

to the Democratic organizations of the State, and the gentlemen who were associated with them in the active conduct of the campaign. I do not underestimate the importance of this national victory. It means continued Democratic ascendancy in the near future to itself and the country. It means the speedy dissolution of the Republican party; it means a revenue tariff, reduced taxes, home rule, free election, economical administration of public affairs, higher standard of official action. It means peace and prosperity to the country.

BELLAMY IS OPTIMISTIC.

He Claims the Victory is More for Populists Than Democrats. BOSTON, Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Edward Bellamy, one of the propounders of the People's party, thus outlines the political situation as it appeared to him today. He said:

The People's party feel in exceptionally fine feather. It has achieved extraordinary success. I am more than pleased at the result of the election. It was due to the activity of the People's party. We have got Kansas, Nevada, Wisconsin, North Dakota, Oregon, Colorado, and Nebraska, and we feel that we can rightfully claim several of the Southern States. We did not expect to elect the President, but we feel that we can be sure of a People's party President in 1896. The spirit of the People's party is revolt against monopoly and against the power in this country. As to the Republican party, it will have to take up some of the radical issues brought to the front by the People's party if it expects to live. I question whether it will ever be a party of the future. In the future it will have to adopt the national issue of money; that is, greenbackism as opposed to the Democratic idea of silver. Of course, this will mean a divorce between the Republican party and the capitalistic power, but it will also mean a divorce between the Republican party and the industrial power. It will mean a divorce between the Republican party and the industrial power. It will mean a divorce between the Republican party and the industrial power.

QUAY TELLS THE REASON.

There Was a Lack of Votes, and the Voters All Knew Why. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Senator Quay arrived here this morning from Pittsburg. He remained only a few minutes at his hotel, and then went out and visited a number of places on personal business, finally bringing up at the Republican State Committee headquarters. Collector Cooper and a reporter found him there this afternoon. Mr. Quay silently shook hands with his callers, and then sinking into a chair, said: "This is awful." Turning to Collector Cooper, he asked: "What have you heard?"

DEAD IN HIS BOOTS.

A Clothed Skeleton Found Hanging in a Braddock Township Coal Mine. ITS DISCOVERER FAINTS. The Hair and Beard of the Dead Man Are Still Growing. IT IS SUPPOSED TO BE A SUICIDE. The Dead Was Probably Committed Over Two Years Ago. A MYSTERY THAT IS YET UNSOLVED. Half sitting, half hanging was the dressed and booted skeleton of a man found in a coal mine in Braddock township. Tuesday evening John Nevin discovered this weird, ghastly spectacle. As his little lamp revealed to him the hideous sight, Nevin fell in a faint.

REFORM IN ALLEGHENY.

It Is Not Dead, but the Reform Association Will See to It That Good Citizens Vote at the Primaries Next Spring for Council. While the Presidential election has overshadowed every other issue during the past few weeks, it does not follow that no other political work has been going on. In Allegheny the Reform Association, having favored the issuing of $2,500,000 of bonds, has been quietly at work preparing for the struggle at the spring election when the Councilmen will be elected who will control the spending of this immense sum of money. It is not their intention to put any ticket in the field, but rather to work irrespective of party to secure the election of men who can be depended upon to vote against any jobs which may be sprung upon them.

SOME REASONS WHY.

Private Secretary Halford and Mr. Noble Had No Explanations FOR THE REPUBLICAN DEFEAT. Horizontal Bill Morrison Says the McKinley Tariff Did It. THE SCHOOL QUESTION IN ILLINOIS. Some weary and sad-eyed Republicans of national repute and a few enthusiastic Democrats were at the Union depot last evening bound for Washington and other Eastern points. They had been home to vote, and all were greatly surprised, the President's friends at his poor showing and the Democrats at Cleveland's wonderful run of luck. In the Republican crowd were Private Secretary Halford, Secretary of the Interior Noble and Assistant Postmaster General Hatchell. On the same train was Horizontal Bill Morrison, of Illinois, the Chairman of the Inter-State Commerce Commission. He was going to Washington with the others and was accompanied by his wife. Private Secretary Halford and Mr. Noble discussed the landslide all day, but they couldn't come to any conclusion about the causes. Mr. Noble was in a very irritable mood, and showed that his disappointment over the result was keen. As a rule he is very affable and willing to talk, but last evening he declined to say a word. He said his throat was sore and he was very tired. His voice was husky and it was evident he had used it extensively on the stump in Missouri. Mr. Noble looked like a man who was ready to "scrap" with his best friend.

