FIND TOO SMALL TO BUY SITE OR BUILD SCHOOL FOR GIRLS

Vocational Board Undecided as to Choice Between Helena and Absarokee.

Special to The Daily Tribune.
Helena, Oct. 7.—Members of the board of state vocational training for girls, which has been in session for several days here, after months of effort have finally sifted possible locations down to two sites. The board has taken 60 days options on both of them. The members are most pleased with sites in Helena and in Absarokee and will definitely decide upon one or the other at a regular meeting to be held prior to the expiration of the options. The board is composed of J. F. Roche of Butte, chairman; Mrs. L. O. Edmunds of Absarokee, secretary and Mrs. Hal B. Ives of Helena.

At first considerable doubt existed whether the passage of the bill really carried the funds for establishment of the enterprise. After much search a decision was rendered in writing by the Attorney General that a total of $27,000 was available for the purchase of land and erection of buildings for the housing, support and education of such girls as the board might commit to the jurisdiction of the school. Of the fund, it was ruled that $12,000 was available the first year and $15,000 the second. The drafters of the bill evidently looked for a second coming of the ravens of Billings and here in their hands the title deed to 160 acres of Montana's fertile land. Unfortunately the only philanthropists in real estate who appeared had no sites worthy of consideration as a close investigation soon revealed. It became necessary to acquire the 160 acres called for in the bill, by purchase and since the board decided the site selected must be in every way worthy of the ideals entertained for the care of the girls, of the state, of fertile soil, in beautiful surrounding and as far as possible from any adverse influences, it is finding it no little task to make such a selection, purchase the land and then out of the remaining funds erect suitable buildings and proper equipment for this institution.

The land may be bought on contract. The board has found owners who will sell on contract with a small payment down and deferred payments. The board has been informed that the estimate of $1,000 a unit will now fall short of the actual cost. This would bring the original outlay to $25,000 for one cottage only and the board has been unable to secure a tentative estimate from a reliable contractor at these figures or approaching them.

With these conditions to be met the board will make no attempt to start building until about March 1, although plans for the construction of sewer systems and other details are now being studied and will be matured in time for work on the main building to start about the time the $15,000 is released.

One of the members of the board said:

"If any citizen of the state can show us how the sum of $27,000 can be stretched under present conditions, to purchase the land, build a home, suitable for a least 25 girls, and we are assured the number will be nearer 40 girls, and housing for superintendent and instruction personnel and furnish and equip the plant, we would like to be shown. At present the board is working out a plan which promises to meet at least some of these conditions. This plan, if successful, will take much thought and it will take hearty co-operation of the community where the school is established."

Wounded Yanks Faced Future With Smiles Visiting Nurses Say

American wounded who were brought to this side for operations and final medical treatment in army hospitals were just big hearted, courageous boys, lovable to an extreme, said Minnie L. Roberts and Marie Fudislin, discharged army nurses, who are guests at the Hotel Raleigh Tuesday. The girls, through the hospital at Fort Riley after transportation to this country and there many of the serious operations carried out in the general rehabilitation work of the army were performed. While undergoing treatment and as they faced the future with missing limbs and serious bodily injury handicapping them the men showed admirable spirit and courage, the nurses declared.

Miss Roberts is a Canadian girl, who has changed citizenship and Miss Fudislin is a native of Switzerland now residing in Philadelphia. Both girls were in hospitals when war was declared and served 18 months at Fort Riley.

"We are just out of our own country over and the Rocky mountains and this western country looks as good to us as the Statue of Liberty ever looked to the most homesick doughboy coming back," Miss Roberts said, as she commented on the relief of being freed from the strict discipline of the army nursing corps.

INSURANCE PREMIUMS DUE TO GO UP AS INFLUENZA THREATENS RETURN

Rates on life insurance are due for a general increase as the result of the return of the influenza, E. J. Sennette, general agent of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company, declared upon his return to Great Falls after attending the convention of the National Life Underwriters' association at Pittsburgh.

Reports read at the national convention showed that more than 100 cases of the influenza have been officially reported in Chicago, and the disease has made its appearance in a number of eastern cities. Several of the old line companies announced that rates had already been raised and the general opinion was that a universal increase will go into effect soon.

The big companies fear enormous losses such as were sustained last year if the epidemic gains headway, says Mr. Sennette, and the best medical advice given the insurance men anticipates a return of the influenza in some degree at least.

Wheat, Vegetables and Stock Rank High—Marks Tenth Anniversary of Opening.

Special to The Daily Tribune.
Williams, Oct. 7.—The Project Fair, the annual fall gathering of farmers on the Valier irrigation project, closed Saturday evening. The exhibits of agricultural products, embracing everything produced on the farms in this district, were a revelation to many and a splendid object lesson in the value of irrigation.

The wheat exhibit brought out some very fine samples, first prize going to Tourtelotte Brothers of Williams for a sample of Marquis wheat which tested out 62 pounds. First prize on alfalfa went to James Sanders of Manson for a sheaf each of first, second and third cutting off his farm this season. The vegetable display was especially good, including all the common varieties of garden truck and a number of specialties such as Brussels sprouts, green peppers, sweet potatoes and watermelons. Walter Brophy of Williams took first prize in the vegetable department.

In the women's department there were a great many fine displays of canned goods, preserves, baked goods, knitting and fancy work. The Wheeler Shorthorn ranch exhibited five pedigreed Short-horns. One of the animals, a six-months old bull calf, weighed 654 pounds.

During the afternoon a very interesting program was presented, consisting of sports of various kinds, a horse race, baseball game and tug of war, races for the children. Scott Leavitt of Great Falls gave an interesting address on "Good Roads" and Mr. Sanford, engineer in charge of the U. S. reclamation service at Fort Shaw spoke on "Irrigation Its Advantages and Value." The day's program came to an end with a big dance in the evening.

This year's fair commemorates the tenth anniversary of the opening of the Valier project. Plans are already under way for the fair next year, and the committee in charge announce that it will be "bigger and better" in every way.
