

Richmond Dispatch.
THE CIRCULATION OF THE DISPATCH IS LARGER THAN THE COMBINED CIRCULATION OF ALL THE OTHER DAILY NEWSPAPERS OF THE CITY.
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1874.

THE WEATHER TO-DAY.—From our reports this morning the probabilities are that the weather to-day will be cold and clear.

LOCAL MATTERS.

THE BURGESS-HART DIFFICULTY.—Mr. Burgess appeared before the Police Jury this morning to answer the charge of assaulting and threatening to injure Major Patrick Hart on Sunday afternoon last. Both parties made statements substantially the same as to the facts, but differing in some respects as to details. Major Hart was conversing with Mr. John Burgess in a Main street saloon, and remarked that he had not voted the ticket since the late Presidential election. Burgess said "yes and you have voted the Democratic ticket since the war, too." Major Hart then told him that he had been indicted for a libel and a perjury. Burgess then said he had been indicted for perjury, but that a nolle prosequi had been entered on his case, and further, he expressed a hope that Burgess was a liar.

The Justice told Hart that he felt tempted to give him a flogging for contempt of court in insulting the witnesses.

The Justice fined Burgess $250. Hart appealed from that decision, but the Justice informed him that he would be sent to jail if he did not behave himself more properly; and that there the case ended.

PROBABLY PARALYZED.—Yesterday morning a lady dressed in black was picked up near the corner of Fourteenth and Main streets in an insensible condition. She was taken to the Second police station-house and made as comfortable as possible. She finally recovered her consciousness, but seemed to be paralyzed, her articulation being very indistinct. Her name is Whitlock, and for some time has been living on First street between Marshall and Clay streets. She was found by Mrs. George D. White, and taken to J. Whitcomb, Fifteenth street, and Mrs. Whitlock.

THE CONVERSATIVE CITY CENTRAL COMMITTEE will meet this evening.

BARBERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKING AT THE BARBERS PARK.—On Friday there will be a barbers at the James River Brewery Park, under the auspices of the German Revue Club of this city. Arrangements have been made to accommodate a thousand persons, speaking will be in German and English. Governor G. C. Walker, Major Don P. Hayes, Louis Wagner, William Loveston, G. A. Peck, General Bradley T. Johnson, Dr. A. B. Meloy, W. B. Berry, and John W. B. Berry, and George T. Turner have promised to be present.

BARBERS IN CAROLINE COUNTY.—At the barbers at Beedy church, Caroline county, to-morrow, Governor G. C. Walker, W. W. Berry, George T. Turner, Colonel Chastain White, and E. C. Cabell will speak.

ARRIVAL OF THE "LITTLE SISTERS OF THE SACRAMENT."—A little band of six ladies, members of that charitable Order known as the "Little Sisters of the Sacrament," arrived in Richmond yesterday on the 1:30 P. M. train from the North, and at once took possession of their new home, corner of Ninth and Marshall streets, where they will in a short time commence to discharge the onerous duties incumbent upon all members of their Order—that is, the care of indigent aged persons. They will be able to receive applications on Monday, the 25th instant, a discharge will be delivered at the cathedral on the origin and sin of the Little Sisters of the Poor, when we shall endeavor to give a more extended notice of the operations of the Order.

Two of the Sisters who arrived yesterday will remain long enough to establish the Sisters of the Sacred Heart in the Province of this province; the other is the Mother Superior of their house in New York. Two more Sisters will arrive to-day to remain permanently.

CAUSE OF DEATH.

Brain disease	1	Fever typhoid	1
Cancer	1	Fever typho-malarial	1
Cholera infantum	1	Infantile lock	1
Consumption	1	Marasmus	1
Convulsions	1	Old age	1
Diphtheria	1	Pneumonia	1
Diarrhea chronic	1	Pneumonia	1
Diarrhea acute	1	Pneumonia	1
Dropsy	1	Tuberculosis	1
Fever, chills	1	Unknown	1
Fever, congestive	1	Unknown	1
Total	18	Unknown	1

White males	18	Colored males	19
White females	10	Colored females	13
1 day to 30	4	30 years to 40	4
1 year to 5	2	40 years to 50	2
5 years to 10	1	50 years to 60	1
10 years to 15	1	60 years to 70	1
15 years to 20	1	70 years to 80	1
20 years to 30	1	80 years to 90	1

Single	25	Widows	4
Married	2	Orphan	1
United States	37	Germany	2
Localities
Jefferson Ward	9	Clay Ward	4
Madison Ward	3	Albion	2
Monroe Ward	1

COMPARATIVE WEEKLY MORTALITY.

