

HOLMAN'S HOLD GONE.

Magic Power of the Chief Cheese Parer Fairly Broken at Last.

THE CHAMPIONS OF AGRICULTURE.

Headed by Mr. Hatch, Overcome the Hoosier in an Open Fight.

ALL BARRIERS AND TRADITIONS DOWN

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The magic power of Chairman Holman, of the Appropriations Committee was broken in the House today, for the first time this session, and all the barriers and traditions which precedents and practice have thrown around that committee were borne down under the impetuous sway of the champions of agriculture.

Cost of the Government Exhibit. Among the executive communications presented by the speaker which were appropriately referred to was one from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. Blanchard, of Louisiana, and Mr. Coombs, of New York, were excused from further service on the committee of militia.

The Urgent Deficiency Bill Passed. The urgent deficiency appropriation bill was then on motion of Mr. Sayers, of Texas, taken up and passed without amendment or debate.

Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, called up the bill appropriating (as a deficiency) $150,000 for carrying on the work of the Bureau of Animal Industry, and $10,000 for experiments in the production of sugar.

The exciting incident of the day occurred when Mr. Holman, of Indiana, opened the bill on the ground that the committee on Agriculture had no jurisdiction over the matter, and that it properly came under the jurisdiction of the committee on appropriations.

Mr. Hatch declined to be catechized by the gentleman from Indiana, but Mr. White, of Iowa, a member of the committee on Agriculture, associated with the gentleman from Indiana, and he never brought in a report from the committee on Agriculture that had not been attacked because it was unconstitutional or had not been reported by the committee on Appropriations.

"If the gentleman set a trap," said Mr. White, "I did not apprehend it. I thought that the gentleman asked a legitimate question, whether or not any witnesses were before the committee on Agriculture. I replied that we were not, and the gentleman who do the work, and we come into the House and demand the appropriation, because it is absolutely necessary."

Mr. Hatch said he regarded Mr. Holman's objection as resting upon the foundation that the appropriations carried in the bill had not been properly inquired into, because they had been investigated by the committee on Appropriations instead of by the committee on Agriculture [Laughter].

The fact was, continued the speaker, that the committee had before it the Secretary of Agriculture, the heads of the various bureaus, and three or four members of Congress. The committee had reported a bill, not by leave of the gentleman from Indiana or by favor of the committee on Appropriations, but under the rules of the House which gave the committee on Agriculture jurisdiction over all appropriations for the Agricultural Department.

Mr. Holman—It is a deficiency. Mr. Hatch—That is a distinction without a difference.

Continuing, Mr. Hatch said that time and time again he had seen that gentleman from Indiana take the constitutional knife and pare appropriations so that they could not be seen under a microscope; and when his own State was in need of money, he would do doors wider than was necessary to allow this Capitol to go through.

One of the first speeches he had ever heard the gentleman make was in favor of a bill to build a turnpike road in Indiana. Where the gentleman got the constitutional authority to build a turnpike road in Indiana he could never say.

The bill was then passed, and the House went into committee of the Whole (Mr. Outwater, of Ohio, in the chair), on the invalid pension appropriation bill. The discussion which ensued was directed to the relative position of the Democratic and Republican parties on the subject of pensions.

An Old-Time Partisan Debate. The speeches made were for the most part directed toward this question, Mr. Boutelle, of Maine, making the principal speech in denunciation of the Democratic attitude, and serving notice upon the Democratic party that it would be held to a strict account by the people if it took upon itself the responsibility of talking upon the most sacred of all the expenditures of the Government.

Mr. Tarsney, of Missouri, defended the bill and the appropriations made under it. The time had passed, and the gentleman could make political capital out of the pension question by telling the pensioners

SAGE GIVES IT AWAY

That the Reading People Will Show Up Prices to the Limit.

AN EXCHANGE OF DIRECTORIES.

Dillon and Others Also Testify Concerning the Coalers' Deal

BEFORE THE NEW YORK COMMITTEE

NEW YORK, March 5.—The inquiry into the Reading deal was continued this morning by the State Senate Committee. Sydney Dillon, Russell Sage and Messrs. Williams and Oakman, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, who had been summoned as witnesses, were also promptly on hand.

Sydney Dillon, the first witness, told what little he knew about the change in the directorship of the New Jersey Central and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western. Russell Sage was examined on much the same lines as Mr. Dillon, and gave the same reasons for his retirement from the directorship as those given by Mr. Dillon for his retirement. He understood that there was to be an exchange of directory, and two of the Jersey Central were to be put on the Lackawanna Board. That programme had been carried out, as he understood, Mr. Sage said that a combination of the coal-carriers' railroads would force prices up.

"You think the intention is to advance prices as far as the market will bear?" asked counsel. "Yes, sir; to advance the prices as far as they dare. I have no doubt of it. They are feeling the public pulse at present."

Mr. Sage explained that there was no limit to the prices. Such a combination, as he understood had been made, could control the market.

S. W. Williams, Controller of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, was the third witness. He understood there was a combination between some of the roads. He had not seen a draft of the contract between the Central and the Port Reading Railroad, nor had any contract between the roads been filed with him or they should if such contracts had been made.

W. G. Oakman, Secretary of the New Jersey Central, testified that he had been ported to be an agreement between his road and the Port Reading. It had been sent to Philadelphia and is now in the hands of the Reading, but he understood that there had been an agreement of some kind between the Reading and the Central.

Heavy Failure in the East. Large consignment made to Thompson's New York Grocery and must be disposed of in a very short time. If you want bargains come quick, as they cannot last long at the prices offered.
