How to Make the Fair a Success.

Our State Fairs are not what they used to be years ago. Their visitors at nights literally had not where to lay their heads. Hotels were overflowing; the capacity of the private houses were severely taxed, and sofas, chairs, and extra beds were purchased as sleeping-instruments. The days were scenes of noise, hurry, bustle, business, and enjoyment. The streets were full of jostling women and jostled men. The stores were as beehives in swarming time. The great question was, "Will the markets be equal to the demand?" These things are not so now; but they are surely and gradually growing worse, and the fear is stealing over many that the Fair will have to be suspended. How can the Fair be made a grand, a grand, a full-grown success? The crowd must come from the country, but the city must do its part. There must be a co-operation of town and country; there must be a long pull, a strong pull, a pull altogether.

Hardly any man visits the Fair solely for the Fair's sake. Perhaps all have a secondary motive. Before the war our farmers would return home from these annual gatherings with their inter's supply of hats, blankets, &c., for their families and neighbors, and with the little pockets loaded with goodies for the little expectants. True, purchases on so large a scale are no more made; still, a great deal is done, and yet more may be done in this line. I repeat, the visitors to the Fair now make heavy purchases, and this in the face of the opinion among the country people that the Richmond merchants always put up the prices of their goods during Fair times. Several years ago I returned from the Fair with a hat and shoes, and upon comparison found that the same articles could have been bought at a reduced price near at hand, and that, too, after these articles had travelled thirty miles by rail, crossed a river, and been wagoned ten miles. Shall this practice be allowed to continue? Will the State authorities to copy the pictures of Lords Dunmore and Ethingham to be placed in the State Library along with other colonial governors, has completed that work and forwarded the pictures, together with one of Lord Delaware. They will reach the city in a few days.

Dr. Moffitt, the inventor, left the city yesterday morning. Rev. Dr. M. D. Hoge has returned to the city after an extensive tour of Europe. He is looking much refreshed. Doucette has brought back a rich freight of observation. Between the 1st and 10th of November the models for the equestrian statue of Lee will be exhibited in the Senate chamber, and a small admission-fee for the benefit of the monument fund will be collected. There are quite a number of candidates for the Legislature quietly at work. The Liquor-Dealers' Association mean to interrogate them all as to their position on the Moffitt liquor-law.

Dr. F. Preston Wellford (cousin of Dr. J. B. Wellford) died of yellow fever at Fernandina, Fla., on Wednesday.

Three or four enterprising parties are getting out Fair-programmes, guides, &c., intending, if possible, to get them ready before the Fair opens, and to distribute them to the people. There was a day or two ago a lively discussion between two citizens near the corner of Eleventh and Bank streets on the question of paying the public debt. It turned out, upon due examination, that the respondent paid in taxes $1.50; the other, $500.

There ought to be a full meeting of the City Conservative Committee to-night. A plan for the primary election is to be selected, and the more members present the more likely it is that satisfaction will be secured.

The Richmond Knights Templar returned from Lynchburg yesterday morning. They had a fine time and enjoyed both the parade and banquet.

Hirschberg has been adjudged a bankrupt. The Liquor-Dealers' Association will meet this afternoon for the purpose, as understood, of taking action looking to voting for candidates for the House of Delegates.

The cures of the city amuse themselves chasing the Capitol-Square squirrels. Mrs. Hoenniger, of the St. James Hotel, received a telegram yesterday from Charles H. Cooke, in Columbus, Miss., announcing the death of her son, Charles H. Cooke, Jr., who was killed in the late war. The request was complied with, but Mr. Gibson said he did not know such a person.

Mr. Charles Runk, of the firm of Runk & Huger, New York, in the city, and stopping at the Hotel de France, was exchanged yesterday between R. L. Garnett, Cumberland; W. F. Venable, Petersburg; C. D. Langhorne, F. T. Staples, A. Dibrell, Danville; W. R. Smart, Baltimore; T. R. Wyles, Prince Edward; R. R. Cargier, Frazier; E. Winfree, Clover Hill; George A. T. Hawthorne, Texas, and C. Robinson, New York.

MARRIAGE OF A PROMINENT CITY OFFICIAL.—The Grace-Street Presbyterian church, corner Grace and Fourth streets, was densely crowded last evening by a fashionable audience to witness the very interesting ceremony of the marriage of the popular Commissioner of the Revenue, Robert B. Munford, to Miss Mary, daughter of the late James Gray, of this city. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Read. In the audience were many of our most prominent citizens, and near the chancel sat a large number of the groom's brother officials, who attended in a body, including his Honor Judge A. B. Garzon. The beautiful services at the church being concluded, the bride and party were entertained at the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. Ben. C. Gray, and then left on the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad for a tour of some of the northern cities and Niagara.

ACCIDENT AT THE HIGH-SCHOOL.—Charles Knotts, one of the boys at the High-School, while swinging yesterday, fell and injured himself about the back of his head and neck.

THE WORKINGMEN.

Permanent Organization Elected Last Night.

DETERMINATION TO PUT A TICKET IN THE FIELD—THE MEMBERS OF THE WORKINGMEN'S ASSOCIATION NOT TO PARTICIPATE IN THE PRIMARY—SOME VIEWS AS TO REPUTATION.

