Women Who Are Envied

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them.

S. A. E. Reception

The S. A. E. Fraternity of Washington and Lee University held a delightful reception Tuesday evening at their club house, corner Jackson avenue and Washington street.

A Thrilling Rescue

How Bert R. Leach of Cheney, Wash., was saved from a frightful death is a story to thrill the world. A hard cold he writes, "brought on a desperate lung trouble that baffled an expert doctor here. Then I paid $10 to $15 a visit to a lung specialist in Spokane, who did not help me. Then I went to California, but without benefit. At last I used Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me and now I am as well as ever."

An Alarm of Fire

An alarm of fire was sounded last Saturday night, and the firemen responded promptly, but the alarm proved to be false. The scare was caused by a chimney catching fire on Washington street near Jefferson.

Nasty Sufferers

from nasal catarrh say they get relief from using an eye, nose and throat remedy to prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Ealm. Except that it is liquid it is in all respects like the healing, helpful pain-alleviating Cream Balm that the public has been familiar with for years.

Married

HIGGINS IRVINE—At Lexington, Nov. 25, 1909, by Rev. Dr. D. A. Pendek, Mr. John William Higgins and Miss Eva Lena Irvine, daughter of Mrs. John F. Irvine, all of Rockbridge.

Was the House for Sale?

Every house finds quick sale when painted with the L. & M. Paint. A coat adds value as well as appearance. It also increases its saleable character. The L. & M. colors are bright and lasting. L. & M. is used in painting by everybody. One reason cost is only $1.20 per gallon when made ready-for-use. It's metal Zinc Oxide and Lead Oxide. It wears and covers like gold. Sold by McCrum Drug Company, Lexington; H. L. Gilkinson, Buena Vista.

Death of Infant

George Rives, one of the twin infants of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Kirk, died last night, aged two months. The body was taken this afternoon to Clifton Forge for burial. The remains of the other twin, Hamilton Howard Kirk, who died October 18th, were also taken to Clifton Forge for reinterment.

A Policeman's Testimony

J. N. Patterson, night policeman of Nashua, Iowa, writes: "Last winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and tried at least half a dozen advertised cough medicines and had treatment from two physicians without getting any benefit. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar and two-thirds of a bottle cured me. I consider it the greatest cough and lung medicine in the world."

Horse Buyers

D. T. Reeves of South Boston will be at Reeds Stable Monday, the 6th, to buy horses. The market for horses has been good, and good horses find a ready sale. With proper attention Rockbridge farmers might make the raising of horses a profitable industry.

W. C. T. U. Meeting

PERSONALS

Miss Ouida Cantieri of Lynchburg, Va., is the guest of Miss Anna Krause on Randolph street. Dr. Templeton Adair of Pulaski City is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. McD. Adair this week.

Mr. W. S. Roys was called to Charleston, W. Va., a few days ago on account of the illness of his wife.

Mr. C. D. Palmer of near Lexington is suffering from a painful wound in the hand from an explosion of a cartridge.

State Senator W. W. Sale of Norfolk is mentioned as a possible successor of Gen. Charles J. Anderson, adjutant general of Virginia.

Miss Margaret Garing returned yesterday to Hollins Institute where she is a student, after spending Thanksgiving with her mother, Mrs. Percy C. Garing.

Mr. and Mrs. Estes Kline of Vaucuse, Frederic county, spent the past week in Lexington visiting relatives, and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Gillock.

Mr. Ernest L. Rhodes of Atlanta, Ga., who spent two weeks at Wilson's Springs, returned to Lexington last Friday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Rhodes. He left Saturday for his home.

Mr. Quisenberry and Miss Steele Quietly Married

Mr. Edward Auskin Quisenberry, Jr., and Miss Lola Garland Steele, a popular young couple of Lexington, surprised their friends at Wednesday evening, November 24, 1909, when they were quietly married at the parsonage of Trinity Methodist church at 6 o'clock. Rev. William S. Hammond, their pastor, officiating. The bride wore a tailored suit of blue, with hat and gloves to match. Only a few intimate friends witnessed the marriage.

