A PERSONAL FAVOR

Granted Russell Harrison by General Master Workman Powderly.

TO HELP TOM FURLONG.

Why the Labor Leader's Vigorous Protest was Withdrawn.

PUBLIC PRINTER PALMER IS AT WORK.

A Large Number of Trimmers Fired From the Government Printing Office—Mr. Powderly Tells What Induced Him to Withdraw His Opposition to Detective Furlong—Western Pennsylvania Knights Report Their Protests Against His Appointment—Russell Harrison's Influence With the General Master Workman.

The manner in which Detective Thomas Furlong ceased to be opposed by organized labor as in his candidacy for a Government position is being looked into by other labor leaders. It is now charged that Powderly's protest was withdrawn as a personal favor to Russell Harrison.

WASHINGTON, August 1.—The features of the movement to appoint Detective Tom Furlong, of the Gould Railroad system, to the chieftainship of the Secret Service of the Treasury Department, grow more and more queer, the nearer the matter approaches a final conclusion. In answer to the resolution adopted by the Knights of Labor of Maryland and the Federation of Labor of that State against the appointment of Furlong, the President has thought it worth while to send the following communication which came into the possession of the correspondent of THE DISPATCH this evening:

The President directs me to acknowledge the receipt of your telegram, which has been called to my attention, and to say that the appointment is not Presidential, but is made by the Secretary of the Treasury, to whom your telegram has been referred. It is but fair to say, however, that Furlong's appointment has been strongly urged by leading Knights of Labor, among others, Mr. Blake, the Chief Organizer. Mr. Powderly has withdrawn his protest, saying that he had been misled and was mistaken.

THE PRESIDENT'S INTEREST. The last paragraph of this communication shows some concern that, though the appointment is not Presidential, the President is deeply interested, and has kept himself informed of papers which, if the President is not interested, should be known only to the Secretary of the Treasury.

A FAVOR TO RUSSELL. For some reason Russell Harrison takes an especial interest in having Furlong appointed, as appears from a long communication from T. V. Powderly in this week's Journal of United Labor, which will be published to-morrow. Mr. Powderly says that when in Washington, April 7 last, he heard that Furlong was a candidate for the position of Chief of the Secret Service, and acted a protest with Secretary Windom on behalf of the Knights of Labor against his appointment. May 17 Mr. Powderly received a visit from Mortimer D. Shaw, who was the agent of the United Press in St. Louis, during the strike of 1886. During the conversation Mr. Shaw said: "I have seen Russell Harrison, and he wants you to modify your protest, if you do not withdraw it. Mr. Furlong will be appointed anyway, and Mr. Harrison thinks it would be a GRACIOUS ACT.

to your part to at least modify the protest on your part to the Secretary. Mr. Furlong performed a service for Mr. Harrison, the President, during the campaign, and he wishes to repay him. I then asked Mr. Shaw if he heard that from Russell Harrison, and he said: "I have told you what Mr. Harrison said to me, and furthermore, he said that he controlled a number of newspapers, and it would be to your (my) interest to withdraw the protest."

Mr. Powderly next day received a letter signed "E. B. Harrison," in which the latter said: "I have known Mr. Furlong for some time, and his friends are anxious that he should not, owing to your letter, be left in a POSITION OF HOSTILITY to labor organizations. I trust that you will see your way clear to write a letter to Secretary Windom, modifying your position in reference to Mr. Furlong. This, I think, would be an act of justice as well as generosity on your part, and consistent with your well-known reputation for fairness. His many friends, including myself, would appreciate this act of courtesy."

Mr. Powderly wrote a letter to Mr. Harrison, giving his reasons for his opposition to Furlong's appointment. After at first opposing Mr. Powderly's course, the officers of the order in St. Louis were induced to ask him to withdraw his protest, which the General Master Workman subsequently withdrew.

