

SWAIN IS PROMOTED, LANSTRUM MOVES UP

Popular Manager of United States Rubber Company at Great Falls Called to the Des Moines Branch—Butte Man Comes Here as Manager.

B. T. Swain for the past three years manager of the Great Falls branch of the United States Rubber company, left last night for Des Moines, Iowa, to answer the call of his company to a substantial promotion in its service. Mr. Swain goes to the position of manager of the Des Moines branch of the U. S. Rubber company which handles the business thru Iowa and because of the density of population and the fact that busness has been long established there, the office is of a large importance and ranks as one very decided promotion for Mr. Swain in being transferred from the Great Falls branch.

The successor to Mr. Swain in the Great Falls branch will be C. E. Lanstrum of Butte, better known to the trade thru the northwest as "Captain" Lanstrum. He has been manager of the Butte branch of the same company since February 15, 1918. As the result of a change in the organization, the Great Falls branch is made the headquarters of the company for handling the trade of the Montana district, and all trade heretofore handled thru the Butte house as well as that which has been developed from the Great Falls house will now be handled thru the Great Falls branch. That makes the change of Mr. Lanstrum from the Butte office a substantial promotion for him, and also brings him to make his home in this city.

The change which brings promotion to Mr. Swain and Mr. Lanstrum were caused by the death of a manager at Omaha opening the way for promotions for some and by the combination of the Montana business under one manager to afford promotions for each.

The Great Falls branch of the United States Rubber company was opened on November 1, 1915, the house being located here because of the faith in the future of Great Falls held by William E. Wright, manager of the northwest division of the company with headquarters at Minneapolis. He brot Mr. Swain to the city to be manager on January 1, 1916, and the development of the Great Falls house stands to the credit of Mr. Swain. Its record has been one of high merit to him and of much gratification to the company and it is the declaration of the manager of the district that the business here exceeded by far the brightest expectation that any of the company officials had entertained when the branch was opened.

Mr. Swain had traveled this territory for a couple of years prior to becoming manager of the local plant and was familiar with Montana conditions. He fit neatly into the work of building up the rubber company's business and instead of carrying a limited line, as it had been originally planned for the early development, it was soon determined to branch out and that has been the policy since February 15, 1918. As the result of a change in the organization, the Great Falls house handles everything that can be found in a wholesale rubber goods house.

Today, George O. Vallance will arrive in Great Falls from Minneapolis to take charge of the footwear and clothing department of the local branch under Manager Lanstrum.

Testifying to their friendship and good will toward Mr. Swain, the men and women who have been employed under his management in the local branch gave a dinner in his honor at the Park hotel on Saturday night and presented him a handsome gold watch for appreciation engraved. They also provided a great bouquet of roses for Mrs. Swain, in order that she might know that the kindly interest extended to the Swain family as well as to her husband.

R. A. Leonard of the office force was the toastmaster. Mr. Swain will report for duty at the Des Moines office on January 10. Mr. Swain's family consists of himself, wife and three children. Mr. Lanstrum who comes to the local headquarters, has been with the United States Rubber company for seven years and formerly was located at Seattle from where he was transferred to Butte, taking over the management there almost three years ago.

As he was leaving last evening Mr. Swain said that while he was answering the call of his company to another post, he was not by any means leaving Montana behind, as he continues to hold a large ranch near Brady which he will retain and he says he expects to visit the state at least once a year, if for no other reason to look after his personal interests. "Montana has always been a favorite section with me," said Mr. Swain. "The climate and the people both appeal strongly to me. The climate is invigorating and delightful and the people are broad minded and big hearted, two attributes that must be found in a well balanced human being. Were it not a matter of performing my duty to the company by which I am employed, and I were selecting a place merely because of the attractiveness of the place, you would find me making my home in Montana and in selecting a choice place in Montana, I know of no city or town that would come ahead of Great Falls.

"To the business interests with whom I have come in contact as manager of the local branch, I want to express the fullest measure of my appreciation for the splendid friendship they have accorded me. I want, also, to commend to them my successor, Mr. Lanstrum, one of the finest men in the rubber company's employ and one whom I am sure they will find to be a prince of the royal blood as a business man. Had I been selecting a successor, I know of no one to whom I would have rather turned than to "Cap" Lanstrum, and for him I bespeak the continued interest and patronage the house has been enjoying while I have had the good fortune to be the manager."

Celebrated Magician Will Be Seen at the Grand on Thursday Evening.

