MIGHTY FORESTS DISROBED FOR WIRES

In the days of that worthy caliph whom the faithful have named McCallin, the First, there dwelt by the brown Monogahela an inquisitive man. And, going forth one evening, this person chanced to perceive an unhappy individual, whom the fumes of the wine cup had left helpless, leaning for support against a Wood Street telegraph pole.

So saying, he hurried down the thorough streets, passing myriads of poles upon his way, and reached, at length, the office of the Secretary.

"In the name of the Prophet, hail! I have come hither to learn certain facts concerning Pittsburgh's telegraph and electric poles.

"That would make over 250,000 poles!" quoth the inquisitive man.

"Perhaps more," said the wise Secretary, puffing his chin and looking at the inquirer, "for some of the newspapers are not in Pittsburgh about 10,000 miles of wire, according to a high authority, cited some three years since.

A mighty forest spreads its roots in the very heart of this bustling city! Tall, shapely cedars overshadow our highest business houses; fragrant chestnuts unfold their milkwhite buds in the very center of our most frequented thoroughfares.

Francis Wilson's Description of a Visit to Mt. Vernon.

THE GREAT WORK OF EDWARD EVERETT

(CORRESPONDENCE OF THE DISPATCH.) WASHINGTON, November 2.—The stringing up which the friends of the Knights Templar here and elsewhere have given to the Mount Vernon Association may result in a Congressional investigation, and it is possible the Government will take hold of the home and last resting-place of the father of the people who created the good of the country and made it the glory of the world.

Mr. Everett seconded her efforts and undertook, individually, to raise much of the necessary money to carry out his plans. He delivered March 19, 1856, till June, 1859—123 times—his oration on Washington, the proceeds being devoted to the Mount Vernon fund.

POWDERLY'S PLANS.

Several Suggestions He Will Have Made to Congress—The Order of the Knights of Labor Gradually Growing—Finances in Good Shape.

PHILADELPHIA, November 3.—General Master Workman, W. V. Powderly, said this afternoon: "The rumors which have been floating around alleging that the order of the Knights of Labor is weakening, and that the Executive Board is in a state of disorganization are entirely false. They originate in Pittsburgh, from a set of villains who are too dishonorable to sign their names to the charges, but I know they are now, although I have been in ignorance of the identity for some time past."

"There was a recommendation made some time ago by William R. Gooden, of Brooklyn, that the Census Department should take the census in winter, in order to ascertain the number of idle men and tramps that are found in the cities. Now, that is folly. The census is taken every ten years, and it might be possible that employment would be given to these idle men during that time, in order to keep the streets the real truth quiet. I think it should be the duty of the National Labor Department to take statistics every year, in the winter, and then we would know something about the state of the labor market, and we would be better enabled to base legislation on measures of reform that will represent the true state of affairs and not a mere appearance."

"I believe that we should urge upon Congress," Mr. Powderly continued, "to instruct Superintendent of the Census Porter to ascertain the number of persons who own their own homes, and of those who own and operate their own farms, as well as those whose homes and farms are mortgaged; and also the number and extent of these mortgages. Then we will know who own the country. I intend to introduce in our general assembly a plan by which a memorial shall be circulated in every State, and we will petition that body to take action with regard to these suggestions."

A. W. Wright, member of the Executive Board, said: "I have been in the city since the order: 'At the end of the last quarter, July, we had a paid-in per capita tax of $12.70. Now, in addition to this, there are certain assemblies that are not members of this tax—those who have been on a strike and those who have assisted strikers, which relieved nearly 15,000 members from this tax. Last week we issued 20 charters to newly-organized assemblies."

A TRIPARTITE PURCHASE. $20, $25, $18, $25.

It was a good stroke when the designer and manufacturer brought together into one, three such useful pieces of furniture as are combined in the piece represented in this cut. The result saves you almost two-thirds of both cost and space.

Let us count up the advantage of this artistic combination of Parlor Cabinet, Writing Desk and Bookcase.

THE BOOKCASE—The four shelves will carry fifty to sixty volumes, all instantly accessible when writing. The added weight of books will give both real and apparent solidity to the whole. The glass door keeps out dust.

WORTH ALONE $20.

THE WRITING DESK—The face of the drop lid is elegantly carved in heavy relief. Below are three commodious drawers. The interior arrangement of small drawer and six partitioned spaces is just a good size for home needs or for a professional man's daily use.

WORTH ALONE $25.

THE CABINET TOP of graceful design and carving has three graceful spaces for Bookwork Vases, and is backed by a circular beveled mirror.

WORTH ALONE $18.

The wood is oak in antique finish. Bookcase, Desk and Drawers all have lock and key. The handles and trimmings are of antique brass. We can the climax of advantage by the price, $25, which you would have guessed for any one of the three pieces.

It is a type of the good values offered all through our FURNITURE DEPARTMENT.
