The Komper-Mahone Correspondence. LYCHBURG, October 23, 1879. Captain John S. Wise:

Dear Sir,—Your note of the 16th instant, in manuscript, was not received by me until the afternoon of the 18th, it having come to my office by mail. Before that, however, I had read it in print, together with the card accompanying the correspondence between General Mahone and Governor Kemper, as published by you in the State.

I regret the necessity of my saying anything at all in reference to that correspondence, but the connection by you of my name with it renders it necessary for me to make a statement in order to prevent misapprehension. I have not been in haste to make this statement for reasons it is not necessary to specify, and now I do not desire to say anything calculated to excite or offend, but as it is at an end, or to raise any issue in regard to it.

Your statements, in your note to me as well as in your card to the public, are calculated to produce the impression that I had more to do with the correspondence than I really did, though I can readily convince you that such was not your purpose. I must, therefore, remind you of the fact that I reached Richmond after nightfall on the 11th, and after the first three notes of General Mahone to Governor Kemper, the replies of the latter thereto, and your note of the 11th, Mr. William L. Royall had been delivered. Before reaching Richmond I was not informed of the pending correspondence, though called there by telegram in a way I could not disregard.

When informed that there had been a correspondence between General Mahone and Governor Kemper, which might be said to have resulted in a collision, it was not until that correspondence led to a hostile collision I could take no part in the latter, because there were no personal relations between General Mahone and myself. I, however, avowed my willingness to give Governor Kemper the benefit of my opinion, and to do so in a way which would give him the advantage of my own. My first response, as far as it had progressed, I saw and at once declared that there was no necessity for a hostile collision between the parties; that Governor Kemper's reply to General Mahone's first note of inquiry ought to be satisfactory to the latter, and that he had no right to press the inquiry further. I made a similar declaration to yourself at my first interview on the morning of the 12th, and endeavored to press my views on you. In every subsequent stage of the correspondence my advice and intention were given in the form of a pacific settlement of the matter, and no opposition was made to it by Mr. Royall. I make this statement because the declaration in your card that "being the only actor friendly to both where a difficulty was so easy, I [you] was instrumental in averting a collision between two men whose names might seem to imply that Mr. Royall and myself were desirous of producing such collision because of hostility to one of the parties."

Your statement in reference to the note delivered to Governor Kemper at 11:30 A. M. leaves no room for the supposition that the note was a challenge, and therefore call your attention to your subsequent statement to me that it merely contained a suggestion or request that some point outside of Virginia be selected where the discussion might be continued. As the note was not published, and I do not see that it was necessary to refer to it at all. It certainly had no influence in bringing about the result subsequently arrived at so far as either Governor Kemper, Mr. Royall, or myself was concerned. Mr. Royall's last note of the 12th, which you refer to in your note, is in our view in exact accord with Governor Kemper's first reply to General Mahone, and hence there was no hesitation about making the statement therein contained.

In reference to the publication of the correspondence, I must inform you that in our first interview on the subject on Monday, during Mr. Royall's absence from the city, when you desired to know if Governor Kemper would not make some publication on the subject in the paper in which his remarks had appeared, I suggested to you that the best way to prevent any misapprehension was to publish the whole correspondence. It was then that you stated that you wished to inform me of the fact that on the day before you had delivered a challenge to Governor Kemper. I told you that that was a new thing to me, and I requested you to meet me when I would give you an answer as to what would be agreed to on the part of Governor Kemper. It was but a short time before 3 P. M. when this conference took place. When I returned to your office, after 5 P. M., I told you that you must be mistaken in supposing that you had made a challenge to Governor Kemper, and gave you my reasons for so thinking; to which your response was, as before stated, that the note you bore was not a challenge, but a mere suggestion or request to select some place outside of Virginia where the discussion might be continued. I told you that was what I supposed it was, and I then told you that I could not advise Governor Kemper to make any publication of the character suggested by you, but that he would consent that the first note of General Mahone to him, his reply, Mr. Royall's last note to you, and the correspondence published by Governor Kemper, might be published, as containing the gist of the correspondence. I stated further that I did not wish to discuss the question, and that you could take until next morning to consider the matter. On the next morning, when Governor Kemper and myself were walking down town, you came to me on the street and asked if we desired to make any publication; to which I replied that it did not seem to me that any publication whatever was necessary on the part of Governor Kemper, and you then stated, in substance, that you did not know that any publication was necessary; that the public had nothing to do with the matter, and if any of the parties were minded to see the correspondence they could do so. Our interview was very brief, and I do not pretend to give your exact words.

