Our Correspondent "Augusta."

So far as we have been concerned, we have kept our columns open, as well to the friends as to the opponents of the Valley Railroad subscription.

We regret the tone and spirit of the article of "Augusta." He speaks of a set of "Rail road sharpers" and of "something like a conspiracy among the Railroad sharpers against the best interests of the county."

Again: "Augusta" seems to think the town of Staunton ought not to vote to tax the county. If the town votes for the tax it will vote to tax its own property ratably and equally with that of the county, to pay the debt.

Again: This will be no "contribution to a greedy corporation." It will be a subscription of stock, to be owned by the county, voted on by the county, and the dividends on which will go into the county Treasury.

The county of Augusta will stand on the same footing as Rockbridge, Botetourt, Roanoke, Staunton, and the city of Baltimore; and they, together will have full power to govern and control the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, even if it wished us evil.

Again: "Is there a conspiracy?" We are informed there is. But if there is not, the subscription of Augusta county will make a company, with at least $3,200,000 of valid capital—that will suffice. The charter of the Valley Railroad Company was not subject to forfeiture in any specified time.

The War in Europe. Some persons want to know what is the cause of the fuss. It is almost too hot to tell. Isabella, Queen of Spain, runs away and abdicates. Prussia, as a sort of Prim-minister offers Prince Leopold Hohenzollern of Prussia the crown of Spain.

Belgium has forbidden the exportation of Prussia. The manufacturers of the Lankenscheid district will soon be put upon the short time system. The correspondent of the Independence Bells, writing from Metz, France, says the whole country swarms with Prussian spies.

The Paris Journal Official published a proclamation from the Emperor to the people on the morning of the 23d. The British government, in common with the European cabinets, sustained the position by the Duc de Gramont, which was that Spain was entitled to choose any one for King except a German Prince.

According to the discussion of Judge Guignon, in the Richmond contested election case, the council and magistrates, remain as they are, while there is another election of all the other city officers.

On the first day of August next the Postmaster General will put in operation 375 new money-order offices, which will be distributed about equally over various sections of the country.

The money-order system, which was inaugurated in 1853, with only a little upwards of three hundred money-order offices, has in seven years expanded itself to seven times its original proportions, and already pays the fees received in the larger offices more than the fees received in the smaller ones.

Mr. Brooks is a native of this county, is an Alumnus of Washington College, and we hope he may do good service in Missouri for his Alma Mater.

National politics, party movements, and other such matters, are now thrown completely in the shade, and superseded, for a time, by the exciting news from Europe, which now almost entirely attracts public attention.

That was a very sensible remark of the editor of the Hagerstown Mail, who has bought a farm in Virginia and gone to work on it—"I see more money in farming in Virginia than in printing." We suppose he does—if he does not he sees precious little.

Latest War News.

Telegraphic despatches, dated the 23rd inst., give us the following intelligence from the war between France and Prussia:

The bourse was greatly excited yesterday over the unconfirmed report that Russia had declared war against France. War preparations are active. The entire army has been mobilized. Cannon are being moved to the front.

On the 15th of October, 1867, the body of an unknown murdered white woman was discovered on the farm, in Henrico county, Virginia. Repeated unsuccessful efforts were made by the authorities to discover who the perpetrators of the deed and to find out who the victim was.

Time passed on until the 13th of June, the detectives in the meantime being actively at work, when James Jeter Phillips was arrested for having murdered his wife—that wife being the unknown woman found murdered on Drinker's farm.

On the 15th of June, 1868, he was again arrested before the grand jury, at a special term of the court, and on the eighteenth day of the trial the jury rendered a verdict of guilty. He was at once sentenced to be hung, but, by various expedients resorted to by his counsel, the hanging was postponed.

For two days past carpenters have been engaged in erecting the scaffold upon which Phillips is to expire his crime. The scaffold is of plain pine, the height being about twelve feet from the ground and about eight feet high, with a trap-door in the centre four feet square.

Phillips, since the last hope of Executive intercession has failed, has been treated and chafed to the bone. He is now in the hands of his attorney, who is endeavoring to move about his cell, and at the same time acts as a preventive against any attempt at escape.

