straub, discussed it at great length, and pointed out a number of inconsistent remarks in the address. The statements made by Judge White, while sitting in the License Court, were shown to be at variance with some of his remarks Tuesday evening. The discussion was merely informal, and no action upon the matter was taken.

It was decided to send as many delegates to the national convention as could possibly attend, in order to make as good impression upon the national organization as possible and thus help them secure and. About 15 or 16 delegates will go from this city. The convention will be held Tuesday, June 4-st Niagara Fails. The delegates will leave via the Aliegheny Valley. Railroad Monday evening.

The Campaign Committee reported progress at the meeting, and was continued. The work of sending out the anti-prohibition literature is being pushed with vigor. The force of clerks under Secretary Kemmick has been increased to about a dozen. The meeting to be held next week has been postponed. At yesterday's gathering the most i

Five young brides and five grooms with more than the responsibilities of married life suddenly cast on them will sail away for heathen lands.

Three of the young men will be sent and sustained for the ten years by churches. Mr. Fife will be sent by the Second United Presbyterian Church, Allegheny. Mr. Cummings by the Fourth United Presbyterian Church, Allegheny, and Mr. Nichols by the Third United Presbyterian Church, Allegheny, and Mr. Nichols by the Third United Presbyterian Church, Pittsburg. They will labor principally among the Mohammedans and Copts. The laster are a fanatical race, who have some ideas of religion, but very corrupt practices. Until the English gained a nominal control over them they were accustomed to put to death those of their friends who professed religion in its true light, and a missionary's life was not all pleasure. But this is changed greatly now.

Although a missionary has to leave his friends and give himself up wholly to the work of the Lord, his life is rarely one of privation in the present age. None of the luxuries of life are denied him. They always have comfortable, though somewhat rude and novelhouses, and their salaries make it possible for them to live very comfortably. In a town of any size where he is located, in a short time he is locked up to as authority and respected and is looked up to as authority and respected and is often nominally chief. The climate is the worst difficulty to contend with and unless a man or woman is physically sound they often come back to die or are burned in the land of their endeavors. Those that go now are subjected to a physical examination, according to the rule of the United Presbyterian Church. In addition to the five mentioned above, a missionary will be sent by Zenia College, making six in all.

A Report That He Will Take Charge of the of St. Thomas' Church at Braddock, had been offered the pastorate of St. Peter's Pro-Cathedral in Allegheny. It was stated that Father Hickey's friends in Braddock were the authority for the statement. An effort was made to see the reverend gentlemen, but he is ill, and is preparing to take a trip to Virginia for the benedit of his health.

The rumor was to the effect that the place was tendered and had been accepted by Father Hickey. He was to take charge of the Allegheny parish upon the date of the removal of Bishop Phelan to the episcopal residence on Grant street. This was to be done in a few days, and was made necessary by the reunion of the two diocesse. When Bishop Phelan was made coadjutor he still retained his pastorate at the pro-cathedral.

Father Hickey is probably the oldest priest in the diocese, and would welcome a change. When he was sent to Braddock he was promised the first chance at any vacancy that night occur in the diocese. The people of the thriving little borough where he now is, will be very sorry to see him leave. Under his pastorate a magnificent church and school building was erected.
