Lecture—George William Curtis' Discourse on Women in the Old Time and in the New.

[From the New York Times.]

Mr. George W. Curtis delivered the first of a series of lectures, under the auspices of the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen of the city of New York, at Steinyard Hall, last evening, before an unusually large and respected audience. His subject was, "Women in the Old Time and in the New." He said that the old time always appeared to us more reverent and more romantic than our day. We are so busy and so hurried, and it seems that we were left on the lees of time and the world's decrepitude.

We deplore everything in our own time, and the social moralist of our day condemns the expensive dresses of our fashionable women, and asks why can not they be like their predecessors of a few hundred years ago? He laments that women have descended to French dolls, whose color is made up of paint, whose head is loaded with dyed hair and horse-hair stuff, whose waist is reduced to a cypher, and who believe weakness grace, and affectation simplicity. But in Queen Elizabeth's time that lady left three thousand dresses behind her, and the women of that time, like those of ours, were as fond of dress and display, and the same extravagance and expense that our moralists deplore.

Mr. Curtis, in a highly humorous tone, related numerous instances of the petty follies of women of the old time, and said the progress of civilization was really the freedom from the theories of those good old times. One of the grandest results of this progress was the evidence of the constantly increasing position and estimate of women in modern society, and a great illustration of this historical advance was the rapid opening of every opportunity of education to women.

We point to the days of Pericles with regret at our degeneracy, but the idea pronounced by that great mind was that women, like children, should be seen but not heard. Through all ages and all countries, from that time to this, in their dealings with women, the sole purpose of mankind seemed to be to deprive them of the means of knowledge, and under the belief that with education she would acquire a contempt for her husband and affection for every coxcomb whose ideas in this respect corresponded with her own.

The wife of John Adams, one of the most accomplished women of her age, wrote that in her day the female education was confined to reading and writing, and in some few instances music and dancing. This movement for education among women found root in Boston forty years since, and created a profound sensation among male biceps because of the crowds who sought intelligence. The more languages a man has, the more a man is he, said the sage; and the more knowledge a woman has, the better wife and mother is she, says the common-sense of the age.

In this country there were now three hundred and thirty-seven collegiate institutions, and in seventy-seven of them, including the University of Michigan and Cornell University, both sexes were taught together. The great authorities of this country agree that co-education is better for both sexes, and upon the very points that seem at the first hearing the most objectionable. The advocates of co-education were intended only for good housewives and fruitful mothers, and Chesterfield of modern times spoke of them as children of larger growth, without comprehensive sense, and whom it was man's duty to flatter and trifle with. Flattery he described as the invariable companion of contempt, and he who flattered women most scorned and despised them deepest.

He commended the idea that women were intellectually below men as a return to the savage belief, and asserted that the toasting of women's health by maudlin festive-seekers at public banquets was not much different from the drinking of their health in her slipper, as was done in England on a notable occasion in years past. Home, he willingly admitted was the sphere of women, but education did not condemn the idea as a return to Mott the power and wish to benefit the world by the genius with which heaven inspired them. He pointed to the characters and career of Joan of Arc, Ida Lewis, Grace Darling, Florence Nightingale, Mrs. Stowe and a thousand others, as evidence of the genius, power, grace, and modesty of womanhood, and concluding, eloquently declared that woman grace home and rendered life better, that they would be a thousand times better fitted for their positions of wives and mothers and Christian women, by educating the talents which God gave them for His own great ends. [Applause.]

THE VOTE IN DELAWARE.—The full and official returns of the election in Delaware show that U. S. Grant received 11,116 votes, and Horace Greeley, Democratical, 10,848, and therefore that Grant carried the State by a majority of 268 votes. In 1868 Horatio Seymour, Democrat, carried Delaware by a majority of 3,257. At the recent election for Congress, James R. Lofland, Republican, received 11,377 votes, and Oustus W. Wright, Democrat, received 11,025. James K. Lofland, Republican, is therefore elected by a majority of 352 votes.

A remarkable old English gentleman is missing, and is so particularly described in an advertisement in the London Times that, if he be found, the finders will be at no loss to recognize him. He wears a brown wig and a green shade over one eye. He has no hair on his face, but he carries a deep red scar over his left eyebrow, has a large yellow tooth dressed in black with a wig over his eye, and an overcoat on his teeth ought to be identified with a positive assurance wherever he may turn up, especially if he spends freely and gives checks on London banks, as this old-german-errant is said to do.—N. Y. Tribune.

Most interesting discoveries concerning the parasites which infest the false hair worm by ladies continue to be made by M. Lindeman, as we learn from the British Medical Journal. He terms these organisms avicellae, and calculates that forty-five millions of them are set free in a ball-room, containing fifty ladies. They produce Bright's disease, he tells us, as well as affections of the heart and lungs.

