for the trash which accumulates so rapidly wherever work-baskets are permitted to intrude. Another adaptation of the long-familiar Japanese style of decoration is found in

THE NEW STYLE OF WALL-PAPER, which has a broad band of gold fans, represented half open, running through the middle of handsome East-lake patterns, just half-way between the dado and the frieze.

We saw not long since an account of some very unique patterns of wall-paper, the frieze representing the blue waves, with gold-colored fish darting through the water in a startlingly-realistic manner; but this nautical style of decoration does not bid fair to become a very popular one.

Dark-blue (the favorite color in decorative art this season) floor-covers, made of a sort of felt, are going for from one to two dollars a yard, is going to replace the polished floors of some seasons back, as an appropriate background from which the bright colors of many and varied styles of rugs are seen to the best advantage.

This is as economical as it is stylish, for the material is frequently used without the rugs, or with only one or two, and more may be added as opportunities for purchasing them occur. The linen carpet-covers, hitherto used almost exclusively for DANCING PARTIES, is now to be replaced by a dark-green shiny cloth, which is made expressly for the purpose, and which, besides being far smoother and better surface for dancing, has the additional advantage of furnishing a peculiarly striking and artistic ground on which to display the gorgeous evening toilettes of the belles and their dainty slippered feet.

From the brilliantly-lighted ball-room to the cool and shady garden is this brings us to the consideration of another effort at adornment which has shown itself this summer, and which ere another season will probably have ripened into most elaborate designs. We refer to the pretty covers used with such dustier effect this summer as our garden-chairs, tables, settees, and such like rustic furniture. Heavy linen, crushed or striped ticking, worked in Poindé Russe Holbein, or Crewel stitch, with zany-colored silks and worsteds, are the materials used for this style of fancy-work, and very dainty does the rustic piece take on when it becomes when adorned with such tasteful and artistic designs. It seems that the world has gone forth that nothing is to be allowed in any department of a well-regulated household which does not contribute to the ARTISTIC SENSE OF BEAUTY, as well as to the more homely notion of utility, or perhaps it would be better to say that the artistic and the homely are inseparably beauty and utility are connected, and how happily it would be to aim at complete success in either department without having due regard to the demands of both elements in the grand whole.

The Society of Decorative Art in Baltimore has inaugurated a prize for the most beautiful stove which can be designed, the improvement in appearance being strictly understood to interfere in no way whatever with the legitimate uses of this highly-respectable but hitherto eminently hideous article of furniture.

We begin this year with a brand-new supply of belles, who bid fair to prove dancero rivals to the older set, who, to do them justice, seem to be fully aware of the danger, and are hastening off the tapis with a speed which does not altogether please us, for while we are fully convinced that it is not good for man to live alone (or woman either), we are not as yet prepared to assign with any sort of philosophy so large a number of our best and brightest as Dame Rumor has been busily springing Norfolk names to other cities. Last spring Norfolk claimed "our girls," and before another month has passed she will have taken final possession of another, and as misfortunes never come singly, an elder sister of the same family will, we understand, a little later on leave our city of hills for the Sunny South. A little higher up on Franklin street another one of the elder sisters has concluded to follow in the footsteps of her sister, who, by the way, is not as the madly seems to be contagious signs are not wanting to show that her next-door neighbor's house has not altogether escaped the infection. But these two latter cases, as also one we might mention on Grace and another on Main street, are occasions for unreserved congratulation, as neither case does the happy occasion suggest a departure from among us of those whom we could ill afford to lose. One of our prominent and popular young physicians will, we learn, bring a Texas girl in our midst, whom we are already prepared to welcome with open arms, while another gentleman, who has succeeded in inducing one of the Henrico girls to choose a town life for the future. We might go on at considerable length and tell you of many more victims of the blind-boy god, not to speak of the delicate little tribits of gossip which we hear, upon the subject of matrimony, at Old Point this summer; but we refrain for reasons best known to ourselves, feeling quite sure that if we promise to tell you of some of this another time you'll forgive the length of this letter, and possibly be glad to hear again from

EXPLOSION OF A DEMIJOHN OF CIDER.—(Valley Virginian.)—Last Friday Mr. P. G. Hounihan, with Burke & Hounihan, Staunton, met with a very singular and painful accident. He had just taken a demi-john of cider from a wagon and placed it on the platform of a street car when it burst with a loud report, and fragments of the glass struck his arm, severing the artery and inflicting several painful flesh wounds. A large quantity of blood was lost before the artery could be closed. The change of temperature from the heat of the sun to the exposure of the extremity is supposed to have caused the explosion.