Carter, the magician, is coming to the Grand opera house on Thursday night. Carter is admitted to be one of the most wonderful in his line. He has a company of 25 people and carries tons and tons of equipment to make his show the success it has always been.

Carter's masterpiece is said to be what he calls levitation, described as the most astute, bewildering and hazardous illusion known to magic. It is original in principle and has confounded alike the minds of scientists and philosophers. After patient research and profound study this subtle magical achievement has been evolved and its perfection represents 15 years of abstract thought and diligent experiment. Another feature of Carter's performance is "A Night in China," in which Carter impersonates the famous Chinese court magicians. This is an exposition of ancient Oriental necromancy, wherein the wonderful sorcerers of China are imitated and impersonated.

Have you ever stolen your father's dress suit to make an impression on the best girl? If so, you will appreciate the humor of the situation when you see it on the screen at the Imperial theater today where "Seventeen" is the attraction. Jack Pickford and Louise Huff are the co-stars.

Included on the same program will be a two-reel Jester comedy which should complete a bill of merry entertainment.

COURT BUSINESS GROWS STEADILY

All Departments Show Increase at Jan. 1, 1919 Over Record of 1918.

There were on January first 107 more civil cases pending in the court of the eighth judicial district than on the first day of 1918, that total representing the difference between the number of cases filed during the year and the number disposed of, according to the annual report of Court Clerk George Harper. On January 1, 1918, there were 1,204 civil actions pending and on the last day of the year there were 1,401. During the year 1,054 new cases were filed, more by 107 than the number of cases concluded and taken off the waiting list.

There was an increase, too, in the number of criminal cases pending on the last day of 1918 as compared with those of record January 1 of the same year. On the first day of 1918, 43 criminal cases were pending and on the last day there were 91. During the year 36 cases were appealed from the lower court and 47 cases were disposed of. Twenty-two convictions were obtained on felony charges, four for misdemeanors and nine criminal cases were dismissed.

In the probate department 165 estates were filed in 1918, 24 guardianships and 10 adoptions, a total of 199. Seventy estates were closed and 10 adoptions were made. On the last day of the year 483 probate cases were pending. Thirty-six people were tried for insanity during the year. Of these 30 were adjudged insane and the remainder were dismissed.

Two hundred sixty-two declarations of intention to become citizens of the United States were filed during the year by people of foreign birth, and 84 people of the same classification petitioned for naturalization certificates. Fifty-two were made citizens between January 1 and December 31.

The marriage license record shows that 527 licenses were issued. The increase in the number of criminal and civil actions was due to cancellation of the jury term of court called in November and postponed on account of the influenza epidemic. This had the effect of closing the year with only one jury term of court having been held. The next term will be called for early in February, it is expected.

BENNETT HONORED BY ROUND TABLE

Former Resident of City Made Life Member of One of Select Clubs.

Rev. G. G. Bennett, former rector of the Episcopal church of this city but now of Minneapolis and who came here last week to deliver the memorial address in honor of the Cascade county hero dead in the great war, was made a life member of the Round Table last night at a meeting and dinner at the Park hotel. The organization, which is composed of a number of the business and professional men of the city who meet occasionally for the social advantages and study possible thereby, had a reorganization dinner last night at 6:30. The organization had not been active since the problems of war resulted in a loss of interest but now that peace has come, activity has been decided upon.

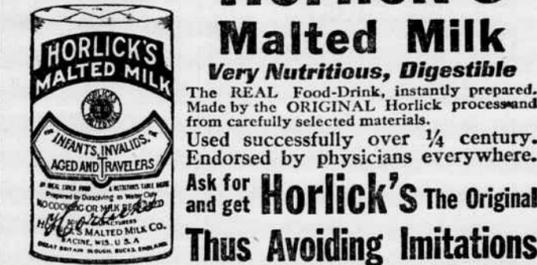

Rev. Mr. Bennett and Charles M. Russell, the artist, were guests at the meeting last evening. The reorganization resulted in Rev. Mr. Manfred Lillibridge being re-elected president and Edgar G. Maclay secretary.

Rev. Mr. Bennett left for his home last evening.

WHAT TO FEED—AND NOT FEED—DOGS

If You Wish to Keep Animals Healthy Attention Must Be Given to Food.

"Foods such as table scraps, when not allowed to sour, can be fed safely. But it is usually a very hard proposition for a family of moderate size to accumulate sufficient scraps except for a very modest number of dogs," says a writer in All Outdoors.

