QUICK CURE for SOUR STOMACH

EDUCATIONAL.

Devoted to the interests of the schools, teachers and children of Virginia—and conducted alternately by Miss Margaret Fallon and Mrs. L. C. Ware.

"Vacation is over, and it becomes us to ask ourselves what tribute it has yielded in physical, intellectual, and spiritual values. Time was when the physical gain of the rest time was the paramount consideration with most of those who could command a vacation at all. Now the larger factors of mind and soul come in for serious thought, and ample opportunity is offered by summer schools, Chautauqua assemblies, educational tours, etc. for intellectual stimulus and social enjoyment. The highest ends of education, if not of all life, for the individual are the personal acquirement of the accumulated wisdom of the race, the opening of the windows of the soul to the glory and beauty of the material and spiritual universe, and the strengthening of the will for study, purposeful action and achievement. To put the same truth in another form is to say that we should learn to live rightly, by finding out how other men have lived and are living; by opening the eyes of our mind to God's truth as manifested in nature and the soul of man; and by using the inspiration thus obtained in active service of others. The teacher has exceptional opportunities for the attainment of these ends. Not the least of these is the long vacation with its favoring conditions for study, travel, rest, observation of men and things, and communion with nature. Let us hope that we are all returning to our work with fuller stores of knowledge, deeper appreciation of all forms of beauty, and a firmer determination to be of service to those who look up to us as sources of helpful inspiration and guidance. If the vacation has done something for us along these lines, as well as furnishing us accessions of bodily strength, it has been valuable indeed."

The Rev. Stopford Brooke, one of the foremost men of the day, has recently published a delightful little volume entitled "Literature in Religion and Literature in Life," in which he has the following to say about education.

"The first thing to be said is that whatever religious faith, feelings and hopes we have are bound to shape them into form in life, not only at home, but in the work we do in the world. Whatever we feel justly we ought to shape; whatever we think, to give it clear form; whatever we have inside of us, our duty is to mould it outside of ourselves into clear speech or act, which, if it is loving, will be luminous. If we know these things, happy are ye if ye do them. The true successes of life are contained in that principle. It is a first law. It is, for example, the beginning, middle, and end of education. The knowledge poured into the young nowadays is worth little or nothing unless we also make them gain the habit first of shaping it clearly in their mind, and then of putting it into form in word or act outside of their mind. They must not only receive, they must make. A single lesson given to a child which he is unable to reproduce with fresh, individual touch in it, is better than a hundred lessons which are left to be formless in his mind. When he shapes the knowledge, however crudely, in his own way, so as to say, 'There it is; I see what I thought,' the child or the man possesses something he can use. Moreover, he has gained the step towards activity of mind; and another step, most important perhaps of all, towards that moral power which advises from striving to a known end, and that moral joy which follows on the consciousness that we are daily nearing to the end that we aim. The secret of education and self-education is to learn to embody our thoughts in words luminously; to realize our knowledge in experiment; to shape our feelings into action; to represent without us all we are within; and to do this steadily all our life long."

One of the fundamental, and often fatal, errors of the teacher and the school course is the attempt to educate the children for some fancied higher mission in life—"higher sphere," it is called. I once said to a teacher, "Let's make our teaching take hold on the lives of these children in their homes, and in the homes which they will make for themselves as carpenters, bricklayers, plasterers, blacksmiths, small farmers, small merchants, ordinary citizens, or the wives of such." She replied, "But they must not follow these occupations. I cannot bear to think of their doing so." So, apparently, think many teachers, and they would educate all the children for teachers, clerks, gentlemen of leisure, speculators, or "to get office."

But the great majority must follow the less honorably callings of their fathers—if, indeed, any one calling or occupation is more or less honorable than another except as it is more or less honestly or skillfully followed. The masses of children—every child—must be educated; but educated to fill most completely the sphere to which nature and circumstances have called them—to be discontent, not at laboring at the common tasks of life, but at performing them unintelligently and unskillfully. To put intelligence and skill, heart and soul, grace and culture, into all necessary labor and into every condition of life; to remove from these the grinding and despairing slavery of blind and helpless ignorance; to turn the "hand" into a living, think-

INDUSTRIAL NEWS

Items That Will Interest Our Readers.

Martinsburg, W. Va.—Reported that plans are being perfected to build an electric railway connecting Winchester, Martinsburg, Shepherdstown, Harper's Ferry and Charles Town.

Edward S. Barnitz, treasurer and general manager of the Catawba Valley Railway & Mining Co., is quoted as saying that grading has begun on the line from Salem to Mason's Cove, Va., nine and one half miles.

Lawrenceville, Va.—It is proposed to build a six mile railroad from Lawrenceville to connect with the Seaboard Air Line. Survey has been made and charter secured.

