A man by the name of Ed. Hawley was scalded so bad that he died a few hours later, in the G. N. yards at Breckenridge.

Mr. Hawley was called to fix a plug in a boiler of an already steamed up engine and the fact that it was at the time according to reports under pretty heavy pressure, besides the cab being enclosed, had very little chance to escape when the plug blew out on him. After being scalded so bad he walked from near the passenger depot to the round house and from there was taken to the hospital on a stretcher, and then walked into his room. It is said that when taking the clothes off from him the skin came off with them. He died about four hours after the accident. Many friends are in deep sympathy with the wife and mother as this happy couple lost a baby girl a short time ago.

In the case of State vs. Meehan tried in the district court at Fargo last week, the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty." The case was of a statutory nature and was one of the most sensational criminal cases tried at Fargo for some time. State's Attorney A. W. Fowler and his assistant W. C. Greene prosecuted the case and E. H. McEnroe of Fargo and Judge W. S. Lauder of this city were attorneys for the defendant, Meehan.

The following marriage licenses were issued during the last week: Anthony Zupon and Miss Catherine Shriner, both of Lidgerwood; William R. Rasmussen of Wyndmere and Miss Signa Sophie Jaer of Minnor; William H. Mittendorf and Miss Nora E. Kosek, both of Wappeton; Alf Stern of Dwight and Aella Lubenon of Great Bend; Gilbert Miller, Elroy Wis., and Miss Minnie Bladow, Hankinson; William Schmitt and Miss Anna M. Vollrath, both of Wappeton; Edward C. Bladow, Hankinson and Miss Lena Polfuss, of the same place; David G. Johnson, Wolverton, Minn., and Miss Selma Erickson of Christine.

Deputy Sheriff R. V. McMichael of this city who made the arrest of the bad youth whom the Times mentioned in its columns last week, for stealing flax and an automobile, is $50 richer than he was before the arrest. "Bob" who is always faithful in the performance of his duty naturally feels kind of elated for it isn't every day in a deputy's life, that $50 drops from out of the sky. On account of the fact that a bench warrant had been issued for this youth's return, at his home, and a reward of $50 thereon, to the lucky one, and Deputy McMichael making the arrest, naturally became the owner of this $50.

Tommy knew that mother had got a special cake for tea and, with an eye to getting his share, asked pleadingly: "Mummy, have I been a good boy this afternoon?"

"M-m-es," replied mother rather slowly, her mind going back to a little incident of the day when Tommy had not shone.

The five-year-old slipped a coaxing hand into hers.

Finding an Opening.

"I had a friend who went to South America to find an opening in real estate."

"Did he find one?"

"Plenty of them—volcanoes and earthquakes."—Baltimore American.

THE BATTLE OF LIFE.

In its best estate and in its highest condition life is a fight, not a truce; a struggle, not an achievement; a growth, not a pleasure; a discipline, not a relaxation. The man who wins his real successes is not he who has the most perfect health, but he who bears disease and misfortune with silent courage and gains from them a more daring spirit.

Printer's Blunder Mised Author.

A recent novel supplied a word perplexing to the lexicographer. The story was laid in the twelfth century, and in a description of a monastery there was frequent mention of a "centralone," which readers presumed to be an unfamiliar feature of Norman architecture. It was eventually discovered that the author, in "reading up" his subject, had been misled by a description of certain towers, of which the "central one" was specified. The printer had omitted the space between the two words, and the novelist had rushed to conclusions unauthorized by either history or art.—London Observer.

Their Affiliation.

"See those two men across the street? They carry out the theory that birds of a feather flock together."

"In what way?"

"One is a jailbird and the other a stool pigeon."—Baltimore American.

Salt and Health.

Few persons understand the therapeutic value of salt. A little salt in one's drinking water is "good medicine." Salt applications to the skin are wonderfully soothing and wholesome. There is nothing better as a wash for the throat and the nasal passages to prevent or to cure catarrhal troubles than a solution of common salt in plain water—the cheapest remedy one can find. Many persons give their eyes a daily bath of cold salt water with satisfactory results.

His Status.

"That's an uncanny baby."

"He does seem inclined to be creepy."—Baltimore American.

The Arctic Sea Cow.

The arctic sea cow, an enormous kind of walrus, used to herd in large numbers on Bering Island. But in 1742 it was discovered by a passing ship and hunted with harpoons. Other ships arrived after this, and the started sea monsters were pursued and speared with such persistency that in thirty eight years there was not one left.
