

Feminine Fancies. The bridal tide is setting strongly to Saratoga. Twenty-three newly fledged couples dined at the table the other day.

Seven alleged widows are said to claim the estate of the Earl of Aberdeen, who some time ago was drowned while serving as mate on an American vessel.

The Empress of Prussia has given $1,000 to the society started in Berlin for the purpose of devising original German fashions.

A St. Louis lady not only brings suit for breach of promise against her faithless swain, but also includes her father, whose objections broke off the match.

A pretty pocketbook has been patented for ladies. It is neither too lost or stolen, as it is attached by an ingenious contrivance to the palm of the hand.

An Arkansas woman named Emily Shaw Lord is reported to have had nine husbands in ten years. Two died with suspicious suddenness, and three were divorced. What became of the rest is not stated.

A woman named Keyderling, of Fultonville, kindled a fire by means of kerosene, the other day, with the usual result. Her entire person was burned in a horrible manner, and she died in about two hours afterwards.

The Iowa penitentiary at present contains 250 inmates, and not a woman among them. An irrepressible bachelor suggests that this don't argue anything in favor of woman's superior virtues—it only shows that they are more cunning, and avoid detection in their misdemeanors.

A lady named Mrs. Pope, of Audrain county, Mo., had her clothes burned off her in the absence of her husband, and on his return was found dead, having been literally roasted alive. She was subject to fits and an habitual smoker. It is supposed she fell in a fit with her pipe in her mouth, and that the embers from the pipe set fire to her clothing.

Mrs. Emily Shaw Forman, of Lynn, Mass., has taken the lecture fire for the coming winter, under the auspices of the American Lyceum Bureau. The subjects of her lectures are "An Hour with Tom Hood," "The Heroic Poets of America," and "Bible Stories," with illustrations from his sketches and dialect poems.

A reasonable amount of chastisement of one's wife seems to be considered the proper thing in Boston. In a recent case before a municipal court in that city, the evidence showed that because the wife refused to go up stairs for her children, who were crying, the husband disciplined her in the manner frequently adopted by fraternal co-operation.

Agriculture is our pet. Fresh from a Virginia farm, which we leave lovingly and reluctantly for awhile, we have learned something of what wide and varied knowledge, what patience, economy and administrative ability it takes to make a farmer.

At the recent feminine exposition at Florence, Italy, the visitors were greeted in the magnificent lace called "Puleto di Venezia" (Venetian point), of which the stitch has been lost since the thirteenth century, and which a humble work woman, Madame Audi Bersani, by dint of courage and patience, has succeeded in recovering. The Minister of Commerce has accorded her the "brevet d'invention," and the exclusive right of working in her discovery for fifteen years.

Miss Barbara Cassell, of Virginia, has just recovered $2,000 damages for breach of promise of marriage from Randall Waddell. A correspondent writes that the address of the young and rapidly rising counsel for the fair plaintiff was characterized by the most striking arguments, the finest sense of delicacy, the widest range of thought, the purest principles of morality and social life, an irresistible force of statement, and an oratory as brilliant as was ever listened to in the Wythe court-room.

Grace Greenwood made a speech entirely out of the usual order at a woman's suffrage convention in Boston, on Monday evening. She said she would limit the suffrage to three classes of women, and include, first, unmarried women having property to be taxed; second, married women, and third, such others as may desire the ballot. She recommended a property qualification, and thought a voting woman should be required to have a watch regularly wound up and kept to time, a clothes wringer and sewing machine. As an intellectual qualification, she suggested that a woman should be able to add up her milliner's bill and verify its correctness, to put on a pudding, to put on a button, and, in an emergency, to keep a boarding-house and support herself and her husband respectably.

At Leavenworth, Kansas, in a recent law suit brought by a lawyer against a lady to recover for fees, the defendant has owned out. The plaintiff sued for $50, which, she alleged, was due him for services as attorney, and the defendant claimed that she had settled with him in full, and had not asked legal advice since the settlement on the 10th of May, 1870. On the part of the plaintiff three witnesses were examined, but the defence called no witnesses, the lady simply making a statement for herself. She said that the jury-men looked as though they were honest men, and she believed they were gentlemen. She demanded nothing but right and justice, and expressed the belief that the jury would deal fairly with her. The defendant, and presented the lady with a rose.

Political Pickings. The next Democratic State convention to be held is that of Iowa, at Des Moines, on the 14th instant.

The Rhode Island Legislature closed a session of four days at Newport, by an adjournment to meet in Providence next January.

Less than a hundred years ago the Pennsylvania Legislature ordained that "no member thereof should come to the house barefoot, or eat his bread and cheese on the steps."

Senator Jarvis Lord, of Rochester, was made the recipient of an elegant and costly gold-lined silver service of ten pieces, by his constituents, on the Twenty-eighth district, last Monday evening.

The Democracy of Wayne county, Ohio, denounce the departure from the party of those who declare, in effect, that they are not members of the party, and that they are not members of the party, and that they are not members of the party.

