

On the 4th of October a man drove up to the mansion in this city, in a handsome buggy, with a fine bay horse, and followed by a small black dog, and registered C. W. Williams and wife, Fairfax county, Va. He introduced himself as George Williams, of New Orleans, and an old friend of the proprietor, whom he had known for many years. He wanted a good room, and he expected to be with the proprietor for a month or more, professed to be the owner of a farm in Fairfax county, and a cousin of Dr. Ira Williams, of that county. His object in coming to Alexandria was to have the best and most skillful medical attention for his wife, who expected to be confined in a few days, and was not willing to depend on the neighborhood doctors, who live some distance from his place. He represented himself as having been an old army officer, and as having served in the war with the Confederate States, and took part with the South, was a general in the southern army, and was wounded in several battles. He was also in the Mexican war; had been in the army for many years, and had been promoted to the rank of major. He had bought a farm in Fairfax county. He professed to know every man of prominence in this neighborhood, and was an intimate friend of John A. Washington, and his associates, who were with them at and in the neighborhood of Mount Vernon. He drove his horse to his old friend Chatham's stable, and his son convinced "Jim" that he was an old acquaintance, had often been at his house with his friends; had been with John A. Washington, and others; had arranged for the board of his horse, and promised to fee the boy who had the charge of him if he would groom him well, and keep his buggy clean and in good order. He drove to the stable, and called on Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, who are the owners of the old Washington farm, introduced himself as an old friend of the Washingtons, and spoke of the many happy days he had spent there when a young man. He spoke of many old families who lived in the neighborhood in this section, and wanted to engage a board for a month or more, being compelled to stay in this country until the abatement of the fever; stated to them that he owned a large plantation in Florida, for which he had raised one hundred and fifty dollars per acre, and that Best and Butler had stolen 800 negroes from him during the war. He invited Mr. and Mrs. Hunter to call on him at the mansion house, which they did, and took dinner with him, and in return he spent the night at the mansion in their home. He called on several of our prominent citizens, spoke to each as being his old friends, &c. He was a member of the Young Men's Christian Association; had been connected with Sunday schools for thirty or forty years, and on the Sunday morning he was in Alexandria to visit the Methodist Sunday school, returned after the close—said he had been much pleased and made an address to the children, who appeared very attentive; in the afternoon he went to visit an address in the city, and on Monday left the hotel to visit the public schools, which he said he did in company with Superintendent Carne and addressed the children. He represented himself as an intimate personal friend of Dr. Ira Williams, and his wife had traveled with them the past summer, and had visited Alexandria with them; the President had offered him several prominent positions at home and abroad, but he declined to accept any of them, and would not accept the best office of any kind that he could offer; he was opposed to their political views, and while he and his wife were old friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, he did not think him an honorable man, and could not endorse his course. After having enjoyed a very pleasant stay of four days, he dressed and left to visit, as he said, his cousin, Dr. Ira Williams, in Fairfax, and would return about 10 o'clock P. M. Not returning, Dr. Ira Williams was written to learn if he had called on Dr. Williams, and on the 10th he was written to learn if he had called on him, and he was no relation of his; that he had never seen or heard of the man; that he was a cheat and imposter. A day or two after his departure a postal-card was received from Washington directed to Dr. C. L. Williams, care of Mansion House, and in the card it was stated that he was in the care of the General C. W. Williams, who had assumed to be a different man. In tracing him up he proved to have made a business in imposing on hotels, boarding-houses, and all others he could deceive in Washington, Alexandria, and other places, and had contracted bills to the extent of thousands; remained at each place until he could remain no longer, and bid good-bye to his friends, always forgetting to return to settle his bills. He is one of the most successful impostors we have ever encountered. He can always address himself to the people he meets; knows everybody; is a Conservative or Radical, slave-owner or free-soiler, temperance man or a good drinker, doctor or a general imposter, in the confidence of either an army or resident of Massachusetts for forty years past, or an owner of a large plantation either in Louisiana or Florida, son of General W. Williams, of Louisiana, and brother of General Williams of Louisiana, and General Williams of Virginia, and it will suit his purposes and enable him to get credit. When last heard from he had been boarding at the Washington House in Bladensburg, kept by a widow lady, for more than three weeks, and had treated her like all other places he had deceived. Alexandria Gazette, 14th.