The Florence have evidently scored a success in England, and the present probabilities are that they will remain abroad until the financial mine is exhausted. The bad French of Mrs. General Gifford and the alphabetical iniquities of Baron de Moltke, and there is no end to favorable comments in the other and more serious critical journals. The receipts of the opening night were upwards of $5,000.

The Charlottesville Chronicle denounces "the mash-traps which railroad companies persist in retaining, when safe and certain automatic couplings are within their reach. It is probably safe to say that in the United States a human being is launched into eternity by the present couplings every day in the week. Four or five men have been killed in this State within a few weeks."

Mr. Frank Venable, formerly of the University of Virginia, but late of the University of Bonn, in Germany, son of Professor Charles S. Venable, of the University of Virginia, has been elected professor of chemistry, general and applied, in the University of Bonn. He has accepted the position and will start at once from Europe to assume the duties of his chair.

At Heathsville, Northumberland county, last week a colored girl left in charge of a colored child nine or ten months old struck it with a door-barn and almost instantly killed it. The murderer is only twelve years old. On her examination before Magistrate E. W. Smith she confessed the crime and declared she did not intend to kill the babe, but only to quiet it.

Albert Mitchell, of Louisa, the Walton murderer, has been resented, and will be hanged November 5th. He confesses.

Dr. George C. Carrington, of Halifax, is dead.

LOCAL MATTERS.

THE HARVEST OF DEATH.—DEMONS OF WELL-KNOWN AND RESPECTED CITIZENS.—We present to-day the record of the death of an unusual number of well-known and highly-valued citizens. In the absence of any epidemic and in a season usually noted for its healthful condition, the mortality column is a remarkable one. Mr. Richard S. Massie, one of the oldest and best-known residents of Richmond, died on Friday night at 9 o'clock, in the seventy-third year of his age. Mr. Massie was a merchant of Richmond in by-gone days. Over forty years ago he was a member of the firm of Massie & Pleasants, doing business at the corner of Main street and Market alley. He was afterwards for many years in business by himself. He was a native of Goodland county, and came to this city in 1829. He had been a member of the Presbyterian Church since 1840. Mr. Massie was a gentleman of the old school, a merchant of the strictest integrity, a good citizen, and a man beloved in every relation of life.

His funeral will take place from the First Presbyterian church this evening at 4 o'clock. Mr. Richard L. Meredith, who was stricken with paralysis at church last Wednesday night, died at his residence, on West Cary street, yesterday morning. He had been engaged with the leading clothing houses of this city, and enjoyed the confidence and respect of a large circle of friends. During the war he was a valued member of the Richmond ambulance corps, and faithfully performed every duty incumbent upon him. He was also a member of Friendship Lodge, I. O. O. F.

Both of the above bodies will attend the funeral, which will take place from the First Baptist church this evening at 7 o'clock. Mr. Andrew Miller, another old and respected citizen, died at his residence, on West Cary street, yesterday morning. He was an honored member of the Richmond Lodge, I. O. O. F., and Germania Lodge, Knights of Pythias.

Cigar-Makers' Union, No. 133, headed by Cesar's band, paraded yesterday evening on the streets of this city, and were met by a large and enthusiastic crowd. The parade was headed by Walter P. Griffin. The deceased was the son of the late Fleming Griffin, a well-known member of the City Council from Monroe county.

Mr. Lorenzo Williams, a well-known citizen, died early yesterday morning, in the sixty-second year of his age. He was an estimable gentleman, and was held in high esteem by a large circle of friends.

INTERESTING REVIVALS.—Dr. J. William Jones, of this city, has been preaching for a week in a deeply-interesting revival at Upper King and Queen streets, near New Market. The congregations were large, and seemed deeply interested, and twenty-six persons professed conversion, twenty-four of whom were baptized Friday afternoon by the pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. A. Broadbent, under whose conduct the meetings were held.