Montgomery county is full of swags and treacherous sandbars that render it an unsafe channel for the old hulk to sail in.

Mr. Thomas has closed his lecture on Magna Charta in Augusta, according to the Sparta Times, "with his body bent slightly forward, his eyes blazing, his hand raised aloft grasping a copy of the Magna Charta," he exclaimed: "When you can tear the live thunder from his home in the burning ether and bind it a captive at the footstools of tyranny, then, and not till then, will I accept the situation!"

This paper will be the vehicle of personal detraction, nor be used to get its pets into office, nor to keep others out. The safety of all is in the triumph of the cause; and to secure it, all must labor zealously and devotedly, and take their chances in the general result.

Aiming to treat every member of its own party generally, it will be just to its opponents to discuss all questions of public interest fairly and temperately. Astringent rights are not to be asserted, and no hot or cold of the truth which it is called to declare, it will aim to "speak the truth in love."

It will commend genius, patriotism and virtue everywhere, and be prompt to expose corruption and imbecility in its own party as in another.

We shall advocate all measures to advance the public good, originating in our own party or outside. There are vital questions common to both, and the opposition without seeking issues where all good men should stand on common ground.

Believing popular Education to be the one crying want of our State and of the country, we shall give large space to its advocacy. To educate thoroughly all the children of the State should be the supreme and paramount work of legislation. To this sacred task we consecrate our paper. We shall plead the cause of the little ones who have no voice; and, in so pleading, we plead for the future of Virginia in whatever can make her great and glorious.

The financial condition of the country, and especially of the South, will not be neglected. We advocate a financial policy which will bring back again to the South more than its old prosperity. We are for the encouragement of a varied home industry. We are for Free Banking, under a system which makes money absolutely safe and accessible to business men at living rates. We are for such a reformed system as will preserve the public credit without imposing undue burdens upon the people.

Realizing the vast importance of mechanical and manufacturing industry, we shall labor heartily for the development of these interests, we shall give accurate and detailed information of our vast natural wealth in mines, forests, water-powers and fisheries.

Believing in the "harmony of interests," we shall endeavor to show how fully each is dependent upon the prosperity of all; that labor and capital, employer and employe, should be allies and friends, enriching each other by fraternal co-operation.

Agriculture is our pet. Fresh from a Virginia farm, which we leave lovingly and reluctantly for awhile, we have learned something of what wide and varied knowledge, what patience, economy and administrative ability it takes to make a farmer.

In conclusion, we will say that we will cordially and earnestly with men of all parties to remove every obstacle to the moral, intellectual and physical progress of our State and nation. There are thousands of noble young men and women in the State full of grand capacity, now dormant and wasting. The old Commonwealth is sounding the drum-beat to duty. Let them shake off the night-mare of conservatism and old traditions, and march bravely to the work of this new day. So shall they make the future of Virginia worthy of the past, and themselves worthy of a great ancestry!

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL PLATFORM. The National Republican party of the United States, assembled in National Convention in the city of Chicago, on the 21st day of May, 1868, make the following declaration of principles:

1. We congratulate the country on the assured success of the reconstruction policy of Congress, as the best and only means of restoring to the States in rebellion, of constituting secure civil and political rights to all; and it is the duty of Congress to continue to act and to prevent the people of those States from being reunited to a state of anarchy.

2. It is the duty of Congress to extend the right of suffrage to all loyal men at the South as demanded by every consideration of public safety, gratitude, and of the rights of citizenship, and to extend the right of suffrage to all loyal men at the North as demanded by every consideration of public safety, gratitude, and of the rights of citizenship.

3. It is the duty of Congress to reduce the rate of interest thereon, whenever it can be honestly done.

4. That the best policy to diminish our burden of debt is to reduce the rate of interest, and to secure to us money at lower rates of interest than we now pay, and to continue to pay so long as we are able to do so, until the debt is reduced or extinguished.

5. The Government of the United States should be conducted with the strictest economy, and the appropriations which have been so shamefully misappropriated by Andrew Johnson should be reduced, and the Government should be reorganized.

6. We profoundly deplore the untimely and tragic death of Abraham Lincoln, and regret the aggression of the late President Johnson, who has so shamelessly and treacherously to the people who elected him and the cause he pledged to support, who has usurped the powers of the President, and who has refused to execute the laws; who has used his high office to induce other officers to ignore and violate the laws; who has refused to receive the property, the peace, liberty, and life of the citizen; who has abused the pardoning power; who has refused to receive the property, the peace, liberty, and life of the citizen; who has abused the pardoning power; who has refused to receive the property, the peace, liberty, and life of the citizen.

By virtue of the provisions of the fourth article of the Constitution of the United States, and of the Kansas and Nebraska Acts, approved October 4, 1850, ratified by the Senate June 27, 1850, and proclaimed under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, I hereby invite sealed proposals for the purchase of all the lands hereinafter described.
