INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS.

The Examiner has some apposite remarks relative to the very striking effect produced upon the Legislature by that clause in the constitution which requires that no bill shall be passed for purposes of Internal Improve ment, without a provision for raising the means to prosecute them. It has, indeed, proved a clog of a most serious nature. Before, there was no difficulty whatever in the way .-The largest appropriations were made without the smallest scruple ; but now, our independent legislators dare not go home and tell heir constituents that they have raised the taxes, though for a purpose of the last necessity. It is a matter, with them, of small moment, that the whole system of Internal Improvements, in which the State is interested to the amount of $12,000,000, should be stopped short. It is a matter of very great public coneern, on the other hand, that Mr. A. or Mr. B. should keep his place in the House or in the

Do these gentlemen reflect upon the immense loss to which they are subjecting the State, and the necessity they are creating of an enormously increased taxation at a future day to pay off this loss ? The interest on the debt for purposes of this character, is already enormous. It amounts, in round numbers, to at least $1,300,000 per annum. The recess of three months, which they propose, will cost the State a sum of $325,000, over and above what it would cost should they make the proper appropriations at once. Do they not see that they will have to make up this dead loss by taxation? After all, the taxation for raising the sum to complete the works, will be fully as great if levied in the fall, as it would be if laid now. Is it possible that constituents will not be able to understand so plain a matter? Every day that the public works are delayed adds so much to the public burthens. Is it not the part of wisdom, then, to make the necessary appropriations as soon as possible? What can be gained by delay? The people know, that, until the works begin to pay, they must be taxed to carry them on. What more can they learn during the proposed recess of three months?

We believe that the Legislature is playing a very foolish game. They cannot abandon the public works, for the public voice will not permit them to do so. They cannot conceal from their constituents the fact that their temporary abandonment imposes a great additional burthen. Is it not better, then, to take the responsibility of an inevitable step at once, and to depend upon its absolute necessity, as an apology before the constituency?

HON. JOHN BARNEY AND M. DE SAR-TIGES.

The papers have been making themselves quite merry at the expense of these two gentlemen. We greatly admire the gallantry of Mr. B., for a man who takes upon himself the cause, not of one ugly woman, but of all the ugly women, must be a knight, the very latchworthy to loosen. We have read a good many books that treat of chivalry, and we are well aware of the fantastic vows which many of the heroes took upon themselves, for the honor and glory of their "ladie loves;" but they were all of them as beautiful as the very morning itself. Not one of them is described as being ugly, not even the "loathly iadie," whose ass umed homeliness was but a temporary disguise.—
There is no such thing in all chivalry as a There is no such thing in all chivalry as a containt regard to the end in view prevent him from sacrificing the substance to the shadow—fitness to factitious ornament. An Architect must be practical. He cannot live in a world of fancy, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest aspects, like the poet; he cannot live in a world of fancy, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest aspects, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest to appear to appear appeared. He cannot live in a world of fancy, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest aspects, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest appeared. He cannot live in a world of fancy, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest aspects, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest appeared. He cannot live in a world of fancy, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest aspects, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest. He cannot live in a world of fancy, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest. He cannot live in a world of fancy, like the poet; he cannot live in a world of fancy, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest aspects, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest aspects, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest. He cannot live in a world of fancy, like the poet; he cannot covy nature in her liveliest appeared by appeared to appear to appear appeared to appear appeared to appear et of whose shoe Bayard himself would not be knight's putting lance in rest for an ugly woman. Even Don Quixote was obliged by the force of his imagination to transform the ill-favored country wench, Aldonza Lorenza, into the peerless Dulcinea del Toboso.

Now we admire spirit, and we adore gallantry almost as much as the ladies themselves .-But we confess to a little natural weakness .--If we were to see two ladies drowning, one of them very pretty, and another very homely, and we had it in our power to save only one, we very much fear we should be tempted to single out the pretty one. We cannot therefore feel so bitterly towards M. de Sartiges for admitting none but pretty ladies to his balls: for we are fearful we should do the same. But then his passion for shooting rats, unless he be something of a Mandarin, and mean to eat them, is very reprehensible. If any aggravation of the offence were wanting, it could be found in his violation of the Sabbath in the prosecution of his unlawful sport. We must positively turn him over to the Richmond Typographical So. ciety, and if they can do nothing, why then he must be passed to the editor of the Baptist Herald. He will "tickle his catastrophe" for him, as Shakspeare hath it. We do not know that we could find it in our heart to blame him much for shooting the cats. If there is any thing in the world which could, by any possibility, justify Sabbath-breaking, it is this-We extend to M de Sartiges thereupon the right hand of fellowship, and we invite him to come down this way.