Answer to arithmetical problem: The interest on "A's" note for $1,000, payable in five years, equal annual instalments, at six per cent. per annum, is $189; which makes it 3 3/5 per cent. per annum for $1,000. Why in your note you say that it is out of hand ten per cent. per annum.

Answer to problem: 98 per cent. November 15, 1878.

A suggestion worthy of attention. Editors Dispatch: Why do people lean so tightly their horses when driving over these solid rock pavements? Do they forget what a great jar it is, and strain upon the legs and ankles to have no one to take the head? They were made for their own balancing power in rough places and stony pavements, to break the shock to the body in fast movements. Why deprive them of this power? Why cause their supple pastern-joints to become permanently stiff from such unnatural ways in their parts. At least, when you have your money by trying to keep up a cruel and heartless custom, when a free use of the head and neck will be more comfortable, but will enable him to make faster time, work a greater number of miles, and keep in better condition. His appearance, too, to persons of judgment, will be just as fine. Of course in breaking and training a horse he should be taught to carry himself properly, but after that do not torture to no cause. Take off his blinds, too, that he may be able to see where to put his feet, and see what is behind him as well. He will be the more serviceable for it.

Editors Dispatch: In answer to the problem in your paper of the 13th instant I submit the following: A man has a note for $1,000, which contains a debt for $1,000, no matter if he does sell for $900. The problem also says he makes six per cent. the rate of interest; therefore he pays six per cent. interest. W. E. C.

Editors Dispatch: The following method I consider correct for solving problem in your issue of the 13th. [We haven't the signs. We give the result.] Hence we have a result of 8 4/5 per cent.—the answer required. W. E. C.

Editors Dispatch: In answer to the problem in yesterday's Dispatch I give the following: Interest on $1,000 for five years at six per cent. interest computed and payments deducted annually is $210.80, which, with the $100 lost on the principal, makes a total of $310.80, interest paid. This amount, if the interest on $200 for five years will be at the rate of 6 1/2 per cent. The exact rate is rather a large fraction—say 6 2/3 per cent. Respectfully, H. W. H.

For the Dispatch: If a bond of $1,000 given payable in five years at six per cent. equal annual instalments, there must be paid at the end of each year $237.286 to liquidate the bond and interest. If a party pays $900 for the bond, and calculates interest on the $900, and credits the annual payments according to the usual way, he will get for his money what it is out of hand ten per cent. per annum.

A sells his five notes of $200 each for $189 each. He pays $100 down and $189 interest and gets the use of $180 (proceeds of each note) for an aggregate of fifteen years for $280, which is at the rate of 10.37 1/2 per cent. Or he gets the use of $100 for an average of three years for $280, which makes the same rate. O. D.

Washington, November 14, 1878. Answer to arithmetical problem: The interest on "A's" note for $1,000, payable in five years, equal annual instalments, at six per cent. per annum, is $189; which makes it 3 3/5 per cent. per annum for $1,000. Why in your note you say that it is out of hand ten per cent. per annum.

Answer to problem: 98 per cent. November 15, 1878.

A suggestion worthy of attention. Editors Dispatch: Why do people lean so tightly their horses when driving over these solid rock pavements? Do they forget what a great jar it is, and strain upon the legs and ankles to have no one to take the head? They were made for their own balancing power in rough places and stony pavements, to break the shock to the body in fast movements. Why deprive them of this power? Why cause their supple pastern-joints to become permanently stiff from such unnatural ways in their parts. At least, when you have your money by trying to keep up a cruel and heartless custom, when a free use of the head and neck will be more comfortable, but will enable him to make faster time, work a greater number of miles, and keep in better condition. His appearance, too, to persons of judgment, will be just as fine. Of course in breaking and training a horse he should be taught to carry himself properly, but after that do not torture to no cause. Take off his blinds, too, that he may be able to see where to put his feet, and see what is behind him as well. He will be the more serviceable for it.