This comes of sleeping with a pistol under one's head. An Ohio man the other night discharged a revolver while in his sleep, the ball entering the right thigh and passing diagonally through the thigh, lodging near the knee. When he awoke he was sitting up in bed, with the revolver in his left hand, and the ball in his right leg.

CERTIFICATES OF RAFFLE can be purchased from Capt. W. D. BARNBY, at the Branch Office, No. 9, Twelfth Street, three doors from Main.

How Beecher Prepares his Sermons. The Chicago Advance tells how Mr. Beecher prepares his sermons:

"I will prepare, as Mr. Beecher does, by first, much study, and, second, much brooding, it may be safe to follow his example further, though probably only very facile workers will be able to do so. During the week two or three topics lie in his mind as those from which he will probably select his next Sabbath discourse. His thoughts turn to them; his pencil sometimes, though not often, jots them down—the sermon, however, is rarely definitely uttered in his mind.

Ask him on Saturday night what he is going to preach on Sabbath morning, and he cannot usually tell you; Sabbath morning after breakfast he goes into his study, feels his various themes, takes one that seems the ripest, sketches the outline, selects his text, and begins to write—at first he writes fully, but as time goes on his pen leaves great gaps, sketches only as the beginning of separate paragraphs, then only the head, sometimes the pencil finishes up the hints in the pupil.

His sermon at the beginning is read, the commencement almost disappoints you; but as he warms he grows more and more oblivious of his notes; his imagination fills up the gaps, and the pulpit completes what the study only began. The manuscript sermon is a literary curiosity—a study in itself. After sermon he goes home, takes a good dinner, goes to bed, sleeps away the afternoon, rises to his study, and then goes into his study to bring forth the evening sermon by a similar operation."

Farmers' Clubs.

The formation of these clubs in every direction is having a most excellent effect in the improvement of the system of farming, and in the increase of amount and consequent value of the productions of the earth, and the farmers in every ten miles square should establish one of these institutions with the beginning of the coming year. They are a great stimulus to a whole neighborhood wherever they may be started and conducted with proper spirit.

This stimulus is given to his intellectual improvement, as well as to his advantage in agriculture. The social feature of these meetings is also one of most interest, and is conducive to good neighborhood and kindly feelings. About once a year, the turn comes round to each one to receive the visit of the members, when his fields, his orchards, his barns and outbuildings are examined, and any improvement for the saving of labor or the convenience of stock will be witnessed and the advantages pointed out for the imitation of others.

This is generally done before the usual assemblage around the social board which the good housewife has prepared from the productions of the farm.

Every member is prompted by the information obtained at the meetings to correct any errors he may have committed on his own farm, by the conversations held among the fellow-members, and particularly in the discussions upon subjects which are according to the announcement made beforehand, made at these meetings, in which every member is expected to take part; this requires that each shall furnish up his memory, and to hunt for information by searching his agricultural library or periodicals to enable him to present his quota of intelligence to his colleagues of the club.

We have had opportunities of attending the meetings of sundry of these clubs, and we are enabled to bear testimony to excellent effects which have been produced upon a neighborhood through their instrumentality, and we are anxious to see them established in every neighborhood. Those wishing to co-operate in so good a work will be assisted by us, by having forwarded to them, when requested, a copy of a constitution and a general programme of proceedings to enable them to organize their club.

—Dispatches from the end of the Athi son, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, on the Western line of Kansas, say the buffaloes are so numerous that the trains cannot be run with safety. They roam along the track in immense numbers, making their way south.

LOCAL MATTERS.

PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY.—The majority for Grant in Prince Edward county, as returned to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, is 583. The vote of two precincts was thrown out for alleged clerical informalities. The vote of Prospect precinct was thrown out in the official count because the word "Prospect" was not inserted by the clerk in the printed heading, and Briery precinct was thrown out because the certificate of the judges was not filled in with the total number of electors.

With these precincts counted, Grant's majority in Prince Edward is 788 instead of 583 as officially returned. Mr. Stowell's majority in the county is 770; and that of Mr. Allan for Commonwealth's attorney 740. Allan ran considerably ahead of his ticket, but owing to a mistake of the printer, a number of the tickets were headed "Member of county, instead of Prince Edward." The increase of the Republican vote over that of 1869 is about 140. Grant's true majority in the State is about 4,000.

OLE BULL.—The first of Ole Bull's two grand concerts was given at Assembly Hall last night to a large, fashionable, and intelligent audience. The performances throughout the instrument and vocal, were exquisite, surpassing even the expectations of those who boast of having heard Ole Bull in years past. He has improved with age, and he fairly makes his instrument talk. Our citizens have not for years perhaps enjoyed such a delightful entertainment as was furnished them last night. Miss Kidgway, Signor Ferranti, and Mr. Patison added their full share to the fun, and received many tokens of the high estimation in which they were held by the audience. The second concert takes place to-night, and we predict another full house. Seats can be secured at West, Johnston & Co.'s book store.