Oct. 12, 1874	13	Oct. 11, 1874	12
Oct. 11, 1874	14	Oct. 10, 1874	12
Oct. 10, 1874	13	Oct. 9, 1874	12
Oct. 9, 1874	12	Oct. 8, 1874	12
Oct. 8, 1874	13	Oct. 7, 1874	12
Oct. 7, 1874	12	Oct. 6, 1874	12
Oct. 6, 1874	12	Oct. 5, 1874	12
Oct. 5, 1874	12	Oct. 4, 1874	12
Oct. 4, 1874	12	Oct. 3, 1874	12
Oct. 3, 1874	12	Oct. 2, 1874	12
Oct. 2, 1874	12	Oct. 1, 1874	12

HYACINTHS AND WINTER-BLOOMING PLANTS.—The hyacinth is perhaps the most popular and most universally cultivated of all the bulbous flowers. In the garden, as in the green-house or the parlor-window, it gives general satisfaction. It is of the easiest culture, perfectly hardy, has delicacy and variety of foliage and delicious perfume. No wonder, then, at its great popularity.

For winter-blooming, it is not well to commence too soon when they are to be started in glasses; for the beginning of October is the best time. Fill the glasses with water (rain-water, because it is softest, is best), place in the bulbs so that the base of each barely touches the water, and put them in a dark, dry place to start. When the roots are about two or three inches long they may be brought to the light, but must not be too suddenly exposed. As the foliage and trusses advance, give all the air possible, otherwise they will be drawn up and weak. The glasses should be kept filled with water, and should be turned frequently to prevent ill-shaped plants. The water should be changed every eight or ten days.

Last winter the writer of this had some in his window, which were very much admired for beauty and the deliciously delicate perfume which they emitted. They were put in small pots filled with sand, and covered with moss. The pots were put into a dark, dry closet, and allowed to remain a few weeks, until the bulbs were well rooted. The plants were then removed from the water and put into glasses, and after a few days of slight exposure to the light were placed in the window. The roots were strong and vigorous and the foliage slight, but the flower-stalks and bells were remarkably strong and healthy. The same general rules as described above for the hyacinth, however well as in the case of the many bulbs which are used for winter-blooming, and will, if other circumstances are favorable, insure a pleasant return for whatever labor and care is bestowed upon them.

All plants in windows should have fresh air. This should be given them when the middle of the day is warm, as frequently happens in the winter season. A door left open for awhile, even if a brisk fire is required for comfort, will answer the purpose during a protracted spell of cold weather. All this, however, will readily occur to any one who has charge of flowers, or who takes pleasure in watching their growth and development. A very little time each day is all that is necessary for their culture, and a sufficient recompense for all the labor bestowed on them will be found in seeing how well they repay care and attention. Many persons kill their flowers by too much kindness, however well as in the case of the many bulbs which are used for winter-blooming, and will, if other circumstances are favorable, insure a pleasant return for whatever labor and care is bestowed upon them.

SALES OF REAL ESTATE.—Chaffin, Staples & Co. report the sale of 1,367 acres of land in Powhatan county, for $1,100,000. This tract is known as the Mill Quarry, formerly the estate of the late Military Harris. Also, 238 acres in Charles City county, to Mr. T. M. Folks, for $700, formerly the property of J. D. Turner.

RICHMOND DIVINES IN NEW YORK.—Rev. Bishop Whittle on Sunday last delivered a fine sermon at the church of the Holy Trinity in New York. The opening services were conducted by Rev. S. H. Tyng, Jr., D. D., assisted by Rev. Theodore Irving, D. D., and Rev. E. H. Kettell. The Bishop's text was the first twelve verses of Psalm 139. On the same day Rev. Dr. J. M. Curry, preacher of the sermon at the dedication of the Mary-avenue Baptist church, Brooklyn. He was assisted in the services by Rev. Reuben Jeffrey, D. D., and his text was from Acts ii, 47. He demonstrated that the Church was a necessity, and that it was divinely instituted by God for the better government of the world, and the promotion of the Christian doctrine. His effort was pronounced a very successful one.

DEATH OF A CATHOLIC BISHOP.—A telegram was received yesterday by Right Rev. Bishop Gibbons announcing the death of Right Rev. Frances P. McFarland, bishop of Hartford, Ct., who died Monday evening. Owing to diocesan engagements Bishop Gibbons will be unable to attend the funeral ceremonies of the deceased prelate, which will take place to-morrow.

