

Spectator & Vindicator

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 18.

History repeats itself. We have had two Mahone movements in Virginia in about fifteen years.

The gold democrats are talking a good deal about the restoration of confidence. It may be some time before the people regain confidence in them.

Now it is Mark Hanna who is sending up the price of wheat. We hear a good deal of diphtheria in these parts, shall we thank Mark for that?

It is pleasant to note that both the C. & O. and B. & O. railways have concluded to continue business owing to the election of McKinley.

The Sugar Trust has advanced the price of sugar one cent per pound since the election, and this pays about three times as much as that subscribed to secure McKinley's election. Other trusts will do likewise.

Col. D. V. Ruckman has just returned from Pennsylvania, and he reports money no more plentiful now than before the election, and confidence as scarce as money, and prosperity scarcer than both.

The defeat of silver has caused great rejoicing in England, and Mr. Bayard was congratulated by Lord Salisbury on the result. England owning millions of American securities of course wanted them paid in gold, which will be wrong from the people by the corporations whose obligations they are.

About all the plants which shut down for political purposes have started up again, and the long lists which filled gold bug papers of industries starting on account of restored confidence have disappeared. Hyster and deceit may do for a while, but prosperity to be real must come because circumstances compel it.

Female suffrage was overwhelmingly defeated in California on the 8d, when a constitutional amendment endorsed by the republican, the prohibition and populist parties was submitted. Miss Susan B. Anthony and Rev. Anna Shaw stamped the State for it, and this probably caused its burial.

A very much higher tariff bill is promised by the new Congress. Inasmuch as the people have voted for a tariff let them have it, and just as much of it as they want. Let the Democrats go in and aid them in getting it, let it be a scorcher, something like the last McKinley bill. It will probably teach those who will have it to pay some sense.

Since Senator Bayard delivered himself of his gold bug speech in England, congratulating his English friends on Bryan's defeat, in which he stated that the United States had "repudiated repudiation," the resolution of censure which was introduced in the last Congress will never be seriously pressed, and if pressed at all will not be opposed by the democrats.

The large manufacturing plants are now bulldozing the small ones by informing them that better times have been promised and the small men must buy to keep things going.

At the same time we notice certain newspaper writers urging the prosperity makers to hold back a little, and throw too much prosperity on the people at once it is dangerous. We do not believe prosperity can be maintained under a gold standard and the people will find it so.

Wheat. Our farmers will do well to hold their wheat for an additional ten cent rise. Wheat is likely to go to one dollar. There is an alarming famine in India, and Europe is scarce of wheat. All available ships have been chartered to send wheat abroad to meet the course enter some wheat into the rise or fall of prices, but this will only change it a few cents lower to day and a few cents higher to-morrow, but for a while indications point to an upward tendency. Don't expect too much however, and sell when it has verged on a dollar.

What is to Become of the Poor? On the 10th instant, as will be seen elsewhere, a banquet was tendered Mr. Mark Hanna by Isaac M. Seligman of New York, in the banquet hall of the Equitable Building in New York city.

At this banquet New York millionaires alone were in evidence. Mr. Seligman is a Jewish Banker of great wealth and the Rothschild of this country. These bankers had much to rejoice over, and their feasting the captain-general of the Republicanism and the owner of the next president is seriously significant. A national Republican party was proposed at this banquet which, of course, would be composed of only those leaders who stand by the moneyed power of this country. With our nation's chief hobnobbing with wealth through his proxy, Mr. Hanna, what are the poor to expect?

The next Virginia Election. The approaching election in Virginia for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and members of the General Assembly bids fair to be a little "gingery". There can now be no forecast as to the outcome. It may be a close rather than a close party in the field, or there may be a considerable amount of fusion and absorption. By the time the fight is hotly on some of the sores of the last presidential election may have become healed, and thus the democratic party may show up in its usual form, but this depends largely upon the action of the gold bug press, and the action of the incoming administration. Should there be a special session of Congress, and any radical legislation attempted the breach will undoubtedly widen in Virginia. If, on the other hand, the country is also allowed to rest, and prosperous times are forthcoming and business active, farms and farm products marketable, political cancer will be scarcer and the by-gones will be by-gones to a great extent. But never in the history of Virginia was there such a campaign as to the lines upon which a campaign would be fought out.

