

Staunton Spectator.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 25.

The News Changes Hands.

Mr. R. D. Haislip, who has been editing the Daily News, of this city, now retires from that position and Mr. Geo. R. M. Michie, the owner and editor of the Charlottesville Chronicle, takes charge and will assume the position of editor-in-chief. We welcome Mr. Michie to Staunton, and his success with the Chronicle is a guarantee of his ability. Mr. C. R. Caldwell will continue with the News in the position he has heretofore occupied. In governing his connection with the News, he does not lose Mr. Haislip as a citizen, but he will continue in business here.

Railroads Held Liable.

In a very able opinion by Judge Keith in the case of the Richmond and Alleghany Railway Company vs. the R. A. Patterson Tobacco Company of Richmond last week it was held that railroads in this State receiving goods to be transported to other States or foreign points was liable to the shipper. The point was that the Richmond and Alleghany Railway had delivered the goods safely to another road and was not liable, and that of Virginia was in 1885 with the constitution of the United States. The court held otherwise and affirmed the decision of the court below.

They Should be Recognized.

Last Tuesday evening there was a republican mass-meeting held in this city which was largely predominated by colored people who demanded the right to send a colored delegate to the St. Louis convention. Dodgers were numerous circulated, signed by the "Vigilance Committee," and these brought out a large crowd. Willis M. Carter is the person whose name is most favored. It is a little refreshing to see the colored people asserting their manhood and demanding their rights. Heretofore they have been handled by the white men of their party as so many sheep, without thanks for the loyalty with which they supported any and everybody those white men chose to nominate. If they are men, and we think many of them are, they will demand this recognition as they should long ago have done.

The Senate.

The United States Senate has really dropped the House in lack of courage, sober thought and careful dignified consideration of important issues. This body has done about all it could to increase agitation, to inflame passions, to disturb the popular judgment and to promote a policy of tumult and uproar. The Senate galleries are crowded with the fifth of Washington's streets, and to this crowd do Senators flock, and for this applause they seek, and great names like England and England by tariff robbers resented, and know that the man had the nerve to do it was the representative for the 10th district of Virginia.

That Dreadful Ring.

There is a faint sound in the political air which reminds us of times gone by—a still voice whispering, ring, ring. It is the custom with our republican friends, when defeat stares them in the face, when argument fails, and logic is wanting, to cry Boss, and Ring. When this gets throbbed, the Anderson-Cornick election law with the Walton attachment, undergoes a touch-up with fresh paint and is brought to the front in great hideousness. Now since our friends opposing politics have rung in their ears, we know as we do often, and we know so well what is in them, cannot get up something new, just for a change, you know—not that these are not good things of the kind, but to make the accusation "more binding." Sometimes politicians win victories by showing the unworthiness of their enemies; sometimes by showing their own worthiness. Have our republican friends tried the latter? It would be a good thing to experiment on once in thirty years, and it will win on this issue in the May election, we will help celebrate the victory.

Carlsruhe for President.

When we called attention to the fact in our issue before the last that Carlsruhe was the most available candidate the democrats could offer the country, we spoke from a deep sense of duty to the party. Our feeble voice may never be heard in the great uproar into which the country is soon to be launched, and no one may heed our advice, but until the convention at Chicago, if permitted to voice, it shall be raised in behalf of the man whom above all others the democrats could unite upon. When we were upon the eve of a convention before without a candidate? When were the democrats at sea before so important a question? The talk of a third term for Mr. Cleveland is twaddle, not because he is not greater now than ever before, and not because he has not the confidence of the business men of the country more than ever, but because a third term candidate would be regarded as a dangerous and grasping man, and as yet no party can afford to present one.

But Mr. Carlsruhe meets every phase of the case. Only radical free silver men can object to him, and the day has not yet come when this country can elect a free-silver President. The best that can be done is to give to both gold and silver a place as money, at a ratio as near their real value as can be, and let neither drive the other out of existence. On such a platform all could stand, and for such a man as Carlsruhe all can vote.

To remove the snow from the streets of New York City cost the sum of $100,000. NOW IS THE TIME TO GET THE SPECTATOR AT ONLY ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

Spottsylvania county is much interested in the revival of gold-mining in Virginia as it is claimed there is plenty of gold in that county. It is claimed that a certain William Jacques, of New-Mass., has invented a process of generating electricity which will do away with the dynamo.

Among the persons who lost their lives by the explosion of a steamship on the Congo river, in Africa, were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley S. Harvey, of Boston, Mass., missionaries of the American Advent Society. They had been in the Congo country since 1881 and were on their way home for a rest.

Whilst it was snowing in New York the 16th, there were a number of flashes of vivid lightning and heavy peals of thunder. The lightning appeared to be very red.