At a very interesting revival in progress at a central church. Meetings were held every night last week, and will be continued until the first of October. The Rev. Dr. Shedd, the pastor, has the valuable assistance of Rev. Dr. John E. Edwards, Revs. William P. Wright, A. G. Brown, John J. Lafferty, and others. These and other able ministers will also be present this week.

MISSION CHAPEL.—INTERESTING MEETINGS.—Prayer-Meeting Committee from the Missionary Society of Leigh-Street Baptist church are holding very interesting meetings at their chapel, corner Third and B streets, near New Market. The congregations were large, and seemed deeply interested, and twenty-six persons professed conversion, twenty-four of whom were baptized Friday afternoon by the pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. A. Broadbent, under whose conduct the meetings were held.

DEMAND FOR HOUSES.—We are informed by real estate agents that there has never been such a demand for houses nor so great a scarcity of them. There are many excellent houses daily being built. The new ones are not only desirable ones, all suitable rooms having been taken. September seems to be the "moving" month in Richmond, and this may be one cause of the great scarcity of houses, but it does not seem to be the only one. Other reasons are, that each is taking an entire household, a suitable couple, and another living in Richmond. The case of John Coleman (colored), who was convicted of petit larceny—second offense—in the Police Court, came up on an appeal from the decision of the Police Justice. He was convicted and a motion for a new trial made. Sentence was suspended.

THE BEST TIME. These warm days in the lap of fall give us time to serve you as we like to serve you. Many of our most prudent citizens are now buying their CLOTHING for themselves and boys for the fall weather. We have everything ready, and there is no reason for delay; and there is reason for buying now. Our trade is brisk in spite of the weather. You may as well have a house full of clothing to select from, and plenty of time to pick it out, as to come in a crowd afterward—after the first cold snap has caught you unprepared. We now have $20,000 more stock than any house in the State in our line shows.

The custom department, under an expert cutter, is very attractive. We are the only strict-cash, one-priced clothing store in the city.

Richmond City Directory, 1881. Thanking my patrons for their encouragement in the past, I am this day commencing to issue the next General and Business Directory of Richmond, which will be ready for sale in January, 1881. In regard to the Directory, I have to state that there is a man canvassing our business-houses who is making false representations in stating that he is the proprietor of the Directory. I will not publish, or that he is canvassing with any of my works, or that he has completed the same. The only regular Director, and the only one who has the right to publish, is the one who is publishing it.

THE CONFIRMATION AT BOTH ABABA. A CLASS OF TWENTY-THREE RECEIVED INTO THE JEWISH CHURCH—A LARGE ATTENDANCE AND IMPRESSIVE SERVICES.

The Synagogue Both Ababa was crowded to excess yesterday to witness the beautiful ceremony of confirmation. Not only was the entire Jewish community represented, but many of the leading Gentiles of the city were in attendance. At 10:30, after a portion of the morning service had been read, the confirmants were met at the door by the minister, who read the benediction and conducted down the central aisle, while a beautiful hymn was being sung by the choir. They then took their seats on the platform, the ark was opened and the scroll was taken out, and the Scriptural lesson of the week was read by the minister, after which he had pronounced the benediction. The scroll was then returned to the ark, and the children returned a thorough examination on the Jewish creed and commandments. They answered all questions promptly, and showed that they fully comprehended the step they were about to take; after which they took their oaths of allegiance and belief to the Jewish faith.

Dr. Harris then addressed them briefly on the subjects of their religion, stating that the Jewish religion demanded no promises of future reward or punishment. He thanked them for their diligence and patience while under his charge, and complimented them on their excellent deportment. He also publicly thanked Professor B. Cohen for the assistance he had rendered him in taking charge of his class during his absence in Europe.

The children then passed from the platform singly in front of the minister, who pronounced a blessing on each, while the organ gave forth its sweetest tones in a subdued voluntary.

After this they took their seats with their parents, and the service was concluded. The following is the list of confirmants: Rosa Lovestien, Salie May, Sabina Fleischman, Carrie Straus, Rosa Liechtenstein, Ida Koppel, Alex. Meyer, Isaac Syce, Lewis Strause, Nathan Strause, Clarence Milliner, Daisy Rosenbaum, Amelia Huzler, Amelia Levy, Bettie Stamm, Clara Griffin. The deceased was the son of the late Fleming Griffin, a well-known member of the City Council from Monroe county.