Editors Dispatch: In answer to the problem in your paper of the 13th instant I submit the following: A man has a note for $1,000, which contains a debt for $1,000, no matter if he does sell for $900. The problem also says he makes six per cent. the rate of interest; therefore he pays six per cent. interest. W. E. C.

Editors Dispatch: The following method I consider correct for solving problem in your issue of the 13th. [We haven't the signs. We give the result.] Hence we have a result of 8 4/5 per cent.—the answer required. W. E. C.

Editors Dispatch: In answer to the problem in yesterday's Dispatch I give the following: Interest on $1,000 for five years at six per cent. interest computed and payments deducted annually is $210.80, which, with the $100 lost on the principal, makes a total of $310.80, interest paid. This amount, if the interest on $200 for five years will be at the rate of 6 1/2 per cent. The exact rate is rather a large fraction—say 6 2/3 per cent. Respectfully, H. W. H.

For the Dispatch: If a bond of $1,000 given payable in five years at six per cent. equal annual instalments, there must be paid at the end of each year $237.286 to liquidate the bond and interest. If a party pays $900 for the bond, and calculates interest on the $900, and credits the annual payments according to the usual way, he will get for his money what it is out of hand ten per cent. per annum.

A sells his five notes of $200 each for $189 each. He pays $100 down and $189 interest and gets the use of $180 (proceeds of each note) for an aggregate of fifteen years for $280, which is at the rate of 10.37 1/2 per cent. Or he gets the use of $100 for an average of three years for $280, which makes the same rate. O. D.

Washington, November 14, 1878. Answer to arithmetical problem: The interest on "A's" note for $1,000, payable in five years, equal annual instalments, at six per cent. per annum, is $189; which makes it 3 3/5 per cent. per annum for $1,000. Why in your note you say that it is out of hand ten per cent. per annum.

Answer to problem: 98 per cent. November 15, 1878.