Beilington, W. Va.—Surveys are reported completed for the West Virginia Connecting Railroad from Beilington, W. Va., to Kozersville, Pa., about 50 miles.

Beckley, W. Va.—A. D. Preston, president of the Glade & Guyandotte Railroad Co., is quoted as saying that the company has been incorporated to build a line 30 miles long from Glade to Mullins, W. Va. Grading is completed for 10 miles from Glade to Crow. A press report recently referred to this line as the Glade & Guyandotte Railway.

Col. E. Hutton and Wirt C. Ward are reported from Elkins, W. Va., as having closed negotiations with the Tygart River Lumber Co. of Mill Creek for the sale of a large tract of timber in that vicinity. The property is said to be heavily wooded with pine, and is estimated to cut about 60,000,000 feet. The purchase price is stated at $100,000.

A number of West Virginia and Pennsylvania capitalists, according to a dispatch from Fairmont, W. Va., has purchased through C. E. Conaway of Fairmont a tract of 4000 acres of coal lands in the Jackson field for $500,000. The property is known as the Doan coal farm, and is located in Harrison county. It is stated that the purchasers will develop it at once.

The Baldwin Steel Co. of New York, which is constructing a new plant at Charleston, W. Va., for the manufacture of the well-known Hudson high-speed and other tool steels, has enlarged plans for construction before the completion of the first building. The main mill building is to have a 60 foot addition, and two new buildings are to be constructed. One will be an office building and the other a building to contain lighting plant and machine shop. All of the construction is of concrete blocks.

For Virginia.
The Manufacturers' Record of last week says: Gov. Swanson of Virginia has reasons to congratulate himself on his act in sending to Europe, as an official representative Virginia, Hon. G. W. Koener, State Commissioner of Agriculture. Naturally the official character of the visit made in the interest of immigration to Virginia made a better impression abroad than could have been expected from the visit of a private individual, and there is reason to believe that gratifying results will appear in the hastening of the development of Virginia, in which Gov. Swanson has shown a deep and practical interest since his inauguration.

It is well known that there is a great deal of competition at present abroad for good immigrants, and Commissioner Koener is naturally disinclined to publish the details of the plans he has made for the attraction of desirable settlers to Virginia. It may be stated, however, that the plans ignore the riff-raff of the cities which some European countries would gladly be rid of, but contemplate a campaign of disabusing the minds of Europeans of false impressions about the South, reflecting earlier misrepresentations by Western immigration agents and giving positive and definite information about the advantages of Virginia for good farm labor, farm tenants and homekeepers generally. In certain European countries it is impossible for a laboring man, no matter how faithful and efficient he may be, ever to own a farm of his own, and thousands of laboring men have but a meager income, in spite of their hard work. It is to this class that the immigration plan of Commissioner Koener will appeal, and there can be no doubt that, properly sustained, he will be able to demonstrate the advantages offered in Virginia to the laboring men of Europe who want to better their condition in life that every acre of idle land in the State will be in a fair way to be occupied and every farm offered for sale will find a buyer.

Gives Bob a Fine Send Off.
The Cooleemee (N. C.) Banner says: "Miss Jennie Jones and Bob Henry were married at the Jones mansion last night. The bride is the daughter of our constant, Jones, who made a good officer and will undoubtedly be elected next spring. He offers a fine horse for sale in another column. The groom runs a grocery store on Main street, and is a good patron of our advertising columns and has a good line of bargains this week. All the summer he paid two cents more for butter than any other store in town. The happy couple left on the noon train for Milwaukee to visit the bride's uncle, who is reported to have lots of money and Bright's disease. Bob certainly has an eye for business."

Natures Warning.
STAUNTON PEOPLE MUST RECOGNIZE AND HEED IT.
Kidney ills come quietly—mysteriously, but nature always warns you through the urine. Notice the kidney secretions. See if the coloring is unhealthy—if there are settlements and sediment, passages too frequent, scanty, painful, its time then to use Doan's Kidney Pills to ward off Bright's disease or diabetes.

Mrs. D. C. May, of German St., Harpersburg, Va., whose husband is a traveling salesman for the McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., says: "I found relief in Doan's Kidney Pills after disease and after taking quantities of medicine of all varieties. I feel myself in a position to express my opinion on kidney medicines as I find that cure is Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a box of this remedy, took it regularly as directed and my improvement was remarkable, not only noticeable to me, but was apparent to my friends, and called forth much comment. Doan's Kidney Pills is the only remedy I have taken that has done its work without distressing the stomach."

Plenty more proof like this from Staunton people. Call at B. F. Hughes drug store and ask what customers report.

TO GEN. R. E. LEE.

[By the Earl of Derby.]

