HE WAS A MASHER.

One Bradford or Bradshaw Who is Languishing in the Wheeling Jail.

A telegram received from Wheeling last night states that a man giving the name of James Bradford, whose name is said to be H. Taylor Bradshaw, and who seems to have wife and to be generally known in Allegheny, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of swindling a number of prominent citizens out of various sums. He was sent to jail, and will have a hearing in about a week.

Bradshaw's plan was to persuade Henry Gilwick, an agent of the Lutheran Evangelist, of the value of the money on subscriptions. He is also charged with petit larceny. In his clothes were a lot of letters from Allegheny and Allegheny ladies, among whom he seems to have been quite a favorite. He seems to have made much promise of marriage, and is alleged to have married and deserted one. One girl threatens suicide if he persists in wanting to marry her.

The name Bradshaw appears in the local directory, but no man with the initials given is registered. Either the name is assumed, or there must be some mistake. A diligent search failed to locate such a citizen.

Mr. Douglass is in the Old Soldiers' Home at Erie, but is always welcome at his sister's home. He went away after the holidays, and is supposed to have saved up his money as above stated. It is now in bank and will await his return.