Probably the most sublimely cheeky utterance of the "Gold press" of Virginia is that the Democrats "got together" or that the Democrats "reformed" to the fold. It had probably as much to do with the fact that there is any getting together it must be those who stayed into the Republican fold, who will return and get together. When a member of a party has once forsaken it, he becomes like a runaway horse, never again to be trusted. The very time you least suspect him there he goes again. But how could there be harmony, in ranks if we got together? The crime of '73, and the crime of '96, are different it is true, but the more recent one is the one which will be hardest atoned for. The Democrats will be some time recovering from the effect of this desertion. If however, those who bolted went to get snugly back by the Democratic hearth they will be allowed to do so, but they must not expect to push themselves into the best seats.

The will of the late Mrs. Wm. H. Vanderhill was probated last week. Her estate amounted to about $1,000,000. She left all to charity, and her personal note kindred, except her personal effects which she left to her children.

Young Marion Butler of North Carolina, who may be seen during the sessions of the United States Senate posing with Websterian intellectuality amongst the men who form that body, and moving about with a movement akin to that of a small dog in high oats, really believes that he amounts to something in the politics of this country, and that he has been sent to the Senate from the old North State because he is really an able man, and the State chose him as one of her two very greatest men to represent her in that august body, the United States Senate. Believing that he amounts to something, he has issued a statement through his paper, the Caveston, notifying Bryan that if he ever runs for president again he must do it under some name other than that of Democracy. Then he proceeds to lambaste the democratic party for peridy and for being "grossly and brutally false." The influence of this utterance coming from the mouth of this accident of an accident, might be regarded seriously if the country did not know that young Marion has scarcely arrived at the age of puberty. He has much to learn and no lesson will be learned more certainly, or if incapable of acquiring such knowledge, his friends will learn for him, than his own size and weight in the world. He will find what the democratic party found in the campaign just ended, that when standing in his own political world, surrounded by the halo of his own political influences, this young tar heel statesman was lighter than air, but when hung around the political neck of Democracy he became a veritable mill stone. Now when Mr. Marion Butler undertakes to speak for the democracy of this county he has undertaken to talk on a subject beyond the size of the brow his silk hat rests upon, and from which his leonine locks stand out like quills upon the fretful porcupine.

What would Mr. Bryan's canvas or vote have been without the democrats? If he had relied on young Senator Butler, and his off ox, Tom Watson, for votes, Bryan and not Palmer and Buckner would have played the role of tin can at the end of the dog's tail in the last race. But if Bryan and democracy had cut loose from all such wind puddings as the Senator from North Carolina and the populist idiots in other quarters, and had thrown fusion to the winds, and made the race purely and simply as a democratic party, on the leading principles of silver-metalism and tariff reform, Bryan, who in area, carried more than two-thirds of the United States, could have in population carried enough to have made his election one of the greatest political triumphs of history.

A hot fight is being made in the Georgia legislature for U. S. Senator. Mr. Crisp would have been elected had he lived.

The large brick residence of Wm. Garth, about four miles west of Charlottesville, was totally destroyed by fire on last Friday.

Washington and Lee University has awarded a check of $5,000 to a lady friend of the institution to endow an undergraduate scholarship.

Mr. Thomas Ransom, son of Hon. Mat Ransom, minister to Mexico, died on Sunday last at his home in Northampton county, N. C., aged about 36 years.

