

FATHER AND THE BOYS ENJOY HAPPY EVENING

First Congregational Church Dinner Brings Out 150 or So, and Program of Delightful Character Is Provided for Guests.

Fathers and the boys. That expression has a charm to it and a few years ago, William H. Crane, the comedian who has left a pleasant memory with so many people because of his delightful mannerisms, made a great hit in a play of that title. But it needed no comedian to impress the force and charm of "fathers and the boys" at the First Congregational church last night. The party composed of fathers and boys numbered something like 150—count them if the exact number is needed—and one would have needed the power of a mathematician who could handle figures to the —nth power to have determined which was the happier, fathers or the boys. Mothers were there, too, but they were there merely to add to the happiness of fathers and the boys and while they provided the real cheer of the evening in the excellent chicken dinner that was served, they disappeared thereafter and left the boys and their proud fathers to enjoy their program alone.

The program which came after the dinner was directed by B. P. McNair as toastmaster and the opening feature, after the toastmaster had explained the purpose of the gathering, was assembly singing in which the boys enthusiastically joined. There were four brief addresses, the speakers being J. A. Miller, Ransom Cooper and Scott Leavitt. Rev. Dr. MacHattion gave a reading that was greatly enjoyed and to furnish a real treat for the youngsters. Mr. McNair prevailed on Charles M. Russell, the artist, to tell them some of the reminiscences of the early days and those who have heard Mr. Russell tell of the early days know what a treat that meant.

There were vocal solos by W. S. Sanford, I. O. Blake and Harry Davidson and Julius J. Wuerthner played "The Machine Gun March," his own composition, at the piano and it brot generous applause. W. S. Sanford and G. M. Bates gave an interesting little sketch "Romeo and Juliet."

The dinner was served at 6:45, grace being asked by Dr. MacHattion. Those present and eating were:

Albert E. Wiggin, Lyman A. Wiggin, Wayne Rodgers, Ben McNair, B. P. McNair, J. W. Miller, Richard B. Hart, A. M. Hart, Horace A. Hart, Alfred P. Brownson, Glenn C. Gutcheil, J. C. Dow, C. H. ## BUYING GREEN TAGS A HABIT

And Great Falls People Will Practice That Habit on Next Monday Quite Freely.

Buying green tags as a means of helping a worthy charity will be a habit with Great Falls people on Monday. That is the day the St. Thomas Orphan's home will conduct its annual tag day benefit and the indications are that the little people who are cared for at this big institution will be generously remembered by the people of the city.

Green tags, either in the form of little ribbon bows or in the shape of plain cards printed upon in green ink will be the evidence handed to those who contribute to that fund. The money gathered will be used for the purpose of helping to maintain the home. It will help buy spuds, pay for the coal, secure materials to patch the seats of the pants of the boys and to provide hosiery to keep the feet and legs of the girls warm and a hundred and one other things that are required in taking care of a family of 150 to 180 children. Buy a tag and help.

COMMUNITY NEED IS ORGANIZATION

Council of National Defense Calls Attention to Work Ahead After Demobilization.

In a circular just issued by the council of national defense, an article that will be of interest to the public generally is discussed under the subject "The Need." It is as follows:

"The cessation of hostilities has not concluded the war emergency. Great emergency tasks still lie before the people of America. The programs of demobilization and readjustment call for response in service from every citizen.

"To secure this response, it is necessary that all citizens in each community be brot together in a general community organization where each individual will come into intelligent touch with the emergency programs and the support of every individual and every agency focussed thereon. To make this response effective further requires that the work of all agencies and persons should be co-ordinated and welded into united action and that there should be some central general agency which can undertake directly those programs for which there is no special agency in the community.

In a word, there must be a people's workshop where patriotism is turned into action and where intelligent mass action is secured thru freely willed team play. This workshop in each community is the community council. Upon the success of this council the council of national defense now relies to do the work of the present emergency.

