A PREACHER'S DOG STORY.

Coming From a Good Man It Requires No Voucher.

State Senator John Thompson is about one of the best story tellers in these parts, and his repertoire includes a lot of good ones, fish and otherwise. On the truthfulness of some he will stake his reputation for veracity, but he tells one which he always prefixes with the statement that it was told him by a minister of the Gospel, Dr. Bardwell.

"Dr. Bardwell used to visit my father's home when I was a boy, and the story I am about to tell you was related to me on the occasion of one of these visits. We were out on the veranda smoking one evening after supper. The doctor was fond of dogs, and was a pretty good sportsman, and naturally the conversation turned on the subject.

"Speaking of dogs," said Dr. Bardwell, reminds me of a dog which belonged to a friend of mine in Mississippi. I had been invited to hold service at a church near this friend's house, and wrote him to meet me at the station, some six miles from his house, on the Saturday afternoon before Sunday, the day of the appointment.

"He was on time with horses and we started to his home. I noticed that a very handsome bird dog followed us, and having heard that some one in that neighborhood owned an especially well-trained trick dog I asked my friend about it.

"That's the dog," at the same time pointing at his dog, which had run ahead of us and was waiting at the forks of the road.

"I asked him to make him perform a trick. He got down from his horse, called the dog, and taking out his pocketbook, held it to the dog's nose. He then took out a silver half-dollar and walking some distance in the woods, raised up a large rock and put the money under it. We then returned our journey, and when probably half a mile away, my friend called his dog and told him to go back and get the money.

"The dog, without the least hesitation, started back on a run, and my friend explained as the rock was heavy the dog would be unable to turn it over, so would have to scratch under it to reach the piece of money and he would not probably get home before we reached there, it then being about three miles further on to his house.

"However, when we reached home the dog was not there. We ate supper and still the dog did not come, nor had he put in an appearance when we retired about 10 o'clock.

"The next morning we got up about daylight, and hearing a noise outside, my friend opened the door and the dog rushed in dragging with him a pair of pantaloons which he dropped on the floor.

"Of course we were both mystified, but had not long to wait an explanation, for shortly afterward a man who lived several miles from my friend's house rode up on a mule and inquired if a dog with a pair of pantaloons in his mouth had come into the house. The dog at this moment came out on the porch, and the man said: 'Why, there's the dog now.'

"My friend told his caller that the dog really brought a pair of pantaloons home with him, but he did not understand it himself.

"The man said that late in the afternoon the day before he found the dog scratching under a large rock near the road, and thinking he was after a rabbit, stopped and lifted the rock up, and to his surprise found a half-dollar on the under side.

"He put the money in his pocket and the dog followed him home. The dog appeared to be friendly, and the man petted him and gave him his supper. At night when the family retired the dog was put on the outside, but he kept up such a racket that no one could sleep on the place, and when the man opened the door to drive the dog off he rushed into his bedroom and at once became very quiet, lying down near the foot of the bed, where he slept all night.

"Early in the morning, the man said, he got up and opened the window, and the instant he did so the dog seized his pantaloons in his mouth and jumping out of the window fled.

"The man followed as soon as he could get his mule.

"Hearing this story, my friend got the pantaloons, and on searching the pockets found the half-dollar which he had hid under the rock the afternoon before."—Nashville Banner.

"Take care of the pennies and the pounds will take care of themselves." Large things are but an aggregation of small things. If we take care of the small things we are in effect taking care of the large things which the small things combine to make.

Take care of what you eat, when you eat, and how you eat, and your stomach will take care of itself. But who takes care of such trivial things? That is why, some day, the majority of people have to take care of the stomach. When that day comes, there is no aid so effective in undoing the results of past carelessness as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the stomach, and restores the organs of digestion and nutrition to a condition of healthy activity. It cures biliousness, heartburn, flatulence, indigestion, palpitation, dizziness, cold extremities and a score of other ailments which are but the symptoms of disorder in the stomach and its allied organs.

Quaint Claims on Royalty.