The Philadelphia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church voted to admit women as lay delegates to the General Conference and refused to increase the ratio of representation in the General Conference.

Sales of lots at Glasgow made some times ago were refused confirmation by the Circuit Court of Rockbridge last week on account of inadequacy of price.

It is understood that the capital stock, necessary to the organization and establishment of the proposed Mountain Chautauque, which is to be located at Goshen, on the main line of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, has been all subscribed, and a charter of incorporation will be taken out at once.

On last Wednesday in the Hustings Court of the city of Richmond, Edward Turner, Lewis Johnson, Richard Turner, and James Holmes were convicted of burglary, and sentenced, the first to 15 years, the second nine and the last two 6 years each. This broke up the worst gang of house-breakers that ever infested that city and terrorized its people.

A PENNSYLVANIA FRAUD SENTENCED.—In the United States District Court at Philadelphia last week, J. W. East, of Pittsburgh, was found guilty of obtaining fraudulent pensions several days before was sentenced to four years' hard labor at Kings county prison, N. Y.

The law passed by the recent Legislature prohibiting the sale of liquors to students of public institutions of learning in the State, not only minors, but any student, whether he be over the age of twenty one years or not, is under discussion by the liquor dealers and those of the students who are over age, and there is a probability that its constitutionality will be promptly tested by those interested.

FOUGHT IN THE JEFFERSON.—The even tenor and dignified air which characterized the Jefferson since its completion was for the first time broken on at an early hour Tuesday morning when several young men, prominent in social circles, made matters lively in the grill-room. It was shortly before 1 o'clock, and there were several people taking a lunch after returning from the theatre. Mr. Frederick L. Davidson, Mr. St. George Anderson, and Mr. Charles T. Williams took part in the disturbance.

During the scuffle a table with the silverware, china, and other settings, overturned in the grill-room, and the participants raised Cain generally. Mr. Williams took a hand, it is stated, and the disturbance could not for some time be quelled. Finally police officers were summoned, but before they arrived upon the scene the young men had left.

DEATH OF A STUDENT.—Randolph-Macon Academy at Bedford City is mourning on account of the death of one of its students. C. W. Rock, of Lancaster county, Va., was taken sick, on the 8th of March, with broncho pneumonia, which developed into congestion of the lungs, and resulted in his death at 10 o'clock last Thursday night. Young Rock was about seven teen years old.

W. & L. UNIVERSITY.—Among the distinguished speakers who will appear on the annual commencement programme of Washington and Lee University, June next, is the Hon. Charles S. Hamlin, assistant secretary of the United States Treasury, who has accepted the honor of the literary exercises of the University to address them on the 17th of June. This week examinations in junior and senior law are going on in the law school of the University, and the boys are hard at work reviewing.

Mr. Harrison Ballard of Monroe county, Va., died suddenly at his home in the Red Sulphur district, March 12th. The Monroe Watchman says he had been hauling wood, and came into the house complaining that he did not feel well, but apparently recovering, he was left alone in the room for a few moments by the family. Upon their return it was found that Mr. Ballard had fallen from his chair and was dead. He was about 60 years of age and was a worthy citizen.

To HANG.—Solomon Marable has again been pronounced guilty of the murder of Mrs. Lucy Jane Ballard. His case was concluded in the County Court of Prince Edward on Wednesday. The prisoner did not appear to realize the gravity of his situation when the verdict was rendered, and stood looking listlessly at the floor while Clerk Thackston read the solemn and awful words, "We, the jury, find the prisoner at the bar guilty. Sentiment in favor of Mary Abernathy and Pokey Barnes has greatly diminished since the trial of Marable commenced. The Hon. Judge Wilson Abernathy admitted that his wife was at the house only one hour before the murder was committed, coupled with Old-Man Pollard's testimony that he left Mary Barnes at his place just a short while before the crime is supposed to have been perpetrated and Marable's statement, has dispelled a great deal of doubt as to the guilt of the negro women.

This case has caused more excitement among the negroes than any murder case in Virginia in years, and the threats of lynching were so pronounced at one time that the prisoners had to be removed from Richmond, Va., to Prince Edward county. The trial of the woman was postponed till next month, owing to the absence of important witnesses.

Now is your time to subscribe for the Spectator for it is only one dollar a year.

Not Happy. The News man questions the policy of the Governor in his appointments of Visitors to the Deaf and Dumb and Blind institutions, especially and so good reason for terminating Samuel Forder, of the county, president of the old Board, and appointing R. S. Turk, of the city. Well, the News man spent most of the winter in Richmond looking after the Legislature and the Governor, we presume, feasting on diamonds, back terrapin, and early ass-back. And the Spectator man backed at home "sawing wood."