I did not understand that there was any agreement to make no publication, but consented to the publication of the correspondence, and I do not pretend to give your exact words. I did not understand that there was any agreement to make no publication, but consented to the publication of the correspondence, and I do not pretend to give your exact words.

LOCAL MATTERS.

THE FAIR-GROUNDS' TRAINS.—In accordance with the decision of the Supreme Court of Appeals in the case of Henry F. Taylor & others against the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad Company, Judge Fitzhugh several months ago entered an order perpetually restraining said company from using their locomotives on Broad street. That will prevent the company from running their trains as usual from Eighth street during the Fair, and as they would gladly do for the public accommodation. They will, however, do the next best thing in their power—run the trains from the head of Broad street to the Fair-Grounds on Wednesday and Thursday. The charge will be five cents per passenger each way. Here is an opportunity for officers of spring vehicles to make money by running from central portions of the city to connect with the trains. There will be plenty of business for street-cars, omnibuses, and all. The low rates made by railroad and steamboat companies will bring great crowds to the city, and it is desirable to have a sufficient access of sunlight, although this place is so high, the approach to it is so gradual that one is hardly conscious of the ascent, and having arrived on the train, is surprised to find that no few steps are necessary to reach the summit.

Cashing a Check in Paris.—THE TEDIOUS PROCESS WHICH FRENCHMEN PUT UP WITH. (American Register.) To one accustomed to our quick business movements in New York, and the especial rapidity with which banking operations are performed, it is quite ludicrous to enter a Paris bank and watch the performances there. If you present the check yesterday in the report of the meeting of the special subcommittee on the Sunday liquor law. Mr. Taylor was present at the meeting and took a prominent part in its deliberations. The Hustings Court was engaged yesterday in considering civil business. Messrs. Pleasants & Co., agents of La Confiance Fire Insurance Company, of Paris, France, have made the deposit of $50,000, as required by law. The amount was in United States Government bonds. This is the first French insurance company which has ever done business in this State. Register to-day. It is your opportunity. Unless you have registered you cannot vote in November. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence will appear at the Theatre here on the 11th and 12th of November in the "Mighty Dollar." Mr. St. Andrew, one of the most popular newspaper-men in the State, was in the city yesterday. Register to-day, Conservatives. Mr. Polk Miller sustained a severe sprain of the ankle by being thrown from a buggy, the horse to which ran away, while hunting in company with Mr. John S. Wise, fourteen miles from the city, on Wednesday last.

RESIGNATION OF THE CHIEF ENGINEER OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.—Captain G. A. Ainslie, Chief Engineer of the Richmond Fire Department, has intimated his intention of resigning that position on the 1st of November. To succeed him in the office of Chief Engineer in the Richmond Fire Department, and now first assistant engineer of the Department. THE SMITH RUSSELL AND THE BERGERS.—This was a fine audience at the Theatre last night to enjoy the second performance of the Bergers and Sol. Smith Russell. It was indeed a charming entertainment, and was in every respect a success. Miss Louise Kemo sang a selection from Rossini—"Non Plus Mena"—in which she had the opportunity of displaying her fine contralto voice in a most remarkable manner. Her compass and cultivation than for its sweetness. She was, as usual, encored, and in response sang an English ballad. Later in the evening she sang another selection, and for her encore sang "Who's that Tapping at the Garden Gate?" which delighted her audience.

MISS ETTA MORGAN performed very finely two pieces on the saxophone—an instrument which is almost a band of music in itself. The ease and grace with which she executed her solos was very striking. Mr. Boos, who has gained such a reputation as a cornet-player, rendered one or two fine selections, which were loudly applauded. Sol. Smith Russell, the greatest character-delineator that has visited Richmond for years, was, as usual, the interesting amusement of the evening. His reputation as a cornet-player, rendered one or two fine selections, which were loudly applauded. Sol. Smith Russell, the greatest character-delineator that has visited Richmond for years, was, as usual, the interesting amusement of the evening. His reputation as a cornet-player, rendered one or two fine selections, which were loudly applauded.

