

LUKENS HAZEL MINE READY TO RUN BY NOVEMBER, IS HOPE

Ore From Property Near Libby Said to Require Simple Treatment.

Special to The Daily Tribune.
Libby, July 30.—That the power plant and compressor for the Lukens-Hazel mine will be installed and in operation November 15, and that the roof of the 200-ton concentrating mill for the property will be in place before snow flies, is the expectation of those in charge of the work.

Oscar Nordquist, construction superintendent, has returned from a trip to Salt Lake City, where he went with a large shipment of the ore from the mine, and supervised the testing of it in the big government laboratories there. It is stated that the ore was found to be fairly simple of treatment, and the decision was reached that the process to be used in the mill will be a combination of jigging, tabling and flotation.

At present few men will be employed until plans for the mill and power plant have been completed. No mining will be done until the compressor is in operation, and after that it is planned to prosecute development vigorously until the mill begins operating next spring.

Nineteen years ago a verbal agreement was entered into by the two parties as to the price the land was to be when it was patented and properly platted and Martin erected his house on the place. Later there was some disagreement in regard to the price. Martin continued to live on the place and Trafion paid the taxes. There has been 15 years of controversy. The judgment of the court, was that the plaintiff recover the lots and the defendant pay him for the expense incurred.

HEADING BOND CASE IN DISTRICT COURT OF LINCOLN COUNTY

Chicago Bank Is Trying to Re- cover $2,400 It Claims Thru Deposit Once Made.

Special to The Daily Tribune.
Libby, July 30.—Judge T. A. Thompson of the district court, has been hearing arguments of attorneys in the action whereby the Harris Trust & Savings bank of Chicago, seeks to reclaim from Lincoln county the $2,400 deposited by them last year with a bid for the $48,000 issue of county high school bonds sold by the county. The bank, some time after the sale was completed and the bonds had been awarded to it, refused to continue the transaction. The county then proceeded to re-advertise the bond issue and disposed of it to other buyers. The $2,400 which the bank had put up as evidence of its willingness to complete the deal was then demanded, returned, and the county commissioners refused, on the ground that the county had lost fully that much thru failure of the bank to live up to its agreement in the bid.

Chicago Bank representatives, the bank, and B. F. Maiden and County Attorney Gray are counsel for the county. Contentions of Bank. The bank bases its contention that the ground that its bid for the bonds expressly stated that the bid was conditional upon the furnishing by the county of satisfactory evidence of the legality of the bonds. In finally refusing to take the bonds the bank sent the county commissioners a letter from their attorneys expressing the opinion that the election which authorized the bonds was illegal thru faulty advertising.

The answer and cross-complaint by the county attorneys, which was read in court by the county clerk, is to the effect that the opinion given by these attorneys for the bank was not given in good faith upon the law in question, but was fraudulent, and in fact a "fixed" opinion fraudulently obtained from the Chicago bank from necessity of taking the bonds. In pleading the county officials declare that they "all and singular the several things necessary to be done and incumbent upon the county in furnishing the Harris Trust & Savings bank complete evidence of the legality of the bond issue, and stood ready to issue and deliver the bonds to said bidders therefore in accordance with the terms of the bid, but that the bank refused and neglected to complete its contract, pretending that the bond issue was not legal, and basing that refusal upon the ground set forth in a letter from their attorneys."

High Court Opinion. It is interesting to note in connection with this test case in the Montana supreme court, instituted by the citizens of this county, immediately after the receipt of the Chicago attorneys' unfavorable opinion, the county held a public meeting at which the bonds were legal and regular.

HOW TO JUDGE A WOMAN BY HER HAIR

There is real common sense in just noticing whether the hair is well kept to judge of a woman's neatness, or good taste. If you are one of the few who try to make the most of your hair, remember that it is not advisable to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes, but always use some good shampoo. You can enjoy the very best by getting some canthrox from your druggist, dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Dandruff, excess oil, and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.
