DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Election, November 3, 1908.

For President,
Wm. J. BRYAN,
Of Nebraska.

For Vice-President,
JOHN W. KERN,
Of Indiana.

For Congress—10th District,
H. D. FLOOD,
Of Appomattox.

BRYAN TO ROOSEVELT.

The keenest bit of sarcasm which has gone forth since the days of Dean Swift, appeared in the newspapers of last Sunday, and is published in this issue of the Spectator, which is the reply of Mr. Bryan to Mr. Roosevelt. It cuts like a two edged sword and places the chief executive of this country in a position from which he will be viewed as never before. Mr. Roosevelt in Monday's papers printed a rejoinder, but such a rejoinder. He attempted to saddle what he, Roosevelt, terms the derelictions of Mr. Cleveland's administration on Mr. Bryan. Of course he tries to make it appear that Haskell is guilty of all he is charged with, and more, and that Mr. Bryan knew it. Even Mr. Roosevelt does not believe this. He further says that the silver trust contributed to Mr. Bryan in 1896, and tries to show they contributed more than the trusts which contributed to the other side. All this is absurd. Everybody knows that in 1896 the railroads had their presidents and smaller fry out howling for McKinley, the great insurance companies were pouring out the people's money like water. Morgan, and Rockefeller, and Ryan, and all the Wall Street crew were responding to the fearful solicitations of Mark Hanna, and yet Mr. Roosevelt has tried in his effort to show that Mr. Bryan got more financial aid than his own party in 1896 from corporations. The mere suggestion is belittling, because nobody, better than Mr. Roosevelt, knows that it is untrue. In Mr. Bryan's closing sentences he puts Mr. Roosevelt in a hole from which he cannot escape. He gives his ideas of political morals of a President, and Mr. Roosevelt differs from them as the night from the day. We want our friends to read carefully Mr. Bryan's letter, for it is as full of meat as an egg. It will require reading more than once to fully realize all that it contains.

TAFT A BLUNDERER.

The New York Times of Sept. 24, takes Mr. Taft sharply to task for his blunders in regard to tariff legislation, in his answer to Mr. Bryan touching the tariff of 1894. Mr. Taft says in part: "We find him (Bryan) in Congress in the second administration of Mr. Cleveland, a member of the Ways and Means Committee and most active in formulating the provisions of the Grant-Wilson tariff bill. After five months' debate it passed both houses and came to Mr. Cleveland in such a shape that he denounced it as a piece of perjury. It leveled the industries of this country to the ground. It threw out of employment millions of wage earners. It destroyed all business profit. Farm products for lack of a market fell to a point never so low in forty years. Coxey's Army marched from the West to Washington to protest against a government under which such things were possible. This, says the Times, is a blunder. Mr. Cleveland's denunciation of it was because the Senate fell into the hands of the Tariff Lords—Mr. Taft's friends, and a bargain was made for which Mr. Cleveland would not stand. The Times also shows that whilst the price of some products declined the prices of others advanced. So Mr. Taft's argument will not hold, and finally that during Harrison's administration the gold reserve fell from 190 millions in Mr. Cleveland's first administration to 97 millions in his (Harrison's) and before Mr. Cleveland could stop it the value of silver fell from 81 to 60 cents. Mr. Taft got all balled up. A candidate for president should be more accurate.

THAT TARIFF BLIGHT.

The United States has no merchant marine. The U. S. Flag is seldom seen in any foreign port. Many dwellers by the sea never looked upon it in their lives, and yet they know the flags of almost every other great country. To show the color of our flag and to let the people of the world know we have one, we have built a billion dollar navy and sent it around the world at a frightful cost. All that exhibition will do will be to let the ignorant see how dangerous we are and cause them to dread us, instead of sending a peaceful merchant marine to show them how peaceful we are, and cause them to seek our acquaintance, and greater intimacy with us. The tariff has destroyed our merchant marine.

If it costs you nothing, and costs the banks very little, don't you think it well to safeguard the money deposited with the banks by the people? Is there anything wrong in this?