Knights of Labor here say that the action of the St. Louis Knights, and of Mr. Powderly and of Mr. Blake, is but another instance of the manner in which the rank and file of the order are MISREPRESENTED BY OFFICIALS who assume to be leaders, and who decide, without consultation, upon any course which they may be influenced to pursue by capitalists or other considerations. It is possible that Mr. Powderly withdrew his protest simply on account of the alleged actions of the St. Louis Assembly, feeling that he had no right to oppose their position in regard to the appointment, but this does not satisfy the Knights as a mass, who know how the officials of assemblies are often led by the nose by capitalist and political influence.

The Knights here have established the fact that Furlong's appointment is to be a reward for his services in Indiana during the campaign, and to Russell Harrison in the $40,000 libel suit of Schuyler Crosby against "Prince" Russell's Montana newspaper, and with these weapons in their hands, with the declaration of Furlong that his mission in life was to break up labor organizations, they think they are strong enough to make it very hot for the administration if the former Pittsburgher be appointed.

MANY KNIGHTS DISAPPOINTED. A special from Franklin, Pa., to-night says: The District Assembly of the Knights of Labor, composed of the assemblies in Erie, Warren, Venango, Crawford and Forest counties, closed a three days' session in this city to-day. The representation was large. The sessions of the assembly were secret, but it was learned that a vast amount of very important business was transacted. The proposed appointment of Thomas Furlong as Chief of the United States Secret Service was discussed, and the members very emphatically expressed themselves as opposed to the appointment.

FIKSK NOT A FLOPPER.

The Great Prohibitionist in Search of the Man Who Said He Was About to Leave His Party for the Republicans.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, August 1.—There's a man in New Jersey somewhere whom General Clinton B. Fisk wants to catch. This man, whoever he is, has been writing articles from Trenton to various newspapers, saying that General Fisk has practically deserted the Prohibitionist party and is now a free lance, who will probably take the first graceful opportunity he can get back into the ranks of the Republicans. The latest article of this description appeared in the Chicago Tribune, on July 23. General Fisk says the man wrote a lot of stuff in the same vein for the Mail and Express, until Colonel Shepard stopped it. The Commercial Advertiser, too, has been among the victims. The articles are based on General Fisk's statement of a restoration of the high license law to the New Jersey State books. He proposes to get it back by advising people to vote with the party that will put it back.

"I don't believe in high license," General Fisk said to-day, "but I believe in letting the people who do believe in it find out that though of course there is some increase and that prohibition is the only true remedy. I may vote for a Democrat or a Republican next fall, but it will be under the Prohibition banner. The situation in New Jersey is this: We will all unite under the one flag, upon one candidate, for Governor M. LeMonte. For the Legislature the difficult thing is to get the party to adopt as nominees such men nominated by another party who are known temperance men. In many cases, doubtless, such men are Republicans. Some of them are Democrats, on the other hand, and will be likely to vote with the Democrats if they put up a man of temperance principles. The situation is a strongly Democratic one. If Major Yard, a Democratic leader there, and a temperance man, is nominated by the Democrats, as is likely, I will support him."

"So it will be elsewhere. Our policy is to put our legislative votes on temperance men of any party where they can be elected, though of course there are many in the party who would not vote for any but a Prohibitionist under any circumstances."

MAKING THEM SKIP.

Public Printer Palmer Cleaning House as a Lively Rate.—The Dead Beasts and Trimmers Packing Their Grips for a Trip.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. WASHINGTON, August 1.—Public Printer Palmer has just given the Government Printing Office a lively overhauling. He has discharged about twenty of them, and nearly every one appointed through the influence of Senator Gorman by the late Benedict. Gorman got more employes into the printing office than all other Congressmen combined, and it was said that he would be able to keep them there through the influence of the President of the United States. When Benedict was appointed Public Printer, Oyster was also an aspirant. His failure soured him and he became a Democrat. When Benedict was appointed, Oyster was in the field, but it was concluded he was too smart for his place. He and two or three of his enthusiastic supporters were among those who walked the picket line for the new Public Printer, who is supposed to this very desirable place to succeed Oyster, is a brother of Edward Ramsey, of the Craftsman, which party Oyster was in throughout the union endeavoring in every way to "down" during the tenure of Benedict. These removals are the cue to the determination of Mr. Palmer to clean up the office, and to fill it with respectable and practical men.