THE BERGER CORNET BAND played a number of popular melodies, including the hymn, "Nearer, My Nearer," which was sung by the ladies in the dress-circle, and which was one of the most enjoyable features of the entertainment. This afternoon there will be a grand matinee, and to-night the engagement ends. FORD'S ENGLISH OPERA.—On Monday Ford's English Opera Company commences an engagement at the Theatre, and the sale of seats begins to-day at John-son's and at the Theatre box-office. One of the Norfolk papers has the following of the new opera "The Little Duke," which was presented there yesterday morning.

OF the performance we have but little to say except in commendatory terms, for rarely has such a pleasure-giving entertainment been produced here. There are but a few central figures in the opera, and each received with unstinted hands the applause of the audience. The "Little Duke" by Miss Mary Bockel was exquisite in voice and action, and she was ably sustained by Miss Mackenzie's Little Duchess, a most charming young lady. Miss Blanche Thompson, the girl under her control were well personated. Among the male characters, the Tutor by Mr. G. W. Denham, stands pre-eminently, and his every word and gesture bespoke the finished comedian.

YACHT RACE AT SCHUTZEN PARK.—On Monday at 2 P. M. there will be a yacht race at the James-River Brewery for flat-bottom boats, open to all. The sailing course will be from the Brewery down to Goode's rock and visit the latter, and then to the little derrick in the harbor. The start will be at 4 o'clock, and there will be a half-past 1 in the afternoon, when the preparations were almost completed, the ice which enclosed the Vega began to move. An hour later Captain Falander, who was prepared for every emergency, had steam hoisted, and a half-past 3 the ship was free, steamed a short distance westward to clear the shoals, and gave her prow in the right direction, and experienced no further obstruction from ice in the Siberian sea.

NORDENSKJÖLD thinks the northeast passage between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans may be made every year, but sees no direct benefit to trade between the two oceans likely to accrue from his discovery. He sees no difficulty, however, in establishing valuable trade with points on the Siberian rivers. Agricultural implements, he argues, can be profitably shipped to Siberia and exchanged for raw materials, which it is too expensive to export overland.

PLUGGING BY ELECTRICITY.—Some interesting experiments of plugging by electricity took place the other day at Noisiel, in France, in the park of the well-known Deputy and chocolate-maker, M. Menier. The motive-power was supplied to the plug by a Gramme machine, itself set in motion by water-power, which is abundant in M. Menier's estate. The plough did about the same work as if it were drawn by four oxen. It was a Fowler plough, with six shares. The motive-power was supplied to it by a wire at a distance of nearly a mile. To a profane reader, it was so amazing to see a plough pulled by an unseen agency without teams or steam. The Gramme machine employed was the same that supplies M. Menier's manufactory with electric light.

When you think you have got possession of the oldest and quaintest book in the country you have only to advertise that you will give $100 for another just like it to discover that you can still find a two-horse wagon in a week.—Free Press.

THE MIDGETS AT THE SENATOR HALL.—The wonderful midgets continue to attract large numbers of visitors. To-day there will be two matinees—one from 10 to 12 and the other from 2 to 4—besides the regular evening entertainment. The little folks must be seen to be appreciated. REGISTRATION.—Let every Conservative who has attained the age of twenty-one since last election register to-day. [For the Di patch.] Lungs of Richmond-Bonair. In order to escape the debilitating effects of the heat many of our citizens find it necessary to send their families far away to the upper country during the summer months, while they themselves are compelled to remain at the post of business. This long separation is not always convenient or agreeable, and a good many families are ready to patronize the first successful effort which will provide a retreat near at hand, having the requisites for health and comfort. Several efforts to establish a place for the summer residence have been made, but these efforts failed. The positions selected were not easily accessible, or they were not healthy, or the surroundings lacked rural beauty. To the southwest of Richmond, some three miles distant from the river, is a range of high hills clothed with forest trees and marking a region peculiarly salubrious. A company has been incorporated for the purpose of establishing a retreat for families, and they have possessed themselves of the advantages afforded by these hills, and have selected a position, to be improved, which they have named Bonair. A small party of gentlemen, in no wise concerned in the company, having visited Bonair because they are interested in the geology and topography of this region, are fully convinced that the position is admirably chosen, and adopt this mode of saying so. A line drawn from the tower of Centenary church through the western side of the new reservoir, and extended to the eight-mile post on the Danville railroad, will indicate the locality. Mr. Jed. Hotchkiss, in his very interesting lecture before the members of the Legislature, said that there was no place anywhere hereabouts more than 200 feet above the sea-level. Mr. Hotchkiss was mistaken, for Bonair is 315 feet above the level of the sea. As a natural consequence of this elevation the stratum of sound air will be pure, and the breeze, meeting with no obstruction, will circulate freely. Although this place is so high, the approach to it is so gradual that one is hardly conscious of the ascent, and having arrived on the train, is surprised to find that no few steps are necessary to reach the summit.