In Maryland ALL OF THE CORPORATIONS are for Taft. Why should they not be so in all the other States?

DRIVEN OUT BY DISCLOSURES.

There has been some billingsgate in the air within the last few days. The political horizon has been cloudy and a storm seems brewing. What may be brought forth is uncertain, but that a little ginger has been injected into the campaign by one Wm. R. Hearst is certain. Mr. Hearst is out attacking records; he has driven two men off the Republican field and one off the Democratic. Two to one is not bad to begin with, but he has hardly begun on the Republican side, if those now mixing in the campaign get their dues.

Mr. Foraker who drops out of the campaign has been hit hard. He has been caught with the goods. Gen. Coleman T. Du Pont, has also taken tail, and is now doing what should have happened in the beginning. He should never have been on the committee with an indictment pending against his company. But the Republicans can scarcely turn for men save to those whose hands are full of filthy lucre and whose garments drip with the slime of graft and speculation. The party thought to get some of Du Pont's money, it was after contributions, it knew the character of the man, as well when he was appointed as when Mr. Roosevelt ordered him out, but it had not seen the fire in the public eye so clearly then as now. Mr. Roosevelt was just as culpable when Du Pont went on the committee as he would have been to have left him on, but he had not the nerve in the face of disclosures to keep him there. Had Hearst not fired into the bunch Du Pont would still be holding high place. There was no change for higher morality's sake, nor did Du Pont's untimely come as a surprise. Roosevelt knew all along his company was indicted and the acts for which it was indicted were Du Pont's acts.

As to poor old Gen. Foraker the case is different. Foraker is not disliked because of any connection he ever had with the Standard Oil or any other trust. His offense was that neither Taft nor Roosevelt could control him. They sought his scalp because they had a friend who wanted his job, not that the friend was pure or more moral, but because he was more controllable. When the President assumed so high a moral standard for men why did he not forgo it in the case of Paul Morton? Paul Morton had violated the laws of the United States, openly, boldly, definitely. He had walked over them as an ox treats the fodder, he was liable to indictment, fine, and possibly imprisonment. He was a member of Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet shortly before trouble came. If Mr. Roosevelt would cleanse public morals where should he have begun better than at home? The facts were laid before him by two prominent lawyers, one of whom is today the Democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio. What did Mr. Roosevelt do? He could not deny the facts, but he called off his attorneys and laid down the theory that when rebates were given by Railroads the officers were not accountable, only the corporation could be prosecuted. What did the attorneys do? They resigned. They had no use for such justice. They would not longer practice before a court which released the criminals they had run down. Mr. Roosevelt, as we see, can blow hot and cold with the same breath. He can convict a Democrat and release a member of his cabinet. Talk about square deals. Here is one of them. Here is high morality.

ROOSEVELT ON THE STUMP.

Mr. Roosevelt is alarmed. He has been called on to take the stump. This he will not do actually, but has already done so figuratively. He has occupied the press in printing and the public in reading, some lengthy articles within the week just passed. He has gotten busy, he has been compelled to come to the rescue. He sees the ship sinking and is working his compressed air machine to keep it afloat. He is begging the public. He is making individual attacks. He is lowering the dignity of his office, and he is injuring his cause. He should get down off the stump, for his utterances are stump speeches.

Almost everybody would like to know how Hearst got those letters. Well, somebody got into Harriman's correspondence once and let the cat out. James G. Blaine bore the tattoo mark "Burn this letter," but it was not burnt. Letters are often damaged when in the hands of enemies and should be carefully guarded. We cannot tell who got those letters for Mr. Hearst. Mr. Hearst did not come by them honestly we are sure. That he bribed some one to get them is certain and being a briber many will damn him as an eavesdropper and briber is damned. But that does not acquit the gentleman who received the letters. Seeing those letters Mr. Hearst did get, would you not like to see those he did not get? Archbold's letter files would bring millions just now.

