FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21.

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC TICKET For President, WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, Of Nebraska.

For Vice President, ADLAI E. STEVENSON, Of Illinois.

For Congress—10th District, H. D. FLOOD, Of Appropriator.

The recent addition of Mr. Joseph Patton to Governor Tyler's staff, in no way argues that there were no buttons there before.

The powder industry has seen prosperity under McKinley, and we are confident the powder makers will vote the Republican ticket.

There is one question this administration has not answered, and cannot answer, and that is why have we 60,000 men at work killing Filipinos?

Gov. Roosevelt in his letter of acceptance of the Vice Presidential nomination shot no trust in the back, nor any where else for that matter.

Mr. Hanna in addressing an Indiana audience a few days ago said his main object was to convince them he did not wear horns. Nothing was said about the character of his hoofs.

The newspapers state that Governor Tyler was at Fairfax C. H. at the meeting of Mosby's battalion last week, and spoke for about ten minutes in a humorous vein. It is always funny to hear Gov. Tyler speak.

It is hardly possible that the negro vote will go over to Teddy, because so many of them are mad at him. Ever since he insulted the negro soldiers who fought at San Juan Hill by publishing that he had "above the negroes out of the way" to reach the enemy, the negroes have felt the aspersion and will resent it at the polls.

The able colored Bishop Turner, of St. Louis, a life long Republican, is out for Bryan.

After the wind had passed through the whippers of ex-U. S. Senator Peffer, of Kansas, and U. S. Senator Stewart, of Nevada, a still smaller saint said: "Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest."

The voice is said to have been the voice of Uncle Mark hid in a bush near where these two pilgrim fathers were passing. They heeded the voice, and both are now resting once more in the bosom of the Republican party and their joy is ecstatic.

It is said that Governor Tyler is telling a story on himself to the following effect: There was a colored man sent with a buggy to meet Gov. Tyler to convey him from the station to Fairfax C. H., where Mosby's men met last week. The Governor went up to the darkey and asked if that buggy had been sent for Gov. Tyler, and was told it had. Then the Governor said, "I am Gov. Tyler," but the colored driver, after looking him over, shook his head and drove away.

Miss Lillian Clayton Jewett, of Boston, who was educated at Hollis Institute, in this State, was at the negro National Baptist convention which met in Richmond last week. Miss Jewett is described as a delicate, fragile woman of about 25 years, with brown hair and dark blue eyes, with quaint and eschastic graces intensely interested in her work, but in her conversation fanciful, voluble and not very convincing. Miss Jewett is Southern by the purpose of putting a stop to lynching. She can do this in one way only and that is after the fashion laid down by a French paper to stop capital punishment. The paper is reported to have said: "If Messieurs les murderers will cease to murder, les authorities will cease to hang."

A good deal of noise has been made over the recent change of Mr. J. L. Williams, of Lewisburg, W. Va., from Democracy to Republicanism. This is doubtless resorted to by the Republican press to offset the wide spread defection of Republicans like Lewis Ballard, S. C. Burdett and others in that State. Mr. Williams, however, has been in the Republican party so long that people in his part of the State do not exactly recall when he reached there. His antecedents were Republican and he is said to have always had a banking that way, but for some time he has been regarded as an out and out Republican, and a prominent candidate before the last Republican convention for a place on the Supreme Court of that State, and was only narrowly defeated by the present candidate Mr. Poffenberger. Not having been rewarded by his party he had some hope he might get back to the Democrats again. This is not a new find for the Republicans, as Mr. Williams did not vote for Bryan four years ago, and cannot be regarded as a recent case of "benevolent assimilation."

With the thermometer at 20 degrees above zero, it commenced snowing at Staunton, Va. Monday morning and continued all the afternoon.

WOLVES IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING.

There are a few men in Baltimore city who have formed what they call the "House of Money League," and who pretend to regard "sound currency" as the real issue in this campaign. They worked vigorously for McKinley in 1896, and will do it again under the assassin's mask of "honest dollar." They are such men as John K. Cowen, S. Davis Warfield, William Cabell Bruce, et id omne genus, who have scarcely voted a Democratic ticket in ten years, but who have eternally strutted about as Democrats, being always really wolves in sheep's clothing. They seem not to have the moral courage to go openly into the Republican party, or are too wily to do so, because they doubtless feel that their great efforts in behalf of McKinley would be emasculated if they allowed their real motives to become known to the country at large, by going openly into the party for which they work and where they belong. They should drop the word "honest" from their political declarations, or if they desire the word to be used in that connection they ought surely to do some single act of character. To call themselves Gold Democrats or the Honest Money League, and to declare that a Sound Currency is the paramount issue are all so untruthful and intended so certainly to deceive, that the kiss of Judas can now be turned to the wall and the picture of these worthless posing as Democrats placed on exhibition. The world has far more respect for men who do even the most heinous of crime openly than him who lies in wait.