An Accomplished Imposter and Swindler. On the 4th of October a man drove up to the mansion in this city, in a handsome buggy, with a fine bay horse, and followed by a small black dog, and registered C. W. Williams and wife, Fairfax county, Va. He introduced himself as George Williams, of New Orleans, and an old friend of the proprietor, whom he had known for many years. He wanted a good room, and he expected to be with the proprietor for a month or more, professed to be the owner of a farm in Fairfax county, and a cousin of Dr. Ira Williams, of that county. His object in coming to Alexandria was to have the best and most skillful medical attention for his wife, who expected to be confined in a few days, and was not willing to depend on the neighborhood doctors, who live some distance from his place. He represented himself as having been an old army officer, and as having served in the war with the Confederate States, and took part with the South, was a general in the southern army, and was wounded in several battles. He was also in the Mexican war; had been in the army for many years, and had been promoted to the rank of major. He had bought a farm in Fairfax county. He professed to know every man of prominence in this neighborhood, and was an intimate friend of John A. Washington, and his associates, who were with them at and in the neighborhood of Mount Vernon. He drove his horse to his old friend Chatham's stable, and his son convinced "Jim" that he was an old acquaintance, had often been at his house with his friends; had been with John A. Washington, and others; had arranged for the board of his horse, and promised to fee the boy who had the charge of him if he would groom him well, and keep his buggy clean and in good order. He drove to the stable, and called on Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, who are the owners of the old Washington farm, introduced himself as an old friend of the Washingtons, and spoke of the many happy days he had spent there when a young man. He spoke of many old families who lived in the neighborhood in this section, and wanted to engage a board for a month or more, being compelled to stay in this country until the abatement of the fever; stated to them that he owned a large plantation in Florida, for which he had raised one hundred and fifty dollars per acre, and that Best and Butler had stolen 800 negroes from him during the war. He invited Mr. and Mrs. Hunter to call on him at the mansion house, which they did, and took dinner with him, and in return he spent the night at the mansion in their home. He called on several of our prominent citizens, spoke to each as being his old friends, &c. He was a member of the Young Men's Christian Association; had been connected with Sunday schools for thirty or forty years, and on the Sunday morning he was in Alexandria to visit the Methodist Sunday school, returned after the close—said he had been much pleased and made an address to the children, who appeared very attentive; in the afternoon he went to visit an address in the city, and on Monday left the hotel to visit the public schools, which he said he did in company with Superintendent Carne and addressed the children. He represented himself as an intimate personal friend of Dr. Ira Williams, and his wife had traveled with them the past summer, and had visited Alexandria with them; the President had offered him several prominent positions at home and abroad, but he declined to accept any of them, and would not accept the best office of any kind that he could offer; he was opposed to their political views, and while he and his wife were old friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, he did not think him an honorable man, and could not endorse his course. After having enjoyed a very pleasant stay of four days, he dressed and left to visit, as he said, his cousin, Dr. Ira Williams, in Fairfax, and would return about 10 o'clock P. M. Not returning, Dr. Ira Williams was written to learn if he had called on Dr. Williams, and on the 10th he was written to learn if he had called on him, and he was no relation of his; that he had never seen or heard of the man; that he was a cheat and imposter. A day or two after his departure a postal-card was received from Washington directed to Dr. C. L. Williams, care of Mansion House, and in the card it was stated that he was in the care of the General C. W. Williams, who had assumed to be a different man. In tracing him up he proved to have made a business in imposing on hotels, boarding-houses, and all others he could deceive in Washington, Alexandria, and other places, and had contracted bills to the extent of thousands; remained at each place until he could remain no longer, and bid good-bye to his friends, always forgetting to return to settle his bills. He is one of the most successful impostors we have ever encountered. He can always address himself to the people he meets; knows everybody; is a Conservative or Radical, slave-owner or free-soiler, temperance man or a good drinker, doctor or a general imposter, in the confidence of either an army or resident of Massachusetts for forty years past, or an owner of a large plantation either in Louisiana or Florida, son of General W. Williams, of Louisiana, and brother of General Williams of Louisiana, and General Williams of Virginia, and it will suit his purposes and enable him to get credit. When last heard from he had been boarding at the Washington House in Bladensburg, kept by a widow lady, for more than three weeks, and had treated her like all other places he had deceived. Alexandria Gazette, 14th.

Answer to arithmetical problem: The interest on "A's" note for $1,000, payable in five years, equal annual instalments, at six per cent. per annum, is $189; which makes it 3 3/5 per cent. per annum for $1,000. Why in your note you say that it is out of hand ten per cent. per annum.

Answer to problem: 98 per cent. November 15, 1878.

A suggestion worthy of attention. Editors Dispatch: Why do people lean so tightly their horses when driving over these solid rock pavements? Do they forget what a great jar it is, and strain upon the legs and ankles to have no one to take the head? They were made for their own balancing power in rough places and stony pavements, to break the shock to the body in fast movements. Why deprive them of this power? Why cause their supple pastern-joints to become permanently stiff from such unnatural ways in their parts. At least, when you have your money by trying to keep up a cruel and heartless custom, when a free use of the head and neck will be more comfortable, but will enable him to make faster time, work a greater number of miles, and keep in better condition. His appearance, too, to persons of judgment, will be just as fine. Of course in breaking and training a horse he should be taught to carry himself properly, but after that do not torture to no cause. Take off his blinds, too, that he may be able to see where to put his feet, and see what is behind him as well. He will be the more serviceable for it.