A lone Confederate soldier has been found in California who is going to vote for Taft. Many strange things are found in California. Curious lizards and frogs, mastodon bones, etc., and some years ago a petrified woman said to have been found in Fresno county, California, was exhibited through this country. Now a Taft Confederate soldier has been discovered, but only one. If this one would only come back to Virginia and go out about Churchville where he claims to have emigrated from, he would be so ashamed of himself in a few moments, he would never write any more letters on the subject unless he holds a government job.

Nearly all the bankers in Richmond are said to be for Taft. It also transpires that the administration has been very liberal for some time in depositing money out of the treasury in Richmond banks. Money is remarkable in its ability to control the mind of the person to whom it is given or entrusted. Even the ox knoweth its owner, and the ass his master's crib.

Since Mr. Taft's voice has failed and he can't speak, his friends are telling what a splendid "mixer" he is. He did get his facts and even his dates badly mixed when he undertook to reply to Mr. Bryan.

One would as soon own John D. Archbold's letter files as Standard Oil stock just now.

Hon. Carter Glass of Lynchburg, has written a sermon on "Bank Guarantee." He was not writing nor talking on that phase of banking when he did it, but on the fact that the Richmond banks had bamboozled the Legislature into a bill by which they have a claim on all the States money, or practically so. Mr. Glass is interested in a Lynchburg bank which was made a State Depository. He says his bank was required to give $500,000 personal bond to get $20,000 deposit. If bank guarantee is not a good thing why does the State practice it?

The supply of government pie counter lunch eaters flopping about over the country working for Taft seems inexhaustible. We had another one last Monday and the promise of more in the near future. Is there no one at home capable of holding in line that 15,000 column of Confederate veterans, or must this be done by whips from outside the State?

Gov. Swanson showed in his speech here Monday that if postal savings banks are adopted by the government there will be no bank guarantee and the result will be to put five hundred millions of money in New York for Wall Street to speculate on, and to use for plunder and high finance.

Hearst found a letter from Senator McLaurin of South Carolina, to Mr. Archbold. That letter was written after McLaurin went over to the Republicans. We always like to let the Republicans have Senators who need money from the Standard Oil Co.

The Hooking Valley Railroad has its passenger agent in Washington now making arrangements to carry all Ohio voters for Taft to that State. This fact may lose Taft more votes than the Hooking Valley agent can find in Washington.

Mr. Taft in his latest statement says the Democratic demand for bank guarantees is socialistic. Then the Virginia Legislature which required $500,000 personal bond of all of the banks before the State would deposit any money there, was a band of socialists.

It would seem that over in West Virginia the middle is growing worse and worse. They have nominated a Mr. Glasscock as a compromise candidate for Governor, but he seems to be objectionable to both Swisher and Scherr.

The question is frequently asked, "What kind of men would Bryan call about him if elected President?" We don't know, but we hope he would not call any Paul Morton's.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From Our Regular Correspondent.] Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—Simultaneously with the return of the President to Washington, Republican political headquarters in fact, if not in form, have been shifted to this city and the President himself, without invitation and without saying "by your leave" has assumed control. Everybody is saying: "Well, it's just like him." If the Republican leaders were anything more than dumb driven cattle, in the presence of such a personality they would ask the President to stand aside in order that the people—the voters—might be able to see the little candidate. But no. Taft is having his last go in the glare of the limelight and he won't stand aside. Many of the leaders of the Republican party believe that the President should resign at this present juncture, especially at this early stage of the campaign. One distinguished member of the party, whose counsel has been often sought by the President, has expressed the opinion today that such should be his proper policy. The Democrats are congratulating themselves that the fire of the President has been drawn away from his influence for the Republican candidate will not be as potent now as if he had held himself in reserve for the home stretch.

The National Tuberculosis Congress, has, since last Monday, been holding its sessions in the unfinished new National Museum building and the sessions will continue for ten days longer. Dr. Koch, the most famous of living physicians, Dr. Guinard, Dr. Trudeau, Dr. Flick and many other eminent specialists are attending and participating in the discussions. One person out of every seven, it is said, who died ten years ago, met his death from consumption or tuberculosis, as it is called. Today the tax of the great white plague is somewhat less and estimated at only one in ten. In fifteen years, according to the predictions of earnest physicians who are against the disease, the plague will be effectively swept from almost every country in the world. During the coming week the American capital will be the scene of the world's fight against this most deadly plague in history. For a week longer physicians, philanthropists and interested laymen will sit in conference to effect methods of cure. Two years will ensue before there is another international conference. When this congress shall have adjourned, united action will probably prove to be its greatest accomplishment, for after all there are no medicines which prevail against this disease and ever since Dr. Koch's discovery of the tubercle bacillus in 1882, it has been known that fresh air, good food, and cheerfulness are the most effective remedies for arresting the ravages of consumption.