A London cablegram to the New York Sun says: "The members of the Privy Council sat as a court of claims to day to consider hereditary traditional rights and privileges claimed in connection with the coming coronation of the King. A long list of quaint demands was presented. After the registrar had commanded all persons to keep silence, on penalty of imprisonment, he read 30 or 40 demands, including the following:

"The Duke of Norfolk—To act as chief butler of England.
"The Duke of Newcastle—To provide a glove and to support the King's arm.
"Bishop of Durham—To support the King and Queen.
"The Duke of Somerset—To carry the orb.
"The Earl of Erroll—To have the silver baton tipped with gold.
"The Dean of Westminster—To instruct the King and Queen in the rights and ceremonies and to have the cloth, etc., for grey.
"Lord Grey de Ruthyn—To carry the golden spurs.
"Colonel Brown—To bear the canopy over the King and Queen.
"The Earl of Shrewsbury—To provide the glove for the King's right hand and support the hand while holding the scepter.
"Sir Wyndham Anstruther—To be grand carver for Scotland.
"The Duke of Buccleuch—To ride by the King's carriage.
"The Marquis of Winchester—To carry the cap of maintenance.
"The Lord Chancellor announced that all claims must be presented by October 31 and the court then adjourned."

She is Now a Major-General.
Mrs. Legare Hill Bowles, a beautiful woman of Washington, Ga., undoubtedly holds the most distinguished military role of any one of her sex in the South. Governor Chandler made her a major general in the State volunteer service, in acknowledgement of distinguished courtesies which he had received at her hands while visiting the camp of the Third Georgia Infantry, situated in the suburbs of the little Georgia town. His Excellency had completed about half of his journey to Washington, when a welcoming committee from the regiment, headed by Mrs. Bowles, entered the train, and she wished him a royally graceful welcome. The Governor was entranced by the beauty and grace of the fair Georgian, and later, when she had so skillfully engineered all of the lavish hospitalities showered on him, he demonstrated his appreciation by designating her a major general of State troops.

Mrs. Bowles is a strikingly beautiful woman and is the sponsor for the regiment. Her father, the late Senator Joshua Hill, was its original commander. She is immensely popular with the citizen soldiers, and there was a picturesque celebration over her appointment by the Governor.—Washington Post.

Girls' Outfits for Summer Visits.
When we are to be guests at a friend's house or at an inn we need not transport thither our entire wardrobe. A little planning will indicate the trim, short traveling skirt, the shirt-waist and jacket, and the neat sailor hat for the journey; the pretty reception dress, the evening and dinner costume, and the ample supply of fresh waists for every day wear, with golf or bicycle skirt. A small trunk and a hand-bag will usually contain an outfit for a fortnight's visit, and a dress suit case lends itself accommodatingly to the requirements of three or four days or a week. Experienced travelers cross the Atlantic and spend three months in Europe encumbered with less luggage than some young women carry to the White Mountains or to the Adirondacks for a single month. For many reasons a trunk is a comfortable adjunct when a person is away from home, but it should not be too large and it should be judiciously packed.—Margaret E. Sangster, in The Ladies Home Journal for July.

Mrs. Henry A. Wise is Dead.
Mrs. Henry A. Wise, widow of Governor Wise, whose campaign against the Know-Nothings in 1854 was the most memorable ever known in Virginia or the country, died on Thursday of last week at Ashland.

Mrs. Wise was a Miss Mary Elizabeth Lyons, a daughter of Dr. Peter Lyons, a farmer physician. She was 83 years old. Mrs. Wise was regarded as one of the most beautiful women in Virginia. She was Governor Wise's third wife and is the stepmother of Hon. John S. Wise, of New York. In her youth Mrs. Wise, then Miss Lyons, frequently met Henry Clay, and when first presented to the great orator the latter exclaimed: "I could be thrown into a den of such Lyons."

RESURVEYING THE MASON AND DIXON LINE.

Pennsylvania and Maryland Bear the Expense of Relocation and of Cast-Iron Markers.