But there is yet one short-coming of the Ambassador, for which he deserved to be reported to his ex-Majesty of Westphalia, Prince Admiral, Field Marshal and President of the Semate. We allude to his declaration that he would not marry an American woman! We hope the grapes are not sour! We hope this fox of a Frenchman has not been jumping at a lusclous bunch, and finding himself unable to reach it, has now said that it was too sour for him! Even though it be so, let none of our fair countrywomen go beside themselves, and terminate their existence in the same tragical way in which the lady, whose fate is so pathetically described in that veracious old song "A Captain bold of Halifax," contrived to "shuffle off this mortal coil." Let them consent themselves with answering as Bernadotte did to a certain culprit. We will relate the anecdote, for it is more creditable to the old French Sergeant than any thing we ever heard any person who spoke slightly of the King, subjected himself to capital punishment.. Under this law, a time-serving judge had tried a man who was proved to have said that he did not care a d—n for Bernadotte, and had sentenced him to be hung. Bernadotte hearing of it, ordered the man to be instantly set at liberty. "But," said his courtiers, "do you not intend to punish such an ostrage?" "Yes!" replied the king; " since the fellow says that he don't care a d-n for Bernadotte, do you go and tell him that Bernadotte don't care a d-n Do our country women take the hint?

P. S. A friend suggests that what we have said about ugly women, may give offence to that unfortunate class of the female world .-Not the least danger in the world of it! We never saw or heard of a woman who believed that any thing said about ugly women, could, by any possibility, be tortured into a reflection upon her. Oh! no. Catch a woman believing any such thing as that!

PLACE OF VOTING .- As the election comes off to-morrow, we take this opportunity to call attention to a fact, not, we believe, generally understood. The Constitution and the law passed by the Legislature in accordance therewith, requires voters TO VOTE IN THE WARD IN WHICH THEY RESIDE! If you wish your vote to stand good, do not forget this. Vote in your own ward; you have no right to vote any where else.

EXTENSIVE SALE OF REAL ESTATE.-We learn from the Fredericksburg News that the large estate in the lower part of Charles City county, 45 miles below Richmond, on James River, and lately owned by Robert Bolling of Petersburg, known as Sandy Point, was sold on Saturday last, to Richard Baylor, Esq., of Essex, at $130,000. This is one of the finest landed estates in Virginia. It contains nearly five thousand acres of highly productive river low grounds, which produce from 18 to 22,000 bushels of wheat per year, and from 8 to 10 000 barrels of Corn.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES-LAST NIGHT. The House met at 8 o'clock, and a few min-utes thereafter a vote on a motion to adjourn showed that there was the exact number (77) of members present necessary to form a quorum The House then proceeded to business, and passed a number of bills without opposition—amongst them, a bill prescribing the powers and duties of the Sergeant of the city of Richmond. This act makes it his duty to attend as Sheriff upon the Circuit Court; collect the taxes of the city, keep, and confine the criminals to of the city; keep, and confine the criminals to be tried in the Circuit Court in, the city jail, &c. Also, a hill from the Senate, concerning books and furniture of Odd Fellows, Free Masons, Sons of Temperance and other benevolent so cicties, with amendments. The remainder of the bills passed will be noticed hereafter.

A little after 9 o'clock, when yawns were neither few nor fur between, and eve-lids were yielding to the gentle influence of Morpheus, a fortunate circumstance occurred to keep the congregation awake. Mr. Smith, of Brooke and Hancock, a gentleman whom all were anxand Hancock, a gentleman whom all were anxipus to hear, rose to make his maiden speech of the session, on a proposition for a rail-road across the "pan handle." He proceeded at length, and by his original style, happy illustrations and amusing anecdotes, kept the eyes of the House open until the time of adjournment shout 10 o'clock. ment about 10 o'clock.