OCTOBER WEATHER.

AS FORETOLD BY HICKS' THE WEATHER MAN.

A regular storm period, beginning in September, will extend at least two days in October, says Hicks. During which time storm areas will be over sections toward the Atlantic and change to colder will be advancing from west to east behind the storms. It is quite probable that early snow squalls may come with the northern and western tangents of these storms.

A reactionary period is central on the 4th, 5th and 6th, with chances that disagreeable autumnal weather will continue into this period with an increase of cloudiness, fall of barometer and thickened rain and snow storms on and touching the 5th.

A regular storm period is central on the 10th, covering the 9th to 12th. The moon is in perigee on the 7th and at full moon and on the celestial equator on the 9th. Change to low barometer, warmer and cloudiness will come at the first of this period, especially extreme south west parts of the continent and during the 9th to 12th, inclusive, storms of violence will visit many parts. Northern states will have early snow about the 10th to 12th and an October cold wave will slip down over the country between the 9th and 14th.

Women as Well as Men

Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauly, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is a curse for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder, and not to a habit as most people suppose. Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling how to get Swamp-Root, all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonials letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, "Swamp-Root," Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

LAST PLAY ON RACE QUESTION.

THOMAS DIXON, JR. WILL WRITE NO MORE SOUTHERN PLAYS AFTER "THE TRAITOR."

Now that Thomas Dixon, Jr. has completed the trilogy of the Reconstruction period that began with "The Leopard's Spots," was continued with "The Clansman," and reached its climax in "The Traitor," he will write no more novels or plays of the South. In the future his attention will be given to the wonderful growth of socialism.

For many years Thomas Dixon, Jr. has attracted the attention of the whole world by the powerful pictures that he has drawn of life and conditions in the South during the period of Reconstruction. No writer or stage has ever aroused so much discussion and today it is generally recognized that "The Clansman" is the classic of the South. Inasmuch as "The Traitor" is the dramatic sequel of that unprecedentedly popular play, dealing with the same theme and telling the romantic story of the last days of the picturesque Ku Klux Klan it is only natural to reckon that the new play will be as long-lived and as popular as its predecessor. Moreover "The Traitor" is a far stronger play dramatically speaking, and it does not depend upon its subject matter for its success for it would interest audiences in any quarter of the globe. It is interesting, however, to know that this is Mr. Dixon's last word on the problems of the South. His aim has been from the first to acquaint the people of the whole country with what the Southern people have had to contend, to make clear the momentous problems that they have to solve, and above all to show that the brains and chivalry of the South can and will find a satisfactory solution to all their problems. Mr. Dixon feels that his aim has been accomplished now that "The Traitor" is on the boards. "The Traitor" will be seen in this city for the first time Oct. 8th, at Beverley Theatre.

Singer Talks

7. Singer First Cost is the Whole Cost

Of course you can buy a sewing machine for less money than you would pay for a Singer—all the world knows that. But consider this: When a Singer is bought and paid for, it is paid for—it lasts a lifetime.

A cheap machine is never paid for. Every cent expended for repairs must be added to the original cost—it's an endless system of instalments. These instalments, added to the first cost of the machine, soon exceed the cost of a Singer, and after each successive repair (if you can get another part) the cheap machine grows more and more second-hand—one step nearer the junk heap.

The time lost, the trouble and the worry outweigh many times over the difference in the cost between the "cheap" machine and the Singer.

There are two kinds of machines—good and bad—and the good kind is the Singer.

Sold only by Singer Sewing Machine Company 15 Central Avenue.