"IF TREASON MAKE THE MOST OF IT."

An argument that Teddy Roosevelt and a few other Republican orators have advanced is that Democrats are giving aid and comfort to the Philippines, by an advocacy of a policy of self government. This is a very tame sort of argument, it is not worthy of serious consideration. If the Philippines had done anything in the first place for which we should put 60,000 of our soldiers to butchering them, then there might be some little weight in the argument. But because the Democrats oppose this murderous feature of the McKinley administration does not argue that any one is a traitor. The Democrats believe that many things the Republicans do are wrong, there is just as much reason to believe them wrong in this war policy which is a part of the policy of Imperialism as in anything else, and it makes no difference by what name the Democrats are called they have given notice that in the event Mr. Bryan is elected that party will do all in its power to make honorable peace with the Philippines, and stop the flow of blood and the waste of treasure which the land grabbing policy of McKinley has brought about. This issue is squarely before the people. Mr. Bryan has declared he will see Congress in extra session to do this very thing, and there is no doubt or equivocation on this subject. "If this is treason then make the most of it."

BUILD UPON THE SAND.

The destruction of Galveston, Texas, which is one of the most appalling calamities which ever befell any country, and the greatest unless it be the Johnston disaster, which ever befell this, is another illustration of how human beings are lulled into forgetfulness of danger. The scriptures have told us of a man which built an house and digged deep, and laid the foundation on a rock; and when the flood arose the waters beat vehemently upon that house and could not shake it, for it was founded upon a rock. And again they have told us of a man who built an house upon the sand, and when the floods came and beat vehemently upon that house it became a ruin. The destruction of Pompeii is not a warning people sufficient to keep them beyond the dangers of Vesuvius, but has Johnston been abandoned because of the calamity there, is not the site of Galveston entirely deserted because of the present overwhelming? For the sake of gain human beings will risk untold dangers, and laugh at direful forebodings, which have been deeply grieved over this disaster. Yet unless some measure is taken to hold back the waves another in time will follow, because where men have lived and prospered, men will live and prosper, though occasionally some may be swallowed up as have been our friends in Galveston.

PROSPERITY THE LAST DITCH.

The Republican party is falling back on Prosperity as the last ditch in the redemption of the country promises made. "We promised the country prosperity," says their platform, and of course it had to come, but those other promises, where are they? Peace and prosperity are handmaids. Wars, pestilences and famines go together, how then can we have abiding prosperity when we are in the midst of wars, and the number of them increasing? If McKinleyism can bring about prosperity it can maintain it. It has not maintained it. Possibly the promises of the party are like those in the almanac which say it will rain tomorrow. If any drop of rain falls the promise is fulfilled. If any branch of business has prospered then all promises as of prosperity have been redeemed. Of course the Trusts prospered; everybody knew they would; the Dingley Bill enacted for that purpose, competition was taken away that they might bleed the people and recoup the money they had paid to help elect McKinley. But what of the agricultural interests have they flourished? Not at all. As we write wheat is not bringing over 65 cents. The farmer who would vote the Republican ticket on account of prosperity to his class would be a very simple creature indeed.

The first Greek warship that ever visited the United States is now at Philadelphia.

The German newspapers condemn the placing of the German loan in the United States as tending to humiliate the German people.

THE DINNER PAIL.

"'Twas the full dinner pail," as once went the fall, Mark Santa Claus, put in their socks. Happy workmen and hale, themselves would regale, Like Mark, who has plenty of rooks. How happy should be such workmen you see, To live like the head of a Trust, With a pail coming free, "from William and Me, 'Cause you workman have voted for us."

But the tale of the pail, grows tryingly stale, As the workmen grow moody and sad, Their dinner so small, no supper at all, And for breakfast, a morsel they've had.

Now the sweet, sweet tale, of "The full dinner pail" Is told in a different way, "The empty old pail," hanging up on a nail, Is the pale, sickly tale, of today.

Blue Laws.

