AUGUSTA LAGGING BEHIND

The only feature of the great State Fair that caused regret and humiliation was the Augusta county exhibit. In the large pavilion where all the other 99 counties had their exhibits of county products. Augusta is the largest, wealthiest and by far the largest producing county in the State and yet its exhibit was the poorest, and along beside many of the smallest, and in that sense, the most insignificant, counties its poorness and insignificance brought the blush of shame to the cheek of many an Augustanite who had "proudly" looked it up.

Why is this so? and why could so proud an dregat a county as Augusta permit such an injury done to its resources? Of course there were quite a number of individual exhibits made by Augusta people, in separate departments but the idea of a county's importance and resources gathered largely from what may be called the official exhibit, in the place provided specially for counties as a whole.

We have often felt that Augusta county was too negligent and indifferent to such opportunities as these to get a fair idea of the wealth and resources of the county and its desirability and advantages we have to offer before the outside world. We are losing money and prestige annually by neglecting our opportunities along these lines. Members of such smaller counties, such as Orange, Culpeper, Fauquier and others are holding their fairs and horse shows right along every year and by these means are advertising their advantages and attracting outside people with means to make investments. Staunton and Augusta county, up to a few years ago, had a splendid fair grounds, splendidly equipped and attracted people to our county every year. Now we have nothing. The grounds and equipments have been sold, we understand, and there is no place, should the people desire to return to these enterprises. We have often wondered why that property should have been so altogether lost to Staunton and Augusta? We can but regard it as a shame and a reproach.

We are publishing this week notice of an "Indoor Fair" at Staunton which some enterprising and praiseworthy people are endeavoring to promote. We express the hope that our South River and Waynesboro people will at least take some interest in this enterprise and perhaps it may prove a foundation upon which we can build something bigger and better for the future. We trust the management of this enterprise will take occasion to discuss this matter at the present exhibit and take what steps they can to enlarge and extend the enterprise. We are quite sure Waynesboro and South River will gladly help all we can.—Valley Virginian.

HOW TO BECOME HONEST

A prominent religious journal attempts to encourage and instruct a business man who said he was inclined to be honest and straight with his customers, but found it impossible, because "people are fooled everywhere, so they have to be fooled at my store too." The advice is given to stand straight up in the strength of a square manhood, to know that honesty is something to have—a superlative possession, to practice in dependent, stalwart holding on to one's own moral standing ground, and know that he will have to square accounts with the Judge of all the earth. Now that is the world's way of making men honest, but it is not the Christian way. A well known writer says of some extreme types of English Puritanism that, "the reformation which it wrought was only external. Men's manners were coerced, but their hearts were unchanged. Then the Christian basis of character is announced: "Nothing makes a new man but a new heart. It is like wedding a garden; it is not enough that the weeds be shorn, they must be eradicated. Mere reformation is temporary, regeneration alone endures. The principle is that the heart must have a tenant and it avails nothing to drive out the unclean spirit, unless the Holy Spirit be admitted in his room. The house may be "swept and garnished" but as long as it is "empty" it is open to the reinvasion of its old tenant. Let Jesus into your heart and his presence will fortify it. It is all expressed in Dr. Chalmers' phrase, "The explosive power of a new affection." Once you have tasted the best you have no liking for anything inferior."

Worldly morality says, "Be honest for honesty's sake, for the sake of self-respect." The appeal is insufficient, so long as the house is empty, though it be swept and garnished, it is open to the return of the unclean spirit of covetousness. When that spirit returns with seven spirits more wicked than himself and enters in and dwells there, it is vain to talk about standing straight up in the strength of a square manhood and Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is the direct condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free.

The remedy for covetousness is divine grace which renews the mind so that it loves Christ more than it loves money. This is the advice to give a man who thinks that business rivalry drives him to dishonesty. The man who loves money most will not stand straight up if he thinks that by stooping he can catch an extra dollar.

The great defect in modern school methods and in our efforts at modern enlightenment is that we are telling the youth of our land to stand straight and not telling them that "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy mind" and the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

The people know well enough the solemn duty of being honest; they like to see it and commend it in others, but where covetousness is the dominant lust of the soul they have within them dishonest hearts and mere precepts and essays on the merits of honesty will not change them. The world is engaged in the supreme folly of trying to make evil trees bear good fruit, of getting a product out of unholy seeds and soil. The Christian method is to totally different. "Either make the tree good and its fruit good, or make the tree corrupt and its fruit corrupt, for the tree is known by its fruit."—Selected.