It has been found impossible to obtain a jury to try Wimmer who killed young Thalhimer at Richmond. The win-dow was placed in the old powder house, a noted colonial structure in the old capital of Virginia. The ceremony was held at the home of the Virginia Association for the Preservation of Antiquities. Hon. John Goode and Hon. B. B. Munford made addresses.

All the real friends of the Catholic church, who are wise, hope the report that Archbishop Ireland will be named as the next pope, may prove true. There can hardly be a doubt, except among prejudiced people, that he and the influence he has exerted have done that church in this country no good, but much harm. Political preaching always injures the cause of religion.—Alexandria Gazette.

Secretary Carlisle Tired of Politics. LOUISVILLE, KY., Nov. 11.—Secretary Carlisle wants to retire from politics. While he was in Kentucky last month he said to a friend who had mentioned that there was talk of electing him to the Senate: "I sincerely hope they won't do it. I have been in politics thirty years and I am tired. I have my sincere desire and intention is to have nothing more to do with politics after the end of this administration."

Wheat in Good Shape. The wheat now in the ground starts off in good condition, in marked contrast to that of last year, which went into winter quarters weak and ill fitted to withstand severe weather. Seeding was delayed somewhat this year by the rains, but with favorable weather the late sown wheat is now in good shape. The acreage is large. The immense corn area contributed to this, and there is besides a feeling that the next crop will bring a better return than has been realized for the past few years.

The Hypocrite. That consummate hypocrite and un-blinging villain, "Rev." Charles M. Brazz, who for a number of years occupied the role in Alleghany county and portions of West Virginia as minister of the Methodist church, it is said has been proposed to a place in the establishment of John Vanamaker in Philadelphia. Brazz, it will be recollected, after deserting his wife and children in Baltimore and eloping with a young lady member of the choir of the church in which he was the pastor, fled to New York, and afterwards got employment as a mortician on a street car line. While in Baltimore a week or two ago, W. Hess of Clifton Forge, called on the abandoned wife, who had been left penniless. Mrs. Brazz is now keeping a boarding house at 1022 Madison avenue and struggling to maintain and educate her children.—Review.

Showing how the nations flag is likely to be dishonored when taken and used as the exclusive property of a political party, Capt. Thomas Blackford sent us the following extract from the Philadelphia Inquirer just at the heels of the campaign, as they are published not as news but to show inevitable results.

The spirit of disloyalty and anarchy which Bryan's campaign has aroused is shown in outrages on the American flag, the symbol of the nation's honor. It has been torn down or mutilated in several towns, and in every instance Bryanites are suspected of perpetrating the outrage.

Special of The Inquirer. WENONAH, N. J., Nov. 1.—The Republicans of this town raised a large American flag yesterday with a McKinley and Robert banner attached. Some time between the hours of 1 and 7 o'clock this morning, the flag was badly mutilated. This dastardly act has caused indignation among the Republicans. The flag was contributed by sound money Democrats as well as Republicans. The outrage is all the more surprising in view of the fact that the flag has been a bitter heretofore during the campaign and the people have always prided themselves on the patriotic and law abiding sentiment which they cherish.

A reward of one hundred dollars has been offered for the apprehension and conviction of the perpetrators of the outrage and insult to the national flag.

Flag in a Bonfire. PLEASANT HILL, Mo., Oct. 31.—An American flag was burned at a political demonstration here today. Bryanites were the instigators, and the special train bearing gold standard orators rolled in town.

The train party distributed literature and a little McKinley to the rear platform to sing a Republican campaign song, holding a flag in her hand, when one of the men in the crowd snatched the flag from her and threw it upon a bonfire which had been made of the gold standard literature.

The party on the train claim that the act was loudly cheered by those attending the rally.

