

PROGRAM WILL END WITH PLAY TONIGHT

Cascade County Farm Bureau Meeting Opens Session this Morning—Big Attendance Is the Forecast for All Sessions.

Morning Session.

10:00 a. m.—Opening of the bureau program in council chamber at court house. Address by Clark Bumgarner, the president. Various other addresses on the schedule.

Afternoon Session.

1:30 p. m.—Discussion of subjects of general interest to farmers. Conference groups will meet in court rooms and other rooms of county court house.

8:00 p. m.—"The Long Trail," happy little story of Montana life presented by capable company of players at Grand opera house.

All people interested in farming subjects are invited to attend the morning and afternoon sessions in the court house. All people who enjoy a pleasing show will find a good entertainment at the theater this evening.

There is promise of an audience that measures the capacity of the Grand opera house this evening, when the players from Bozeman present their show, "The Long Trail," as the closing feature of the Cascade county meeting of the farm bureau, scheduled for today. The tickets have been disposed of in a manner that leaves no doubt about the interest and it is an interest that will fill the theater with people this evening to witness the performance of the company, which is touring the state under the direction of the state farm bureau and agricultural bodies.

The players have been making a very favorable reputation wherever they have appeared. They put on their show at Billings and at several other places, among them Columbus. At the latter place the audience packed the theater, and scores were turned away because they couldn't gain admission. Here is what the Columbus paper said about the show: "The company carries its own scenery, and the stage settings alone, we agree with Uncle Sam Hampton, are the doorway price." The scenery is the doorway price. The scenery is the doorway price. The scenery is the doorway price.

The second scene shows the best room of the old-fashioned farmer of the period of 1890. Ed Harrison is still trading on the bank, combined with a hailstorm, sets him back to start all over again. The third scene, the living room of Ed Harrison on his ranch in 1918, concludes the story of achievement in farm progress. It is quite impossible to do justice in a brief description to the play. It is a clever drama; not only that, it is of real historical value, with bits of homely and pungent humor so cleverly and continually interspersed that it seems quite the natural thing to see the players discussing the merits of a new milling wheat, and have the audience hanging breathless on every word. Every part is not only well supported, but practically every character is a star in his or her own way.

WITH LEWISTOWN IN ITS EFFORTS

Great Falls Merchants Will Back Fergus County City for Merchants 1920 Meeting.

Merchants of Great Falls will be represented at the state association meeting next Thursday and Friday in Helena. Just how many or who will attend has not been announced officially, but President Roy Jardine of the Great Falls Merchants' association said yesterday that there will be suitable representation from this city and, because of the fact that the session is being held in Helena during the legislative assembly, the delegation may be somewhat larger than usual.

Great Falls merchants are among the most consistent advocates of the organized idea as applied to merchants and they have kept up a live body for a number of years and have been one of the strong spokes in the state wheel. They will send their secretary, R. F. Clements, to the meeting, and some of the leading merchants will also attend. But the Great Falls association will not ask for the next meeting of the state body in this city. It has been decided that a little neighborly kindness will be extended this time and, using the expression of the old time political convention, Great Falls will advise Lewistown when it comes to extending the invitation and will support the nomination of Lewistown in its bid for the convention.

Lewistown is a candidate for the meeting place in 1920. The odd-year sessions always are held in Helena because of the fact the association puts the meeting during the legislative session, thus giving the members a chance to see the legislature in action and to fraternize with the solemn while urging any particular legislation which they might wish to have enacted.

lumbus audience indicated its appreciation and enjoyment from the time the first curtain rose until it fell in the last act, while the Victrola, played "The Long Trail," and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, in the sunset of a happy and busy life, waited together in their charming ranch home for a second Ed to come home from France.

"Too high praise cannot be given the production. It is a Montana classic and should prove to be a most powerful factor in carrying out many of the aims of the farm bureau." The players, who arrived in Great Falls yesterday, are: Mignon Quaw, Eve Lott, Mary Ann Gruber, Marjorie Quaw, F. E. Fuller, E. E. Hupp, A. J. Copeland and W. R. Copeland, all connected with the extension department of the Montana State college.

At Columbus, the second night of the tour, they report the show drew the largest crowd seen in that town for years. There have been asked for return dates at Billings and Columbus on a purely theatrical basis. F. E. Hupp is business manager and W. R. Gordon stage manager of the play. The company carries three complete sets of its own scenery.

HINES ISSUES A STATEMENT

New Head of Railroad Administration Tells of What He Expects to Do.

As director General of railroads, Walker D. Hines, newly appointed director yesterday sent out a statement to all officers and employees of the railroads throughout the United States stating the policies which he plans to carry out during his term of office.