A VALUABLE WORK

Excepting the Bible the most highly regarded book is the dictionary. Ever since the genius, who first realized the necessity for such a work, compiled the original it has been the most universally used and generally respected book of them all. There has recently been issued by the Merriam company, of Springfield, Mass., a dictionary, Webster's New International, which we think is the most valuable work of its kind that has ever come from a press. Besides representing the latest and most comprehensive compilation of the English language, it possesses in addition a number of features which we have never before seen embodied in a work of this kind. Dr. W. F. Harris, late United States Commissioner of Education, is editor-in-chief of the new dictionary. It contains 400,000 defined words and phrases in 2,700 pages and has 6,000 illustrations. It is in a single volume, thus being the most practical work for general purposes. One feature of the new publication is the divided page, the important words grouped separately each under the proper indexing. For class room use, for use in business, or for library purposes one could hardly acquire a more valuable work than the New International.

ADV RTISING THE COUNTY

The Chamber of Commerce, through the courtesy of shippers, is putting one of the little pamphlets about Staunton into each of the apple barrels which goes out from this point. Every barrel of apples that goes out of Staunton should contain a slip telling where the best apples are raised, and they are going to be the best and most beautiful apples in the market. And they ought to be; they are but the concentration of the sun-beams and the ozone laden breezes with which this beautiful section is so highly favored.

Every barrel should contain this slip: "Raised in Augusta County, Virginia. Write Chamber of Commerce, Staunton, Va., for information."

Was there ever a prettier, a more glorious day than yesterday; was there ever another day when just being alive was as keen a delight? There was life and there was inspiration in the cool, clean, crisp air; there was beauty in the gold and red of the trees, in the blue of the sky; there was beauty everywhere. It was a day to send one's thoughts scurrying away from brick streets and town to the open country and its autumnal wonders, there to marvel at the loveliness of the world at this time of the year and to feel grateful to Him who created it.

The latest addition to the boarding house menu is the aeroplane chicken—mostly wings and frame.

THE RICHESON CASE

Whether or not the Reverend C. V. T. Richeson be the murderer of Miss Avis Linnell, 18 nineteen-year-old student who was found dead in Boston of cyanide poisoning, there seems little doubt that the minister is a type of dangerous man. No sooner had the news of the case been flashed across the country than reports began to pour in from various places, where the minister had been located at different time, of affairs with half a dozen women in which he had been involved, while it also appears that at the time he was allowing young Avis Linnell to believe that she was his intended wife he was preparing to marry the daughter of a rich parishioner.

From his pictures in the newspapers it is easy to see that Richeson is of the pattern that appeals to women. In addition to his physical attractions his calling was enough to gain for him the confidence of the women with whom his ministerial duties threw him in contact. Combined with this was the sleek, purring, ingratiating demeanor of the kind which long before this had beguiled trusting women into misery and shame.

If Richeson is found guilty, we hope he will receive the full penalty of the law. If he did conspire, as is charged, to murder this young girl, after having robbed her of all that he should have assisted her to protect, there seems no punishment too severe to be meted out to him.

CRIMINAL TRIALS

Some mighty odd dynamite explosions have occurred in connection with operations where work was done with non-union labor in matters when the Iron Workers' Union was involved. There is no question that the explosions were brought about for the purpose of destroying life and property.

No explosions have taken place in the same line where union workers were employed.

Some one was instrumental in producing these explosions. Eugene Debs states that these explosions were planned, and brought about, and wholesale murder in many cases committed, by the capitalist class for the purpose of discrediting union labor. He and those associated with him state that it will cost $500,000 to prove that the McNamara brothers had no direct connection with one of these explosions. Further comment at this stage seems unnecessary.

THE TARIFF

The tariff seems to the ordinary citizen to be so far off that it hardly affects him, and so complicated that he can not understand it. Let us come down to a concrete example. Paris retains its old customs and its old walls, or barriers, and at each gate of the city the countryman who brings in his butter, eggs, or vegetables pays a tariff or tax on each of them. If a man buys a dozen of eggs just inside the gate, he pays one price. If he steps outside the gate, he pays a less price by the amount of the tax, and if he brings half dozen eggs inside the gate he pays the tax. In that case, it is a direct tax, because the consumer pays it himself; but if the countryman who brings in his dozen eggs pays the tax, he adds the tax to the price at which he is willing to sell his eggs outside the wall and the consumer pays the tax as a part of the purchase price of the eggs. It then becomes an indirect tax. But there is no question in Paris in anybody's mind as to who pays that tax. It is the consumer who resides within the limits of Paris. If an automobilist is going on a long journey he only puts enough petrol in his tanks to take him outside the barrier. He can get it cheaper outside.