A meeting of the Workingmen's Association was held at Harmony Hall, on Broad between Sixth and Seventh streets, last night. There were present by count about seventy, representing most of the trades of the city. There was devoted attention to the proceedings on the part of all, though there was an expression of opinion otherwise than by voting only from a few. The organization heretofore existing was understood to be only temporary in its character, and last night the following permanent officers were chosen, the others resigning.

W. H. Benson, president; M. P. Joyce, vice-president; J. W. Gilham, treasurer; C. H. Martin, secretary; W. J. Lacy sergeant-at-arms.

There are twelve organizers also, two from each ward and those with the officers constitute a board of directors. The organizers are as follows:

Clay Ward—James Howie and W. J. Taylor. Monroe Ward—J. W. Gilham and J. E. Tyler. Jefferson Ward—Henry Thion and William E. Cree. Madison Ward—W. O. Wesson and J. Roundtree.

Marshall Ward—D. W. Alley and John A. Thomas. Jackson Ward—A. W. Pierce and M. P. Joyce.

The President read a communication, signed "Old Citizen," expressing the hope that the organization would be a good government in this city, and as an instance of the writer's interest in its success enclosing $10. The President stated that he had an idea who the donor was, but did not think it proper to take the name of the donor. It was the unanimous thanks of the Association were tendered "Old Citizen."

It was, after considerable discussion, resolved that as a means of extending the organization the two organizers in each ward report twenty committees of five working-men each.

After this piece of business had been disposed of there was quite a lull for a time, and the meeting awaited and evidently expected a proposition of some sort.

Another speaker finally gave them something to talk and think about by asking what was to be the purpose of the workingmen as to taking part in the proposed Conservative primary election. In other words, he desired to know if the workingmen contemplated fixing upon certain names to vote for them at the primary, or meant to hold aloof from it and nominate a ticket of their own.

Mr. J. E. Cosby suggested that the workingmen of each ward assemble in mass-meetings to talk and nominate a ticket. The committee to nominate a ticket.

Mr. J. W. Wilde desired the meeting to proceed cautiously. Before coming here he had heard it suggested that the workingmen proposed to cooperate with the liquor-men and red-jackets. He might as well expect to get along with the liquor-men, but as for the latter, he would say that to have reputations representing the workingmen would be to cast the workingmen's interests into a living hell.

The large number of the regulation of the cabinet tests presented on the first night were repeated, and then explained in the presence of the committee. These consisted of the repeating tests. The Professor, in the first, after being securely bound by the committee, immediately freed himself from the bonds, and as instantaneously returned to them without a knot being untied or a claim of mediums that spirits do the tying, was as fully exposed as the first. Professor proving that he was more dexterous with ropes than the ghostly assistants that some are supposed to be favored with.

A certain skeptical gentleman in the audience said that he could tie Professor Cosby so thoroughly that he could not extricate himself. He was allowed to try his hand, and after consuming about fifteen minutes in the attempt the Professor stood in the presence of his audience entirely free.

The large number of mediums present, in which the Spirit Bride appearing test, was next performed by Miss Lora Cooke, and afterwards satisfactorily explained by Professor Cooke. A few of the exposures created great excitement, and the application of the Spirit Bride yesterday morning and decided. The sack-test was not performed, owing to the absence of Mr. Scott, and the clairvoyant tests of Miss Crawford were omitted, that young lady being too ill to appear.

The magical changing of water into wine and the other tests were exposed before the audience, but at the conclusion of the entertainment the secret was imparted to all who were willing to pay three dollars for it.

Professor Cooke stated that they should remain in the city to-day, and extend an invitation to all the citizens of Norfolk to call at the Atlantic to witness a private exhibition of Miss Crawford's powers as a clairvoyant.

The Mozart Last Night.—The weather being good and the program attractive, the evening of the Philharmonic Association last night, the occasion being the seventy-fourth anniversary of the Mozart Association. The orchestra seemed in excellent spirits, and played most satisfactorily the overture "Yolva," by Reissiger, the waltzes "Berliner Klavier," by Kola Bela, and the "Coronation March," by Meyerbeer. Mr. Joyce, who was announced for a cornet solo, was so unwell as to be able to play the whole piece. Suffering under decided disadvantage on this account, he nevertheless well received.

Messrs. Gassnich and Reinhardt performed a beautiful and brilliant duo piano in a very questionable shape—and it is our duty to say what we are. Mr. Alley desired that the workingmen should be represented in the Legislature, and "in the Council, too, if we can find any mean enough to do so."

It was suggested by some one that the word "independent" in Mr. Cosby's motion was objectionable.

Mr. Alley said that the newspapers call that, any way, though it was not the proper designation.

It was moved that the ticket to be nominated be called "The Workingman's ticket."

Mr. Cosby accepted the amendment. It seemed agreed by common consent that a ticket should be put forth.

Mr. Martin, the President, I desire to know if it is meant to nominate a full ticket of five.

The President: I understand that that is to be left to the organizers to report upon.

Mr. Martin: Do I understand that we are to have nothing to do with the primary election?

Voices: Nothing, nothing at all. Mr. Martin: All right. I thought it might be we should understand these things. I only asked for information.

The subject was then referred to the organizers to report upon nominating a ticket, or rather, if they would seem, to report a ticket for ratification.

However, the organizers seem to have considerable latitude to act. They may either suggest a ticket for ratification—it would seem—or recommend a plan for choosing a ticket.

It is to be expected last night it is hardly expected that all the members of the ticket will be workingmen; but they will be the candidates of the workingmen. Adjourned.