The following statement has been received by General Superintendent W. R. Smith and Division Superintendent T. F. Dixon: "T. F. Dixon and W. R. Smith, Great Falls:

"The president has appointed me director general of railroads effective at once. I wish my first official act as director general of railroads to be this statement to officers and employees. Having been part of Mr. McAdoo's organization from its first day its policies are my policies and I intend to carry them out and to do so thru the existing railroad organizations of the railroad administration.

"The responsibilities of the work can not be exaggerated and there can be no success in it without your confidence and support.

"I shall gain and justify your confidence by prompt and fair treatment but until you get a chance to know me by my work I want you to take me on faith and from the very first day help me to give the government the best possible service and the people the best possible transportation.

"You and I have been fellow workers in the hard work of the past year and I ask you to join me in giving the public even in time of peace the valiant and faithful service that you gave so heartily in time of war.

"I am greatly pleased to put before you the following statement which has just been issued by Mr. McAdoo at Los Angeles.

"The president has authorized me to announce the appointment of Walker D. Hines as director general of railroads. He will enter upon his duties of office immediately. Mr. Hines has been my assistant at Washington since the beginning of the government control and has a thorough knowledge of organization and administration of the railroads under federal control as well as the fundamental problem involved in the railroad situation. His ability and experience admirably fit him for the great trust and responsibility with which the president has honored him. Aside from his obvious qualifications Mr. Hines is in full sympathy with the policies which will govern the railroad administration and with the views of the president on the railroad question. I am sure that Mr. Hines will have the hearty support of the fine army of railroad officers and employees and I can ask nothing better for him than that he may continue to serve the country the same loyal and effective service they rendered during my term as director general."

"From the first day of government control of the railroads I have been a part of Mr. McAdoo's administration and it will be my purpose as director general to carry forward the policies he has so ably put into effect, fidelity to the public interest, a square deal for labor with not only an ungrudging but a sincere and cordial recognition of its ownership in the railroad enterprise and treatment for the owners of the railroads property and for those whom the railroads have business dealings.

"Until the signing of the armistice the government's first duty was to run the railroads to win the war, but now that the war is won, the government's railroad job is to render an adequate and convenient transportation service at reasonable cost. There can be no greater civic triumph in time of peace than the performance of a successful transportation service for the one hundred millions consumers, producers and travelers in this country. To participate in the achievements of this great object I invite all the railroad officers and employees with whom I have had the great privilege of co-operating in their splendid war work.

"I am a profound believer in the virtue of mutual understanding. Most disputes come from the failure to understand the other fellow's legitimate needs and his legitimate difficulties. I shall do my best to understand the points of view of all the interests affected by the conduct of the railroads or charged with duties on the subject and I shall also try frankly and as clearly as I can to get all these interests to understand the government's needs and the government's difficulties in conducting the railroad transportation services I ask of all that they will meet me half way in this great work of trying to understand."

WHAT THE DRY PERIOD SHOWS

Business Running Normal, Merchants Say, and People Are Eating More; Few Arrests.

While prohibition of the sale or dispensing of intoxicants has been in force less than half a month, claims are being made by certain lines of business that satisfactory results already are beginning to show. The place where it is expected to show most results later—the grocery stores—have not yet begun to see an appreciable gain, according to the proprietors of some of the leading places of the city. The police have noted a difference and the only place where there is a public record of the effects of prohibition that can be used as a measure shows a decided change from previous records in that line.

The places where the earliest effects have been noted are the public eating houses. The proprietor of one of the most popular places in the city is authorized to state that his receipts are holding almost normal alight prior to the prohibition rule he served drinks when they were desired. He says that while there has been a slight drop in the total receipts it has been so slight as not to be cause for complaint and he doubts if it will prove to be a drop, if he takes an entire month on which to make his comparison. But the thing that impresses this man is the fact that he is formerly did. He finds that the number of tickets for food have increased, which tells him that his force is getting more customers taken care of in the same length of time, comparing results with a year ago.

There is another thing that cafe proprietors where drinks are served have already noticed and which they say is satisfactory to them. That is the difference in the behavior of the patrons who formerly were given to taking some liquor with their meals or of coming to the cafe merely to get a few drinks. Under those conditions, there was always noisy and boisterous conduct which not infrequently assumed vulgar proportions and made it necessary for the manager to request better behavior. Under the present situation, while the people seem to be having just as good time, and appear happy and contented, there is no rough and loud talking and no occasion for anyone to request better conduct.

Grocers fully expect to feel results from the prohibition rule in an increased volume of business but they do not expect it for a month or two. As one of them put it yesterday, it will take the class from which the grocers will get the added trade about a month or two to get their old bills paid up and then the grocers expect to share in the division of the money which formerly went to the booze trader. They do not expect that it will all come over the counter to the grocer, according to this man, but they expect that a good proportion will do so. They believe that the clothing merchant and the furniture man and the shoe dealer and all the other lines of business which vend articles adding creature comfort will get a share of the use of booze will stimulate.