The tariff in this country is certainly far more remote from us than is the tax paid at the gates of Paris by the citizen who gets his daily supplies in that way, but the principle is exactly the same. It is almost impossible for us to realize the number of things in daily and necessary use, the cost of which is affected directly or indirectly by the provisions of our tariff system.

Alabama Good Roads Convention

Selma, Ala., Oct. 25.—A convention of the Alabama Good Roads association opened here today with an attendance that includes prominent State officials, congressmen and delegates representing every county of the State. President John Craft of Mobile presided at the opening session this morning.

Anti-Horse Thief Convention

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 25.—The annual convention of the Anti-Horse Thief Association of Oklahoma was opened here today with a mounted parade in which several hundred members from all over the State took part. The convention will continue over tomorrow.

GLIDDEN CAR IN FATALITY

Tipton, Ga., Oct. 25.—The big Cunningham pacemaker, in the Glidden Tour, turned turtle just outside of Tipton, forty miles from Cordele, and S. M. Butler, chairman of the Contest Board of the A. A. A., was killed instantly. P. J. Walker, referee, suffered a broken collarbone, and Mrs. F. J. Walker a dislocated shoulder. The tour is postponed indefinitely.

Contest is Indefinitely Postponed on Account of Bad Accident Occurring in Georgia

The car rolled over three times. Mr. Butler, who was in the front seat with the driver, Charles F. Kellman, of Rochester, N. Y., was crushed underneath the car and never spoke afterwards. Mr. Butler was for years secretary of the Automobile Club of America and for the past two years has been chairman of the Automobile Club of America. He was immensely popular in automobile circles and lived in New York city.

Car Running at Good Speed

The machine was running at a good speed when the steering apparatus went wrong. The automobile plunged forward on its nose, turned a somersault and settled on its side. Butler was caught beneath a wheel. The other occupants were thrown in to the road. The car was pulled from Butler's body. He was badly cut and crushed.

Mr. Walker has a dislocated shoulder and broken collar bone. Mrs. Walker is suffering more from the shock than her broken arm.

Charles F. Kellman of Rochester, N. Y., was in the wrecked car, but he escaped with only a slight bruise or two.

May Not Halt Tour

New York, October 25.—Officials of the A. A. A. believed that the accident would not halt the tour, especially as the participants are now within a day's run of Jacksonville, their goal. The situation, they said, was entirely in the hands of the association officials on the spot, among them being E. L. Ferguson, the starter, Mr. Ferguson, they thought, would probably act as referee during the remainder of the run. At noon they had received no word of the accident.

VETERANS VOTE FOR FIRST TIME

New State of Arizona Holds Its First Primary Yesterday
Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 24.—Men who have lived from youth to old age in Arizona, some of them having resided in the Territory for nearly half a century, went to the polls today and for the first time in their lives expressed by ballot their choice for governor and other executive, judicial and legislative officials. The occasion was the general primaries for the nomination of candidates to be voted for at the first State election in Arizona, which is to be held in December. New Mexico, which was admitted to Statehood at the same time Arizona, held to the convention plan of nominations, but Arizona adopted the direct primary system and put it into operation for the first time today. Owing to the large expanse of territory covered by the new State and the remote locations of many of the communities the results of the primary elections may not be definitely known until late tomorrow.

A heavy vote reported in Phoenix and in other of the chief cities gives evidence of the keen interest the people of the new State are taking in their first effort at self-government. The citizens of Arizona have always elected their own county officers and their legislator but the President has named the governor and other executive officials, including the judiciary, and Congress has always had veto power over the territorial legislative enactments.

STAUNTON MAN HEADS DRUGGISTS

Mr. B. F. Hughes, the well known Staunton druggist, was elected president of the Valley District Retail Druggists' Association, to fill the unexpired term of J. B. Clower, of Woodstock, resigned, at the regular meeting held Tuesday morning in the Kavanaugh Hotel at Harrisonburg. Mr. George M. Farrar, of Clifton Forge but widely acquainted in Staunton, was elected to fill Mr. Hughes former office as vice-president.

The meeting was one of unusual interest to the members, speeches being made by W. S. Richardson, of Washington, chairman of the National Legislative Committee; E. L. Brandis, of Richmond, Secretary of the Virginia Pharmaceutical Association; and J. R. Adams, of Chicago, representative of the National Association of Retail Druggists, all of whom were also made honorary members of the Association. Perhaps the greatest bit of fun was enjoyed as a result of a discussion centering around the "funniest thing to happen in a drug store." Clifton Forge was chosen as the place for the February, 1912, meeting.

