The Keely Motor. EXAMINING THE MACHINERY—EXPERIMENTS MADE BY THE INVENTOR—THE MULTIPLIER AND ITS OPERATIONS.

Last evening I formed one of a party of gentlemen for whom a special exhibition of the Keely motor had been arranged.

The inventor, Mr. Keely, was present, and explained the machinery and viewed the experiments which Mr. Keely kindly made for us.

These experiments I propose to describe, because they are very astonishing to me, and I think will be interesting to my readers.

First, the inventor explained to me the principle of the Keely motor, and how it was constructed.

It is a small machine, weighing about twenty-five pounds, and is used solely for the manufacture of what he calls the "vapor."

This vapor, when thus made, is passed off into a large vessel, and from thence conveyed as power.

Of course the general interest was centered on this multiplier. When everything is ready for the making of vapor a short lever is lifted with a rapid motion.

Planned Knights.

THEY WILL ASSEMBLE IN LARGE NUMBERS AT CLEVELAND NEXT WEEK.

CLEVELAND, O., August 21.—Already the outward signs of preparation have commenced, and the holiday garments which our city is to wear during the week of the annual convocation, and the grand encampment of Knights Templar are being got in readiness for the festive occasion.

Workmen are busy in the erection of the arch on Superior street, near the post-office. Ladies and gentlemen are busy at the headquarters of the Oriental commandery twirling evergreens into fanciful devices for the ornamentation of the arch and the other structures to be devoted to the occasion.

Artists are employed in painting banners and transparencies for the Weddell and Kennard houses, the establishment of Mr. Richards on the corner of the auditor and Euclid-avenue blocks. A corps of mechanics and decorators from Cincinnati have been at work for the past week fitting up Baker's block and hall for the reception of the commandery and the Duke and Duke.

The Water-street merchants have set on foot the project of erecting an arch at the head of Water street. The demand for flags, designs, and banners never so great. One firm has taken orders for over ten thousand flags, manufacturers are generally in a hurry to pay their orders seem to be still on the increase.

On Saturday of this week the Knights will begin to arrive, and by Monday next the whole Ohio representation, consisting of delegations from every commandery in the State, will be in the city.

Each of these bodies will assist the home commandery. The arrivals will continue throughout the day by boat and rail. The formal exercises will commence on Monday evening, under the auspices of the reception committee, of which Sir Knight Rufus P. Spalding is the chairman.

The after-noon portion of the program will be given by the Knights of the American Legion, who will give a concert in the evening at 8 o'clock. The Cleveland Masons have raised $10,000 to be expended upon the visiting Knights Templar.

The day after tomorrow an exhibition of the Keely motor will be given at the headquarters of the Oriental commandery as a prize to the best-dressed company at the approaching convocation. A number of valuable and handsome jewels are also on exhibition, designed as prizes.

Special to Chicago Times.

THE NEW YORK JOURNAL OF COMMERCE, in commenting upon the action of the late Virginia Conservative Convention in regard to the State debt, says that while the work of the convention was highly commendable it was not all that might have been expected from the ideal Virginia of the world's past respect and confidence.

It might have expected a declaration by that Convention of a determination upon the part of the people of the foremost State of the American Union to pay their debt in its indebtedness. That is, that the past glorious history of the State—the loftiness and purity of character which marked her people of the past—might have reasonably led the outside world to expect that the State would not only pay its debt, but would do so in a way that would be a credit to the State.

LOCAL MATTERS.

FUNERAL OF SAMUEL W. McDONALD, WHO KILLED BERRY AMOS.

—Mention has already been made of the death of S. W. McDonald, who killed Berry Amos (formerly of Richmond) in Baltimore in 1874. McDonald's funeral was held in Baltimore on Thursday last, in charge of Mr. John E. Lamb, prosecuting attorney of Terre Haute. The body was embalmed by Dr. Williams, the attending physician of the deceased, and Mr. Lamb started with day morning. Upon their arrival in the depot they were received by Dr. J. Hanson Thomas, a relative of the deceased, and then delivered to the undertaker. They were then conveyed to Greenmount Cemetery and placed in the vault on Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The hour set apart for the funeral, containing the immediate relatives of the deceased and Rev. Dr. Leeds, the officiating minister, left the residence of Dr. Thomas, corner of Greenmount Cemetery, and their families. It is stated that about one year ago McDonald destroyed a will which he had made a short time previously. The real estate left by the deceased consisted of a house and lot in Terre Haute, valued at $15,000; two hundred acres in the State of Virginia, and a lot in the city of Baltimore valued at about $10,000, and a fine stock of horses. An old colored man, who had for years been a servant in the McDonald family, was with the deceased when he died. The certificate of death gives as the cause of McDonald's death "paralysis consequent on contracted by excessive use of stimulants."

Jones and O. B. Merritt; Second Ward—H. H. Jordan, Third Ward—Dr. A. Monteiro and B. B. Weisger, Fourth Ward—Joseph Davidson and Henry Ferguson. The candidates and friends will leave this morning early in hacks and buggies.

THE JAIL.—The last time we published the number of prisoners in the city jail it was twenty-one—the largest number that had ever been locked within that stately edifice. Now there are only thirteen prisoners in the jail. The whole number has been reduced to these, five work in the chain-gang—two colored and three white. The other criminals, with the exception of two lunatics, are awaiting trial before the Illustrious Court.

In a few cases where this advice frequently becomes the number of "drinks," and in time become confirmed habit. A beverage which will not create thirst for intoxicating liquors, and which is intended especially for the benefit of debilitated persons, whether at home or abroad, is Dr. SCIENCE'S SEA-WEED TONIC, containing the juices of many medicinal herbs. This preparation does not create an appetite for the intoxicating cup. Can you say whether a single bottle of Sea-Weed Tonic taken after meals will strengthen the stomach and create an appetite for wholesome food? To all who are about leaving their homes we desire to say that the excellent effects of Dr. SCIENCE'S SEA-WEED TONIC and MAN-SENIOR PILLS, are particularly evident when taken by those who are infrequently affected by a change of water and diet.