NOT A DEMOCRATIC VICTORY.

Mrs. Lee Thinks the Result Shows a Breaking Up of Old Party Lines. Ex-Senator J. W. Lee returned to Pittsburg from his home in Franklin yesterday. He received a letter from his wife, in which he thought she fully explained the Republican Waterloo. Mrs. Lee wrote: "The result is not so much a Democratic victory as the breaking up of old party lines. The people have discovered they hold some power, and they will exercise it in the future."

CAUSES FOR THE DEFEAT.

Amalgamated Association Officials Think They Were Labor Troubles. The Amalgamated Association officials were all busy yesterday and were apparently paying little attention to the result of the election. None of them were apparently very much worried over the result, and while many of them had cast their votes for the losing ticket they thought it might turn out for the best. Ex-President Weiler said: "It was a pretty good election and since the verdict is decisive it will have to go. I consider the labor troubles the chief cause of the overwhelming defeat of the Republicans. If you will notice these troubles have not been here alone, but in all parts of the country, and the fight on union labor was a potent factor in the past campaign. Whitehall Reid's attitude toward organized labor added no strength to the ticket and he must come in for a share of the blame for that defeat. The other officers present seconded his opinions. No Cause for Despondency. Sellers McKee went East last night. He takes a very pessimistic view of the Republican future. He says the party this year could not have elected the Pop. The people wanted a change and they got it. Mr. McKee adds that trade will not be injured. He flattered himself that so far as his business is concerned the Americans can make better and cheaper pressed glassware than the English.

THE FREIGHT BUREAU.

Nothing Accomplished at the Chamber of Commerce Meeting. The Chamber of Commerce Committee met yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock to discuss the matter of establishing a freight bureau. The following members of the committee were present: James B. Scott, Chairman; Colonel R. Moore, W. P. De Armit, J. Morton Hall, W. L. Seafie and W. C. Quincy. Henry Holdship, the other member of the committee, was unable to attend on account of sickness. Addresses were made by C. A. Painter and George T. Oliver. Mr. Painter's remarks were confined to the general freight traffic, and strongly urged the establishment of a freight bureau. He said there should be no discrimination in general freight traffic, but believes that in local freight traffic a discrimination that would be beneficial to local traffic should be made. Mr. Oliver's remarks were confined to the same subjects discussed by Mr. Painter, and their bearings were about the same. No action was taken by the committee, and the meeting was adjourned until 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, when some definite action will be taken regarding the establishing of a freight bureau.

MT. TROY'S PATRON.

The Household Effects of the Late Father Mollinger Sold. BOUGHT IN BY FATHER DUFFNER. The Medical Practice of the Dead Priest Will Be Abandoned. THE HEIRS WILL NOT GET VERY MUCH. The household effects of the late Father Mollinger were sold at auction yesterday morning at the parochial residence, Mt. Troy. With the exception of a carriage and buggy and a few small articles of jewelry everything was purchased by the Rev. Father John B. Duffner on behalf of the congregation of the Church of the Most Holy Name. "We had quite a large crowd here this morning," said Father Duffner in speaking of the sale. "There was not much bidding on the household furniture as nearly everyone present recognized the right of the congregation to hold these articles. I bought everything in the way of carpets and necessary furniture in behalf of the congregation, but the bric-a-brac and ornaments I purchased for my own use. I consider we got the articles at very reasonable prices, but they would not be worth near as much to anyone else, as they would not be adaptable in any but a very large house. The sale netted over $2,000. Of course, the greatest interest is manifested in the disposition to be made of the relics and ornaments in the chapel. We claim these belong to the church and not to the estate. This matter will be determined in the courts. Nothing will be done in this matter at present. Regarding the purchase of the house, I can only say it is offered to us at a reasonable figure we will buy it, but if not there are plenty of other places nearby that will answer our purpose just as well."

PROMISES TO DO BETTER.

The Weather Man Has a Better Article Than Yesterday's in Store. The weather seemed to go into mourning for the defeated political candidates yesterday, and made a gloomy time for Pittsburg. Early in the day the heavy clouds began to drop their contents upon the smoke-laden city. A murky darkness prevailed, and afforded little satisfaction to harrowed feelings or gloomy forebodings. The rain soon turned to snow and the soft, slushy, congested streets were a scene of confusion. Street cars had much difficulty in making their way through the streets, and had to run with care to avoid accidents. As evening drew on it became colder on the streets, and the snow was not yet melted. The sidewalks were covered with snow, which added much inconvenience to pedestrians. Few persons ventured out except from necessity, and then only for as short time as possible. This gave the streets a deserted appearance, and the rushing activity of Fifth avenue was noticeably lacking. The predictions of Observer Stewart are for clearer weather, with little change in the temperature. Pittsburg will likely enjoy better weather to-day.