"Hotel scraps have been used by some, but they have many faults, and unless one can see them from the time they are gathered for the dogs, it is best that they should be left alone.

"A staple food that can be blamed for most troubles peculiar to kenneled dogs, is corn meal. Corn meal itself is a fair food, abundant in carbohydrates, but it requires some other food rich in protein to balance it properly.

"Meat of some kind is used for this purpose—principally beef or pork cracklings. Cracklings that are to be had in the cities lack much of being a suitable article for dog food. They are low in protein, and are frequently the by-product of packing house carcases. And, furthermore, to rid them of the grease, chemicals are used, and they will ultimately reap its toll on your string.

Beware of Mush

"Meal well baked, and fed to dogs after being treated to a soaking in a stew of clean meat scraps, is very good. But where meal has failed and carried its rice with it, when fed in the form of mush, or to a number of dogs together, usually mush is only half-cooked—for it takes a long time to cook it properly—and when poured out in a trough it is boiled down by the dogs.

"The animals all want to have a trifle more than their companions. Then the food is not digested, and its effect is shown in the form of skin diseases.

"Clean rice does not rank so highly as a food, but if made from boiling the rice with a small percentage of the meat, and when this is cool poured on clean stale wheat bread, there is no food that equals it. The dogs digest every particle of it, and can stand an enormous amount of work. They will also digest hard flint which they eat for their diet. Another feature, which must not be overlooked, is that dogs seldom tire of it.

"With this as with other foods, it must be fed cool. Hot foods will cause digestion troubles no matter how carefully prepared.

"Bones or hard dog cakes should be fed regularly. They are the dogs' tooth brushes; and, as with man, that part cannot endure neglect. With a kenneled cooking plant many variations of food can be prepared on short notice.

Pedigreed Flax Seed Grown in Sheridan

Special to The Daily Tribune. Plentywood, Jan. 6.—As a result of the work of the Sheridan county farm bureau in co-operating with the county agent and the extension department of the state college, Sheridan county can now be looked on as the most important center of production of pure, pedigreed flax seed of the variety proved best adapted to Montana's northeastern conditions. In the flax seed project conducted by farm bureau members during the year just closed, 49 farmers put in 1,622 acres of pedigreed flax, and harvested a total of 11,594 bushels of pure seed, much of which will be saved for that purpose.

COMEDY TO BE PRESENTED AT FARM BUREAU SESSION

PANTAGES BILL OPENS TONIGHT

Vaudeville Which Comes to the Grand Is Highly Praised. Churchill to Appear.

Patrons of the Pantages vaudeville which shows at the Grand opera house Tuesday and Wednesday evenings each week, will have a treat of six acts in the bill opening at that place, house this evening. In addition to five splendid acts which are making the tour of the circuit, Percy B. Churchill of Helena, well known baritone, has consented to appear on the bill and sing two or three numbers from the popular operas. Mr. Churchill is a soloist who needs no introduction to the Great Falls music lovers as he has appeared here on several occasions, always with great success.

The bill which is being sent over the circuit is praised highly by the critics. Here is what the Calgary Herald's critic says of the acts which will be offered tonight:

"The bill at the Pantages theater this week classes with some of the best seen in Calgary. Everything from music, tricks, crossfire of perillage and dancing is included on the bill, and not a dull moment is experienced during the whole show.

"Mlle. Lato's models offer some of the prettiest scenes seen in the city for many a long day. Realistic in every way, these animals offer scenes of peace and war. Billy Zuhn and Herbert Dries are comedians of no small standing, and the constant getting back at each other is a small circuit in itself. Both men are talented, and their singing and reciting keep the audience in laughter all the time.

"Burke and Burke offer 'A Western Union Flirtation' which is full of 'pep' from the start off. Joe Burke, taking the part of a telegraph boy, has a line of slang and his own way of lovmaking which is an art in itself.

"Jack Rose, assisted by Mr. X at the piano, has a novel offering. Jack is a pianist also, and plays anything asked him.

"The Twelve Tally-Ho Girls have a whole show in their own particular number. Instruments of many varieties are the offerings of these bright young ladies. Their finale of American and English war songs is a beautiful offering.

"Will Snaky rescue Lawless, or will he himself fall into the hands of Blake and his followers? Ha! Yes, which? Go this week to see what's wrong, and then you'll know. The Fight for Millions is still going strong."

The shows will start at 7:15 and at 9 o'clock.