A MONUMENT TO THE PILGRIMS

Unveiled at Plymouth Rock With Appropriate Ceremonies.

KENTUCKY FURNISHES THE ORATOR.

Sen. W. C. P. Breckinridge Elegantly Describes the Puritan Virtues.

A handsome monument to the memory of the Pilgrim Fathers was dedicated at Plymouth Rock yesterday. Congressman Breckinridge, of Kentucky, was the orator of the occasion. The exercises were of a very interesting character. A special telegram to the DISPATCH. PLYMOUTH, MASS., August 1.—Under skies which ever and anon poured forth a copious libation in honor of the ceremony a vast concourse of people to-day assisted in the dedication of the monument erected in memory of the Pilgrim Fathers. The monument is situated on one of the highest hills in Plymouth, about northwest of the rock on which the Pilgrims landed, and west of the anchorage of the Mayflower. As it now stands completed it cost about $200,000. It is of solid Hallowell granite throughout, and consists of an octagonal pedestal 45 feet high, upon the center of which stands the figure of "Faith." This figure is 35 feet high, and rests with one foot on Plymouth Rock, holding in her left hand the open Bible, while the right arm, uplifted, points heavenward to emphasize the meaning. Mr. Hammat Billings, a Boston architect, designed the monument, which was started in 1853, and after his death in 1874 his brother Jack carried it on. The following is the inscription on the main shaft: "National Monument to the Forefathers, erected by a grateful people in remembrance of their labors, sacrifices and sufferings for the cause of civil and religious liberty."

KILLED A SEA SERPENT.

The Immense Monster That Was Slaughtered by Means of Bombs.—PANAMA, July 24.—Captain William F. Smith, of the bark Nautilus, reports that when off Cape Berkeley, Galapago Islands, a sea serpent was seen about 30 yards from the vessel. Captain Smith estimated the serpent's length at 60 feet, and he was twice as large as a crocodile. The head was about three feet in length, and the body was as thick as a man's arm. The head was a mass of hair. No fins were seen. The tail was long and spreading and shaped like that of an eel.

The serpent was killed by a bomb, which was thrown by the crew. The bomb was a small one, and it was thrown by the crew. The serpent was killed by a bomb, which was thrown by the crew. The bomb was a small one, and it was thrown by the crew.

A CHICAGO JEWELRY JOBBEE

Comes to Grief, and His Stock is Attached by the Creditors.—CHICAGO, August 1.—The Sheriff to-day levied on the jewelry stock of Max Young, a jobber in jewelry at No. 170 State street. The stock was first attached at the residence of the debtor. The Sheriff's men came on a claim of about $2,000. Later in the day a judgment for $2,100, in favor of the Chicago National Bank, was entered up and a levy made to satisfy it. His stock of goods in every store of his connection and his liabilities are nearly all in the East, and it is not known how much they amount to. The Sheriff's men are now in possession of the stock, and the man is considerably over the moon. Young dealt with watch and watch case manufacturers who are outside the trust.

John L. Sullivan Decides to Go to Mississippi and Stand Trial.

HE WON'T DENY HIS IDENTITY.

The Only Way in Which He Could Fight the Requisition Warrant.

HE HAS NO DOUBTS HE WILL BE FINED.

But So Thought of Imprisonment Now Enter the Champion's Mind.

Much to the surprise of many, John L. Sullivan, when arraigned in New York yesterday, made no opposition to the requisition of the Governor of Mississippi, but said he would go South at once. He doesn't expect to be imprisoned, but thinks a fine will settle his case easily. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, August 1.—It may be said to have been the effect of a night spent in police headquarters, where there is no bar, that gave Champion John L. Sullivan such a rusty appearance this morning. His massive, square face was colorless, and there was a deeper drop in the corner of his mouth than usual. Being a great fighter, he was, of course, treated with profound deference, and so much time was given him to prepare himself that it was nearly 11 o'clock before he started for the General Sessions.