KATIE PUTNAM.—Our citizens are on the qui vive for the return of Miss Katie Putnam and her excellent troupe, who are to appear at Assembly Hall to-morrow evening, in the magnificent play "The Rose-ade," for the benefit of the First Virginia Regiment. Our soldier boys will no doubt turn out strong on the occasion. The troupe will remain here during the remainder of the week, and we hope may be induced to remain throughout next week. They have had most successful performances in Petersburg since they left here. We refer the reader to the advertisement under the amusement head.

JULIIFICATION AT FARMVILLE.—Many of the Republicans of Amelia, Cumberland, Buckingham, Charlotte, Lunenburg and other counties, assembled at Farmville on Saturday last, and engaged in a heart-felt demonstration over the glorious victory achieved by the party on the 5th instant. Addresses were made by the Hon. Mr. Stowell, Hon. Joseph Jorgenson, Thomas Clement, Jr., W. P. E. J. Anthony, L. D. Trustees, Rev. George C. Vandevliet, G. W. Duesberry, Jr., Thomas Gordon, Rev. W. T. Lindsay, Caleb Jacob.

ELECTION OF TEMPERANCE OFFICERS.—At a regular meeting of Marion Division, No. 5, of Sons of Temperance, recently held, the following officers were elected and installed for the ensuing quarter: Rev. George C. Vandevliet, W. P. E. J. M. Tankersley, W. A.; Lewis B. Betty, R. S.; G. W. Duesberry, Jr., A. R. S.; B. A. Jacob, F. S.; Caleb Jacob, T.; W. H. Falentine, C.; A. J. Gordon, A. C.; Thomas Gordon, I. S.; J. F. Jacob, O. S.; Rev. W. T. Lindsay, Chaplain; Thomas Gordon, P. W. E. J. Anthony, L. D.; Trustees, Rev. George C. Vandevliet, G. W. Duesberry, Jr., Thomas Gordon, Rev. W. T. Lindsay, Caleb Jacob.

MILITARY.—The new military company, the Richmond City Guards, is offered as follows: Captain, Charles U. Wood; First Lieutenant, Jas. Macdonald; Second Lieutenant, W. W. Gossett; Junior Second Lieutenant, Geo. E. Ruffin; First Sergeant, Geo. T. Pickett; Second Sergeant, T. S. Lacy; Third Sergeant, T. W. Joseph; Fourth Sergeant, E. C. Johnson; Fifth Sergeant, John T. Wood; First Corporal, H. K. Cav; Second Corporal, William Wallace; Third Corporal, N. F. Jacobs; Fourth Corporal, P. R. Herndon; Quartermaster-Sergeant, A. B. Duesberry.

RICHMOND THEATRE.—The Chapman Sisters repeated the burlesque of "Little Don Giovanni" last night. To-night the popular burlesque of "Aladdin" will be produced. Mr. Morris will appear in his mystic changes. The entertainment will open with "Margot, the Poultry Dealer," by the Chapman Sisters, Miss Nellie Johnson, Mr. Fanning, Mr. Hodges, and other members of the star company, will appear in these pieces.

BELLIGERENTS.—Two respectable citizens engaged in a fight in the Second market-house about 9 o'clock this morning, over business matters. One of the gentlemen received a severe blow on the forehead. They were both arrested and taken before Justice J. J. Crutcheild, who bailed them to appear before the Police court to-morrow morning.

SEALING MONEY.—David Lewis was up before Justice White, of the Police court, this morning on the charge of stealing $40 from George Mayers, the steward of the steamer "James S. Green." He was convicted and sentenced to imprisonment in the city jail for six months. The money was recovered and paid over to the rightful owner.

MORTUARY REPORT FOR LAST WEEK.—The following is the mortuary report for the week ending Saturday, November 16th, 1872, compiled from sextons' returns received at the office of the Board of Health: Whole number of deaths in the city, 25. Sex: Males, 12; females, 13; Color: White males, 8; white females, 7; colored males, 4; colored females, 6.

DETECTIVE FORCE REDUCED.—The Board of Police Commissioners yesterday afternoon reduced the detective force of the city to four members, namely: William F. Knox, Kendall O'Dwyer, Pat Woods, and Dan Wren. Messrs. Winston F. Rogers and Jack Wren entered the regular police force.

SECOND POLICE STATION-HOUSE.—We are glad to observe that work has been commenced upon the enlargement of the Second Police Station-house, which has long been inadequate for the accommodation of the officers and prisoners. The walls will rest upon iron pillars, which are now being put in place.