Important to our City, our Country and our Hoines.—To rise to eminence in the Art and Science of Architecture genius is indispensable By study and practice a man of ordinary talents may become a good Builder: he may understand his art, so far as it relates to the necessaries and conveniences of life, but something more is requisite to taise him to the rank of an Artist—on the same level with the poet, painter, sculptor and the same level with the poet, painter, sculptor and musician. A man who intends to be an Architect, should possess ingenuity and mathematical talent, and should receive an education with direct reference to the practice of his art. An Architect must be practical. He cannot live in a world of fancy, with almost as much eagerness as if he were to be a painter; perspective and projection he should understand so as to know how the design should understand so as to know how the design will appear when completed. The science and art of Architecture brings into play all the sciences and fine arts there are to be studied and committed to memory. The most eminent Architects have often been the best painters and sculptors in the age in which they lived. An Architect who cannot draw or commit to paper his ideas, is like a man of knowledge who cannot speak or write—his art is useless to him and to all—he is not an Architect. knowledge who cannot speak or write—his art is us-less to him and to al—he is not an Architect to be wanting in drawing; it is his apput. There are many errors made by persons pretending to be Architect who have a really expending to be Architects who have a really expending to be a really expended. many errors made by persons pretending to be Architects who have a small smattering of drawing, but not the first rudiments of Architecture as a fine art and a science. They design, build and pull down, without knowing why they do it or why it is done. A man educated for it, practical and experienced, is capable of saving a vast deal of money for those who employ him to design and superintend the design and building to completion.
Such a man is Mr. WM. A. Powell, who we would kindly recommend to the public geography. perintend the design and building to completion. Such a man is Mr. Wm. A. Powell, who we would kindly recommend to the public generally. (See his advertisement to-day) His designs and all he has done in our midst speak of knowledge acquired by a classical course of instruction and many years experience in his profession. Mr. Powell is a young man, so to speak, who has made this city his permanent residence to practice his profession. An architect possessed of his ability has long been wanted here to assist us to keep pace with the present age in Architecture and Sciences, and as he is now in our city his services should be engaged and appreciated, and have designs prepared here and stop sending for them to other cities. By so doing, time trouble and an unnecessary outlay of money will be saved to those building. One great and important feature in favor of Mr. Powell is that he makes accurate specifications, contracts, and agreements, and charges nothing for the design and drawings when he superintends the design on completion will cost no more than it is estimated at previous to building the same. This is sign on completion will cost no more than it is es-timated at previous to building the same. This is an opportunity that is seldom offered and should not be neglected. More we cannot say at present, but leave his skill and perseverance to speak the truth to all.

To the Voters of the City of Richmond.—Having seen in the Whig of yesterday morning, an advertisement stating that twenty-three only of the members of the Bar who practice in the Circuit Court desire the election of ROBERT C. STANARD, as the Judge of that Court, the undersigned deem it an act of justice to Mr Stanard, as well to the community, to state that the article in the Whig is inaccurate, and that we feel warranted in saying that seven-tents of the Bar concur in the recommendation of Mr Stanard, and will support him. We deem it proper to say, also, that there is not the slightest foundation in fact for the cry which has been raised about the "dictation of the Bar."—There has been certainly no attempt, on the part of those members of the bar who support Mr Stanard, to dictate to any one, and certainly not to the great body of the people, of whom, in this respect, we are but the agents and representatives; for to us is confided the duty of representing and protecting, in the Courts, the interests of our clients as well as To the Voters of the City of Rich-our own, and constituting the larger number werepresent the larger number and greatest interest.

Can we, by possibility, have any purpose or desire to injure those upon whom we depend for our support! is it not palpable to the simplest understanding, that our interest is identical with the interests of our clients, and that therefore we can have but one motive in selecting a Judge, to wit, a desire to get the ablest man and ripest lawyer who is willing to serve, being an upright man, as both the gentlemen now before the people are. We know of no attempt of any one to "dictate," but we submit whether, if it be proper to characterize either party as attempting to dictate, it woul not be more candid and proper thus to characterize the small minority of the Bar who dissent from the majority, and press their nominee against the nominee of the majority?

and press their nominee against the nominee of the majority?

It is a matter of great pain to us that there should be any controversy in this city about the election of the first Judge under the New Constitution, and if we could have foreseen it, we would not have be n parties to it. We hoped that our Judge, wheever be might be, would have taken his seat upon the bench unconscious of any of the excitement which attends a contested election; and although convinced of the superior qualifications of Mr Stanard, we would have made no opposition to Mr Meredith, if he had announced himself before our selection was made, instead of coming out in opposition to it, after it was made and known to him. Still more certainly, if possible, would we have made no operstainly, if possible, would we have made no op-made, instead of coming out in opposition to it, after it was made and known to him. Still more certainly, if possible, would we have made no opposition to Mr Meredith, if he had been nominated by the meeting which nominated Mr Stanard, and as certainly we presume, would Meredith have accepted the nominstion, and no cry of "cication" would then have been heard from his friends.