The old Mason and Dixon line between Maryland and Pennsylvania is being surveyed and will soon be re-marked with iron posts. This work is being done under the direction of Dr. Wm. B. Clark, of the Maryland Geological Bureau, and Secretary of Internal Affairs Latta, of Pennsylvania. The Pennsylvania Legislature in 1899 appropriated $7,000 to "repair and re-set the monuments on the boundary line between this Commonwealth and the adjacent State of Maryland on the South," and in 1900 the Legislature of Maryland supplied $5,000 to aid in the work.

Mason and Dixon's boundary line, which originally was run and marked to establish the territorial limits of Pennsylvania and Maryland, later became famous as the boundary between the free and slave-holding States of the North and South. It was, according to an agreement made in 1782, to run due West from Cape Henlopen (15 miles south of the point now known by that name), to the middle of the peninsula of the Eastern Shore, thence northward tangent to a circle of twelve miles radius, whose centre was at New Castle, Del., and then due north from the tangent point until it reached a parallel of latitude fifteen miles south of the southernmost part of Philadelphia. From this point the line was run due west.

Surveyors had already determined the position of the centre of the peninsula, the north and south line and the tangent point when Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, English astronomers and mathematicians, arrived in Philadelphia in 1763. From the time of their arrival until December, 1767, Mason and Dixon were busy locating the southernmost part of Philadelphia, and the northern boundary of Maryland, which they surveyed and marked as far as Dunkard Creek, now in West Virginia, when they were stopped by the Indians.

Along the greater part of the line each mile was marked by a stone monument, which had the letter 'P' engraved or cut on the northern side and the letter 'M' on the southern side, while at each fifth mile there was a similar stone known as the 'crown stone,' with the coat of arms of the Penns on the northern face and with those of Lord Baltimore on the southern. These stones were brought from England.

These monuments, which are to be replaced with cast iron markers, suffered severely from the attacks of vandals in the early days of the last century. Rapid progress is being made in the relocation of the line.

Didn't Marry For Money.
The Boston man, who lately married a rich young woman, is happy now, for he got Dr. King's New Life Pills, which restored her to perfect health. Infidelity for jaundice, biliousness, malaria, fever and ague, all liver and stomach trouble. Gentle but effective. Only 25c at B. F. Hughes, drug store.

A Phenomenon.
One of the strangest phenomena ever noted is that discovered by Charles T. Ackley, who has cut eight cherry trees from his home premises, each tree being loaded with cherry skins devoid of pits, but containing myriads of bright red worms. There are millions of the squirming things, but until the cherries are opened no worms are in sight.

The trees blossomed and passed to the pod stage as usual. Then the pods began to swell, and upon investigation the discovery was made that there were no pits in the cherry skins, but rather the inside was filled with worms. The discovery was of such an alarming nature that Mr. Ackley razed the trees and burned them, worms and all. He sent us just a small sack filled with the swollen pods, and there were worms enough to keep a mathematician and a naturalist busy counting and discoursing for a week.

It is presumed that some insect stung the blossom, and the eggs hatched after the cherry pit had formed, the worms feeding on the soft pit until there was nothing left but the skin. Through this they would have ultimately eaten without a doubt. The attention of naturalists is called to this new discovery.—Waterloo (Ill.) Reporter.

The August Smart Set.

The Smart Set can never be accused of dullness. In the 160 pages of stories, verses and witticisms there are surprises and delights for the most blasé reader. The August number opens with a novelette of remarkable power and originality, entitled "Miss Sylvester's Marriage," written by Cecil Charles. Miss Sylvester, the niece of a society leader in New York, has some of the wild blood of the South American Spaniard in her veins, and she is fascinated by Count Geraldine, a daring adventurer, who claims to be worth millions as the beneficiary of a pearl fishery concession. The story of their sensational marriage and its strange results is told with great realism and admirable art.

When Father Rode the Goat.

The house is full of arnica, And mystery profound; We do not dare to run about Or make the lightest sound; We leave the big piano shut And do not strike a note; The doctor's been here seven times Since father rode the goat.

He joined the lodge a week ago— Got in at 4 A. M., And sixteen brethren brought him home, Though he says he brought them. His wrist was sprained and one big rip Had rent his Sunday coat— There's must have been a lively time When father rode the goat.

