Butte and Anaconda sent a good delegation to the annual meeting of the Montana Society of Engineers which will convene today in this city. The delegation arrived last evening and is stopping at Hotel Rainbow. There will be some additional members get to the city today from those points and Helena, Billings, Lewistown and other points will contribute to the crowd which is estimated will total somewhere about 40 or 50 when they are all here.

President Willis T. Burns of the society, whose home is in this city, was at the hotel last evening seeing to it that every visitor was properly cared for before he went to his home. He saw to it, also, that the visitors were apprised of the plans for today and urged them to miss nothing of the program which has been arranged for their entertainment. There will be some able papers read before the session before it adjourns tomorrow evening following the banquet at the palm room of Hotel Rainbow.

In the delegation coming from Butte were Samuel Barker, Jr., G. W. Craven, Eugene Carroll, James Kidd, Charles W. Goodale, F. A. Linforth, D. C. Bard, William Tanner, George T. McGee, P. C. Pratt, Jonathan Sewell, R. P. Foote and C. D. Woodward. All are members of the society except Mr. Woodward. Mr. Foote is with the Andes Exploration company and Mr. McGee lives at Helena. The others are from Butte. Mr. Barker will be elected president at the session this year succeeding Mr. Burns.

MAUD POWELL IS LIKE HER MUSIC

That Means She's Charming and Delightful—Artist Appearing Tonight Talks of Life.

Somehow common folks persist in thinking of masters in any art—music, literature, painting or sculpture—as sort of glorified freaks of nature all fenced around with a flock of affectations and hedged in by a regiment of frinkily habits that make them totally unapproachable by the common, garden variety of human being.

But they aren't that way at all. In fact they're just as human as anybody and the feminine variety doesn't object to chatting a few moments about clothes, things to eat, the weather and other well known and popular topics of conversation.

Maud Powell, aside from being an artist of superior ability, is also a nice human, a live woman who had an awful time engineering her big hat thru Montana's winds yesterday and who freely admitted she would like to wear overalls as they are so convenient. In fact she has two or three pictures of herself taken in her country home near New York—nice, comfortable pictures where the goddess who makes the golden music was comfortably attired in bloomers and standing at a real, homelike sink and preparing head lettuce for the next meal.

Maud is charming. She's so wholesome, so restful, and so agreeable, she is interested in everything interesting right now—soldiers, weather, clothes, the peace conference, the bolshevik problem and lots and lots of other topics. And one thing that sounds good to the vain ears of the westerners—she likes Montana and the west. She is delighted with her enthusiastic audiences in this part of the United States and loves to play for them.

Last evening in her room at Hotel Rainbow she spoke of her recent tour of the training camps and thoughtfully says that her experiences while playing for the boys were some of the greatest and most wonderful of her career. She thoroughly loves her soldiers and regretted exceedingly that she needed rest too badly to go to the Grand last night where the Camp Lewis Players staged their snappy little entertainment.

And while talking of her experiences at the camps she stated that "Smiles" was one of the most satisfactory songs both to the boys and to herself. "It is different from the 'rose pink' variety of popular songs, magazine covers and general line of stories that sentimental composers are now writing."

"Smiles" is a real song and has something elusive about it that lasted," she said. "The boys at the camps love 'Smiles.' Part of it they boom out with vigor and then the part in the chorus 'And the smiles that fill my heart—' they sing softly. I love to play that song for them."

While she is recognized an artist of genius, Maud Powell doesn't claim that her remarkable talent is genius alone. She has worked, and like a worker hasn't much patience with the young Americans who are trying the short cut to perfection.

"There must be hours of preparation," said Miss Powell. "One must study and work, and work hard, then when the flash of genius comes if it does come, we can utilize it properly. Without the work and the foundation the spark is of no avail. I have no patience with the young music student who plays for me 'The Meditation from Thais.' It shows that student is trying the short cut and because he or she can play with feeling the parts of the selection they feel they have accomplished much. I much prefer to hear a piece that shows they have worked and have a foundation for real musical achievements."