The fact is, the News man will have to look up his party, and exercise a salutary influence over the affairs of the State. We are sorry he came in on top, while "sawing wood" at home and leading a quiet, domestic life.—Tost's Weekly, March 19th.

How Can the Senate be Reformed? Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest's Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Major McKinley's platform leads one to think that he regards the tariff as the principal issue now before the country. He looks upon the financial problem as of small moment. The Major will find that silence in the coming campaign is neither silver nor gold.

Of course it is not a discrimination against silver to redeem greenbacks in gold when the holder of the certificate desires it; but it is the most powerful support that could under any circumstances be given to the white metal if the government should refuse to give a gold dollar for a silver dollar, what would become of silver?—Norfolk Landmark.

ENGLI KILLED.—A large grey eagle was shot and killed by Mr. Frank L. Ralston on March 11th, near his home on Turkey Creek, about 5 miles from Staunton. The eagle had been committing depredations upon Mr. Ralston's laubs, having killed four. He was in the act of attacking a bird on a fence six feet and nine inches from tip to tip.—Monroe (W. Va.) Watchman.

How Can the Senate be Reformed? Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Major McKinley's platform leads one to think that he regards the tariff as the principal issue now before the country. He looks upon the financial problem as of small moment. The Major will find that silence in the coming campaign is neither silver nor gold.

Of course it is not a discrimination against silver to redeem greenbacks in gold when the holder of the certificate desires it; but it is the most powerful support that could under any circumstances be given to the white metal if the government should refuse to give a gold dollar for a silver dollar, what would become of silver?—Norfolk Landmark.

ENGLI KILLED.—A large grey eagle was shot and killed by Mr. Frank L. Ralston on March 11th, near his home on Turkey Creek, about 5 miles from Staunton. The eagle had been committing depredations upon Mr. Ralston's laubs, having killed four. He was in the act of attacking a bird on a fence six feet and nine inches from tip to tip.—Monroe (W. Va.) Watchman.

How Can the Senate be Reformed? Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Major McKinley's platform leads one to think that he regards the tariff as the principal issue now before the country. He looks upon the financial problem as of small moment. The Major will find that silence in the coming campaign is neither silver nor gold.

Of course it is not a discrimination against silver to redeem greenbacks in gold when the holder of the certificate desires it; but it is the most powerful support that could under any circumstances be given to the white metal if the government should refuse to give a gold dollar for a silver dollar, what would become of silver?—Norfolk Landmark.

ENGLI KILLED.—A large grey eagle was shot and killed by Mr. Frank L. Ralston on March 11th, near his home on Turkey Creek, about 5 miles from Staunton. The eagle had been committing depredations upon Mr. Ralston's laubs, having killed four. He was in the act of attacking a bird on a fence six feet and nine inches from tip to tip.—Monroe (W. Va.) Watchman.

How Can the Senate be Reformed? Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Major McKinley's platform leads one to think that he regards the tariff as the principal issue now before the country. He looks upon the financial problem as of small moment. The Major will find that silence in the coming campaign is neither silver nor gold.

Of course it is not a discrimination against silver to redeem greenbacks in gold when the holder of the certificate desires it; but it is the most powerful support that could under any circumstances be given to the white metal if the government should refuse to give a gold dollar for a silver dollar, what would become of silver?—Norfolk Landmark.

ENGLI KILLED.—A large grey eagle was shot and killed by Mr. Frank L. Ralston on March 11th, near his home on Turkey Creek, about 5 miles from Staunton. The eagle had been committing depredations upon Mr. Ralston's laubs, having killed four. He was in the act of attacking a bird on a fence six feet and nine inches from tip to tip.—Monroe (W. Va.) Watchman.

How Can the Senate be Reformed? Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Mr. Vest, of Missouri, spoke and abused the President, even to the extent of deriding Mr. Cleveland's religion, the august and sacred scriptures. Senate snickered and chuckled. "Mr. Vest caused much amusement," says the New York Herald's correspondent, "at the President's appearance and remarks at the Presbyterian home missionary meeting in New York."

Major McKinley's platform leads one to think that he regards the tariff as the principal issue now before the country. He looks upon the financial problem as of small moment. The Major will find that silence in the coming campaign is neither silver nor gold.

Of course it is not a discrimination against silver to redeem greenbacks in gold when the holder of the certificate desires it; but it is the most powerful support that could under any circumstances be given to the white metal if the government should refuse to give a gold dollar for a silver dollar, what would become of silver?—Norfolk Landmark.

ENGLI KILLED.—A large grey eagle was shot and killed by Mr. Frank L. Ralston on March 11th, near his home on Turkey Creek, about 5 miles from Staunton. The eagle had been committing depredations upon Mr. Ralston's laubs, having killed four. He was in the act of attacking a bird on a fence six feet and nine inches from tip to tip.—Monroe (W. Va.) Watchman.