Editors Dispatch: In answer to the problem in your paper of the 13th instant I submit the following: A man has a note for $1,000, which contains a debt for $1,000, no matter if he does sell for $900. The problem also says he makes six per cent. the rate of interest; therefore he pays six per cent. interest. W. E. C.

Editors Dispatch: The following method I consider correct for solving problem in your issue of the 13th. [We haven't the signs. We give the result.] Hence we have a result of 8 4/5 per cent.—the answer required. W. E. C.

Editors Dispatch: In answer to the problem in yesterday's Dispatch I give the following: Interest on $1,000 for five years at six per cent. interest computed and payments deducted annually is $210.80, which, with the $100 lost on the principal, makes a total of $310.80, interest paid. This amount, if the interest on $200 for five years will be at the rate of 6 1/2 per cent. The exact rate is rather a large fraction—say 6 2/3 per cent. Respectfully, H. W. H.

For the Dispatch: If a bond of $1,000 given payable in five years at six per cent. equal annual instalments, there must be paid at the end of each year $237.286 to liquidate the bond and interest. If a party pays $900 for the bond, and calculates interest on the $900, and credits the annual payments according to the usual way, he will get for his money what it is out of hand ten per cent. per annum.

A sells his five notes of $200 each for $189 each. He pays $100 down and $189 interest and gets the use of $180 (proceeds of each note) for an aggregate of fifteen years for $280, which is at the rate of 10.37 1/2 per cent. Or he gets the use of $100 for an average of three years for $280, which makes the same rate. O. D.

Washington, November 14, 1878. Answer to arithmetical problem: The interest on "A's" note for $1,000, payable in five years, equal annual instalments, at six per cent. per annum, is $189; which makes it 3 3/5 per cent. per annum for $1,000. Why in your note you say that it is out of hand ten per cent. per annum.

Answer to problem: 98 per cent. November 15, 1878.

A suggestion worthy of attention. Editors Dispatch: Why do people lean so tightly their horses when driving over these solid rock pavements? Do they forget what a great jar it is, and strain upon the legs and ankles to have no one to take the head? They were made for their own balancing power in rough places and stony pavements, to break the shock to the body in fast movements. Why deprive them of this power? Why cause their supple pastern-joints to become permanently stiff from such unnatural ways in their parts. At least, when you have your money by trying to keep up a cruel and heartless custom, when a free use of the head and neck will be more comfortable, but will enable him to make faster time, work a greater number of miles, and keep in better condition. His appearance, too, to persons of judgment, will be just as fine. Of course in breaking and training a horse he should be taught to carry himself properly, but after that do not torture to no cause. Take off his blinds, too, that he may be able to see where to put his feet, and see what is behind him as well. He will be the more serviceable for it.

Editors Dispatch: In answer to the problem in your paper of the 13th instant I submit the following: A man has a note for $1,000, which contains a debt for $1,000, no matter if he does sell for $900. The problem also says he makes six per cent. the rate of interest; therefore he pays six per cent. interest. W. E. C.

Editors Dispatch: The following method I consider correct for solving problem in your issue of the 13th. [We haven't the signs. We give the result.] Hence we have a result of 8 4/5 per cent.—the answer required. W. E. C.

Editors Dispatch: In answer to the problem in yesterday's Dispatch I give the following: Interest on $1,000 for five years at six per cent. interest computed and payments deducted annually is $210.80, which, with the $100 lost on the principal, makes a total of $310.80, interest paid. This amount, if the interest on $200 for five years will be at the rate of 6 1/2 per cent. The exact rate is rather a large fraction—say 6 2/3 per cent. Respectfully, H. W. H.

For the Dispatch: If a bond of $1,000 given payable in five years at six per cent. equal annual instalments, there must be paid at the end of each year $237.286 to liquidate the bond and interest. If a party pays $900 for the bond, and calculates interest on the $900, and credits the annual payments according to the usual way, he will get for his money what it is out of hand ten per cent. per annum.