The article in the Whig also represents that Mr. Stanard was announced after Mr. Meredith had announced himself. Now we submit that this state ment is in substance and intent, erroneous. The intent is to impress the public with the belief that Mr. Stanard's nomination was made AFTER Mr. Meredith was announced, which was not the fact, as every one knows who has turned his attention at all to the subject, or read the history of this matter which we gave in a former statement, and which remains uncontradicted. It is true that the announcement of Mr. Meredith appeared first in the newspapers, but that announcement was made THE DAY AFTER Mr. Stanard had been nominated by the meeting at the Court House, and after that nomination was known to Mr. Meredith and his friends. With what justice or fairness then, could "A Voter" in the Whig make the statement which he has made? Was it done to excite the PREJUDICES of the people, and under their influence mislead them to elect the least competent this service to his countr,?

MANY MEMBERS OF THE MEETING.

many MEMBERS OF THE MEETING.

John A. Meredith for Judge.—In the Whig of yesterday appeared an article from "Ma ny Members of the Meeting," professing, in justice to Mr. Stanard and to the c.mmunity, to correct the inaccuracy of an article which was published in the same paper the day before, the principal object of which was to erase the impression that had been made that Mr. Stanard had been unanimously called upon by the Richmond bar to declare himself a candidate for the office of Judge.—He was called upon by 23 members (about one-fourth) of the bur—but that was not the whole bar; and we repeat again that we still have reason to believe that "Mr. Meredith will receive as large a vote from the Richmond bar as Mr. Stanard "—We know that Mr. Stanard will not receive the support of several of the oldest and most distinguished lawyers of this city. Their names could be given if necessary, but "its unnecessary; if the peculiar friends of Mr. Stanard have not found them out 'tis because they have not enquired, and if they desire to know their names, they can get that knowledge much easier than they arrived at the fact that seventents of the bar concur in the nomination of Mr. Stanard and will support him. And we feel warranted in saying that some even of the twenty-three gentlemen who recommended Mr. Stanard would more cheerfully have recommended Mr. Meredith had his name been piaced before the meeting of the bar. But his name was not placed before the meeting at the time the recommended before the meeting at the time the recommended before the meeting of the bar. John A. Meredith for Judge.-In th Meredith had his name been placed before the meeting of the bar. But his name was not placed before the meeting at the time the recommenda on was made, because no one had authority so to b. At the former meeting, when his name was ed before the meeting it was done by a friend

do. At the former meeting, when his name was placed before the meeting it was done by a friend without his knowledge or consent. And as soon as the fact was made known to him (Mr. Meredith being out of the city when his name was thus used) he expressed his d-termination to be a candidate in any event. He was even unwilling that his name should go before a meeting of the bar for such a nomination or recommendation.

Complaint seems to be made that Mr. Meredith did not communicate his purpose to be a candidate in any event to the adjourned meeting Well, was it the outy of Mr. Meredith to inform a meeting, to the holding of which he was opposed, that he meant to be a candidate? Had he done this might it not have been said, with great force:—Who is this mighty man that informs us he means to be a candidate? And would that announce ment to the meeting have prevented the recommendation of another. If so, then Mr. Meredith must be qualified for the office in the opinion of these very gentlemen who now talk so triumphantly about the "ablest man and ripest lawyer"—or they would not have discharged their duty as good citizens, in permitting Mr Meredith, an unqualified man, to go into office without opposition. Mr. Meredith had informed at least two gentlemen that he meant to be a candidate, one of whom was absent from and one present at the adjourned meeting; the one present did not feel himself authorized, on the part of Mr. Meredith, to say to the absent from and one present at the adjourned meeting; the one present idi not feel himself authorized, on the part of Mr. Meredith, to say to the meeting what his purpose was, yet he retrained from putting Mr. Meredith's name in opposition to Mr. Stanard, because he knew that Mr. Mered th would be a candidate in any event.

We are told thet it is a matter of great pain to many members of the meeting, that there should be any controversy in this city about the election of the first Judge under the new constitution. These gentlemen, or some of them, have inflicted this pain on themselves. Who is responsible for this coatest? They are. Mr Meredith was publicly announced one day before Mr Stanard, and if Mr Meredith expressed a determination to be a candidate, would have prevented the recommendation of Mr. Stanard at the adjourned meeting, and Mr. of Mr Stanard at the adjourned meeting, and Mr Mercdith would have had no opposition from these gentlemen, if he had aunounced himself before the selection of Mr Stanard, why might not the contest selection of Mr Stanard, why might not the contest have been avoided by dropping Mr Stanard as soon as they ascertained Mr Meredith's purpose, especially as it could have been done before Mr Stanard publically declared himself a candidate?

