

RAILROAD PROBLEM CONFRONTS WILSON ON HIS RETURN HOME

Will at Once Be Asked to Re- lieve Administration of Perplexities.

Washington, July 3.—Problems facing the railroad administration will be among the first business laid before President Wilson on his return here. Director General Hines plans to confer with the president next week, but declines to indicate what matters would be pursued, other than to say he had no specific recommendations to make.

It is believed, however, that increased freight rates perhaps will be the most important topic. Operating expenses have increased at a much faster ratio than operating income and gradually increasing business, which as yet has not attained its full volume, has not been sufficient to make up the deficit. With crop movements starting it is expected that the next weeks will determine whether an increase is to be made, administration officials believing that a decision will be possible by September 1. Traffic experts are inclined to think that an advance in rates will reduce business.

Plans for return of the roads to corporate control constitute another subject likely to be taken up at the conference. Suggestions for a return of the roads to the direction of the owning companies have been made by railroad officials who argue that time should be given to reorganize their staffs before December 31, the date set by President Wilson when federal control is to be relinquished. Mr. Hines stated positively today that no plans were being made for a return of the roads to corporate control in the immediate future, but that such a return might be allowed late in the year, perhaps December. July requirements of the railroads, approximately $95,000,000, were met from cash on hand, no checks being issued against the appropriation made by congress, which is not yet available.

Mr. Hines made this statement in answer to reports that checks dated July 1 had been sent out with the provision that they should not be used unless the railroad bill became law by that date. "The railroad administration," Mr. Hines said, "has never in the past given, and will not in the future give, checks not represented by money available in banks to pay them when presented."

WILL THERE BE A DROP IN MEAT WHEN THESE LEFTS CLASH?

How the lefts of Willard and Dempsey compare.

The fact that Jack Dempsey's arms are as husky as Willard's is pointed out by Jack's friends as a point in his favor. Dempsey has a remarkable arm, due partly to the large bones. His wrists are larger than Willard's. The challenger's wrist measures nine inches in circumference. Willard's is half an inch smaller. Dempsey's forearm equals Willard's in size. Jess' biceps measures an inch larger in circumference than Dempsey's. Both men carry an awful kick in their arms, especially their lefts, and the outcome of the battle of these lefts is awaited with interest by the entire sport world.

"Where Prices Are Right"

"Meats in Storage"

Every working day of the year 75,000,000 pounds of meat are required to supply home and export needs—and only 10 per cent of this is exported.

These facts must be kept in mind when considering the U. S. Bureau of Markets report that on June 1, 1919, there were 1,348,000,000 pounds of meats in cold storage. If the meat in storage was placed on the market it would only be 20 days' supply.

This meat is not artificially withheld from trade channels to maintain or advance prices.

- Meats in storage consist of—
- 65 per cent (approximate) hams, bacon, etc., in process of curing. It takes 30 to 90 days in pickle or salt to complete the process.
 - 10 per cent is frozen pork that is to be cured later in the year.
 - 6 per cent is lard. This is only four-fifths of a pound per capita, and much of it will have to go to supply European needs.
 - 19 per cent is frozen beef and lamb, part of which is owned by the Government and was intended chiefly for over-seas shipment. If this were all diverted to domestic trade channels, it would be only 1 1/2 lbs. per capita—a 3 days' supply.

From this it will be seen that "meats in storage" represent merely unfinished goods in process of curing and the working supply necessary to assure the consumer a steady flow of finished product.
