

We lay before our readers, in compliance with our engagement, the following very able and splendid article from the October No. of the "Democratic Review"...

The new royal yacht which is termed a "clipper," and Mr. President Tyler must not feel surprised, if, some fine morning before his term of office expires, he receives a friendly visit from England's spry and sightseeing little Queen.

THE DISTURBANCES IN SOUTH WALES.—The disturbances in South Wales continue. On the 6th inst., a body of Rebecates, some on horseback, and others on foot, went to the town of Pontardulais, which they attacked, and, after a short struggle, they were driven out, and the town was left in the hands of the insurgents.

Since the burning of some corn mow in Llandovery, the farmers have become alarmed, and are endeavoring to insure their corn. It is now, more than a fortnight, nearly three weeks, beyond its time, and in addition to the delay, the interruption of the harvest, and the loss of the corn, the farmers are in a state of great distress.

ARRIVAL OF THE WEST INDIA MAIL.—The Royal Mail Steamer Dee arrived at Falmouth on the 19th, and brought instructions to proceed with the mails to Southampton, where they were landed on the 20th. The cargo consisted of 234, Jamaica 234, Grenada 234, Jamaica 234, St. Thomas 31st, and Falmouth 12th inst.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

ment. Whatever difference of opinion may exist about the man and his prospects—and public opinion has been divided on the subject—all parties admire the herculean energies which are brought into action by hands and shoulders rarely numbering seventy Summers.

We are becoming (says Wilmer & Smith) a nation of free traders in theory. An advocate of protection is not to be found among the farmers or laborers. He is a rare bird, except among the squires. The late is a rare bird, except among the squires. The late is a rare bird, except among the squires.

Intelligence from Madrid to the 12th Sept., shows that the insurgents are anticipating an outbreak in the capital. A proclamation has been issued by the political chief, exhorting every citizen who shall have received any arms, ammunition, or military stores of any kind, to give them up to the provisional Government.

Later accounts, which come up to the 16th, state, that the elections at Madrid began on that day. The opposition had gained 7 of the bureaux out of 12, but the 10th of the suffrages had not yet been counted. The beginning of the party was, however, very quiet.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

Honor of the Four Nations, and enthusiastic toasts in honor of the Central Junta were given. After dinner, Martell appeared at the balcony, which looks on the bay, and addressed the people in the following terms: "I wish to tyrannize over you, and we can enter into no compact with despots. Let honest men unite, and liberty is secure. Viva, the Central Junta, the Constitutional Queen, Isabella II, and the Sovereign People!"

These few words were received with unanimous applause. He was one of the newly appointed members of the Junta, left on the same evening with two of his colleagues, to confer with Brigadier Narciso Ameller, who had arrived at Santh with seven battalions. The latter, it appears, had received his orders to march through the town. The troops of Ameller consisted of five battalions, raised at Barcelona and Girona, and of mobilized militia of the former, so that the insurgents had been considerably reinforced by their accession.

Intelligence from Madrid to the 12th Sept., shows that the insurgents are anticipating an outbreak in the capital. A proclamation has been issued by the political chief, exhorting every citizen who shall have received any arms, ammunition, or military stores of any kind, to give them up to the provisional Government.

Later accounts, which come up to the 16th, state, that the elections at Madrid began on that day. The opposition had gained 7 of the bureaux out of 12, but the 10th of the suffrages had not yet been counted. The beginning of the party was, however, very quiet.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

in the last resort, into the House of Representatives—contaminated as that body is likely to be. We, for one, trust, that the verdict of the nation may supersede the necessity of such an ordeal.

And so we! We earnestly deprecate it, as one of the most disastrous measures, which can fall upon our country—and it gives us a plausible pretext for our disunion, or even, if we are not so fortunate, for our encounter with our fearful consequences. But the result of the speculations of the Bee is visionary. It is impossible, that after the Whigs have obtained the position of the State, they would be driven to the election of Calhoun, V. Buren, Johnson and Buchanan.

Intelligence from Madrid to the 12th Sept., shows that the insurgents are anticipating an outbreak in the capital. A proclamation has been issued by the political chief, exhorting every citizen who shall have received any arms, ammunition, or military stores of any kind, to give them up to the provisional Government.

Later accounts, which come up to the 16th, state, that the elections at Madrid began on that day. The opposition had gained 7 of the bureaux out of 12, but the 10th of the suffrages had not yet been counted. The beginning of the party was, however, very quiet.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

in the last resort, into the House of Representatives—contaminated as that body is likely to be. We, for one, trust, that the verdict of the nation may supersede the necessity of such an ordeal.

And so we! We earnestly deprecate it, as one of the most disastrous measures, which can fall upon our country—and it gives us a plausible pretext for our disunion, or even, if we are not so fortunate, for our encounter with our fearful consequences. But the result of the speculations of the Bee is visionary. It is impossible, that after the Whigs have obtained the position of the State, they would be driven to the election of Calhoun, V. Buren, Johnson and Buchanan.

Intelligence from Madrid to the 12th Sept., shows that the insurgents are anticipating an outbreak in the capital. A proclamation has been issued by the political chief, exhorting every citizen who shall have received any arms, ammunition, or military stores of any kind, to give them up to the provisional Government.

Later accounts, which come up to the 16th, state, that the elections at Madrid began on that day. The opposition had gained 7 of the bureaux out of 12, but the 10th of the suffrages had not yet been counted. The beginning of the party was, however, very quiet.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

in the last resort, into the House of Representatives—contaminated as that body is likely to be. We, for one, trust, that the verdict of the nation may supersede the necessity of such an ordeal.

And so we! We earnestly deprecate it, as one of the most disastrous measures, which can fall upon our country—and it gives us a plausible pretext for our disunion, or even, if we are not so fortunate, for our encounter with our fearful consequences. But the result of the speculations of the Bee is visionary. It is impossible, that after the Whigs have obtained the position of the State, they would be driven to the election of Calhoun, V. Buren, Johnson and Buchanan.

Intelligence from Madrid to the 12th Sept., shows that the insurgents are anticipating an outbreak in the capital. A proclamation has been issued by the political chief, exhorting every citizen who shall have received any arms, ammunition, or military stores of any kind, to give them up to the provisional Government.

Later accounts, which come up to the 16th, state, that the elections at Madrid began on that day. The opposition had gained 7 of the bureaux out of 12, but the 10th of the suffrages had not yet been counted. The beginning of the party was, however, very quiet.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning, about eleven o'clock, Her Majesty and Prince Albert landed at Woolwich Dock, and were received by Sir F. Collier, C. B., the Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard at Woolwich, and the other principal officers of the establishment. Great preparations had been made to honor Her Majesty's return, and the landing place was covered with rich crimson cloth.