MISS SKINNER VERY ILL

Miss Olive Skinner, who has been attending school at Ossining, New York, is being brot to her home here, she of what is reported to be a serious attack of illness. Mrs. Herbert Strain, an aunt, who was in the east, is bringing the sick girl west, and Dr. A. F. Longway, an uncle of Miss Skinner left on Wednesday night to meet them at Chicago. H. J. Skinner, Miss Skinner's father, who was in Spokane when the word came, left there immediately for the east and will meet them on the way west. It is reported that the young lady is suffering from the effects of an attack of the influenza.

POLICE ACTIVITIES

Reynold Isaacson, aged 17, and Elmer Wakefield, aged 20, were arrested last night by the police on charges of reckless driving. Both were released on $10 bail. At the afternoon police court session George McKown, arrested Wednesday night for exceeding the speed limit, forfeited $10 bail by failing to appear.

CAPITAL STOCK $100,000 FOR MONTANA CATTLE LOAN

New Corporation Files Articles and Will Start Business at Once—Well Known Stockmen and Bankers Are Organizers and Officers.

Announcing its purpose to make a specialty of loaning money secured by cattle, horses, sheep and livestock generally, the Montana Cattle Loan company filed its articles of incorporation with the county clerk and recorder. The new company has for its first board of directors L. H. Hamilton, Frank G. Givens, H. F. Lee, T. C. King and R. B. Noble, all men widely known because of their activities in stock raising and banking business and the stock has all been subscribed and paid for by business men of Great Falls and stockmen of this section of Montana, most of whom have interests in the lines in which they are engaged.

The Montana Cattle Loan company has an authorized capital of $100,000 and is incorporated for a period of 40 years. Its principal place of business will be Great Falls and its field of business will be any part of the state of Montana where attractive security is offered to make the loan a safe and desirable one. The company is in no sense a speculative one but will be conducted along conservative lines and those who secure loans from it will be bona fide stockmen with the stock represented actually in their possession.

The first officers of the company will be: L. H. Hamilton, president; H. F. Lee, vice president and manager; L. H. Booker, secretary and R. B. Noble treasurer.

The new company has been organized thru the influence of Mr. Lee who is the vice president and manager of the Commercial National bank and one of the bankers who has been a persistent and consistent advocate of the active and aggressive encouragement of the stock industry in Montana. He has been closely identified with the stock industry for a number of years, having for a long period been with Swift & Co. at the St. Paul plant as their cashier and auditor and later having for nine years been cashier of the First National bank at Miles City where he was associated with stockmen in business and banking affairs. That there is a field for the company is generally conceded and the officers are enthusiastic about the outlook.

FUNERAL OF HARRY CONOVER

Former Constable Harry Conover was buried yesterday afternoon in Highland cemetery, following a funeral service held in the chapel of the W. H. George company at which Rev. E. L. White, pastor of the First Methodist church officiated. The ritualistic services of the Order of Railway Conductors and of the A. O. U. W. lodge, both of which the deceased was a member, were performed. The bearers were Frank Woodward, Frank Johnson, Otto Bjornstad, J. E. Teague, E. S. Packer and J. A. Judd. Mr. Conover was for many years employed as a railroad conductor, his last service being on the Great Northern road and he was chief conductor of Black Eagle division, O. R. C. at the time of his death.

LEWIS VISITS CITY

J. E. Lewis, proprietor of the Glacier hotel on Lake McDonald and also owner of the Gaylord hotel at Columbia Falls, arrived in Great Falls from the latter place last night and will be in the city several days on a business mission. Mr. Lewis is perhaps as well known to American tourists as any hotel man in the country who comes especially in contact with trade of this class. He is looking forward to an active season at Glacier park, indications now being that travel to the parks this year will be heavier than during any previous summer.

Eugene A. Sullivan who was taken seriously ill at his home Wednesday, was removed to the Columbus hospital and was slightly improved last evening. Mr. Sullivan suffered a bad attack of heart trouble and his condition is steel serious.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc. are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Fry laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk), is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Adv.