THE AXE has not yet cleared the way for a distant view; the prospect is of the quiet kind; and derives its charm from the varying altitudes of the adjacent country and from the abundance, variety, and beauty of the forest trees with which they are adorned. A glance at its topography and geology is very favorable to the reputation for health which this situation enjoys. It is sufficiently distant from the river, and has no marsh near by—not designating one or two deltas of the elevated and well drained, which has a sufficient access of sunlight, which last circumstance is not the least of sanitary essentials. It is a rounded hill, and its surface is composed of river gravel, which, as is common in the quarry of this section, lies on a mixture of sand and clay, and will therefore always be dry. The neighboring hills are noted for exemption from malarial disease, and Dr. William W. Weisiger, of Manchester—"i. Justum et tenacem propositum virum"—who has practiced the healing art for many years and knows the country, speaks in undoubted terms of its salubrity.

BONAIR is only eight miles distant from Richmond, and is easily reached. The trains of the Danville railroad pass frequently every day, and a rapid drive thither consumes only an hour. By means of the telephone, which will be introduced, conversation may be carried on between the family retreat and the place of business, and while isolated from town one may be practically present in the office. For most of the way the route to Bonair crosses the south bank of the James and at a base of the hills. It is skirted on either side by trees and shrubs, and follows the curves in view of the water with its green islets and miniature rapids. Nearly all the journey the track is shaded from the evening sun and affords a delightful means of access, quite in contrast with the usual high temperature and dust encountered in railway travel. An elevated, salubrious, picturesque, and accessible location in the neighborhood is a necessity for the people of Richmond—a sojourning-place where weary citizens, and more especially sick children and feeble mothers, may escape noise and dust, and the harassing influence of heat and cold, and the tranquillizing influence of groves and forests, and be cheered by blue skies and the singing of birds.

SUCCESS TO BONAIR. ONE OF THE PARTY. MANCHESTER AND VICINITY. A Richmond Jury.—The suit of Meredith against the City of Richmond was called on in the Hustings Court Thursday, but was continued until the January term. A special jury from Richmond will then be summoned to try it. This suit is to recover damages alleged to have been sustained by the grading of the streets several years ago, and which was the subject of a long and bitter fight belonging to Meredith. The suit excites a great deal of interest, especially to those who claim to have likewise suffered. JUSTICES COURT.—The Hustings Court—Judge William L. Dopton presiding—will hold its session yesterday afternoon, engaged in trying garnishee cases. The Court last afternoon until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, at which time other civil cases will be tried. The criminal docket has been disposed of.

Brief Items.—Rev. D. B. Winfree, D. D., of this city, leaves for Henrico to-day. He will preach at Deep-Iron church to-morrow. There were several unimportant civil cases below the docket at the Magistrate's Court yesterday morning. A party of sportsmen from this place started a fox near the city yesterday morning, and succeeded in capturing it after a two-hours chase. The matrimonial market is unusually dull, and the prospects for an impetus in that line is very favorable. The platform in front of the court-house will remain until after the election. There will be more speaking here before that time. The season for hunting partridges in Chesterfield county will commence November 1st. The sportsmen here are anxiously awaiting for the season to open. Captain George D. Wise, of Richmond, is announced to address the citizens of Granite Monday night in favor of the McCullough bill.

Yesterday the speakers whose names were on the list lately prepared began to discuss the debt question in earnest throughout the counties of Powhatan and Chesterfield. Councilman S. R. Owens, of the Third Ward, was able to be out on the streets yesterday, after a long illness. The city jail was again patronized very little during the last few days. The suit of Mayo vs. Richmond and Danville Railroad Company has been removed from the Hustings Court of Manchester to the Circuit Court of Richmond. Mayo suits to recover some property which is at present used by the company and is claimed by them. There was a fine audience at the musical last night. The "Green" house, in this city, was enveloped by another social last night. A lively fight occurred on lower Hull street yesterday afternoon between several small boys.
