The play, 'Children of Satan,' produced a splendid impression, the performance being much better than many a dollar show that has come this way.

H. L. LANG.

DEATHS DURING THE WEEK

REV. WILLIAM E. BAKER. Rev. Wm. E. Baker died at his home in Roswell, Ga., on last Thursday, and was buried there Saturday. Rev. Dr. Frank H. Gaines, president of Agnes Scott Institute, Decatur, Ga., conducted interment service. This information reached this city Monday in a communication to Capt. James N. McFarland from his niece, Mrs. Gaines. Mr. Baker was a native of Georgia, as is his widow, Mrs. Baker. December 1, 1857, he became pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Staunton, probably his first charge, and was regularly installed two years later, succeeding Rev. J. R. Wilson, father of Dr. Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University.

Mr. Baker remained here until 1884, nearly 27 years, when he resigned and returned to Roswell, his wife's home and native town and had lived at "Berrington Hall," the old family home there continuously ever since, never accepting another charge. The first church here greatly prospered under his ministry. He was a man of strong personality and much force. He is remembered lovingly here by a great many persons, and Mrs. Baker, who is one of the most lovely and lovable women, even more so. Both came to Staunton in 1904 and were central figures in the centennial celebration of the church, a function which seemed to be most pleasing both to him and to Mrs. Baker, their presence giving great pleasure to the congregation. A daughter, Mrs. Pratt and granddaughter, Miss Eva, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Baker to Staunton. There are seven children surviving, three sons in business at St. Paul, one of the daughters, the wife of a missionary to the Sudan, and the other in the south.

In the death of Mr. Baker a striking character and good man has passed off the stage. Our readers will remember that on President Roosevelt's visit South, Mr. Baker had an interesting letter in the SPECTATOR regarding his visit to Roswell, which was much enjoyed by all, especially in his old congregation in Staunton. Mrs. Baker, it will be recalled, was one of the bridesmaids when Miss Bullock was married at Roswell to President Roosevelt's father, and on his recent trip south the president called on Mrs. Baker and had a delightful meeting with one of his mother's bridesmaids.

REV. J. H. TAYLOR KNOWLES. Our community was shocked Monday to learn of the death that morning of Rev. J. H. Taylor Knowles at the King's Daughters Hospital, where he was operated for appendicitis on Sunday night. Mr. Knowles had been complaining since last Tuesday but he did not call a physician until Friday. His condition grew much worse Sunday and his physician feared he could not stand an operation, though it was the only chance for life. He was conscious enough to agree to the operation. Deceased was a son of the late Absalom and Susan J. Knowles and was born 48 years ago at Churchville. He had spent all of his life in Staunton and Augusta county until recently he became pastor of Circleville circuit M. E. church, north, in West Virginia. Several weeks ago he conducted a meeting in Pendleton county that resulted in several conversions. He had been preaching about a year and a half.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Annie Lindsay, and eight children; also by four brothers—W. B. A. Lee and G. A. B. Knowles of this city, and James S. Knowles of Williamson, W. Va., and two sisters, Mrs. O. M. Ramsey and Miss Marvin Knowles of Martinsburg, W. Va. The funeral took place Tuesday from Zion church conducted by Rev. H. T. Helronimus, Rev. H. P. Hamill and Rev. A. P. Bouie.

G. K. CUPP. Mr. Geo. E. Cupp, a native of the Sangerville neighborhood, and for some years connected with the clothing houses of A. Loeb & Co. and J. S. Mote, in this city, but more recently in business in Harrisonburg, died suddenly on Friday last at his room in the Thurmond House. He had been in an extremely nervous condition for twenty-four hours and sank into a profound stupor a short time before his death. He passed away before a physician could reach his bedside. Mr. Cupp had been at work up to the middle of the present week, when he relinquished his position. Thursday his condition became critical and a physician whom he consulted advised him to remain quiet until he should become better. Shortly after midnight Friday morning he became delirious. He escaped from his room sometime before noon and was out on the street for a short while, but returned of his own volition. Toward evening his condition became alarming and Dr. T. O. Jones was summoned. The physician was unable to do anything for him. Mr. Cupp was a son of the late John Cupp, a well known farmer of the Sangerville neighborhood, whose death occurred ten years ago. Surviving him are his widow, who, before her marriage less than two years ago, was the Jessie Williams, of Greenville, and five brothers and two sisters. The remains were buried at Sangerville. CONNELIUS E. ARRHART. Mr. Cornelius E. Arrhart died in Staunton Sunday night aged thirty-eight years. He was a farmer and resided near Middlebrook, but his health had been bad for some years, so that he was unable to attend to business. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Lula Wright, and by four small children; also by four sisters, Mrs. G. W. Bowers, Mrs. G. J. Cochran, Mrs. Fay S. Haines and Miss Mae Arrhart, all of Staunton, and one brother, Mr. J. Edwin Arrhart of Frankford, West Va. The funeral took place Tuesday from Mt. Taber church.

MISS ROSE BAYLOR. Miss Rosalie Baylor, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baylor, died on Saturday in Charlottesville, where she went about a week ago, aged about 23 years. The remains were brought here Sunday and taken to Mt. Taber for burial. Her sisters Mrs. Ida Lamb of Weyer's Cave and Miss Grace Baylor, went to Charlottesville as soon as they received word of her serious illness. She was a niece of Mrs. John E. Whitmore and Mrs. J. A. Fauver of this city.

MR. ENOCH BROWER. Mr. Enoch Brower, an old citizen, died near Hermitage Sunday morning about 5 o'clock from the effects of a tumor of the stomach. Mr. Brower was one of our oldest citizens and is survived by three sons and two daughters. The funeral was preached by Rev. Mr. Coffman at Hildebrand Memorial church Monday evening at 1 o'clock and was largely attended. The remains were interred at his home—Waynesboro Virginia.

MRS. JACOB LIGHTNER. Mrs. Jacob Lightner, nee Miss Abbie Swadley, died at her home near Mill Gap, 2nd inst. She was a daughter of the late A. F. Swadley, and a little more than a year ago, was united in marriage to Mr. Lightner, a prominent young farmer of the Back Creek Valley. She was thirty one years old, and leaves a little babe of three weeks. Interment was at Hightown cemetery.

What An Augusta Man Has Done For Virginia.

Commissioner of Agriculture, Geo. W. Kolner, a former Augusta county man, is making things move in his department. He has inspired a bill, which will be offered in the Legislature of Virginia, appropriating $10,000 with which to employ agents to visit foreign countries for the purpose of securing competent farm labor for Virginia. He is also making arrangements with the railroads to send out in the spring a train in each section of the State, equipped with agricultural exhibits for the inspection of farmers, and a lecturer on each for their information as the trains halt at certain points along the route.

Mr. Koener has written 18,000 letters from his office in the interest of agriculture during the last year, and 25,000 Virginia farms have been sold to outside parties since the St. Louis Exposition, bringing about $5,000,000 into the State. Notwithstanding his good and efficient service, there is an effort being made to have the Department of Agriculture moved from its present location in the State Library Building, where five rooms are necessary to accommodate the exhibits, equipment and work of the Department, to three small rooms in the basement of the capitol, quarters altogether inadequate. Surely our legislators who have at heart the interest of their farming constituents, will not permit the Department which means so much for them to be thus handicapped by other less important interests. If this change is made it can only be done by the consent of the Legislature.

Swoope items. Swoope, Jan. 10.—Mr. Herman Baylor, R. F. D. carrier No. 2, was in Staunton this week on business. Mrs. Margaret Keller of West View is reported quite sick. Rev.