The Staunton City Council has by a vote of eight to two, adopted an ordinance forbidding Sunday excursions to Staunton. Whereupon the SPECTATOR of that place remarks: "The crying necessity of such an ordinance, if it were legal, has not been made manifest. The revival of blue laws has not been to the credit of many sections, and they have not tended to increase the veneration of those seeking to impose them. We know of no power which can shut a city to persons who want to visit it either Sunday, Monday or any other day."

We believe in the Sabbath as an institution, and we believe in the enactment and enforcement of reasonable laws to prevent the desecration of the day. But extreme laws in whatever direction operated invariably do more harm than good. It is all right for the preacher to urge the members of his respective congregations not to travel on Sunday for pleasure's sake, but when the Council undertakes to prohibit Sunday travel it undertakes to interfere with the personal liberty of the people, and, as the Spectator says, we do not believe that such a law would stand the test. The Council might as well attempt to prohibit excursions from town as well as excursions to town, and if this idea were carried to its logical end, the Council would finally pass an ordinance prohibiting any citizen from traveling on Sunday. This was manifestly absurd. Moral reforms cannot be wrought by legislation.—Richmond Leader.

Death of Col. Peyton.

Col. Thomas Green Peyton, the well-known insurance man, died at 10 o'clock Monday night after a brief illness. He was as well as usual during the day and was at his office. About 4 o'clock he was taken ill. He was carried to his home and medical aid summoned, but he sank rapidly. Col. Peyton was born in Culpeper, but he had lived nearly all his life in Richmond. He was the senior member of the firm of T. G. Peyton & Son, insurance agents. Col. Peyton was an alumnus of the University of Virginia, and was a cultured gentleman. He was a gallant Confederate soldier, having been lieutenant-colonel of the 15th Va. Regiment.

Col. Peyton is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. W. L. Gravatt, of Charles Town, W. Va., and two sons, Randolph and Bernard Peyton, of this city.—Richmond News.

Large Land Deal.

A deed from W. S. Dewing and others, of Kalamazoo, Mich., to the Cherry River Boom and Lumber Company for a tract of 386,580 acres of land has been admitted to record. The land lies in Randolph, Webster, Nicholas, Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties, W. Va. The consideration of the conveyance was $3,865,580, or $10 an acre. It took $402 in revenue stamps for the deed, and as it was recorded in each of the five counties it took $2,110 worth of stamps in all.

BRYAN TALKS TO DRUMMERS

He Deals With The Effects Of Trusts In Travelling Salesmen

Hon. W. J. Bryan spoke at St. Louis Saturday night at the Coliseum Hall under the auspices of the National Democratic Committee of Commercial Travelers.

The hall is said to seat 11,000 people. Not only was every seat occupied, but every available foot of standing room was also covered.

The speech of Mr. Bryan dealt almost entirely with the trust question, thought in concluding he spoke of the dangers of militarism.

"There is an intimation," he said, "that under the trust system the traveling salesman is not needed. When every man of one class from another company the work can be done by samples, and no traveling men will be needed. There will be no competition between different factories, because all are under one management. The first man to feel this will be the hotel man, who will miss the trade of the traveling salesman. The railroad will lose the mileage paid by the traveling man; the livermen will lose their best patrons."

"Those who attempt to divide private monopolies into good monopolies and bad monopolies will never make any progress toward the overthrow of the trusts. There is no good monopoly in private hands; there never was and never will be. With all the advances in civilization man is still too selfish to be trusted with the absolute control with which his fellows must have. The Republican party has no remedy for the trusts. Publicity is good, but publicity alone is not sufficient. The practices of the trusts must not only be made known, they must be prevented. The Democratic platform contains a demand for legislation which will place trust-made articles on the free list. There is no doubt that such a law would protect the people from much of the extortion which is practiced under cover of high tariff laws."

"Congressional action is not necessary to destroy a trust which confines its operations to a single city, or a single State. Such a trust can be exterminated by State legislation. It is within the power of the State to prescribe the conditions upon which corporations shall be organized, and these conditions should be such as to make a private monopoly place limitations upon outside corporations doing business within the State. This, however, is not sufficient. Congress must cooperate with the State in preventing the organization of trusts. Without the present authority of the State Congress can provide that corporations organized in any State shall not do business in any other State until certain necessary conditions are complied with."

"Those who desire the annihilation of trusts are not hostile to property rights, but they protest against allowing the selfish person, created by law and called a corporation, to trample upon the rights of the individual man of flesh and blood. If the man-made corporation supports the Republican party, we ought to be able to appeal for support to the God made man."

Railroad Chartered.