G. R. Smiley Weds in Illinois

Mr. T. M. Smiley received word yesterday of the marriage of his son, G. R. Smiley, for a long time division engineer of the Florida East Coast railway, to Miss Nora J. Krome, daughter of Judge Krome, which took place in Edwardsville, Ill., Tuesday evening at 7:30. After a bridal trip, the couple will probably make their home in Richmond, Va., where Mr. Smiley expects to follow the engineering profession.

COMMITTEE ORDERS NEW FIRE ENGINE

Equipped with a six-cylinder 116 horse-power engine, guaranteed to propel the machine at a rate of 31 miles per hour, and a pump, operated from the same source of power, with a capacity of 750 gallons per minute, an auto-fire engine so constructed that six strong streams of water can be thrown at one time has been purchased by the fire committee of the City Council at a cost of $9,000. The purchase comes as the result of careful investigation by the fire committee of the various types of power driven fire engines and will fill a long felt want in the city's fire fighting equipment. The Robison Fire Apparatus Company, of St. Louis, are the makers, the sale being closed through C. J. Cross & Company, of New York. The new engine will weigh approximately 9,500 pounds, has a wheel base of 155 inches, carries also a complete chemical apparatus and is one of the most powerful and effective fire-fighting machines built in this country. Delivery will be made within about ninety days.

VENGEFUL STABLEMAN KILLS WHEN REPROVED

Posse of Californians in Pursuit of Capitalist's Slayer

San Jose, Cal., Oct. 25.—Simon Romero of Monterey, a capitalist, was killed and Miss Helen Quezada, daughter of Francisco Quezada, a millionaire planter of Costa Rica, was wounded early today by Manuel Garola, a stableman. Miss Quezada had reprimanded him for riding her thoroughbred horse without permission. Miss Quezada's life was probably saved by Mrs. Ampleo Zeledon of Costa Rica, a guest at the Quezada home, who jumped on the murderer's back as he ran at the girl aiming his revolver. Garcia escaped and a posse started in pursuit.

GOVERNOR HEARS PLEA FOR BEATTIE

Richmond, Va., Oct. 25.—In the hope of getting Ben Owen, secretary to Governor Mann and uncle of Louise Owen Beattie not to stand in the way of Governor Mann's commuting the sentence of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., the father of the condemned man spent an hour in conference with Secretary Owen.

Mr. Beattie, Jr., realizes that if his son is not to go to the electric chair the 24th of next month for the murder of his wife, the only hope is in commutation of sentence.

Neither he nor Ben Owen would make any statement at the end of the conference, except that Mr. Owen expressed his sympathy for the father. The Owen family is said to feel bitterly toward Henry Clay Beattie, Jr. The extra expenses of the prosecution of Beattie in Chesterfield Court House were paid for, it has been said without denial, by Thomas Owen, brother of Robert V. and Ben Owen, Robert V. Owen is the father of the murdered girl.

GOV. WILSON AT NOTABLE CONFERENCE

Gather at Madison, Wis., to Discuss Social Center Idea
Madison, Wis., Oct. 25.—With an opening address by Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey on "The Need of Citizenship Organization," the most notable conference ever held in America to consider the problems of the social center movement gets under way here tonight for a three days' session. Hundreds of delegates arrived today to take part in the conference, which meets under the joint auspices of the extension department of the University of Wisconsin and the Social Center Association of America.

The proceedings are certain to attract widespread attention, if for no other reason than that the conference is the first national gathering ever held for the purpose of furthering the social center movement. If the hopes of those interested in the movement are fulfilled the near future will see every school house in the country made a public meeting place for non-partisan gatherings of citizens for the presentation and discussion of public questions and for other social civic or recreational activities.

In addition to Governor Wilson the prominent speakers to be heard at the several sessions include Senator Russel Clapp of Minnesota, Dean H. M. Russell of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, Clarence A. Perry of the Russell Sage Foundation, Dr. John R. Commons of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission, Lily S. Richard of Boston, and Dr. G. E. Young, health commissioner of Chicago.

The conference will conclude Saturday evening with a banquet at which toasts will be responded to by William Allen White, Colonel S. S. McClure, Dr. Josiah Strong, Miss Zona Gale, Frank P. Walsh and Mrs. David Kirk, the first woman school superintendent in America.