Mr. Quisenberry is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Quisenberry of Lexington, and is an enterprising young business man of the town. He was educated at the Virginia Military Institute. His bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Steele of near Greenville, Augusta county, and for some time has made her home in Lexington. She is quite pretty and attractive.

The young couple returned Monday morning to Lexington where they will make their home. They reached the home of the bride's parents Saturday night where they were tendered a reception, which was largely attended by friends and relatives of the bride.

Joint Debate at W. L. U.

The joint debate between Graham-Lee and Washington Literary Societies of Washington and Lee University was held Saturday night in the Lee Memorial chapel, and the occasion was one of pleasure and profit.

The question debated was, "Resolved, That all Corporations engaged in inter-state commerce should be required to take out a Federal charter under such terms as Congress may by law prescribe; constitutionality granted."

The affirmative debaters were Messrs. W. L. Ksourt of Arkansas, A. S. Holts of Maryland; B. L. Ballard of Texas. Negative: Messrs. J. J. Arnold of Arkansas, R. W. Alley of Tennessee, C. O. Dunn of West Virginia.

The committee of judges, composed of Judge S. H. Letcher, Prof. J. R. Long and Prof. W. S. Currell, made the award in favor of the negative.

The officers for the celebration were: Messrs. T. B. Cather, president; E. L. Laushell, vice-president; D. B. Strayley, secretary; H. S. Reid, chief marshal.

Thanksgiving Deer Escaped

Messrs. M. J. Hees and C. L. Wright went out on Buffalo last Thursday for a Thanksgiving hunt, and as they drew near to the old bridge at Bolivar Mills, they were surprised to see a large young buck enter the road immediately in front of them and for some distance trot along slowly. The hunters at once set about getting their guns in readiness for a shot, but before they could load their weapons the deer had jumped a fence and disappeared across a field. Directly afterwards several dogs came in hot pursuit of the game. Our sportsmen followed in the direction taken by the deer, but they failed to see him any more.

It is reported that a little earlier in the day a lady driving a buggy met the same deer in the road, and had to drive out to one side to let the animal pass.

The supposition is that the deer was passing from Short Hill to Brushy Hill when the dogs got on his trail.

Christmas Shopping

The Lexington stores are putting on their holiday appearance, and numerous attractive goods are invitingly displayed for the inspection of prospective buyers. It is suggested that shoppers visit the stores early this month to do their buying. Fuller assortments and more leisure will afford more satisfactory dealing.

Dr. Burton eye, ear, nose and throat specialist will be in Lexington, (Dr. Laird's office) Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 7th and 8th. Glasses fitted.

ROCKBRIDGE WINS

Awarded Road Prize by National Highway Committee

"Third, $250 to Rockbridge county, Virginia, for its notable improvement of earth roads."

The above item in Sunday's papers was the first intimation our people had that Rockbridge was one of the winners in the contest of good roads that for several months had been exploited by the New York Herald and the Atlanta Journal, resulting in the endurance run between these two cities beginning in New York October 26th and reaching Atlanta November 5th, a distance of one thousand miles.

The committee making the awards was composed of A. L. Westgard, president of the Touring Club of America; Joseph Hyde Pratt, State Geologist of North Carolina, and Charles H. Hoyt, superintendent of road construction in the United States office of public roads.

The New York Herald gave prizes amounting to $1,750, the Atlanta Journal a like amount, and the Southern Bell Telephone Company, $500, making a total of $4,000. The Herald prizes were for the stretch of road between New York and Roanoke, and the Journal's between Roanoke and Atlanta. The first prize of the Herald of $1,000 was awarded to Mercer county, N. J.; the second prize of $500 to Jefferson county, W. Va., and the third prize of $250 to Rockbridge county.

The Journal's first prize of $1,000 was awarded to Guilford county, N. C.; the second prize of $500 to Sparta county, N. C., and the third prize of $250 to Henry county, Va. The Southern Bell Telephone first prize of $250 goes to Greenville county, S. C.; the second of $150 to Bessemer City township, N. C., and the third of $100 to DeKalb county, Ga.