"When the emergency programs of demobilization are a thing of the past, the need for the organization of each community will nevertheless, endure. Each community will need organization in order that its people may come in effective working contact with the problems of the state and the nation and that the voice of the community may become articulate in regard thereto. Each community will need organization in order to develop a true community interest and responsibility that will lead to community initiative and action to meet local needs, in order that the programs of separate institutions and agencies may best be adjusted to meet the particular needs and opportunities of the individual community and in order that the welfare of the community may be safeguarded thru intelligent thorough planning and not left to chance and the competition of individual agencies. Finally, this organization is needed in order to provide for every individual in the community a true place in the community life and to bring to the community as a whole a sense of fellowship and co-operation that will enrich the life of the community and make each citizen proud of his community citizenship.

"The need of community organization, both now and in the future, can best be seen, however, in concrete programs of work and organization."

PAIR IS READY TO SAY GUILTY

DeFries and Dean Will Admit Passing Bad Checks, They Tell Officers.

T. J. DeFries and K. K. Dean, the men arrested at the Burlington hotel the first of the week and since detained on a charge of forgery, will appear in district court and enter pleas of guilty, according to a statement made by their Deputy County Attorney W. J. Tighe yesterday. Mr. Tighe said that both prisoners have admitted their guilt to him privately and he expected that the case will be disposed of sometime today.

Another check for $10 has been returned as having been issued by the pair, the McKinney-Winders Motor company being the losers in this instance. Deputy Sheriff E. J. Tait confronted Dean with this voucher, but the prisoner, instead of being disturbed by the latest development in the state's case against him, laughed and said:

"That's nothing; there'll be a lot more coming in now any day."

"You must have been well supplied with check books," suggested Tait.

"I was, but my supply was getting low when you picked me up. We came here from Spokane after I used up all the checks I had in that city, and you'll be hearing about things about me from there some of these days."

Dean allegedly cashed checks at the McKinney-Winders and Standard garages by purchasing inner tubes, receiving a tube and $5 in change at each place. Dean has admitted, it is said, that this was small game, but insisted that "it was a good day's work." Checks for large amounts were cashed at other places, it is alleged.

SCHOLARSHIP FUND BENEFITS BY SALE

Great Falls Club Women Trying to Do Their Share in Helping Educate Worthy Girls.

The scholarship fund is the next campaign to be taken up now by the Federated clubs of Great Falls. The clubs which are always on hand with as big subscriptions as any in the state are the Travel club, the Woman's club, the Decmo and the City Federation. Last year the City Federation and the Woman's club each paid $50 into the fund. They have found a wonderful willingness to help in this cause. Perhaps the reason for this is the acquaintance that so many here had with one of the girls who was chosen to benefit from this fund—Pearl Clark, a Great Falls girl who could not have gone to the university when she did, and it may be not at all is the only Great Falls girl who has had the good luck to be chosen. However, four girls are chosen each year. Pearl Clark has been graduated from the Missoula university, and there's no telling when it will come to Great Falls again. Each big school of the state is privileged to send in an application whenever they have a particularly bright and deserving candidate among the senior class.

The first club to get started on this work of paying into the state scholarship fund is the Woman's club, and they are to have a rousing sale today at Strain brothers' store. Big eats will be on sale from early in the morning until they are gone. Good, old-fashioned baked beans, doughnuts, home-made candies, pies and cakes—all the things one likes will be on sale.

Boys and girls who want to help send someone to college may bring in their pennies and get something good to eat. A special invitation will not be necessary to the teachers because they are always on hand to help boost the scholarship fund. It isn't for the girls alone—it is for the state of Montana. The more one can help to educate the population the more is he helping general advancement of the state as a whole. The sons and daughters of Montana are loyal to their state and the good they receive will come back in generous measure. There is at present a great shortage of teachers. Show your interest and help.

Numerous inquiries regarding the 320 acre tracts of land opened for filing March 18, are coming into the local U. S. land office. The inquiries are mostly to the effect of whether or not applications under stock raising act are to be accepted.