Surgical Operation by Means of X Rays. LEXINGTON, VA., Nov. 12.—An interesting operation was performed in Lexington on the 10th inst. by Dr. Robert Glasgow, assisted by Dr. W. S. White and Dr. Reid White. A young lady in walking across a street, struck a nail in her foot. The needle broke and it was thought that a part of it remained in the foot. In order to determine its whereabouts, Prof. Moreland of Washington and Lee University, was asked to examine the foot by means of the excellent x-ray apparatus in his laboratory. Two radiographs were taken—one with the tube above the foot and the plate under it, the other with the tube on the side, and the plate on the opposite side. The needle showed plainly in both views. The first showed that the needle was under the middle toe, rather nearer the big toe than the little one, and extending from the joint back under the metatarsal bone. The second view showed that it was under the bone, no part of the needle being nearer the surface than about three quarters of an inch. With the information given by the radiographs the needle was removed and found to be two thirds of an inch long.

Good Advice to Colored People. Booker T. Washington, principal of the Alabama Normal and Industrial School at Tuskegee, delivered an address in Mobile a few days ago which was full of valuable advice to the people of his race. Here is an extract from it: "People let me that after the young colored men get their education finished are open to them. As has little patience with the ignorant. Hereofore we have had too much of the idea that an educated colored man must either teach, preach, be a clerk or follow a profession. On education more and more must go to the farms, into the trades, start brick-yards, saw-mills and factories and open their own shops. They must apply their education to conquer the forces of nature. Education is nothing except as it is used in a way to produce some good. An educated man standing on the streets with his hands in his pockets is of no more value to the world than an ignorant man doing the same thing."

Stonewall Jackson's Grave. The Charleston News and Courier says: "Prof. H. E. Shepherd delivered a very interesting lecture at the Charleston College Wednesday night on a visit to Stonewall Jackson's Grave." He began by saying that the literary work at the college could be aided to a great extent by having these lectures during the year and taking such subjects as would strike a responsive chord in the hearts of the young students. He then related the story of the grave of Jackson. While there at the memories of bygone days came back to him, and he thought of the noble life and deeds of this gallant soldier and leader. He told many reminiscences connected with Jackson's life, and an account of his last days at several points of historical interest. The lecture was highly enjoyed by the large crowd present, and they discovered many new facts about Stonewall Jackson and his career."

Horses. Most any person will tell you the cause of the low price of horses in this country is the demand caused by the electric cars and the bicycle. The supply of horses cannot be suddenly shut off or increased. The use of the horse is 10 years. The use for him is suddenly shut off, he is still on our hands and the colts that require five years for development and being shut off in five years. I have been at least to shut off the supply. If we quit breeding, which we have almost done, when the supply is shut off, it will take five or more years to fill the gap.

A Youthful Criminal's Sentence. Suffolk, Va., November 10.—Walter Braxton, 23-year-old criminal, was this afternoon sentenced to nine years imprisonment for grand larceny, being convicted on two indictments alleging the theft of jewelry robbery. His criminal career dates back to infancy, and comprises deeds of daring.

In Lincoln county, W. Va., last week the house of James E. Abbott and his daughter Cora, a young woman, was burned to a cinder.

The Cincinnati Price-Current of last Thursday says:—The week has been attended with something of freezing and rain, and in western and northwestern localities considerable snow, which conditions have interfered with the handling of corn, retarding cribbing operations, as well as serving to curtail the movement of this and other grain for shipment. Sentiment among holders of grain the interior appears to have assumed more of confidence. The situation with reference to wheat supplies is not presented in any uniformity of view, but generally of more restricted proportions. The growing wheat maintains its excellent position generally. Some of the late sowing is backward in growth, but this has little of significance at this time, for the possibilities are on the side of favorable results. In the highest market prices have been carried higher than previously since the early part of 1893, with sales at Chicago of spot No. 2 red winter at 90 cents, although No. 2 spring is near 19 cents lower. This grade being in abundant supply in that market, while No. 3 winter is in very small supply. No. 2 red winter wheat sold here at 40 cents, and at 40 cents.