ROBBED HIS BENEFACTOR.

James Brennan Adopts Desperate Measures to Secure Money. Michael Bolinski, a Pole living at 2834 Plum avenue, complained to Captain Waggoner, of the Twelfth ward police station, last night, that he had been assaulted and robbed of $125. When questioned he said he was robbed with a man named James Brennan, to whom in the early part of the evening he loaned $50. Later Brennan returned and demanded more. Bolinski refused his roommate, whereupon the latter threw him to the floor and, holding a knife to the prostrate man's throat, abstracted the $125. Brennan was subsequently arrested and while on his way to the station house made desperate efforts to escape.

DEMOCRATS WILL CELEBRATE.

Grand Jollification Parade Arranged for Next Saturday Evening. There will be a grand Democratic jollification parade on next Saturday evening, when it is expected that all the Democratic clubs will turn out, and also immense delegations not belonging to clubs, from all over the county. All organizations wishing to take part will report to the marshals of their division as early as possible and be on hand at 7:30 P. M. The following appointments have been announced: Major C. W. Wiley, marshal of the first division. This division will be composed of organizations in the city proper between the rivers and all organizations arriving in the city. Alex. Wilson will be marshal of the second division. This division will be composed of all organizations in Allegheny City, and all organizations arriving in Allegheny City. P. W. Joyce will be marshal of the third division. This division will be composed of all organizations south of the river.

A TRIFLE EARLY.

Snee's Club Celebrates by Carrying Steele's Coffin Through the Streets. The Snee Democratic Club held a somewhat premature demonstration, turning out in full force and burning red fire. They carried a wooden coffin, on which was the inscription, "Steele is Dead." As they passed up Carson street, they stopped at the Conkling Club, Alderman Swoop's and Alderman McGee's offices and tendered a serenade. Then, as they marched further up the street, the crowd sang, "Don't be afraid; don't be afraid; Tariff Reform, but not Free Trade."

HER DAUGHTER WANTS MRS. JONES' ADDRESS.

The police received a letter from Mrs. C. E. Crawford, of Jacksonville, O., yesterday, requesting the address of her stepmother, Mrs. Caroline Jones, late an employee of a wholesale millinery house here. She was furnished the address of all the Mrs. Jones and all the millinery establishments in the city.

WANTS TO SUICIDE, BUT CAN'T DECIDE WHETHER TO USE THE ROPE ROUTE, THE OTHER.

One Adopts the Rope Route, the Other Would Use Paris Green. Ella McBrayer, aged 45, attempted suicide by hanging in the cellar of her home, Wool-stair alley, Sixteenth ward, yesterday morning. She was unconscious when her mother found her and cut her down. After being revived she said a fortune teller in Altoona had frightened her, telling her she would meet with a terrible misfortune in a few days. No other excuse was offered. Mrs. Mary Miller, of 268 Carey alley, attempted suicide on the train going to the workhouse Tuesday night. She was discovered by Detective Coulson. Asking for a glass of water, she dropped the poison into it and was about to drink it when stopped. She said her husband had applied for divorce and she had no desire to live. Lately she has been drinking heavily. She was sent up for drunks.

DEPEW IS QUITE CHIPPER.

He Thinks the Country Has Accepted Theory for Practice. NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Channing M. Depew did not look this morning like a man who is suffering from disappointment. He said cheerily: "If Mr. Cleveland has been elected I hope the Democracy will have both branches of Congress. If he is elected it simply shows that the country has accepted the theory for practice. Give the Democracy full swing, let them have every opportunity to reduce theory to practice. Of course I am disappointed. I shall remain disappointed for a while day. I shall congratulate Cleveland if he gets in, and I'll congratulate William McKinley. He has done nobly. You see a Yale man comes off with the honors, anyway. After these congratulations I always pick my flint for the next fight."

PROMISES TO DO BETTER.

The Weather Man Has a Better Article Than Yesterday's in Store. The weather seemed to go into mourning for the defeated political candidates yesterday, and made a gloomy time for Pittsburg. Early in the day the heavy clouds began to drop their contents upon the smoke-laden city. A murky darkness prevailed, and afforded little satisfaction to harrowed feelings or gloomy forebodings. The rain soon turned to snow and the soft, slushy, congested streets