GENERAL NEWS FROM PARNASSUS

Well Known Residents Convalescent From Sick Spells
Parnassus, Oct. 25.—Great sympathy is felt here for Mr. Ben Cox on account of the death of his wife. Mr. Cox has had sickness in his family for several months and it is hoped he will soon be well.

Little Tourney Peterson, who has been quite ill with typhoid fever, is convalescing nicely.

Ernest Simmons is also recovering from a long spell of fever. He says anything to eat looks good to him.

Mrs. J. H. Ralston, of Stover, is better at this time. Mrs. Cutor, of Rockingham county, who has been with her for several weeks has returned to her home. Mrs. Ralston reluctantly gave her up as she proved to be a very efficient nurse.

Apple packing is the order of the day. Mr. Benjamin Crum, of Staunton, has a large force in this section. The construction of G. M. Burton's new house is now in progress. Mr. Chas. Rawley being the contractor.

"The Rotary," at the Beverley Theatre last Friday night, attracted and pleased a number of ladies from the village and neighborhood. Among those attending were Mrs. Wm. Peterson, Mrs. Burton, Misses Moffett, Burton, Gilkison and Heverer.

Dr. S. H. Burton is in Richmond attending a meeting of the State Medical Society of Virginia.

The Parnassus high school is making good progress with a larger enrollment this year than for any year previous.

VEHICLE DEALERS GO TO CINCINNATI

Staunton and Valley Well Represented at Big Meeting
Staunton and the Valley were well represented at the opening of the thirteenth annual convention and exhibit of the Tri-State Vehicle and Implement Dealers' Association in Cincinnati. The sessions will be held in the Music Hall, adjournment being scheduled for Thursday morning.

As guests of Mr. H. L. Shroyck, of Stevens City, representative of the T. T. Haydock Carriage Company, the following gentlemen from Staunton left Monday night: W. J. Neff, George A. Brown, Tom Byers, and B. W. Crum. Occupying the same special sleeper, attached to No. 5 at Clifton Forge, New Market and other points sent the following: W. C. Shirley, George Garber, Mrs. A. M. Hubbard, N. L. Shroyck, C. I. Bruebeck, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Fritts, Mr. and Mrs. Pence, Mr. and Mrs. Doll, G. C. Shroyck, Mason Hewell, G. W. Boyer, F. A. Cockerell and J. M. Martin.

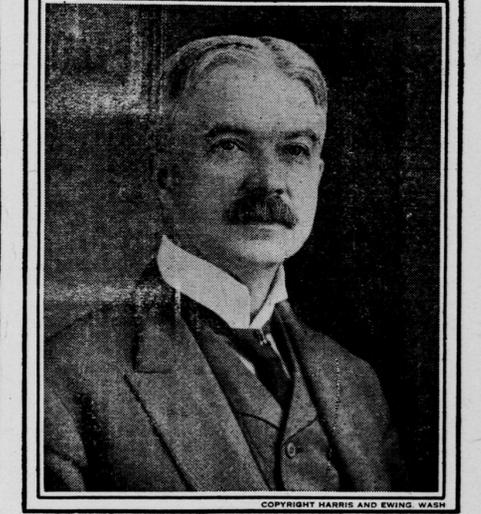

In addition to liberal talks and discussions of interest to dealers, executive sessions and social features, the exhibit of every known type of pleasure and business vehicles, implements, wagons, automobiles and farm machinery, it is said, will out-strip three to one any other similar show ever attempted in the United States. The convention in connection will be replete with educational and instructive features.

Following the joint session of manufacturers, travelers, dealers, etc., an aftermath of pleasantly, to include a luncheon, smoker, orchestra music and old-time songs, will enliven the program on Wednesday evening. At the election of officers on Thursday morning, it is not altogether improbable that the contingent from this section of the country will be an important factor.

Outside of the president's address and the reports of various officers and committees, some of the subjects to be discussed by speakers are: "Specialties: Our Experience in Handling," T. H. McGeorge, Covington, Ind.; "Costs of Doing Retail Vehicle and Implement Business," C. M. Johnson, Rush City, Minn.; "Loyalty to Loyal Manufacturers," Jos. H. Goldcamp, Lancaster, O.

All in all, the local men expect to get much good out of the event which is aptly described by Mr. P. T. Rathburn, the secretary, who says: "Entertainment, encouragement, enlightenment, enterprise, and enthusiasm will run life at Cincinnati Music Hall October 23-28."

A man's success in politics depends upon his being able to say everything without meaning anything.