The National Highway between New York City and Atlanta, traverses forty-one counties in nine States. The selections announced by the committee were made with reference to surface indications and from the tourist's point of view, rather than from the engineer's standpoint. The following conditions were considered by the committee: Alignment of road; grading; width of roadway surface; condition of surface; slope of shoulders and condition of ditches; and general appearance of roadsides.

Toll roads were excluded from the contest for the reason that the chief object of stimulating interest in road building is to enlist the active co-operation of counties for the improvement of dirt roads and the construction of macadam roads. The committee said that almost every district along the route gave evidence of the wide spread movement for good roads, therefore it was with great difficulty that they arrive at their conclusions in making the awards.

In speaking specifically of the roads in Rockbridge the committee said: "The only remaining section north of Roanoke, Va., of which mention is made in Rockbridge county. Here we found roads and brush had been cleared away from the earth road, which has also been well graded, well shaped and drained, and is a commendable example of a well built road."

Mrs. W. B. F. Leech Died Sunday in Florida

Mrs. Margaret W. Leech of Buffalo, widow of Mr. W. B. F. Leech, died Sunday in Florida, after an illness of several years from the effects of paralysis. She remains reached Lexington this morning, and will be taken to Oxford church tomorrow for interment beside the grave of her husband. Mrs. Leech went to Florida in October, to spend the winter, as has been her custom for some years.

Mrs. Leech was a daughter of Mr. John D. Houston of near Natural Bridge, and she was 71 years of age. She was a woman of attractive manner and was devoted to her home and family.

Six children survive, as follows: Miss Ella Leech who lived with her mother; Messrs. J. Houston Leech and Charles B. Leech of Lexington; Coray B. Leech of Lynchburg; Dr. W. Stuart Leech of Minnesota; Herbert B. Leech of Baltimore. One brother and three sisters also survive: Rev. L. D. Houston of Florida, Mrs. Bettie Lury of Baltimore, Mrs. Mattie Romberg of Florida, Mrs. Mattie L. Swink of Buffalo.

Rev. Dr. S. K. Cox Dead

Rev. Dr. Samuel Keener Cox, a widely known and distinguished member of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, scholar, writer and former educator, who has long made his home in Harrisonburg, where he spent a pastorate of four years, died Saturday afternoon in his eighty-seventh year, after having spent more than three score years in the ministry. He received his first regular appointment in March, 1844, and was not superannuated until March, 1908.

The funeral was held Sunday and the body was later taken to Baltimore for interment.

Death of Mr. W. L. Patterson

Mr. W. L. Patterson of Brownsburg, died Sunday, aged 74 years. He was a Confederate soldier and served in Company H, 14th Virginia Cavalry, and later as a member of Company I, 4th Virginia Infantry. He was several times wounded. The interment was made at New Providence Monday.

Cadet Webster Injured in Foot Ball Thanksgiving

Cadet Fred Webster, center of the V. M. I. football team that played Davidson College in Lynchburg on Thanksgiving Day, was so badly injured in the game that for six hours he lay in a stupor. It was feared on examination that the young man was suffering from concussion of the brain. He was hurried to the hotel where the team was stopping and four physicians summoned. He remained there under treatment until Friday night when he was brought to Lexington and is now in the V. M. I. hospital.

The serious injury to Webster has cast a pall over the V. M. I. football contingent. Last year Half Back Ferrebee of Norfolk, was killed in a game with Roanoke College, and Webster's accident recalls vividly and painfully that tragedy of the gridiron.

Just how Webster was injured in a scrimmage is not clear. He passed the ball for an end run around Davidson's right. A scrimmage followed, in which the ball was stopped. When the players arose to line up again, Webster did not rise. He was raised to his feet and carried from the field, crying frantically that he was all right and not seriously injured.

That the young man was seriously injured soon became evident. His head fell to his shoulder as though his neck had suddenly refused to support it. When laid on the side lines, his right leg jerked and twitched, as though he could not control the limb.