He's resting on the couch today And practicing his signs— The hailing signal, working grip, And other monkeyshines; He mutters passwords 'neath his breath And other things he quotes— They surely had an evening's work When father rode the goat.

He has a gorgeous uniform, All gold and red and blue, A hat with plumes and yellow braid, And golden badges, too. But, somehow, when we mention it, He wears a look so grim We wonder if he rode the goat Or if the goat rode him.

A Singular Escape.
A man receiving the full force of a heavy stroke of lightning and yet living to tell the tale is something believed impossible by many of the medical profession. Such, however, was the experience of Elmer L. Carpenter during the storm at Sharon, Mass., recently. The shaft of lightning entered his upraised left hand, passed the length of his arm, down his breast and through his left leg. Along its burning pathway it made a deep flesh wound the entire length of the body, as if someone with a knife had made a vicious slash. When picked up the man appeared to be dead. After hope had been given up, as one from the dead he returned to life. Mr. Carpenter was in the stable harnessing a horse. His hand was on the stable door when he was struck. Mrs. Carpenter and her year-and-a-half old baby were in the stable when the lightning struck, but were not injured.

"As soon as the stable was struck," Mrs. Carpenter said: "I rushed over to where my husband was. His clothes were torn open from shoulder to foot, as if someone had run a knife down them. When I reached him his clothes were on fire, but I put out the blaze. The strangest thing is that his left foot was entirely bare, his shoe and stocking being gone, and no trace of them anywhere. We haven't found the shoe anywhere since then."

Cost of a Courtship.
Mrs. Lucie Karger, who lives near Paterson, New Jersey, began suit about three months ago against Philander Simon for $15 worth of dinners which he had eaten on Sunday while courting her daughter, Bertha, Simon proving an ardent suitor for two years, but when he moved away, it is said, his love grew cold.

Bertha pined and fretted, but the mother took a more practical view of the matter. She said she did not wish her daughter to start an action for alleged breach of promise, for that would seem to prove that she herself wished to have him for a son-in-law, when, as a matter of fact, she says she had never been particularly fond of him. She even matters by suing him for the dinners he had eaten. Simon had had work to engage a lawyer to defend him, but he now believes he will win, for he has filed a counter claim. He declares that his two-year courtship cost him $86.50. Among the items named are these:

12 pounds candy, at 30 cents per pound $3.60
40 treats to ice cream (Bertha's part) $4.00
100 sodas, etc. $2.50
100 trolley rides and home again, 5.00
Flowers at two birthdays, 11.00
Time, every Sunday evening at 50 cents for two years, 52.00

It is now rumored that the law suits have brought the two former sweethearts so much together that all suits will be dropped and a marriage will result.

Farmers in various sections of the State are very much concerned about hauling their wheat into their barns. The almost continuous rain since the grain has been cut and shocked has prevented the grain from getting dry enough to be hauled into the barn, and as a result much of the wheat is growing in the shock and will be ruined. Some farmers' aches that is some fields the growth from the grain has sprouted as much as two inches.

THE GHOST

Of our boyhood resolved itself to an old tree when we had courage to examine it. Manhood has its ghosts, which to the man who has courage to confront them prove to be as harmless as the ghosts of boyhood. One of the ghosts which scare a great many people is the ghost of lung disease. But experience shows this ghost to be very harmless. In cases almost innumerable "weak" lungs have been made strong, obstinate coughs stopped, and bronchial affections cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. And these cures have been wrought in many cases after the doctor had said: "There is no help for you." Don't give in to the superstition of a past age. Give the "Golden Medical Discovery" a fair and faithful trial. It always helps. It almost always cures.

"When I commenced taking your medicine eighteen months ago, my health was completely broken down," writes Mrs. Cora L. Sunderland, of Chateaufort, Cal., and "at times I could not even walk across the room without pain in my chest. The doctor who attended me said I had lung trouble, and I would never be well again. At last I concluded to try Dr. Pierce's medicine. I bought a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and took it, and soon commenced to feel a little better; in eight days I was able to walk across the room, and in ten days I was able to go out. I have since taken several bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I feel as well as ever. I am now almost entirely well, and do all my work without any pain whatever, and with more ease than I could formerly manage."