His will provided that his property should be distributed among his legal heirs. He had been advised that there was no law against prize fighting. He supposed when he left New Orleans that he was to fight in the State of Louisiana, and it was not until the night before he was in Wichita that he was advised that there was no law against prize fighting. The Government is in communication with officials at Victoria, British Columbia. The report that Canada has advised a bold move to be made by the British Government is not disposed to recognize American pretensions in Behring Sea, but after all will have to acquiesce in the course of the imperial administration.

THE HUSTLER INSANE.

Horace B. Phillips, of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, ATTACKED BY ACUTE PARESIS, Which His Physician Says is of Rapid Growth and Incurable.

VISIONS OF GIANTIC PROJECTS

And Immense Wealth Fit the Mind of the Demented Manager.—PHILADELPHIA, August 1.—Horace B. Phillips, Manager of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, is confined to his room at the Girard House, suffering from acute paresis. His mind is seriously affected, and the symptoms of the disease, which were noticeable in the case of Actor John McCullough, Sheriff W. Ellwood Rowan, Dramatist Bartley Campbell and hundreds of others who have succumbed to the disease. In the first stages the patient invariably has visions of enormous wealth, coupled with great generosity, which are followed by mental and physical depression. All of these symptoms Mr. Phillips has exhibited, and it is considered by his friends that hopes of recovery are slight.

A BASEBALL MONOPOLIST.

As the sole owner of all the baseball clubs of the country he proposed to make innovations in the national game and have it conducted upon a more liberal basis. This he intended to do by the purchase of the ordinary listener would have supposed that he was entirely rational, his manner being so quiet. With a sudden impulse of generosity Clark Canack was directed to buy a number of hotels, including some of the best in New York and Washington. He proposed that Mr. Canack should exercise a general supervision over this list of investments.

POETRY GAINS A PARDON.

An Englishman Rewarded for His Lines on President Harrison.—SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. SAN FRANCISCO, August 1.—A campaign paper in praise of Harrison, which a forger in San Quince prison wrote last fall and printed in a month paper here, has just secured his pardon. This showed how well a 36-line poem, entitled "The Old Soldier's Story," giving a stirring description of how General Benjamin Harrison led the troops at Remes, and drove like a whirl before the wind the traitors to this land, had won for the author a pardon. The poem, with an account of the author, was dispatched to Mrs. Harrison just after the election of her husband. She sent the convict a reply full of religious and good advice, and gave him when his term expired. He lost no time in returning the facts, in genuine pathetic style. Mrs. Harrison referred the matter to her son, George W. Stout, a pastor, who secured the facts about the convict's record, verified them in England, returned the documents to Mrs. Harrison, and the pardon was granted to Governor Waterman, of California, asking him to pardon the prisoner.

NOT A LAW BREAKER.

Mr. Sullivan does not deny that he is the person named in the warrant, said Mr. Sullivan. "I say and I mean that I have examined the papers, but I am satisfied that the proceedings are regular, and that they can't be successfully attacked. Mr. Sullivan has already made up his mind to go to Mississippi and submit himself to the authorities there."

IF A MARVELOUS FAST.

Not an Ounce of Solid Food Eaten in Full 30 Days.—INDIANAPOLIS, August 1.—Robert Marvel, of Pike county, in this county, has fasted for the fifth day of his fast. A doctor from this city goes out every fifth day. The doctor said to-night that Marvel has not eaten an ounce of solid food in 30 days, and may live on in this way for 100. He continued: "That story recently published about his eating a piece of pie and some other things is untrue. During all the time he has taken several pints of milk. He is quite vigorous and pugilistic. This fasting has entirely changed his nature. Before he was very genial, now he is ready to fight anyone who comes near his bed. I have great trouble in feeling his pulse. He strikes at me, and I get my hand on his wrist he twists it until I have to let go."

O'Sullivan Wants a Change of Venue.

CHICAGO, August 1.—Counsel for Patrick O'Sullivan, under indictment for complicity in the conspiracy to murder Dr. Cronin, filed in Judge Horton's court this morning a new application for a change of venue. The action was based on the fact that the motion to the same effect made yesterday. The new motion will probably be passed on by the Court to-morrow.