Webster is twenty years of age, and is from Missoula, Mont. This is his first year at V. M. I. He has been playing a strong game for the cadets and is very popular. Webster is not the only man hurt in the game. Right End Thomas of Davidson, had his nose broken and was compelled to leave the game.

Lexington Golf Club Items of Interest

The beautiful weather of the past few months has been enjoyed to the fullest extent by the members of the Lexington Golf Club. It was not an unusual thing to see as many as twenty or twenty five players on the links at one time. The club has spent considerable money in the past summer improving the links and they are now in better condition than ever before. After December 1st the present links will not be used until next spring, in order that the grass may not be tramped out during the wet weather of the winter months. New links have been prepared for the winter months.

The annual handicap match of the club, which was held in October, with Dr. Hunter Pendleton the winner and Mr. J. W. McClung runner up, was followed by two other matches, one of medal play and the other match play. In the medal play, Mr. B. E. Vaughan offered half a dozen golf balls to the player making the lowest score of 72 holes. Out of 24 entries in this match, the following players finishing in the following order: E. S. Humphreys, 208; K. M. Pendleton, 208; McClung, 211; Glasgow, 219; Vaughan, 219; Agnor, 281; H. D. Campbell, 284; Barks, 286; D. C. Humphreys, 289; Howe, 289; Letcher, 294. The others did not complete the match.

In the match play, Mr. J. W. McClung offered a tobacco jar to winner. Out of 19 entries to this match, the eight players with lowest scores, contested in match play, in the following order: McClung vs. E. S. Humphreys; Burks vs. Stickler; Hopkins vs. Glasgow; Graham vs. E. M. Pendleton. The match narrowed down to McClung and Graham, Graham winning out.

Death of Mr. C. M. Koonce

Mr. Charles M. Koonce died at his home in Washington City Sunday night after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Koonce formerly lived in Lexington, and was engaged in the furniture business here with his brother, Mr. A. L. Koonce. He came to Lexington from Richmond at the close of the Civil War. He was a member of the Home Guards of Richmond. In 1874 he removed to Washington, where for many years he was secretary and treasurer of the Capital Traction Company, retiring in 1905. He was regarded as one of the leading business men of Washington, possessing to a rare degree business foresight and mental acumen. He was born in Alexandria in 1833. Four children survive.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. K. ones were summoned to Washington more than a week ago on account of the illness of Mr. Koonce.

Thanksgiving at Colored Church

The two colored congregations united in their Thanksgiving service at the First Baptist church, and the sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Tynes, who was assisted by Rev. J. W. Jenkins.

A large congregation was present, and the music was a special feature.

More than forty members of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics marched to the Presbyterian church last Sunday night in a body to attend the special services conducted by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Alfred T. Graham, who preached a sermon with special reference to the tenets of that order.

Mr. W. S. Zombro has bought from Mr. W. A. Kinrear his house, located on Houston street, adjoining Mr. M. W. Lady.

SHOT TO DEATH

The Killing of William Bailey by Tom Clark

About noon last Saturday Tom Clark shot William Bailey in the thigh and beat him over the head with a hammer until he was killed. The tragedy occurred on lower Main street, a short distance below the Blue Hotel, in a clothes pressing room run by Godfrey Roane. All the parties involved are negroes. Clark claims that Bailey was unduly intimate with his wife, and for that reason he killed him.

The murder was horribly brutal. Clark saw Bailey go into the pressing shop and shortly afterwards followed him with a double barrel shot gun, intent on taking the life of Bailey. One shot was fired, when Bailey grabbed hold of the gun, and Clark retreating dragged his opponent outside the door onto a platform, then picked up a hammer and struck blow after blow on the man's head, crushing the skull. The struggle, it seems, was a silent one so far as words are concerned, as witnesses state that during the conflict no words were uttered by either. After the crime was committed Clark came up town to Jailor Jackson and gave himself up, stating that he had shot William Bailey. Clark was locked up.

Several months ago Clark and his wife, Lydia Clark, entered into a written agreement of separation, each not to interfere with the other. The wife left her husband's home and rented a room in the house where the tragedy occurred.