DEATH OF MR. GEORGE O. ENNIS.—Mr. George O. Ennis, of Richmond, died in Philadelphia on Monday night. He was a member of Old Dominion Lodge, No. 4, K. P., and well known here. He will be buried in Philadelphia.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.—In the United States Circuit Court yesterday, Judge Hughes presiding, William Wells, indicted for violation of the internal revenue laws, was tried, found guilty, and sentenced to pay a fine of $50.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.—Judge Robert W. Hughes presiding.—The following orders were entered in this court on yesterday:

In the matter of J. H. W. Smith, bankrupt. The judgment of the Hon. Judge Patterson & Co., constituting the only lien upon the fund collected by the assignee, having been fully paid, the assignee was directed to pay to the bankrupt the balance remaining in his hands, amounting to $573.36, as an exemption.

In the matter of W. T. Luckado & Co., bankrupt. The assignee's account having been audited and allowed he was discharged by the court.

In the matter of D. C. Mayo, bankrupt. The bankrupt was allowed to substitute himself for George D. W. Clinton as purchaser of the machinery and tools in the Mayo bankruptcy. The court also allowed the bankrupt to create of this cause $2,700, and giving bond with security to be approved by the assignee for the balance of $12,000.

CHANCERY COURT OF RICHMOND, TUESDAY.—Judge W. H. Hughes.—The following cases were disposed of:

Watkins, etc., vs. Irvine's guardian, &c. Decree making final distribution of the fund in the cause.

Young, etc., vs. Young, &c. Decree on petition for relief from a partial distribution of the fund and investment of the residue.

Myers's guardian vs. Call, &c. Decree confirming report of special commissioner as to distribution and investment of the fund on hand.

Mutual Insurance Company vs. Wren, &c. Decree against garnishee for amount in his hands, and against defendants, Wren, &c., for residue of plaintiff's demand.

Clendinning's executor vs. Hoyer & Ludwig, &c. Decree confirming report of sale and making disposition of the fund on hand.

Hill's administrator vs. Cobb, &c. Decree confirming report of special commissioner and distribution of the fund on hand.

LIBRARY.—Should not delay an hour to become share holders in the grandest enterprise ever offered to the public in this or any other country. For tickets or information, apply to A. P. L'ECUYER, 909 Bank street, Richmond, Va.

TRANSFER PRINTING INKS.—We invite attention to the beautiful and useful TRANSFER INKS that we are now using. They are of recent invention, but are already extensively used by railroad and steamboat companies, banks, merchants, and others. The ink that we are now furnishing is of a quality that can be copied any length of time after being printed. Will copy in ordinary letter-press book.

AUCTION SALES THIS DAY.

MOODY & ROYALL, 4 P. M., eight building lots in Manchester, on Third, Fifth, and Tenth streets.

PAINE, CABELL & CO., 10 A. M., second fall sale of dry goods, boots, shoes, clothing, &c.

ISABEL & SON, 4 P. M., vacant lots on the east side of Fifth Street, next to the city.

LYNE & BROTHER, 5 P. M., lot with framed cottage thereon on the north side of Perry between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, Manchester.

BURTON & CARTER, 10 A. M., household and kitchen furniture.

COOK & LAUGHTON, 10 A. M., special sale of diamonds set in eighteen-karat gold rings, pair of watches, &c.; 500 gold and silver watches, &c.

GRUBBS & WILLIAMS, 4 P. M., two building lots at the southeast intersection of Cary and Ritchie streets.

W. GODDIN, 4 P. M., five lots near to Eaker's Park, southwest corner of Leigh and Harrison streets.

FOR RENT, HOUSE next to corner of Third and Marshall, No. 212. Apply to J. H. GODDIN, 1113 Main street.

FOR RENT, A DESIRABLE SECOND FLOOR, containing two large rooms and a hall room; also, a stable. No. 316 Franklin street.

FOR RENT, VALUABLE FARM OF FORTY-SEVEN ACRES, one mile north of the city of Richmond, with a two-story dwelling and the usual out-houses, in good repair. Possession given at last January. RICHARDSON & CO., 1113 Main street.

FOR RENT, A NEW THREE-STORY BRICK DWELLING, elegant, stylish and convenient, well situated on Grace street, next to the corner of Shuter street. RICHARDSON & CO., 1113 Main street.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Late Weather Report.
Washington, October 14—1 A. M.—For the Middle States and New England, northwest to northeast winds, high barometer, cold and generally clear weather.

Washington, October 12—7 P. M.—For the Lower States, thence to Tennessee, northerly winds, slowly diminishing pressure, but cool and partly cloudy weather with frequent frosts.

For the Gulf and South Atlantic States, rising barometer, northwesterly winds, partly cloudy and clear weather—warmer in the former, and cooler in the latter section.

For the Middle and Eastern States, high barometer, northwest to northeast winds, very cool and partly cloudy weather.