The following beautiful lines to Gen. Lee, written by a distinguished English peer, have been discovered by Mr. H. X. M. a zealous young Confederate in Bramwell, W. Va., and sent to us. They are too good to pocket. [Written on the fly-leaf of a copy of his own translation of Homer, by the Earl of Derby, and sent by him to Gen. Robert E. Lee, U. S. A.]

The grand old bard who never dies,
Receive him in our native tongue
I send thee, but with weeping eyes,
The story that he sung.

Thy Troy has fallen, thy dear land
Is marred beneath the spoiler's heel,
I cannot trust my trembling hand
To write the things I feel.

Oh, Realm of Tears, but let her bear
This burden to the end of time,
No nation rose so white and fair,
None fell so pure from crime.

The widow's wail, the orphan's wail
Are round me here, but in truth be strong,
Eternal Night, though all things fail,
Can never be made wrong.

An Angel's pen, an Angel's mouth,
Not Homer's, could alone for me
Elyan forth the great Confederate South
Virginia first, then Lee.

A Startling Motto.
A traveling salesman died very suddenly in Pittsburg. His relatives telegraphed the undertaker to make a wreath; the ribbon should be extra wide, with the inscription, "Rest in peace," on both sides, and if there is room, "We shall meet in heaven." The undertaker was out of town and his new assistant handled the job. It was a startling funeral piece which turned up at the funeral. The ribbon was extra wide and bore the inscription, "Rest in peace on both sides, and if there is room we shall meet in heaven."

Danger from the Plague.
There's grave danger from the plague of coughs and colds that are so prevalent, unless you take Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. Mrs. Geo. Walls, of Forest City, Me., writes: "It's a Godsend to people living in climates where coughs and colds prevail, I find it quickly ends them. It prevents pneumonia, cures a gripe, gives wonderful relief in asthma and hay fever, and makes weak lungs strong enough to ward off consumption, coughs and colds. 50c and $1. Guaranteed by B. F. Hughes' druggist. Trial bottle free."

ALCOHOL FROM SAWMILL REFUSE.
Recent tests which have been made at the plant of the Lignum Product Co. at Hattiesburg, Miss., are said to have shown that the manufacture of alcohol from sawmill refuse, such as sawdust, shavings, etc., is entirely feasible, and because of the cheapness with which it can be produced there are good reasons to believe that the industry will become an important one. The plant referred to has been under construction for some time, and is said to have cost nearly $500,000. Its equipment has recently been put into practical condition by a New York company, which will turn it over to the Lignum Product Co. in a few weeks, it is understood, prepared to operate at its full capacity. Results obtained from a carload of sawdust from the Pacific coast are said to have been so satisfactory that arrangements will be made to establish similar plants in that territory.

A Young Mother at 70.
"My mother has suddenly been made young at 70. Twenty years of intense suffering from dyspepsia had entirely disabled her, until six months ago, when she began taking Electric Bitters, which have completely cured her and restored the strength and activity she had lost in the prime of life," writes Mrs. W. L. Gilpatrick, of Danforth, Me. Greatest restorative medicine on the globe. Sets stomach, liver and kidney right, purifies the blood and cures malaria, biliousness and weakness. FLUE CURING IMPROVES TOBACCO LIKE ROASTING IMPROVES GREEN COFFEE

Flue Curing Develops the Stimulating Aroma and Taste Found in Schnapps that Satisfies Tobacco Hunger

There are three ways used by farmers for curing and preparing their tobacco for the market; namely, sun cured, air cured and flue cured; the old and cheap way is called air cured; the later discovery and improved way is called flue cured. In flue-curing the tobacco is taken from the field and suspended over intensely hot flues in houses especially built to retain the heat, and there kept in the proper temperature until this curing process develops in the tobacco the stimulating taste and fragrant aroma found in Schnapps tobacco, just as green coffee is made fragrant and stimulating by the roasting process. Only choice selections of this ripe, juicy flue cured leaf, grown in the famous Piedmont country, where the best tobacco grows, are used in Schnapps and other Reynolds' brands of high grade, flue cured tobaccos.

Hundreds of imitation brands are on sale that look like Schnapps; the outside of the imitation plugs of tobacco is flue cured, but the inside is filled with cheap, flimsy, heavily sweetened air cured tobacco; one chew of Schnapps will satisfy tobacco hunger longer than two chews of such tobacco.

Expert tests prove that this flue cured tobacco, grown in the famous Piedmont region, requires and takes less sweetening than any other kind, and has a wholesome, stimulating, satisfying effect on chewers. If the kind of tobacco you are chewing don't satisfy, more than the mere habit of expectorating, stop fooling yourself and chew Schnapps tobacco.

Schnapps is like the tobacco chewers formerly bought costing from 75c. to $1.00 per pound; Schnapps is sold at 50c. per pound in 5c. cuts, strictly 10 and 15 cent plugs.