An inquest was held Saturday afternoon over the body of Bailey by Dr. J. H. Laird, coroner, with the following jurors: W. S. H. Lemmon, J. R. Mackey, R. G. Templeton, A. M. Monroe, C. B. Leech and T. H. Boley.

The witnesses examined were: George Johns, a cousin of Clark's wife, who was working in the room adjoining that in which the shooting took place, fixing a lock on the door. Clark's wife was present. Clark came into the room with a gun and went out and into the other room. Shortly afterwards a shot was heard in the next room. I opened the door as quickly as I could and I saw Clark coming backwards out of the room, dragging Bailey who was holding on to the gun with his left hand, and his right hand behind him towards his hip pocket, in which I saw a pistol. I ran across the street, fearing that Bailey might shoot at Clark. Clark picked up my hammer and hit Bailey on the head and then Bailey let go the gun and lay back on his left side. He afterwards turned almost on his back. Johns stated that he had heard Clark say that if he caught Bailey with his wife or talking to her one of them would have to die.

Johns' testimony was corroborated by Norman Mitchell, who witnessed the latter part of the trouble, and by Godfrey Roane, who was present at the beginning. Mitchell heard Clark say to his wife: "You are the cause of this." She replied: "I didn't do nothing."

Lydia Clark, Tom Clark's wife, testified that at 12 o'clock George Johns was fixing the lock on her door when Clark came in with a gun wrapped in an overcoat. Immediately after he went out a gun shot was heard in the next room, and she ran out to the corner of the house. Saw Clark come out pulling Bailey, who was leaning over and holding to the gun. She was excited and screamed.

The verdict of the jury was: "The said William Bailey came to his death by reason of a shot gun wound and wounds on the head with a hammer."

In an interview with Clark Monday in jail, he said that Bailey had been intimate with his wife for seven years, and that he had warned them both. He saw Bailey go into the pressing shop last Saturday and he followed him for the purpose of killing him. As soon as he entered the shop Bailey grabbed the gun and in the struggle he was shot. Bailey then drew his pistol and attempted to shoot.

Tuesday morning Clark was taken before Justice Senseney and waiving a preliminary hearing the case was sent on to the grand jury. Clark killed a man some years ago in Amherst county, but he was acquitted on the ground of self-defense. A few years ago he spent several years in an insane asylum. He is a carpenter, and is a very bright mulatto. His wife is also newly white. It is said they claim to have Indian blood in their veins.

Bailey was a paper hanger and white washer, and was regarded as a trustworthy and competent workman. He was about 40 years old, and was very black. His aged mother, nearly blind, survives him. His funeral was held Monday from the room in which he was killed. Rev. J. W. Tynes, pastor of the First Baptist church, conducted the services.

Ottolion Club Dance

The Ottolion Club of Washington and Lee University gave an enjoyable dance last night at the skating rink. The decorations were elaborate and beautiful.

Among the young ladies dancing were a number of visitors, as follows: Misses Heald and Craig-hill of Lynchburg, Misses Walton, Walker and Gilkinson of Staunton, Miss Gates of Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Miss Harrison of Amherst Court House, Misses Cross, Preston, Catlett, Howerton, Girardeau and Patton of Lexington.

The chaperones were Mrs. Corse, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Shields, Mrs. Dunlop, Mrs. Humphreys, Mrs. Pendleton, Miss White and Miss Larriek.

Union Thanksgiving Services

Union Thanksgiving services were held last Thursday morning at the Baptist church by the four white congregations of Lexington. The sermon was preached by Dr. Charles Manly, pastor of that church, and he was assisted by Rev. Dr. Alfred T. Graham, Rev. William S. Hammond and Rev. W. Cosby Bell. A good congregation was present, and the services were most attractive. Special music was rendered by Mrs. Joseph R. Long and Mr. Karl Leath.

An offering was received for the benefit of the needy, and the response were liberal. This amount will be apportioned to the four congregations.

Communion services will be held at the Lexington Presbyterian church next Sunday morning, with preparatory services Wednesday night at 7:30 and Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with preaching by the pastor, Dr. Alfred T. Graham.
