

CAMPAIGN STARTED FOR THE CREATION OF DANIELS COUNTY

Will Contain 45 Townships Taken From Sheridan and Valley Counties

Special to The Daily Tribune. Scobey, May 26.—The new Scobey Sentinel last week inaugurated the campaign for the creation of Daniels county out of the northwestern portion Sheridan county and the northeastern portion of Valley county.

A bill for the creation of Daniels county was introduced at the last session of the legislature by Representative Mead of Valley county, who is a resident of that portion of Valley county contained within the boundaries of the new county. The proposed county will contain about 45 townships and have an assessed valuation of about eight million dollars. There is apparently no opposition to the creation of the county and the election will undoubtedly be held some time next fall.

A Mistake Made by Man.

Don't wait for rheumatism to indicate diseased kidneys. When you suffer pains and aches by day and sleep disturbing bladder weakness by night, feel tired, nervous and run down, the kidneys and bladder should be restored to healthy, strong and regular action. It is a mistake to postpone treatment. Foley Kidney Pills put the kidneys in sound, healthy condition and keep them active and strong. Begin taking today. Good results follow the first dose. RUDYARD KIPLING "COMES BACK"

Those who champion Kipling as their favorite poet and those who make a specialty of scolding his latter-day muse have a new bone of contention. After an interval of sixteen years Mr. Kipling has just published a new volume of verse.

It seemed strange that the development of events in recent years did not inspire him to greater output. During the war he abandoned poetic expression almost entirely, but he wrote much prose and good strong stuff it is—too strong for some of those he goes.

Now we are reminded of his best work as formerly exemplified in "Recessional" by his memorial verses to Lord Roberts and on the Battle of Jutland. When dealing with political matters he seems to be under something like the same cloud of pessimism that shaded the last writings of Mark Twain. "Things and the Man," "The Declaration of London," "Clister," "Is There a Man?" are dire rather than poems.

He can be as cheerful as ever, but he often tells of the dark waters forded and of a soul into which iron has entered sorely. Among his "epitaphs" we find this:

"My son was killed while laughing at some jest I would I knew what it was, and it might serve me in a time when jests are few."

Many of these epitaphs strike one as having a true classic:

"We were together since the war began; He was my servant—and the better man."

"Of course Mr. Kipling's attitude to events is often different from our own," remarks one critic. "He takes a side, and he is apt to take it in such a way that we can congratulate ourselves it is not our side. He is a convinced anti-feminist; and he is fully entitled to his convictions. But his tactics were grave as faulty as his taste when he gave vent to that abhorred of all his absurdities, 'The Female of the Species,' reprinted in the new volume. It was a very clever bit of doggerel, but so barbarous that one can imagine it to have had a sensible influence in weakening anti-feminist prejudices. As little convincing as Mr. Kipling's anti-feminism is his democratic sentiment to the tune of, 'The People, Lord, Thy People are good enough for me!'"

"Those to whom democracy has real meaning will feel at once that this curious mixture of edification and condemnation completely misses what it was aimed at." Some folks show more "temperament" in their verse reading than "spring poets" themselves. And others imagine they are not good critics or good editors unless they succeed in dissecting and marring.

Howbeit, Kipling has always something to say and we believe he is entitled to respectful hearing. No wonder, he makes his mistakes, not to say blunders, along with the rest of us, but he has the king of virtues—sincerity. And he is no opportunist—no coward—no truckler to the powers that be. If he were, the Laureate's crown would adorn his brow. Nevertheless, he has actually rendered incalculable service to the British empire, and one wonders that nobody anything better did not avail to recognize his power. Unlike Tennyson, he has never formed the habit of playing second fiddle to mediocrity, ruling caste interest, or that blindness, cowardice and prudery that passes as respectability.

However, we turn with relief from some of his pessimism and invective to such simple humor and common sense as "Mary's Son." It is not so much of a creed as the inspiring "If," yet it has much of its quality.

If you stop to find out what your wages will be, And how they will clothe and feed you, Willie, my son, don't you go to sea, For the sea will never need you.

If you ask for the reason of every command, And argue with people about you, Willie, my son, don't you go to sea, For the land will do better without you.

If you stop to consider the work you have done, And to boast what your labor is worth, dear, Angels may come for you, Willie, my son, But you'll never be wanted on earth, dear!

HE HAD TWO REASONS. John Burroughs, the naturalist, was talking about Germany.

"It's dangerous to confabulate with the Germans," he said, "for they're too tricky for us. The Germans are the trickiest people in the world."

"A German at a dinner party took in a lady whose name he didn't catch. During the fish course he saw a man who had showed him the way before in a crooked business deal, and he muttered to the lady ferociously:

"Do you see that man to the left of the epergne? Well, if there's one man on earth I hate it's him."

"Why," said the lady, "he's my husband."

"Yes, of course," said the German. "That's why I hate him."

Dependency over Wife's Death Causes Butte Man to Suicide

Butte, May 26.—John B. Came, 52 years old, born at Stanish, Me., and for 25 years in the real estate business in Butte, shot himself through the head with a Winchester rifle this morning at his room at 419 West Galena street. He died instantly. Came's wife died of influenza two months ago and since then he had been despondent. He leaves two sisters and a brother, Mrs. Charles S. Passmore of Butte, Mrs. Gail Fogg of York, Pa., and Mark I. Came of Butte.

New Jersey Forced by Engine Trouble to Put Into Delgada

Ponta Delgada, May 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—The United States battleship New Jersey, which sailed from Brest, May 20, with troops aboard, put in here today, because of engine trouble. It is not expected that the battleship will be delayed for any length of time, as the engine trouble is announced to be not serious.

The New Jersey, together with the Rotterdam, Finland and Mobile, left Brest, May 20, carrying 20,000 troops. This completed the embarkation of the Eightieth division. It is possible that some of the Thirty-sixth division are aboard the ships.

World of Industry

A REGULAR SPENDTHRIFT. Two Irish soldiers were digging when what I learn, I think a couple of tenors himself handicapped by the shortness of his entrenching tools and he continually paused to straighten himself and ease his back. During these pauses his comrade became conversational. "Mike," he asked once, "What wud ye do with a million pounds?"

"Add four inches to the handle of this shovel," replied Mike.

"What on earth are you doing with little watering can, Tom?"

"Spunking the baby's head so's his hair'll sprout."

Corns, Galluses Quit Quick! Two Drops of 'Gets-It' Will Do It.

Ever hand-carve your toe with a knife trying to get rid of a corn? Ever use scissors and snip off part of the corn too close to the quick?

'Gets-It' Puts Your Feet in Clover—It Ends Corns Quickly.

Ever pack up your toe with "contractions" and plasters and then you were packing a glass vase for parcel post? Ever use greasy ointments that rub off on your stockings? Ever use sticky tape that gets jerked off when you pull your stockings off? Kind of foolish, when 2 or 3 drops of 'Gets-It' on any corn or callus gives it a quick, painless, peaceful, dead-sure funeral! Why putter and suffer? 'Gets-It' stops corn pains, it lets you work, smile and dance, even with corns. It's the common-sense way, the only simple, easy way—peels corns off like a banana peel. Used by millions. It never fails.

'Gets-It,' the guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle at any drug store. Mfg. by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.