The experience of the police would be all in favor of a wet regime if the success or failure of anything depended on whether it increased or killed business. Prohibition, the police point out, has caused a very heavy loss of arrests for drunkenness during the first 11 days of January, the number of arrests on the charge of drunkenness for the 11 days ending on Saturday night under the dry rule being only five while one year ago for the same 11 days the total arrests for drunkenness was 45, making the ratio as 9 to 1. Some of the nine were what might be termed the "carry-overs" and all of them probably could be traced to private stock stored for the dry period which were hit up too hard. Only a case or two of alleged bootlegging have been uncovered, tho it probably has happened that violations of the law which stipulates one shall neither sell, give nor in any way dispense intoxicants have occurred within the city limits since the dry law went into effect.

The normal business condition of the city has apparently not been disturbed as there are no complaints of business being dull and the stores and shops seem to be as active as any other January in their history. One proprietor of a large establishment was asked late last week as to how prohibition was affecting his trade and he smiled as he turned toward the counters of his store and regarding here. "That doesn't look like it's making us lonesome does it?" There was a busy scene in which many customers were looking over the various lines. The merchant explained that indications were his total would exceed any January in his history. He added that he was not making that statement with the thought that it came from the effects of prohibition, but he did make it as the result of his belief that prohibition had not hurt his business.

WEAK, DISCOURAGED WIFE

Advised by Friends to Try Vinol—What It Did for Her

Florence, S. C.—"I was in a weak, nervous, run-down condition, took cold easily, could hardly keep around and do my work—and was all discouraged. I had taken cough syrups and tonics without benefit, until a friend asked me to try Vinol—I gained rapidly by its use, so I am now in good health."—Mrs. Adeline Wilkerson.

The reason Vinol was so successful in restoring Mrs. Wilkerson to health, is because it is a constitutional remedy, which enriches and revitalizes the blood and creates strength.

SPANISH INFLUENZA—JUST GRIP CAMOUFLAGED UNDER A NEW NAME

Most Authorities Now Agree That This Disease is Simply the Old-Fashioned Grip, the Same That Has Swept Over the World Times Without Number. Since 1831 the United States Has Had Five Epidemics.

The Last Epidemic in 1889-90 Came From Russia by Way of France and Was Given a French Name, La Grippe. This Time It Comes by Way of Spain.

ORIGIN OF THE DISEASE.

Spanish influenza, which appeared in Spain in May, has swept over the world in numerous epidemics as far back as history runs. Hippocrates refers to an epidemic in 412 B. C., which is regarded by many to have been influenza. Every century has had its attacks. Beginning with 1831, this country has had five epidemics, the last in 1889-90.

THE SYMPTOMS.

Grip, or influenza as it is now called, usually begins with a chill followed by aching, feverishness and sometimes nausea and dizziness, and a general feeling of weakness and depression. The temperature is from 100 to 104, and the fever usually lasts from three to five days. The germs attack the mucous membrane, or lining of the air passages—nose, throat and bronchial tubes—there is usually a hard cough, especially bad at night, often times a sore throat or tonsillitis, and frequently all the appearances of a severe head cold.

THE TREATMENT.

Go to bed at the first symptoms—take a purgative, eat plenty of nourishing food, remain perfectly quiet and don't worry. Nature herself is the only "cure" for influenza and will throw off the attack if only you conserve your strength. A little Quinine, Aspirin or Dover's Powder may be given by the physician's directions to allay the aching. Always call a doctor, since the chief danger of grip is in its weakening effect on the system, which allows complications to develop. These are chiefly pneumonia and bronchitis, sometimes inflammation of the middle ear, or heart affection. For these reasons, it is very important that the patient remain in bed until his strength returns—stay in bed at least two days or more after the fever has left you, or if you are over 50 or not strong, stay in bed four days or more, according to the severity of the attack.

EXTERNAL APPLICATIONS.

In order to stimulate the lining of the air passages to throw off the grip germs, to aid in loosening the phlegm and keeping the air passages open, thus making the breathing easier, Vick's VapoRub will be found effective. Hot, wet towels should be applied over the throat, chest and back between the shoulder blades to open the pores. Then VapoRub should be rubbed in over the parts until the skin is red, spread on thickly and covered with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck as the heat of the body liberates the ingredients in the form of vapors. These vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication directly to the parts affected. At the same time, VapoRub is absorbed thru and stimulates the skin, attracting the blood to the surface, and thus aids in relieving the congested condition.

NO OCCASION FOR PANIC.