From the highest position of the wheat market on Tuesday there was some reaction on yesterday, but the intense tendency to anticipate a further tendency to easiness, but there is much in the general situation to encourage maintenance of strength in the market, notwithstanding the great advance that has been effected. Reaction is natural, but the general outlook encourages confidence in the situation. The leading news of substantial rains there might be a temporary weakening in the markets.

December wheat at Chicago closed 2 1/2 below the highest point of the week, and 1/2 above the lowest point, and 1/2 higher than a week ago.

Corn at Chicago for December closed 1/2 below the highest point of the week, and 1/2 above the lowest point of the week, and 1/2 higher than a week ago.

Wheat receipts at primary markets were 5,701,000 bushels for the preceding week, against 5,701,000 bushels for the preceding week, and 8,734,000 last year.

Corn receipts were 3,656,000 bushels, against 4,992,000 the preceding week, and 2,659,000 last year.

ROME, Nov. 11.—Cardinal Satoli has just presented to the Pope his report on the religious questions in the United States.

He accuses Bishop Keane of having, in several public speeches, uttered opinions which bordered on heresy, and says that in accord with Archbishop Ireland, he endeavored to acclimatize a neo-catholicism (new Catholicism) on American soil.

Cardinal Satoli declares that the University at Washington had become the heart of these new ideas, where the most bold and risky theories were put forward.

Fortunately, he says, the removal of Bishop Keane has cut short the evil at its root, but the Bishop left behind dangerous disciples in the form of numerous professors of this university, and the Cardinal advises the Pope to deprive them, in their turn, of their offices.

IRLAND THE "APOSTLE OF HERESY." But the Cardinal shows himself much more severe in his arraignment of Archbishop Ireland.

He declares that this prelate is the creator of the Catholicism in the United States, and he formally accuses him of being the "apostle of heresy."

GRAIN TRADE AND CROPS.

The Cincinnati Price-Current of last Thursday says:—The week has been attended with something of freezing and rain, and in western and northwestern localities considerable snow, which conditions have interfered with the handling of corn, retarding cribbing operations, as well as serving to curtail the movement of this and other grain for shipment. Sentiment among holders of grain the interior appears to have assumed more of confidence. The situation with reference to wheat supplies is not presented in any uniformity of view, but generally of more restricted proportions. The growing wheat maintains its excellent position generally. Some of the late sowing is backward in growth, but this has little of significance at this time, for the possibilities are on the side of favorable results. In the highest market prices have been carried higher than previously since the early part of 1893, with sales at Chicago of spot No. 2 red winter at 90 cents, although No. 2 spring is near 19 cents lower. This grade being in abundant supply in that market, while No. 3 winter is in very small supply. No. 2 red winter wheat sold here at 40 cents, and at 40 cents.

From the highest position of the wheat market on Tuesday there was some reaction on yesterday, but the intense tendency to anticipate a further tendency to easiness, but there is much in the general situation to encourage maintenance of strength in the market, notwithstanding the great advance that has been effected. Reaction is natural, but the general outlook encourages confidence in the situation. The leading news of substantial rains there might be a temporary weakening in the markets.

December wheat at Chicago closed 2 1/2 below the highest point of the week, and 1/2 above the lowest point, and 1/2 higher than a week ago.

Corn at Chicago for December closed 1/2 below the highest point of the week, and 1/2 above the lowest point of the week, and 1/2 higher than a week ago.

Wheat receipts at primary markets were 5,701,000 bushels for the preceding week, against 5,701,000 bushels for the preceding week, and 8,734,000 last year.

Corn receipts were 3,656,000 bushels, against 4,992,000 the preceding week, and 2,659,000 last year.

ROME, Nov. 11.—Cardinal Satoli has just presented to the Pope his report on the religious questions in the United States.

He accuses Bishop Keane of having, in several public speeches, uttered opinions which bordered on heresy, and says that in accord with Archbishop Ireland, he endeavored to acclimatize a neo-catholicism (new Catholicism) on American soil.</