A Discussion between Messrs. Goode and Platt.—Fire.
Portsmouth, Va., October 13.—About three thousand people listened for over three hours to the joint discussion of Hon. John Goode and the Hon. James H. Platt, congressional candidates, to-day. Work in the navy-yard was suspended on account of it, and only a slight disturbance occurred.

Jarratt's depot, on the Petersburg and Weldon railroad, was destroyed by fire to-day.

Virginia Medical Society.
Special telegram to the Dispatch.
AENON, Va., October 13.—The fifth annual meeting of the Virginia Medical Society began here to-day. Drs. A. G. Tebault, of Princess Anne county, president; S. G. Graves and O. B. Jenks, vice-presidents; L. B. Edwards, recording secretary and treasurer; F. D. Cunningham, corresponding secretary. Dr. R. L. Payne, vice-president of the North Carolina Medical Society, was introduced as the visiting representative of that Society. The Society then adjourned until 7:30 o'clock P. M., when an address of welcome on behalf of the Town Council and citizens of Abingdon was delivered by ex-Governor Wyndham Robertson, and a similar address on behalf of the Abingdon Academy of Medicine by Dr. E. M. Campbell. Letters were read from R. W. Jones, president of Martha Washington College, and T. D. Davidson, president of Jackson Female Institute, extending the privileges of their respective colleges and visitors to the members of the Society and the profession was delivered by Dr. M. P. Christian, of Lynchburg. All the addresses were appropriate and heartily applauded. The session will continue for three days.

On Thursday evening a grand banquet tendered by the Abingdon Academy of Medicine will be given at the Washington House.

Loudoun Fair.
Special telegram to the Dispatch.
LEESBURG, Va., October 13.—The management are much pleased with the result of this, the opening day of the Loudoun Fair. In the afternoon a large number of persons visited the grounds to witness the races, which were announced for 2 o'clock. In the first, a racking race, there were three entries—black horse by William Cox, gray horse by S. Ferguson, and bay mare by James Swarts. Cox's horse won after a very exciting race. In the second race—trotting, best two in three, for horses of Loudoun county—C. B. Wildman's sorrel horse Temple came out winner in two straight heats. The contest was with Major Noland's sorrel horse Johnny.

The programme for to-morrow is very interesting, and a large crowd is expected.

A Question of State Rights.
CHICAGO, October 13.—Some weeks since Governor W. Smith was kidnaped from Moxie county, Illinois, and taken to Tennessee, where it is alleged he is under indictment for murder. The attention of Governor Beveridge was called to the matter, and he demanded from Governor Brown, of Tennessee, a return of Smith to Illinois, or delivery to the State authorities.

Governor Brown has at last replied to the demand. He reviews the facts in the case, admits that the Tennessee officials were without warrant of law, but that the return of Smith to Illinois is not a matter of State rights, and that there was no intentional disrespect shown to the authorities of this State. Governor Beveridge will find it compatible with his sense of duty to let the matter rest as it now stands. This Governor Beveridge is not willing to do, but, on the contrary, renews his demand for the return of Smith and for the arrest and delivery to the State authorities of the alleged kidnappers, B. K. Ward and M. L. Williams. Governor Brown has at last replied to the demand. He reviews the facts in the case, admits that the Tennessee officials were without warrant of law, but that the return of Smith to Illinois is not a matter of State rights, and that there was no intentional disrespect shown to the authorities of this State. Governor Beveridge will find it compatible with his sense of duty to let the matter rest as it now stands. This Governor Beveridge is not willing to do, but, on the contrary, renews his demand for the return of Smith and for the arrest and delivery to the State authorities of the alleged kidnappers, B. K. Ward and M. L. Williams. Governor Brown has at last replied to the demand. He reviews the facts in the case, admits that the Tennessee officials were without warrant of law, but that the return of Smith to Illinois is not a matter of State rights, and that there was no intentional disrespect shown to the authorities of this State. Governor Beveridge will find it compatible with his sense of duty to let the matter rest as it now stands. This Governor Beveridge is not willing to do, but, on the contrary, renews his demand for the return of Smith and for the arrest and delivery to the State authorities of the alleged kidnappers, B. K. Ward and M. L. Williams.

The Episcopal General Convention.
New York, October 13.—The Episcopal General Convention was occupied to-day with speeches, and the introduction and reference of resolutions.

A message was received from the House of Bishops stating that the presiding bishop had appointed as a joint committee to nominate a board of missions the bishops of Nebraska, Central New York, and New Hampshire.

CONVENTION OF DELEGATES FROM THE RECONSTRUCTED STATES.

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION EFFECTED.