There is no occasion for panic—influenza grip has a very low percentage of fatality—not over one death out of every 400 cases, according to the N. C. Board of Health. The chief danger lies in complications arising, attacking principally patients in a run-down condition, or those who don't get to bed soon enough, or those who get up too early.

HOW TO AVOID THE DISEASE.

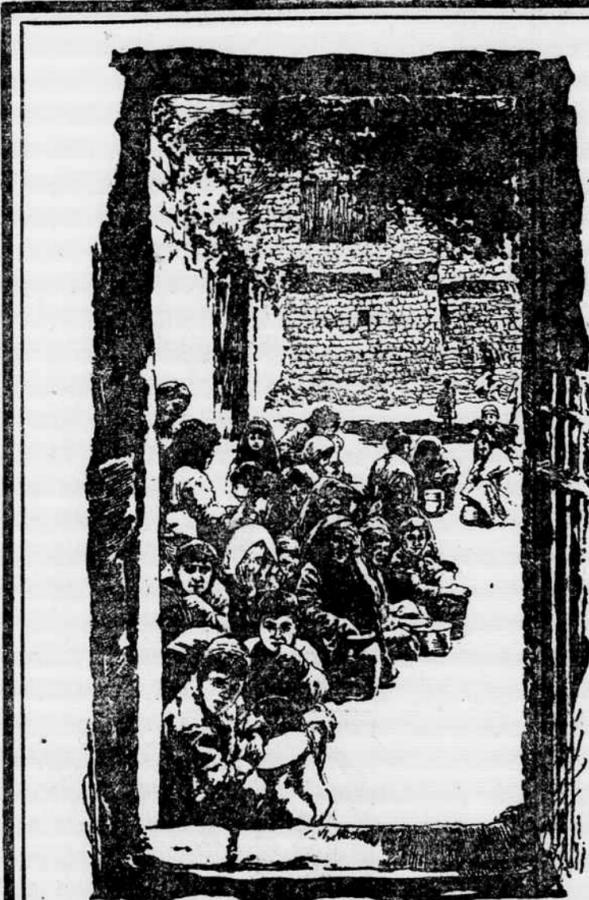

Evidence seems to prove that this is a germ disease, spread principally by human contact, chiefly thru coughing, sneezing or spitting. So avoid persons having colds—which means avoiding crowds—common drinking cups, roller towels, etc. Keep up your bodily strength by plenty of exercise in the open air, and good food.

KEEP FREE FROM COLDS.

Above all, avoid colds, as colds irritate the lining of the air passages and render them much better breeding places for the germs.

Use Vick's VapoRub at the very first sign of a cold. For a head cold, melt a little VapoRub in a spoon and inhale the vapors, or better still, use VapoRub in a benzoin steam kettle. If this is not available, use an ordinary tea-kettle. Fill half full of boiling water, put in a teaspoon of VapoRub from time to time—keep the kettle just slowly boiling and inhale the steam arising.

NOTE—Vick's VapoRub is the discovery of a North Carolina druggist, who found how to combine, in salve form, Menthol and Camphor with such volatile oils as Eucalyptus, Thyme, Cubeb, etc., so that when the salve is applied to the body heat, these ingredients are liberated in the form of vapors. VapoRub can be had in three sizes at all druggists. While comparatively new in certain parts of the north, it is the standard home remedy in the south and west for all forms of cold troubles—over six million jars were sold last year. VapoRub is particularly recommended for children's croup or colds, as it is externally applied and can therefore be used freely and often without the slightest harmful effects.—Adv.

Help Banish Famine Forever from this Death Valley of the Near East

The day of fire and sword is done. The day of kindness and of healing is here.

MILLIONS of helpless human beings have died of massacre and starvation in this Death Valley of the Old World. But four million survivors are left, homeless, helpless, almost hopeless, imploring aid from America, whose riches even the Great War could not drain.

More than 400,000 sufferers are orphaned children. Their parents died either by slaughter, plague, or hunger in these lands where even the living are too dead to bury the dead.

When Turkey surrendered, the barriers against relief and reconstruction work went down. Now redoubled and unhampered efforts can be made—must be made—to nurse these fainting, starving multitudes of the Near East; back to life and self-support.

Every dollar subscribed goes to the Relief Work. All expenses are privately met. All funds are credited through the Department of State. All funds are distributed through U. S. Consuls or American Agencies. Our Government is prevented from giving aid. The Red Cross is not organized for Relief Work in these sections.

17 cents a day, $5.00 a month, $60.00 a year, will keep alive one of these unfortunates. The only pity that can help them is the pity of your dollars. $30,000,000 must be raised this week to carry them through their present need and put them on their feet. Give as much as you can.

In the name of your own dead, in the name of your living, give. Give out of gratitude that you and yours have not had to bear this awful fate of the Near East—and never will have to.