From the article in the Whig of yesterday, one would conclude that the article to which it purported to be an answer, was full of slang about the "dictation of the bar," whereas there is not one word, not one sentiment in it, trom which any fair mind would draw the inference that even an insinuation the most remote, was made upon that supject. A castle was built to be demolished.

We do not object to Mr Stanard because lawyers recommend him—so far from it, we claim support for Mr Meredith, because he too is supported by lawyers, and lawyers as many and as minent as those composing the adjourned meeting, by which Mr S. was brought forward—who support him out

r Mr Meredith, because many and as eminent as absenced and lawyers as many and as eminent as absenced mose composing the adjourned meeting, by which Ir S. was brought forward—who support him not preference, but because they from any personal preference, but because they think him (Mr Meredith) better qualified for the office than Mr Stanard.

A VOTER.

Col. John A. Meredith .- Informati from all parts of the city affords the most satisfi tory assurance of the trium plant election of ti gentleman as Judge of the Circuit Court of Ric mond. The enlightened citizens of Richmond, be-lieving themselves entirely competent to select their own Judge, have determined to take the matter in-to into their own hands, regardless of the efforts of a vern's MALL MINORITY of the "Richmond bar" to confer upon another that important office. We caution the friends of Col. M., however, while they rely upon their strength, to remember that it is no. The enlightened citizens of Ric y upon their strength, to remember that it is po-t only at the polls. Let them all, therefore, ne to the polls, and give him an overwhelming ajority. If, in addition to their own convictions of the em inent qualifications of Col. Meredith for the office, the voters of Richmond desire the confirmatory iony of the legal profession, they have or refer to many of the oloest and most distinguished lawyers of the city, who will vote for Col. M. in preference to Mr. Stanard. my 26—1t*

PRESERVE YOUR HEALTH. Now is the time for Cholera Morbus, Dyapepsia, Bowel Complaints of various kinds, Dyaentery and Bilious Fever. Persons subject to either, or all of these complaints, need not fear their attacks if they will but use a few bottles of Baker's Celebrated Premium Bitters, the best tonic and alterative that the skill and science of man ever yet invented. These BITTERS are purely vegetable in their composition and entirely free from all those poisonous and nauseating substances that create a languor and nauseousness of the stomach when taken; but having an opposite effect, they exhilerate the system, sharpen the appetite, expel improper secretions, create a healthful circulation of the blood, and produce such a flow of spirits as of itself tends greatly to relieve from indigestion and bil-

LOOK TO YOUR INTEREST, ONE
AND ALL.—Having been educated with special reference to my profession as an Architect and Civil Engineer, I would respectfully cail the attention of the citizens of Richmond and the community adjacent, to the following:—Designs will be furnished for any class of Buildings, puo ic and private, for town and county, in every style of Architecture, to suit the amount desired be expended on their erection and completion, and when comchitecture, to suit the amount desired be expended on their erection and completion, and when com-pleted they will not exceed the amount of the esti-mate. Designs or Drawings will be made for builders. Every style of ornament and all details furnished for a design full size. Designs for Ma-chine y, Drawings for Patterus, and Designs for furnished for a design full size. Designs for Machine y, Drawings for Patteras, and Designs for every purpose whatever. My many year's experience and close application to my profession, enables me to render my services on very moderate terms to all. When I superintend a Design or Building, i charge nothing for the Designs and the great number of drawings made for a building, increase in the course of its erection, but only charge a small percentage for the superintendance. I will make accurate specifications, estimates, contracts, and agreements for the same Estimates made of any part of the work, and the amount of the quantity of any of the material. Persons may rest assured that they will save themselves much money, and releve themselves of every part of trouble in building, and pay no more for their edifice when it is completed, than what the estimate calls for. Being practical and versed in all the prices of work and materials, &c, in this city, and calls for. Being practical and versed in all the prices of work and materials, &c, in this city, and possessed of every facility, I am confident of pleasing all who may lavor me with their patronage.— Few are aware of the great advantage there is in having an Artist superintending their Buildings.— Gentlemen are especially invited to visit my office, two doors from Main, on 12th stre-t, nearly opposite the Richmond Times office. Faxmentis, incendium gloria.