PROMINENT NORTHERN REPUBLICANS SECURED.

CHATTANOOGA, October 13.—A Convention of delegates from the reconstructed States met at James's Hall to-day, and was called to order by Senator Clayton, of Arkansas, who nominated for temporary chairman Hon. William Markham, of Georgia. Mr. Markham said it was the most important Convention that ever assembled in the reconstructed States, and thanked the Convention for the honor done him. H. S. Chamberlain (white), of Tennessee, and J. H. Emerson (colored), of Arkansas, were chosen temporary secretaries.

A committee on each State on credentials was appointed as follows: Arkansas, Henry M. Cooper; Alabama, J. H. Speed; Georgia, G. C. Wade; Florida, George E. Wentworth; Mississippi, William Gray; Virginia, L. M. Shoemaker; Texas, B. J. Baldwin; Louisiana, H. E. Myers; Tennessee, J. C. Naylor. North and South Carolina are not represented.

The Committee on Credentials reported a list of delegates appointed. South Carolina is not represented. Florida has one delegate; Virginia only two.

A committee of three from each State was appointed on Permanent Organization. Mr. Brown, of Mississippi, stated as a reason for three that it was in order to promote harmony and reconcile differences among the delegates.

The roll of states was called and the following names suggested for the Committee on Permanent Organization: Alabama, George E. Spence; B. F. Jennings, and R. F. Smith; Arkansas, A. A. C. Rogers, John N. Sarber, and John Wylock; Georgia, Elbert Head, John A. Woody, and Joel Griffin; Florida, George E. Wentworth; Mississippi, William A. Compton, E. K. Rogers, Spencer B. F. Jennings, and George W. Hane; and Richard Allen, Louisiana, P. B. S. Pincuback, John Ray, and T. T. Merry; Virginia, L. M. Shoemaker and James F. Wilson; Tennessee, W. H. Stellwell, W. H. Bryant, and J. Fisher.

The Convention adjourned at 1:30 P. M. to 4 P. M.

After re-assembling, the following letter will be read to the Convention from the Republican Congressional Executive Committee:

October 13, 1874.
To the Convention, delegate to the Chattanooga Convention.

Sir—Considerate men who have given the subject attention regard the movement for a convention of southern Republicans as of very great importance to the section of country to be represented. They believe that if calm and considerate counsel prevail, and the delegates come together possessed of facts bearing upon the condition of the southern communities, and lay them before the country in authentic and concise form, an impression will be made which may favorably affect the judgment of the well-disposed in every section. At this juncture, the record of the Convention and honestly made up, showing all the hindrances to material, moral, and intellectual progress with which the Republicans have had to contend; what progress has been made, and whether in the States and sections where Democracy has continued any of the greater interests are determined more; and which, if any, have been depressed; also, whether persons or property have been more or less secure, and the reasons therefor. Whichever the fact may be, outrages of all classes should be carefully reported, whether in crime, or in extending the record of intimidation, the spirit and purpose of the action of the legislative, judicial, and executive departments should be reviewed; and, in fact, that tend to disorder, lawlessness, or oppression, may well be considered. Upon the whole, the record thus honestly and fairly made up, the permanent organization of a American Republic may be safely looked to the sincere and thoughtful statesmen who will assemble on this occasion. These suggestions are believed to be entirely unnecessary, but lest some should deem them unwarranted, I state that they are not intended to create dissension, and with the simple hope that they may to some extent aid in securing careful preparation for the work of the Convention and a full attendance upon its sittings. (Signed) J. M. EDMUNDS, Secretary.

APPROXIMATE RESOLUTION.
The Convention re-assembled at 4 P. M., when the committee reported the following permanent officers of the Convention: President, Hon. Lewis E. Parsons, of Alabama. Vice-Presidents, Hon. J. M. Edwards, of Louisiana; John N. Sarber, of Arkansas; Francis H. Little, of Mississippi; David Woodruff, of Alabama; Jefferson Long, of Georgia; T. W. Osborne, of Florida; J. P. Wilder, of Tennessee; L. M. Shoemaker, of Virginia. Secretaries, George W. Thatcher, of Texas; L. W. Sewell, of Mississippi; J. A. Emerson, of Arkansas. The report was unanimously adopted.

Governor Davis, of Texas, and A. A. C. Rogers, of Arkansas, escorted Governor Parsons to the chair. On taking the chair Governor Parsons said that the causes which had brought us together were painful to the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased; more than six years had passed since the States were reconstructed upon the principles of liberty to all. It had been the heart of every citizen of Texas, and that he, but were by no means new to the members of the Convention. More than ten years had passed since the clash of arms had ceased;