A sells his five notes of $200 each for $189 each. He pays $100 down and $189 interest and gets the use of $180 (proceeds of each note) for an aggregate of fifteen years for $280, which is at the rate of 10.37 1/2 per cent. Or he gets the use of $100 for an average of three years for $280, which makes the same rate. O. D.

Washington, November 14, 1878. Answer to arithmetical problem: The interest on "A's" note for $1,000, payable in five years, equal annual instalments, at six per cent. per annum, is $189; which makes it 3 3/5 per cent. per annum for $1,000. Why in your note you say that it is out of hand ten per cent. per annum.

Answer to problem: 98 per cent. November 15, 1878.

A suggestion worthy of attention. Editors Dispatch: Why do people lean so tightly their horses when driving over these solid rock pavements? Do they forget what a great jar it is, and strain upon the legs and ankles to have no one to take the head? They were made for their own balancing power in rough places and stony pavements, to break the shock to the body in fast movements. Why deprive them of this power? Why cause their supple pastern-joints to become permanently stiff from such unnatural ways in their parts. At least, when you have your money by trying to keep up a cruel and heartless custom, when a free use of the head and neck will be more comfortable, but will enable him to make faster time, work a greater number of miles, and keep in better condition. His appearance, too, to persons of judgment, will be just as fine. Of course in breaking and training a horse he should be taught to carry himself properly, but after that do not torture to no cause. Take off his blinds, too, that he may be able to see where to put his feet, and see what is behind him as well. He will be the more serviceable for it.

AUCTION SALES—This Day. AUCTION SALE OF READY-MADE CLOTHING BY THE SINGLE SUIT OR GARMENT, OVERCOATS, DRESS-SHIRTS, COLLARS, UNDERSHIRTS, SOCKS, TIES, SUSPENDERS, &c., ON SATURDAY EVENING AT 4 O'CLOCK, 1115 MAIN STREET. WM. IRA SMITH, Auctioneer. This will be a much finer assortment than any previous sale. no 16-17

HIGH-CONSTABLE'S SALE OF ONE COVERED YAWL-BOAT. I will sell at public auction on SATURDAY the 16th day of November, 1878, at 12 o'clock M., at the wharf foot of Nicholson street, the following YAWL-BOAT, with all the furniture, and a small amount of other property, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

EXCELLENT MEDIUM-SIZE FRAME DWELLING NO. 311 NORTH TWENTY-FOURTH STREET. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING, with all the furniture, and a small amount of other property, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

GREAT SALE OF BOOKS AT AUCTION. The finest collection of STANDARD and MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS ever offered in this city will be sold at AUCTION THIS EVENING at 7 o'clock, at the residence of the following: Ladies and gentlemen are invited to call and examine them during the day. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

HIGH-CONSTABLE'S SALE OF LARGE IRON-SAFE, AWNING, AND FURNITURE. I will sell at public auction on SATURDAY the 16th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the following: A large iron safe, an awning, and a small amount of other property, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF ELEGANT RESIDENCE AND EIGHT ACRES OF LAND ON MAIN STREET HALF-MILE WEST OF THE CITY. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described RESIDENCE and eight acres of land, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF LARGE BRICK DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described BRICK DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF CANAL-BOAT OCEAN WAVE, ONE-BAY MULE, AND LOT OF LAND ON BRANCH STREET NEAR TO THE FOOT OF NICHOLSON STREET. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described CANAL-BOAT, one-bay mule, and lot of land, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

AUCTION SALES—Future Days. TRUSTEE'S SALE OF FOUR VALUABLE DWELLINGS AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLINGS and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DWELLING and other improvements, which was the property of the late J. B. COOK, deceased. Terms: Cash. T. L. WHITING, High-Constable, 1115 Main Street.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE DWELLING AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS ON LEASANT STREET, STREETS KINGS HILL. I will sell at public auction on THURSDAY the 14th day of November, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., the above described DW