At Strasburg there are prayers every day for the success of the French arms. The Prussian King has issued a proclamation to the people of Prussia, in which he declares that he will not be a party to the execution of the sentence pronounced against the Emperor.

Never in the history of the country has a Congress separated with so little credit to itself or with so little work completed. The result of nearly an eight months session is a patched-up fragment of a tariff bill; a funding bill that won't run of its own strength—that must be forced to be available for any purpose; an imperfect currency measure, having a tendency rather to expand than contract irredeemable issues; an enforcement bill, to meet party purposes in the South; and in features, a new naturalization law, intended to frighten naturalized citizens and obstruct freedom of elections; the continuance of an antiquated income tax; a tardy law to half-way admit Georgia; the assumption of a police court jurisdiction; an outrageous invasion of the personal liberties of a citizen and his arrest and incarceration without the semblance of law. These and much of crude and corrupt legislation of a minor character are the work of this Congress. The list of measures they failed to perfect forms an arraignment of this bad body which can be used with telling effect against its representatives in the fall elections. This is conceded by the reflecting members of the party, and they do not hesitate to admit that the result of these elections will be to send to the Forty-Second Congress at least on hundred Democratic or Conservative members. The Democrats believe they will have a majority in the House.

The Engineer is anxious for the organization of a party in Virginia. It cannot believe "a rose by any other name will smell as sweet." Nothing short of the regular old Democratic party, of which the editor was a conspicuous member, will do. Well, let them organize.—We believe the Conservatives can carry the State against all combinations.

It is stated that the President has under consideration, in the event of the rejection by the Senate of the nomination of Mr. Oliver to the District Supreme Court (a late position), the propriety of appointing Mr. John M. Langston, a colored lawyer of note, who is at present the Law Professor at the Howard University.

In the multiplicity of reports from Europe, received by cable dispatches, it is difficult to winnow actual facts from mere rumors. Matters are yet in rather a chaotic state—and by when the great movements commence, we shall have, probably, the news in a more regular and correct form.

That was a very sensible remark of the editor of the Hagerstown Mail, who has bought a farm in Virginia and gone to work on it—"I see more money in farming in Virginia than in printing." We suppose he does—if he does not he sees precious little.

Enthusiastic German meetings are held all over the country, expressing sympathy with Prussia in its contest with France. Indeed as far as we can see the public feeling on this side of the Atlantic is in favor of Prussia.

The President, it is said, is about to send Gen. Sheridan or Gen. Schofield, or some other army officer to Europe to witness the war there, and profit by foreign inventions in arms, accoutrements, &c.

Execution of James Jeter Phillips for the Murder of his wife—His confession, &c.

The War and the Drought.

France goes to war in the midst of drought. During the four months of March, April, May, and June, there fell in Paris only fifty-five millimetres of rain, when upon an average there should have fallen 173 millimetres. The amount which is reported as having fallen in August, is only 17.3 millimetres, and it fell within thirty days instead of being spread over forty-nine.

These facts are apparently well attested, although the Government commissioners report a somewhat different statement. They say that the grain crops must be very deficient, and have been seriously injured that they, too, would be greatly below an average, putting farmers to straits in subsisting their stock.

On the 30th of October, 1867, he was arrested before the grand jury, at a special term of the court, and on the eighteenth day of the trial the jury rendered a verdict of guilty. He was at once sentenced to be hung, but, by various expedients resorted to by his counsel, the hanging was postponed.

FARMERS, Look to your Interest. Good Bye, August 1st, 1870.

Belthlehem, Augusta county, Va. H. C. BEERY—This is to certify that I used F. C. Renner's Chemical Fertilizer on my wheat last Fall, and believe it equal to Whann's or Baugh's, butts or any other Fertilizer that has been used in this vicinity this year.

Belthlehem, Augusta county, Va. H. C. BEERY—This is to certify that I used Renner's Fertilizer last Fall on my very thin land, and raised a very fine crop. I consider it equal to any fertilizer in market, if not better. I never had a finer stand of clover than I now have where I used the Fertilizer.
