

The Wealth and Power offered by Secession. The resources of wealth and power possessed by the slaveholding States are greater than can be paralleled on the globe.

But the great source of prosperity to a country are its export values. The exports of the United States in the year ending on the 30th of June last, had risen to the enormous figure of $400,122,260.

Now, it was the slaveholding States of the Union which furnished the whole exportation. Two-thirds of the value was made up of the exclusive products of the South.

But for the quantities of breadstuffs and provisions, says Mr. KETTEL, "which were sent North from the South to feed New England, little or no Western produce could be spared for Europe, even at high prices."

The withdrawal of the slaveholding States from the Union at once strikes down its whole system of Federal revenue; and emphatically in regard to the Government of the United States, in the case of the Federal Government.

The Convention. The resolutions adopted by the people of Charlotte were presented on Saturday, by Mr. BOULDER. Two petitions for the Ordinance of Secession, from the people of North Carolina, were presented by Mr. CHAMBERS. It was afterwards stated by Mr. HOLLIBAY that the signers of the petitions constituted but a small minority of the voters of the county.

In Committee of the Whole, various amendments were offered to the 9th resolution of the report, and rejected, after which the resolution was adopted without essential alteration. The Committee then referred back to the 8th resolution, which recognizes the right of secession for just cause.

Col. Jones, of Danville, Va., delivered a speech of considerable length on the subject of the proposed railroad, exhibiting facts in railroad statistics instructive and truly encouraging to the friends of the project.

It was resolved that the Commissioners appointed by the State to open books for stock immediately, and that said Commissioners report progress at a meeting to be held at Yanceyville on Wednesday of Caswell Superior Court, (8th day of May next).
